AMERICAN LEAGUE OWNER WILL NOT ASK JOHNSON TO RESIGN POSITION

Chicago, Dec. 18.—(By The A. P.)—Ban Johnson, president of the American League, is not likely to resign despite the startling manner in which the club owners of his own organization rebuked him at a meeting here yesterday for his attitude toward Commissioner Landis and deprived him of much of the power he has exercised in organized baseball for more than 20 years.

The American League executive remained in seclusion today, but remarks of Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club; Thomas Shibe, president of the Philadelphia club; Col. Ruppert of the New York Americans, and Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, were sufficient to convey the impression that they will strongly support their league chief and do not want him to resign.

Griffith, with Shibe and Mack, called at the American League headquarters today to pay their respects to Johnson. They made themselves clearly understood that they did not come to ask Johnson to resign.

"Ban Johnson resign as president of the American League! Why should he resign?" asked Mr. Griffith.

"There seems to be a mistaken impression about our visit. We were not appointed to call on Mr. Johnson and ask him not to resign; there is no reason why he should resign.

"We came to pay our respects to him because we are all with him. In my opinion the baseball world will never see a greater baseball figure than he has been.

"As a matter of fact the letter we presented to Commissioner Landis was passed merely to clear the atmosphere. There has been much misunderstanding in baseball and we wanted to clear it up for all time. We all know that arguing is harmful to the game and the only way to stop it is to take the necessary action to stop it.

"You know a thing starts in the newspapers, then increases and before long the public begins to wonder what it is all about.

"As far as we are concerned, we stand behind Mr. Johnson the same as we have always stood. When I get back to Washington I am going to write him telling him just that."

Griffith, with the other baseball leaders, departed for the east tonight. Commissioner Landis was willing to discuss the weather, golf or any subject except baseball, when interviewers found him.

Shift in Penn State Schedule.

State College, Pa., Dec. 18.—Announcement was made today that it has been necessary to interchange two dates on the Penn State football schedule for next fall as previously made public.

Notre Dame will play here on Nov. 1 instead of October 24, while Michigan Aggies will be met on October 24 instead of November 7.

Dutch Ruether Bought by Senators.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Walter "Dutch" Ruether, left hand pitcher of the Brooklyn Nationals, had been obtained by the Washington Americans, Secretary Kenyon of the Senators announced tonight upon receipt of a telegram from President Clark Griffith, who is attending the Chicago baseball meeting.

The deal is understood to have been a straight out cash transaction but no details were made public here.

TRAVERS KAYOES DIXON IN THE FIFTH ROUND

New Haven, Dec. 18.—Tony Travers, of New Haven, scored a technical knockout over Johnny Dixon, of Newark, N. J., in the principal bout of a card of six bouts here tonight under the auspices of the Nutmeg A. C. The bout was stopped by the referee after two minutes and fifteen seconds of the fifth round and the decision was given to Travers. It was to have been a six-round bout.

Young Leonard, of Wallingford, was given the referee's decision over Willie Ferguson, of Newark, N. J., in a six-round bout.

Laurie Rich, of New Haven, was given the referee's decision over Frankie Muro, of New Haven, in a six-round bout.

Phil Mercurio, of New Rochelle, N. Y., was given the referee's decision over Jack Fogarty, of New York, in a six-round bout.

Henry Monguese, of New Haven, was given the referee's decision over Max Marazanich, of Meriden, in a six round bout.

GOLDSTEIN AND MARTIN READY FOR TITLE BATTLE TONIGHT

New York, Dec. 18.—Abe Goldstein, bantamweight champion of the world, will defend his 118-pound crown tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in a 15-round match against Eddie (Cannonball) Martin of Brooklyn. It will be Goldstein's third title match here since he won the crown from Joe Lynch at Madison Square Garden last spring.

Charlie Ledoux, bantamweight champion of France, and Tommy Ryan of McKeesport, Pa., were the other opponents of Goldstein since he won the title, the champion clearly established his superiority over this pair.

Goldstein is favored to defeat Martin, who is an aggressive battler but considered to lack decisive punching ability. The champion's experience, defensive cleverness and left jabs are expected to carry him to victory.

Bucknell Has Strong Schedule.

Lewisburg, Pa., Dec. 17.—Holy Cross, the University of Detroit, University of Dayton and the Haskell Indians are newcomers on the 1925 football schedule for Bucknell university announced tonight.

The Holy Cross game will be played at Worcester, Sept. 31, it was said.

NICHOLS ELECTED CAPTAIN AT WINDHAM HIGH

"Jackie" Nichols was elected captain of the Windham High School football team for 1925 at a meeting of the squad held Wednesday afternoon. Nichols has been a regular half back for the past two seasons, his showing in the season recently completed being especially meritorious.

The squad also presented Coach Thomas A. Callaghan with a traveling bag as an expression of its appreciation for his tireless efforts in moulding together a team of championship calibre.

The following players will be awarded the coveted "W's": Captain Burton, Storrs, Usher, Nichols, Meikle, Prater, Wilkinson, Cohen, Tomasco, Johnson, Sumner, Hernberg, Buck, Lariviere, Sawicki, Smith and Manager Benton.

THOMAS GETS VERDICT OVER ROBINSON IN SLUGGING MATCH AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Dec. 18. — Battling Thomas of Boston won the decision over George Robinson of Cambridge in their bout at the Casino arena tonight. The affair went the limit of eight rounds. There was nothing spectacular about it just a machine-like session between two good battlers, who know a lot about the boxing game. Thomas was the aggressor during the greater part of the bout, slashing and tearing away at Robinson with haymakers that would have put him to sleep had they reached their destination, but Robinson, with all the class and skill that he has accumulated in years in the ring blocked many a swing that seemed tagged to put him away. Robinson registered on Thomas dozens of times during the bout but the blows seemed to lack steam and bounced off Thomas as harmless as could be. Robinson injured his right hand in the second round when he hit Thomas on the head but of this the spectators knew nothing though it was observed by ringside patrons that Robinson used his right very little after that round. Robinson weighed 169 1-4, Thomas 168.

In the semi-final Young Pelky of Worcester put away Honey Gil Wagner of Hartford in the early part of the third round. Wagner had taken a severe beating and was down for the count of nine twice during the second round after Pelky had played a tattoo of heavy rights under his heart. Wagner was game and tried to stay but Pelky was too tough for him. Pelky weighed in at 170, Wagner at 168.

The preliminaries set the crowd on tiptoe of excitement. In the first of these Bucky Shea of Colchester won a decision over Jackie Serge of Hartford in the sixth and final round of their bout. Both boys are as game as they make them. Serge was nearly out in the third round when he was twice knocked down but he rallied and in the fourth stepped out and gave Shea a beating. The fifth round was fairly even but in the sixth a series of right swings by Shea sent Serge groggy and Referee Bill Conway of Hartford stopped the bout in the midst of the round. Serge weighed 119 1-2, Shea 119.

Bill Wall of Worcester and Young Baker of Sterling fought what without question was the best preliminary ever seen in Danielson. One might go farther and say that it was as good as might be seen anywhere. Wall was given the decision at the end of the sixth round which was the final one, but he won it by the slenderest of margins. This bout was a corker from start to finish. Both boys have speed, class and punching ability and their exhibition on the whole was the best of all of the bouts of the night. Wall weighed 130, Baker 127 1-2. Baker had the best of the earlier rounds, punishing Wall consistently and severely but at the very end of the third round Baker went flat on his back for a count of six, after he had connected with one of Wall's vicious right swings. He weathered the storm, however, and forced the fighting through the fourth and fifth rounds. It developed after the bout that Baker had severely injured his hand but he pranced along through the sixth round in which he took another count of nine and managed to stay until the final bell. Baker was cheered as heartily as the winner as he left the ring having made a splendid showing.

The entire card of bouts was lauded as among the best that have been seen here.

FEELING AGAINST FORWARD PASS IS GROWING

New York, Dec. 18 (By the A. P.)—Although a majority opinion among football coaches, experts and rule-makers apparently is opposed to placing restrictions upon the use of the forward pass, gathering demand for curbing the aerial game has become evident, promising a lively discussion when gridiron mentors gather in New York the latter part of this month to frame their rules recommendations.

The attack launched a few days ago on the forward pass by Harold M. Gore, coach of the Massachusetts Aggies, has aroused keen discussion and drawn support from several sources. Gore branded the aerial game, in its present usage, as a "menace" to the gridiron sport and urged as corrective steps that only three points be allowed for a touchdown due to a pass and that the run by the receiver of the pass be eliminated.

L. C. Boles, director of athletics at Wooster College, Ohio, sides with Gore in characterizing the aerial game as a "menace" which is relegating football to the category of outdoor basketball, while further criticism was made public today by Foster Stanford, former Rutgers coach and advocate of the rushing attack.

None of these critics, however, apparently wishes to abolish the pass, confining their recommendations to means of putting restrictions on the aerial game. The pass is needed to give balance says Sanford, admitting the aerial game has come to stay, but nevertheless he believes it is too unfettered in its present form.

Supporters of the Gore plan for cutting in half the allowance of points for a touchdown from a pass point out that scoring by this method is no more difficult than by field goal, which now gains but three points.

That the rules committee is taking cognizance of present agitation against the pass was indicated today in a statement by Fred W. More, the treasurer of the Harvard Athletic association and member of the committee that the question no doubt would come before the midwinter session of the rule makers.

While pointing out the advantages of the pass in giving the game balance, More declared:

"This season's returns from football games throughout the country would indicate that some teams weaker in many departments have scored victories by forward passing. There is no question that the pass is dangerous, and yet I believe that it cannot be ruled out of the game without substituting something for it."

PLAINFIELD CLASHES WITH STAFFORD SPRINGS TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, Dec. 18.—The crack Army and Navy basketball team is all set for the opening game at the Plainfield Community House Friday night. Practice has been going along very smoothly the past week. The Stafford Springs team will have a mighty big tussle on their hands when they meet the fast Plainfield team. The hall is all ready for the fight, the floor being in perfect shape. The boys had a light workout Thursday afternoon and will finish off the little rough spots Friday. From the advance sale of tickets it should be the record crowd of the opening game in many years. Assistant Manager Alexander and Manager Salisbury have been almost too busy to think placing reservations for the game. It will be a big time in the old town of Plainfield Friday night. All hands will be on deck for the slaughter. The Buddies went through a fast signal and play practice Thursday and Manager Arsenault reports that his team is ready for action, with the Danielson boys. The lineup that will wear the Buddy colors are Arsenault, Kelley, Vincent, Lee and Marriott.

NURMI IMPROVES ON THE INDOOR TRACK

New York, Dec. 18.—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish Olympic champion, is fast becoming accustomed to indoor running and in his latest workout today said the lameness that had accompanied his previous workouts on the boards has entirely disappeared.

He stepped out a mile in fast time today, finishing strongly and showing no evidence of the usual strain. His time was not announced but Hugo Quist, his trainer, held a watch while the Finn strode his way around the ten-lap track.

Nurmi invested in four pairs of running shoes today for experimental purchases, two with rubber heels and two with short indoor spikes. He will try out the quartet to determine which serves him best. He previously had announced he would not use spikes on the boards.

ENGLISH THINK BASEBALL IS TOO SLOW A GAME

Perhaps no article on the manner in which the English sporting public received the recent tour of the New York Giants and the White Sox quite explains the British attitude toward our national game as the following reprint from a recent copy of London Field. The article is entitled "Baseball, the American Tour," and proceeds as follows:—

It is perhaps significant of the comparatively small amount of public interest which has been aroused by the latest tour of professional baseball teams from the United States that even the presence of the king and queen, the prince of Wales and Prince Henry did not attract a very large crowd to Stamford Bridge, Chelsea, for the final game of the tour last week; and this despite the fact that the ordinary price of admission was reduced from 1s 6d to 1s.

The truth is that to people in this country there are many reasons why the game, as it is played by the American teams, will never make a direct appeal to popular taste like such games as cricket, football, hockey, or lawn tennis. One of the chief reasons is that the game, as demonstrated by the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox, has an atmosphere of artificiality which is altogether foreign to most of our outdoor sports. Thus, each team has its coacher who, by the exercise of raucous epithets, pantomimic gesture, and general clowning endeavors to encourage his own side and to rattle his opponents.

The players who are fielding also shout comments and advice, even the outfielders, whose remarks must often be lost in space; that no one takes the slightest notice of them does not seem to matter at all.

Ball Lighter Than in Cricket

Then you have the umpire-in-chief clad as though more for a contest with weapons than for a game of ball, with his large body-shield and mask; the catcher, corresponding to the wicket-keeper in cricket, likewise protected; and the fieldsmen provided with hugh gloves, in which the ball may find a comfortable bed. The catcher, no doubt, needs some protection, but in the case of the outfieldsmen few hits seem to reach them which a cricketer would hesitate to take with unprotected hands.

The ball, it must be remembered, is lighter than cricket ball, and consequently loses its momentum more quickly. Once in the game at Stamford Bridge last week a ball skied to a great height, fell among the spectators on the bank opposite to the stands, and one of them who was sitting down caught it with the greatest ease in his bare hands, apparently suffering no particular discomfort in the process.

On another occasion one of the outfieldsmen himself took a pretty high hit with his unprotected hand. Many catches were made in the course of the game—in fact, none was missed—but there was only one of which a normally good cricket fieldsman would have been specially proud—a low hit taken at a position approximately to mid-on.

Foul Balls Don't Count

To cricketers it must also seem rather quaint to call the period when one side is batting an inning, when in reality it consists of little more, and often less, than one or two overs. In the course of eight "innings" in the match at Stamford Bridge, the number of balls bowled was 11, 21, 12, 17 10, 16, 6, and 14. Though the teams comprises 9 players each, only three of them have to be put out for the "inning" to be brought to a close.

Another thing which most people in this country cannot appreciate is that so many thinks happen—interesting things, to, many of them—which do not count. The batter can only score from hits more or less directly in front of him, and thus, at Stamfod Bridge, one was constantly seeing the most beautiful square cuts, pulls and strokes which sent the ball a terrific height behind the batter, all to no purpose. This, combined with the fact that many of the balls bowled were either missed or not approved by the umpire as fair, makes the progress of the game really comparatively slow. Thus, in the match at Stamford Bridge, the record of three innings on each side was as follows:—

Giants—Twelve out of 21 balls not hit. Of 9 hit, three went behind, and two were caught.

White Sox—Nine of the 16 balls not hit. Of seven hits five went behind.

Giants—Six out of 12 balls not hit. Of six hit one was caught.

White Sox—Two out of six balls were not hit. Of 4 hits one went behind and each of the rest got a man run out.

Giants—Eleven out of 17 balls not hit. Of six hit two went behind and one was caught.

White Sox—Seven out of 14 balls not hit. Of seven hit four went behind and one was caught.

The White Sox had six "innings" before they succeeded in scoring a run, and altogether 12 out of 17 "innings" failed to produce a run.

Baserunning Thought Slow

The running between the bases was not as fast as might have been expected, but the throwing was without exception remarkably fine, and this was without a doubt the feature that most appealed to the spectators. Being lighter than a cricket ball, the ball can, of course, be thrown more easily in a lower trajectory, but there was never any question that for accuracy of direction the players had reduced throwing to a fine art.

From outfield or infield it was the same—the ball was always returned with a swiftness and accuracy that caused the recipient no trouble to take it and gave the striker little chance of making a doubtful run to a base. But it was evident that the wearing of the large protecting glove on one hand seriously handicapped the fieldsmen in their ground fielding, for few low hits were fielded cleanly. Curiously enough, few of the batsmen attempted to take advantage of this weakness, though when the ball was in the air it was 10 chances to one on its being caught.

The element of bluff in baseball was well exemplified by the pitchers seen at Stamford Bridge last week. All of them had their preliminary displays to go through before delivering the ball varying from an ostentatious showing of the hands above the head to a complete half turn like an exaggerated putting-the-weight action. How the pitchers who adopted the latter device ever pitched a fair ball was something of a mystery, for he started off with his back to the striker. The casual spectator might be pardoned for wondering what would be thought of, say, Howell, the Warwickshire fast bowler, if he preceeded to such fantastic evolutions before delivering the ball!

In general, perhaps largely for this reason, the pitching was not as accurate as the throwing. The pitchers, it is true, could make the ball curve and dip, in which, the ball being lighter, they received more help from it than a cricketer does, but often they pitched the ball wide, for which one or two bases were awarded to their opponents by way of a penalty. Nevertheless, with all the idiosyncracies, the game of baseball has many interesting variations and there seems no reason to doubt that if it were stripped of its atmosphere of artificiality and bluff, it would be a very good game indeed.

WESTERLY

There have been a number of cases of breaking and entering of stores and houses recently in and about Westerly, some of which have been reported and others not. Petty larceny has been committed and articles of no great value have disappeared. The breaks, which have been in the outlying districts of the town, have gradually approached the center until one was committed on the business section of High street either late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning, when the store of the Mechanics' Clothing Co. and Ladies' Specialty Shop, Lewis Solomon, proprietor, was entered.

The break was discovered by the janitor of the Potter-Langworthy block shortly after 7 o'clock Thursday morning, when he found the rear door of the store open. Making his rounds earlier in the morning, there appeared nothing which attracted his attention. Proprietor Solomon and Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown were notified and began investigating and they came to the conclusion that either someone stayed in the store all night or else that entrance was effected through an open transom above the entrance to the Mechanics' store. Examination by Chief Brown disclosed that dust had been knocked off the ledge above the door and under the transom window, the dusty outdoor side of which had been brushed against by some object, leaving a telltale mark. Inside the store a cash register gave evidence of having been tampered with, and just what was missing from the extra Christmas stock of goods will not be known definitely for some time. A pair of shoes which had come to Mr. Solomon by mail the day before were gone, as well as a coat and other garments from the specialty store.

In leaving the building the exit was made by the rear cellar door, apparently, as this was found open. The door had been closed as usual for the night and was further secured on the inside by a bar, which could not have been removed from the outside. It was by removing the bar from the inside of the door, it is thought, that the thieves made their getaway with their plunder. The premises have been visited and inspected by Chief Brown and Day Patrolman Michael Curtin.

In the session of supreme court in Providence Wednesday before the full bench was heard the case appealed from Washington county superior court, Victoria M. Brown, administratrix, vs. Adolphus LaBonte and Victoria M. Brown, administratrix, vs. Adolphus LaBonte. The case was heard and briefs submitted on defendant's exceptions to refusal of superior court to grant new trials after jury returned verdicts for the plaintiff for $460.14 and $1,336.25, respectively. Clarence E. Roche of Westerly appeared for the plaintiff and Archambault & Archambault of Providence for the defendant.

Master Russell Brennan of Hartford was given a party Tuesday on his fourth birthday at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus E. Barnes, on High street. A number of his small Westerly friends gathered to assist him in observing the anniversary and to patake of the refreshments. Master Brennan returns to his Hartford home after Christmas, having been the guest of his grandparents since coming to Westerly for Thanksgiving.

Judge Michael J. Turano will be on the bench at a regular session of the Third district court in the courthouse on Union street this (Friday) morning. Set down for trial from last week is the alleged reckless driving case of Harold H. Lihme, a summer resident of Watch Hill, whose automobile was in collision with the motorcycle of Watch Hill Coast Guardsman Vennard at the junction of School and Elm streets on Sept. 22d.

Westerly lodge, No. 1212, Loyal Order of Moose, held their fifth annual Christmas social with tree and refreshments Wednesday evening at their rooms, Mechanics' hall, on Broad street. Past Dictators James F. Shea and James F. McCormick appeared in the roles of Santa Claus and chairman of the Christmas observance committee, respectively. One hundred and thirty little ones were made happy by being presented an apple, orange, box of candy and some small gift.

A session of the adjourned superior court for Washington county was held Thursday at the county courthouse at West Kingston, Justice Arthur P. Sumner presiding. Judge Sumner stated that he will be able to hold a session of the court up to Jan. 9. All petit jurors reported for duty.

The docket was called and several cases were reported ready for trial. The case of Gove Brothers vs. Henry C. Rowe was passed. Frank Brown vs. Harriet Greene was passed to the February session, a doctor's certificate of the illness of one of the important witnesses for the defense being presented.

Trial of the case of Joseph Northup and Mary E. Maine, appellants, vs. Susan A. Potter, executrix of the will of Benjamin Northup, was started and the jury was empanelled with Stephen N. Gardiner of North Kingston foreman.

Other cases on the docket ready for trial at this session are: Erna Owen vs. Fannie R. Stott, Elsie Owen vs. Fannie R. Stott, Sarah P. Tefft et al. vs. Mary A. Bicknell et al.; Ledyard S. Anthony vs. LeRoy Talbot, Charles H. Arnold vs. Ida W. Smith, Jessie Silva vs. George Mills and Pizzia vs. Bristow.

Four divorce cases will be taken up at the close of the jury trials: Angie N. Tefft vs. O. R. Tefft, Percy E. Bliven vs. Abby F. Bliven, Abbie E. Pearce vs. Langworthy H. Pearce, Sarah L. Rathbun vs. Clarence C. Rathbun.

Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, who has been a sufferer from herpes zoster and erysipelas complication, has so far recovered that he will be out the first of the week.

Mrs. Claude Barnes left Wednesday evening for New York to pass the winter.

Leo Martley has returned from New York to pass the winter months in Westerly.

Miss Mary H. O'Neil has been confined to her home on the West Side by illness.

Miss Elizabeth J. Clemens returned Wednesday evening from a visit to Providence.

George Corey was a business visitor in Providence Wednesday night.

John Schiller of Westerly has gone to Boston to enter the service of the United States railway mail.

Lenial Maine of North Stonington was in Westerly Wednesday.

Mrs. Jennie Burdick has been in the employ of a local lunch for the past week.

Miss Ruth Scanlon returned home Thursday afternoon from Manhattanville college, New York.

Mrs. John F. Ahern and daughter, Miss Jessie S., returned Wednesday night from a visit in Providence.

Mrs. Bridget Nestor, widow of Patrick Nestor, is critically ill at her home, 51 Summer street.

Miss Esther Sherman is expected to return from Ogontz school, Rydal, Pa., to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sherman.

Miss Mary Augusta Stanton of Rogers Hall, Lowell, Pa., will be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stanton, for the holiday recess.

STONINGTON

Mrs. Julia F. Sheffield, 90, who died at her home in Water street, Tuesday night, was the widow of Capt. Warren F. Sheffield. Mrs. Sheffield was born in Montville Aug. 23, 1834, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adamijah Maynard, but had made her home in this town for many years. About four years ago she fell and broke her hip and because of her advanced years the injury proved very serious. She was a member of the First Baptist church, J. F. Trumbull Woman's Relief Corps and Ruth Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. She is survived by a daughter, Miss Sarah E. Sheffield.

Mrs. George L. Denison entertained at whist recently.

William Rhodes of Westerly was a caller in Stonington Thursday afternoon.

A sign on the grounds at Stonington Manor Inn announces that the golf links will be open on or before July 1, 1925. The weather has been such that the men have continued work on several of the sections, except on the extremely cold days.

Mrs. Edwin Emerson of Blue Hills, Mass., is a guest of William Emerson and family of Gold street.

Brush along the railroad track on the west side of the harbor was on fire Tuesday afternoon and a force of workmen had a hard task to extinguish the blaze. The wind did not blow hard, however, and little damage was done.

Prof. Wallace L. Gallup of the faculty of Connecticut college, New London, has been engaged to supply the pulpit of the Second Congregational church for a number of Sundays, commencing Jan. 4, 1925.

Contractor Andrew W. Perry and helpers have completed the work of repairing and shingling the Community house. The staging was removed Tuesday.

Miss Lillian Delmar of New London was a caller in the borough on Thursday.

BALTIC

The local French societies sent delegates to Jewett City Sunday afternoon and to Willimantic in the evening, when special installations of officers and conventions were held.

Not much interest was shown by the voters of the town in Tuesday's election, if totals count. Only 366 voted out of 860. There were 211 republican, 118 democratic and seven socialist votes.

Mrs. Patrick Keenan, formerly of Willimantic, who died in a hospital at Hartford, was buried in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery in this village, Tuesday afternoon.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Converse have gone to Providence, R. I., to spend the winter.

Miss Ruth Mullen of Bradford Academy is home for the Christmas vacation.

Arthur Chamberlin of Staffordville has gone to New York where he has entered a government hospital.

Mike Dibola who was bound over to the superior court last week on a charge of setting fire to the bowling alleys in the Paramount theatre building, also with setting fire with the intention of defrauding the Glens Falls Insurance company, pleaded guilty in the superior court, Wednesday. Judge Nickerson imposed a penalty of not over four years in state prison on the charge of setting the fire and not less than two nor more than three years on the charge of attempting to defraud the insurance company. The sentences are to run concurrently. The theatre, which was closed for a few days on account of the fire, has reopened.

Mrs. Phoebe Lyon is spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore M. Lyon in Staffordville.

Miss Alice Day, formerly of the Deaconess' hospital in Boston has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Johnson Memorial hospital and has already taken up her duties at that institution.

The public schools will close today (Friday) at 1 o'clock for the Christmas vacation. Professor Dow of the high school faculty will spend the vacation at New Bedford, Mass.; Miss Wheeler will go to Ashaway, R. I. Miss Hodges to Pittsfield, Mass. Miss Cole to Three Rivers, Mass., and Miss Uncles to South Coventry.

PLAINFIELD

The women of the village enjoyed swimming instruction this week at the club. Leo Vincent reports much progress in the class.

A new well has been started at one of the mills in Moosup. The drilling company has just completed the third attempt to strike water. Two of the drill hole produce approximately thirty gallons of water a minute. The last hole drilled produces but three gallons a minute. Each well is down three hundred feet.

Turkeys have again made their appearances in the stores of the village. The gobbler once again is in the limelight.

Santa Claus appears daily at the department store and from 4.30 until dark local youngsters crowd around with anxious eyes.

the citizens are trying to be patient with muddy streets and puddle holes in the village. Of course it is nasty, but it has the dry spell beat.

Considerable sickness prevails in the town of Plainfield and it is said that the continual change of weather is the big cause.

The funeral service for Mrs. Catheline Bylinski took place at St. John's church Thursday morning at nine o'clock. Rev. R. P. Morrissey sang the requiem mass. There were many floral remembrances from many friends. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in Lisbon.

The Sainte Anne society of Plainfield had a regular meeting at the Community house Wednesday night. After the meeting a social and whist was held by the members.

A little social entertainment was held by a few members of the club house. Emile Arseneault and Byron Provost entertained on the piano and ukelele. Dancing was a feature.

Joseph Cournoyer motored to Boston Thursday morning on business.

James Coffey of the Lawton mill Corporation was in Providence Thursday.

The pupils of Plainfield High held a caucus for nomination of officers for the Hermiad board. Results of the ballot will be made known this (Friday) afternoon.

LEFFINGWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl W. Ross of New Britain were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ross.

Joseph A. Elliott is installing a radio.

The officers for the next six months of the B. Y. P. U. are: President, Mrs. Henry G. Durr; vice president, Charles E. Ellis; secretary and treasurer, Miss Carolyn L. Beebe; devotional committee, Mrs. C. E. Ellis, Miss Elsie Beard and Jesse E. Rogers; lookout committee, Rev. William B. Oakley, C. Thomas Leffingwell and Miss Zelda Mowrey; social committee, Miss Ruth J. Ellis, Miss Linda Mowrey and Miss Mildred F. Leffingwell.

The executive committee of the Student Improvement league, Mrs. Joseph A. Elliott, Rev. William B. Oakley and Edward Caroline, met at the parsonage last week.

"SOUVENIR" TAYLOR'S FATHER DIES AT THE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Dec. 18.—George H. Taylor, 80, died at 11 o'clock last night at the Day Kimball hospital. Some hours before he had been found unconscious in his room in a boarding house on Livery street. He was hurried to the hospital and restoratives applied but he never regained consciousness. Although past 80 he was apparently in good health and had been on the street the day before. He had lived in Putnam nearly all his life and was known to nearly every resident here. For many years he was a salesman for the Hammond-Knowlton Silk Co., now the H. F. Silk Co. He possessed an unusual gift for whistling and frequently appeared in public entertainments where he exhibite dhis skill. One son survives him. Eugene Taylor, a hardware salesman with headquarters in Chicago. He has been notified if his father's death and is on his way here. Another son was William H. (Souvenir) Taylor who died four years ago. For several years he was the editor and publisher of the biographical history of the members of the general assembly. On every holiday he would send a souvenir post card with the inscription "Keep your memory green" to all of his friends in the state and they numbered nearly everyone who was or had been in public life.

He left one child, a daughter, who lives at Springfield, Mass., and she and Eugene Taylor are the only known relatives of George H. Taylor.

SHEA & BURKE

"The House of the Square Deal"

TREND TOO STRONGLY TO CENTRALIZATION

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

An ominously significant outcome of governmental imbecility has recently come to my notice.

A neighbor with two "places."—one the "home place" and one an outlying farm,—owing to deaths in the family found it necessary to sell. The "home place" consisted of something less than a hundred acres, with roomy farm-house, barns and various out-buildings. The outlying farm had about a hundred and fifty acres but without buildings. It had been, originally, rather the better place of the two; was more easily cultivatable and more productive. Several generations ago it maintained an old-fashioned family in old fashioned comfort. But it lay on a back road, the younger people preferred to live nearer the village and, when the old folks died, the buildings were abandoned, fell into decay and finally complete ruin. Owing to inability to secure farm labor during the past ten or dozen years the fields, as well, had perforce been neglected. They had began to grow up to brambles and brush.

Recently the last occupant of the "home place" also died, and her heirs, already housed in the village or scattered in distant states, found immediate sale imperative. Purchasers soon appeared for the "home place,"—city people who wanted a summer retreat and saw in the big hospitable old house a handy frame on which to drape the "modern improvements" for which they hankered. They did not want the outlying farm, a mile away back on the hillside, however. And here arose rather a strange complication. The purchaser didn't want that outlier; the heirs wouldn't sell the "home place" unless the outlier went with it. For a long time negotiations were held up. Not on account of price asked, mind you, for the amount demanded for the two places was no larger than that asked for the one. It was simply that the outlying farm was a "white elephant" on the hands of the heirs which they were eager to get rid of, while the purchasers were as anxious to prevent its being loaded on to them. At last an agreement was reached by the heirs making some concessions in the price of the "home place," thereby bribing the purchaser to take the outlier along with it.

That is, the heirs were not only willing to give away a hundred and fifty acre farm, accessible, arable for the most part, fairly fertile, with a creditable record of production behind it,—they were compelled to pay a little something before anyone would take it.

I call this not only "significant," but also "ominous."

Now for the explanation:

"The "home place" happens to lie within the borders of a school district compactly frontiered and locally managed, as far as possible. The district provides a comfortable schoolhouse, pays for a lawfully registered and tagged teacher, but keeps its own hold on the purse-strings and insists upon both economy and commonsense in its school-keeping. All its officers, home-brewed, take pride in the school and give freely of time and effort to maintain it as a rural primary school should be maintained. They care much more for the meat than for the gravy, and for facts than for fads. They are neither stingy nor penurious when it comes to school bills and school taxes, but they are thrifty and foresighted as well as public spirited. As a result the taxes in this district, while high, are yet bearable, and their expenditure shows results.

The outlying farm, on the other hand, falls in a wide-spreading district, the ungainly offspring of half-a-dozen enforced "consolidations" of formerly independent districts. The dwellers at opposite ends of it are many miles apart and beyond the radius of convenient communication. Moreover, the distinctively rural residents find themselves powerless. Their vote is always overborne at any election by the inhabitants of the two small villages which are the district's nuclei. These villages are all for consolidation and city methods. They have gone in for frills,—some call them fol-de-rol. Under specifications enforced by a state board they have erected an ambitious schoolhouse with thoroughly up-to-date class-rooms, at a cost so inordinate that it had to be met by the issue of bonds bearing high interest. Instead of teachers it has a "faculty," the head-master likes to be called "professor," it boasts a "curriculum" and is beginning to talk of "semesters," quite like a fresh water college. It has "courses" in this, that and the other, and plans new ones every term. It may still teach "the three R's" in some of its lower grades It may also, for all I know, like the tortoise in Alice's Wonderland seaschool, teach "Reeling and Writhing and Ambition, Distraction Uglification and Derision." Some of the "courses" of which I have been told are about as appropriate for a country district school as those in Alice's dream.

The first net result of this attempt to self-inflate itself to ox-size is an outrageously oppressive tax-rate which, as usual, falls heaviest and bears hardest on real estate,—farmers and householders. In the case of the two farms referred to at the outset, the school-tax levied by the city-aping district on the abandoned brush-land lying within its jurisdiction is considerably greater than that collected by the home-governed district on the income-producing, really valuable property comprising the so-called "home place" of fairly comparable acreage. Indeed, the tax levied on the brush-land is confiscatory. It is so onerous that the scattered heirs preferred to give the land away, rather than suffer the permanent distraining of extortionate taxation.

Now, the city schools have their problems, concerning which I am confessedly rather ignorant. I do know that they have to handle a somewhat different sort of youngsters from those of the country, and I assume that they must require different methods. I am inclined to think that they have, also, somewhat different aims. Anyway I am, myself, too confirmed a countryman to pretend any right to criticize or any ability to advise concerning them.

I wish, most devoutly, that they would on their side stop trying to seduce or coerce the country schools into any copying of their experiments. I wish that legislators and state boards of education would remember that local self-government is a good deal more apt to be both equitable and useful than super-imposed and often incongruous regulation by some far-away and locally irresponsible authority.

And I wish that rural communities could be made to see that blind aping of methods otherwise applicable is not a wise procedure in their widely different situations.

Perhaps you're not a "Jeffersonian democrat." I'm not, anyway. But when Thomas Jefferson said that "the best government is that which governs least," he said more than a mouthful. He uttered what a foresighted electorate would recognize at once as an axiom in popular self-government.

Nor am I deeply enamored of the stern-faced pioneers who founded New England. But their theory and practice in establishing and maintaining small, self-contained and self-controlled communities was sound. Their views may have been, at times, a trifle blue, but they were, in respect of local sovereignty, true views.

And perhaps you weren't as admiring a follower of Theodore Roosevelt as I was. But Roosevelt foreshadowed with prophetic vision the most imminent danger of democracy when, in a notable address, he besought his countrymen to make as firm a stand against "the tyranny of the many" as against "the tyranny of the few."

There never was a system of government devised which worked so well in practice and gave such brilliant promise for the future as the original New England system, by which each community, each neighborhood, even, controlled with sovereignty its own purely local affairs, uniting with adjoining communities only when problems of wider scope or emergencies of greater import had to be met. We shall make a big mistake,—we have already gone too far towards one,—when we substitute some remote and more or less uncomprehending overlordship, whether of town or city or state or nation, for that neighborhood self-government on which all our institutions were originally based.

The causes of trouble, in the school case which I have related, are twofold. One lies in the fact that it is easier to imitate than to initiate. It is simpler to follow than to lead. It is more agreeable for lazy men to coast on a broad and easy highway down hill than to break out a strait and narrow trail up hill. And, as a chain is no stronger than its weakest links, so a community is often about as lazy as its laziest members. At the first-off, it usually seems much easier to lay our local needs at the feet of some higher-up board or commission or official and ask him to take care of them, than it is to shoulder them ourselves. When the tax bills come in we find that it is also much more expensive. Then we're sorry,—when sorrow comes too late.

At the same time when local communities are tempted to shirk their duties, there stand ready and waiting a veritable horde of officials and would-be officials at county seat or at state capital or at Washington, eager to take over the job of managing our affairs for us,—for a consideration. When we flunk they neek no formal invitation to take over the jobs,—at fat salaries. Some or them are well-meaning and some are merely self-seeking; some few are wise seers and some are just rainbow-chasers; some have well-grounded plans and a good many more are crotchety faddists with maggots in their brains. But none of them, not even the best and wisest, know where the shoe pinches as well as the man who wears it. And none of them, not even the most capable and well-meaning are able to apply the remedy as promptly and as accurately as the man who knows exactly where the sore spot is.

For certain vast national aims national control is imperative. For other and purely local needs local self-control is just as essential. Especially is this true in rural matters, concerning which the average city dweller seems to have few ideas and those few mostly wrong.

We've already gone a too long way towards centralization. I don't mean in continent-wide concerns where centralization power is not only desirable but necessary. I mean in purely local affairs. We of the rural towns and rural school districts have surrended already too many of our prerogatives. The tendency is towards further surrender.

For it means not merely extravagance and extortionate taxation, but a slow sapping of the foundations of home rule.

It means a loss of the true sense of citizenship. It smells rankly of that "tyranny of the many" which invariably and inevitably leads up to a "tyranny of the few."

THE FARMER.

EAGLEVILLE

Mrs. Bert Loomis spent Saturday in Hartford.

Miss Pearl Thompson entertained her cousins, May and Ethel Brown, of Storrs, over the week end.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Green Sunday were Fred Chadwick, Misses Dorothy Beebe, Grace Warren and Ella Keane of Storrs.

Over fifty from this vicinity attended the minstrel show given by the South Willington minstrel troupe at the chapel at Mansfield Depot last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Alton M. Taylor of Harrison, N. Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, of this place, and Mr. Taylor's mother in North Coventry.

The Christmas C. E. social was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Landen. Music, games, refreshments and gifts made the evening a merry one.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark, formerly of Willimantic, have moved into the village.

Sea Lion's Weight.

On the Pacific coast there are two species of sea lions, the California sea lion, ranging along the coast of that state, and the Steller sea lion, ranging from the California coast north into Alaska, says Nature Magazine. The largest of the old bulls will measure about 10 feet and the estimated weight is about twelve or fifteen hundred pounds. The cows weigh four to six hundred pounds.

COLUMBIA

About twenty-five poultrymen of Columbia and surrounding towns held a meeting in Yeomans hall Monday and were addressed by Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist of the Tolland county farm bureau. Heretofore meetings have been held only in Rockville, and once a month, but it has been decided to hold the meetings in Columbia, it being more central for this portion of the county, and once in three months only, the next meeting to be held in March next.

At the election for U. S. senator on Tuesday only 134 votes were cast, which is only a little more than one-half of the vote cast in November for president.

The Christmas celebration of Columbia grange was held at Grange hall Wednesday evening and was attended by a large number of grangers and their friends. A large and beautiful Christmas tree had been erected and handsomely decorated by the committee in charge, Mrs. Clayton Hunt and Mrs. Lillian Rice. An orchestra of a dozen players, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Alice Hunt, and under the leadership of Prof. A. E. Lyman, furnished the music of the evening. The entertainment began with a two-act play entitled The Beanville Community Christmas Tree. Bill Wolff as the Squire and Clayton Hunt as a typical negro carried off the honors of the play. Raymond Lyman made an excellent Santa Claus and presenetd gifts, candy and fruit to the children present, his assistants presented candy and oranges to each person in the audience. Dancing followed, ending a most enjoyable Christmas celebration which won many compliments for the committee in charge.

WOMAN GETS ONE VOTE IN TUESDAY'S ELECTION

NOANK

Mrs. Nettie E. Brown, 65, wife of Clarence H. Brown of Cove street, died Wednesday morning at her home after a long illness. Mrs. Brown was born in St. Martins, N. B., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Mosher, coming to Noank 43 years ago. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Charles Gilusleeve, of Mystic, two sons, George and Lloyd Brown, five grandchildren and a brother, Ira Mosher, of Noank.

Work was resumed Thursday by the local girls employed at Packer's tar soap factory, Mystic, which has been waiting for material.

Samuel Main has returned after a visit to Jacksonville, Fla.

Leslie Chesebro of Center Groton was a recent caller here.

C. W. Barnes of Groton Long Point has gone to North Stonington for the winter.

Boat Reliance, Capt. Grover Eldredge, has arrived from taking a load of fish to New York and is storing up supplies for another trip.

Orrin Hodgeson has gone to New York on business.

A. W. Perry has begun work on a cottage at Groton Long Point.

Freeman Rogers has left for a visit to Spring Hill.

Orren Coles has been elected to an office in the A. F. A. M. lodge at Mystic.

A penny social held by the D. of A. was a financial success. The brief program was carried out, reading by Mrs. Ed. Andrews; song by Mrs. Lucinda Fish, games and dancing.

Oldest Umbrella

The oldest umbrella in the world is still in good condition. The umbrella was bought in 1770 by William Clevett in the County of Dorset, England, before he emigrated to Tasmania. It has been handed down from generation to generation and still belongs to a descendant of the first owner, who cherishes it as a precious legacy.

Mignon—Connais-tu le pays? (Knowest Thou the Land?) (Thomas) In French — Mignon—Gavotte: Me voici dans son boudoir (Here Am I in Her Boudoir) (Thomas) In French	Louise Homer — Louise Homer	1052	$1.50

Charming contralto reminders of this familiar French opera—the plaintive exile-song of the wandering singer, and the song of her transformation.

Rachmaninoff in two distinct piano roles; first as a poetic tonalist, in one of his own compositions; then as a sharer in, and a speaker for, human jollity.

Melodious Instrumental

All Alone — Memory Lane	Victor Salon Orchestra — Victor Salon Orchestra	19505	.75

Two exceptionally beautiful interpretations of popular music. Both are wonderfully rich in orchestral effects.

Light Vocal Selections

Me and the Boy Friend — Back Where the Daffodils Grow	Jane Green — Aileen Stanley	19502	.75

The kind of record everybody likes; one side makes you laugh and dance, and the other gives expression to those "back home blues" we all have now and then.

Big Bad Bill — Ukulele Lou guitars, ukulele and yodeling refrain	Billy Murray — Frank Richardson	19503	.75

A fox-trot song of a marriage-broken public terror, and a Hawaiian yodel—or at least a yodel song in Hawaiian setting with ukulele and guitars by a new Victor artist.

Mandy Lee — My Old New Hampshire Home	Shannon Quartet — Peerless Quartet	19508	.75

These two famous quartets on one record; "heart-songs" of not too recent date. Sung with skill and with deep feeling.

Dance Records

Prince of Wails—Fox Trot — Get Lucky—Chicago Stomp or Shimmy Fox Trot	Ralph Williams and His Rainbo Orchestra	19504	.75

First Victor Record by this famous organization from the Rainbo Garden in Chicago—two fox trots, one of them with the special flavor of Chicago from which came, originally, the well-known "Stomp" in the fox trot.

Sax-o-Phun—Fox Trot — Hey! Hey! and Hoo! Hoo!—Fox Trot with vocal refrain	George Olsen and His Music — International Novelty Orchestra	19509	.75

A happy, hick-sort of fox trot featuring Rudy Wiedoeft, its composer, and his famous saxophone, in laugh and slap-tongue effects; and a companion with a vocal refrain and novelties.

Happy Is The Mother when the baby is well

IT requires no long experience in the bringing up of children to understand that food waste must pass out of the system promptly, and so the intelligent mother will watch the baby's stools.

In infancy the child should have two or three passages in 24 hours, and in childhood one or two. Less than that will soon tell in canker sores, coated tongue, foul breath and restlessness. As these signs develop, promptly give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in a few hours the symptoms will vanish.

Thousands of mothers have reared proud families with no other medicine than Syrup Pepsin, for it has relieved their families of constipation for thirty years. Rev. Mary F. Malcolm, Belle River, Ill., and Mrs. James Richmire, Sterlingville, N. Y., have had great success with it and constantly urge others to use it.

Here you have a laxative ideally suited to family purposes, as it acts gently and without griping, is exceptionally pleasant to take, and contains no opiates or narcotics.

The formula is clearly stated on every package and is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. A bottle, which can be had at any drug store, lasts a family months and costs an average of less than a cent a dose. Give one-half to a teaspoonful, according to age, for constipation, biliousness, loss of appetite, flatulence, belching, and to ward off fevers and colds. You will be grateful to see your child have natural sleep without the use of opiates.

Use it yourself and give it to the adults in the family. There will be less sickness, less absence from work and school. When you see what Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does for you you will discard pills and powders and salts and coal-tar drugs disguised in candy. A remedy like this, that sells over 10 million bottles annually, the largest sale in the world, must have superior merit. We guarantee it or refund your money.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Pepsin Syrup Co., 516 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

STOCK PRICES RISE IN WILD TRADING

New York, Dec. 18.—(By the A. P.)—Despite the repeated attempts of bear traders to bring about a reaction, stock prices continued their sensational rise in another period of wild trading today. Both the rail and industrial averages attained the highest levels in years on total sales that ran above the 2,000,000 share mark for the eighteenth time since election day.

Lowering of the call money rate to 2 1-2 per cent indicating that a plethora flow of funds was still available for stock market purposes, and publication of an interview by the financial news tickers quoting Secretary Mellon as saying that he saw no danger in the present activity and strength of stocks, raised bullish enthusiasm to a fever pitch.

Fifty-seven individual issues, including 17 railroads, 11 public untility, seven merchandising and six motor shares, broke through their previous maximum 1924 quotations, several attaining the highest prices in their history. Many others, including U. S. Steel common, duplicated their previous high figures for the year.

Reports that rapid progress was being made in the negotiation of eastern and southwestern railroad mergers developed a brisk demand for the stocks of the various roads involved at steadily rising prices. Delaware & Hudson climbed to a new top at 138 1-2. Lackawanna moved up to a new peak at 148 and Reading touched a new maximum at 79 1-2. Other issues in this group to be elevated to new high levels were Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Atchison, Southern Railway, Louisville and Nashville, and New Haven.

American Can was run up 9 1-4 points to 161. S. S. Kresge soared 15 1-4 points.

Other outstanding strong spots included General Electric, Sears Roebuck, Gimbel Brothers, United Railway Investment common and preferred, American Republics, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Fisher Body, Nash Motor, Market Street Railway prior preferred, Jewell Tea preferred, Tidewater, Iron Products and West Penn Power, all of which closed 3 to 7 points higher.

FIGHT FOR SPEAKER IN THE 69TH CONGRESS

Washington, Dec. 18.—The fight for speaker in the 69th congress warmed up today with the sending out of an appeal by republicans of the Illinois delegation for support of Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee for the post.

Several days ago a similar appeal was circulated by the Ohio delegation in behalf of Representative Longworth, the republican leader, and there are indications that several other house members, among them Wood of Indiana, may enter the speakership race.

The first avowed candidate for republican floor leader in the next house is Representative Lehlbach of New Jersey, whose name was presented today by republican members of the New Jersey delegation.

While the opinion is general among republicans in the house that Mr. Longworth will continue as leader in the event he is not elected speaker, several names have been mentioned for floor leader on the supposition that the post will be vacant.

Among prospective candidates, none of whom as yet have committed themselves to their plans, are Representatives Tilson, Connecticut; Snell, New York, and Tincher, Kansas.

WAR VETS TO BE PLACED IN UNITS OF TWO GROUPS

Washington, Dec. 18.—Major Davis G. Arnold, assistant director of the Veterans' Bureau, told veteran members of the 26th division last night that the veterans of that division "soon will be checked and classified and placed in units of two groups, those who have received no compensation, and those who have."

The veterans formed a chapter of the Y. D. Veterans' Association of New England, Congressman B. C. Reece of Tennessee, was elected president. Other officers are: first vice president, Congressman William P. Connery, Jr., Massachusetts; second vice president, Major Arnold; third vice president, Major James F. Coupal; secretary, Col. L. W. Cass; treasurer, Jack S. Connolly. The board of directors includes Col. R. H. Hallett, Gen. P. D. Glassford, Col. William Alfonte, Col. Douglass Potts, Col. B. F. Cheatham and F. W. McCormack.

FORMER BANKER WAS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE

New York, Dec. 18.—Marcus Tauster, a partner in the defunct private banking firm of Garfunkel & Tauster, was sentenced today to serve not more than four or less than two years in prison after he had pleaded guilty to indictments charging various degrees of forgery, larceny and perjury.

General Sessions Judge Collins, however, said he imposed the sentence on the perjury count, which charged Tauster with falsely stating that his bank was solvent prior to its closing in December, 1923, with liabilities of $235,000.

Tauster was arrested a few weeks ago at North Bay, Ont., to which city he fled after a state examiner had learned the condition of the bank. Max Garfunkel, his partner, is serving a year in prison on charges connected with the failure.

COOLIDGE CONGRATULATES TILSON FOR WORK IN SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN

Washington, Dec. 18.—Congressman Tilson was called to the White House today and was warmly congratulated by the president on the work he did in bringing about the election of Senator-elect Bingham. As Tilson was defeated for the nomination republicans here are heaping great praise on him for taking the lead in active campaign for Bingham. The entire Connecticut delegation will go home for the Christmas recess.

"FRICTION" BETWEEN GOV'T SHIPPING ORGANIZATIONS

Washington, Dec. 18.—Leigh C. Palmer, president of the emergency fleet corporation, today told the house committee investigating the shipping board that at times there was "friction" between the two organizations, a "decided" difference of opinion existing in some matters of personnel and policy, which he held should be left to the corporation for determination.

He also expressed the opinion that within five years a betterment of world conditions would neable the corporation to sell a number of its ships. In disposal of some trade routes which are unprofitable but are considered important from the view of national necessity, he added, governmental aid might be required.

Asserting that some corporation officials and managing operators had become imbued during the war with the idea that the expense of operation was of secondary importance, Mr. Palmer declared the reduction by the budget bureau of $14,000,000 in the appropriation sought by the board for the next fiscal year was advisable, as it would tend to correct this impression.

HEARING ON DEATH OF CHARLES G. ROGERS

New Haven, Dec. 18—The automobile in which Charles G. Rogers, was killed on the night of November 1, while returning to this city from an inn in Wallingford with Miss Marjorie Schneider, played an important part today in the third session of the investigation of the death being conducted by the grand jurors of North Haven.

After having heard five witnesses, the jurors with Superintendent Robert W. Hurley and Captain Frank Nichols, of the state police inspected the machine which had been driven to North Haven from Morris Cove, a suburb of this city, by Mrs. Samuel W. Tator, sister of Miss Schneider, upon telephonic request of Prosecutor Ward Church.

ACTION BY HOUSE ON THE NAVY APPROPRIATION BILL

Washington, Dec. 18.—Provisions in the navy appropriation bill for maintenance of the navy at its present strength of 86,000 enlisted men were approved today by the house.

Approval also was given sections providing for 6,895 line and staff officers in the navy, a slight increase over the number now in service. Representative French, republican, Idaho, in charge of the bill was confident it would be put to a vote tomorrow.

Among the items in the bill given house approval today were those appropriating $160,000 for the Newport, R. I., training station; $250,000 for the training station at Great Lakes, Ills., and $260,000 for the Hampton Roads, Va., station; $3,900,000 for the naval reserve force; $100,000 for the naval war college, Rhode Island; $175,000 for the engineering experiment station at Annapolis, Md., $17,000,000 for construction and repair of naval vessels; $11,732,000 for the bureau of ordnance and $315,350 for temporary government for the West Indian Islands acquired by the United States from Denmark.

To provide pay for 86,000 men during the coming fiscal year, the bill carries $117,000,000.

JOCKEY SANDE WINNING HIS FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 18.—Earl Sande, the star jockey who was so badly crushed in a fall at Saratoga Springs last summer that it was thought he would never ride again and might walk only with an artificial leg, hobbled to the door of his father-in-law, T. Harry Casey here today to say that he was winning his fight for health and strength and expected to be back on the race track once more. Smiling, Sande said he hoped to have the splints removed from his injured leg in a few weeks. The doctors have assured him he will be able to walk and ride as well as ever. Sande said he would be in the saddle again about the first of May.

FRANK BURNS IDENTIFIED AS AN ESCAPED CONVICT

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 18.—Department of justice agents here today identified Frank Burns, arrested in Hartford, Conn., yesterday, as an escaped convict, as the man of that name who impersonated a federal officer here several months ago. His picture also was identified by a clerk at a hotel here where he stayed. As he has still to serve out a sentence at the Rutand prison camp, it is unlikely that the local charge will be pressed now.

EDITOR CLAPP EXPLAINS "UNDERWOOD" EDITORIALS

Washington, Dec. 18—All intention of impugning the motives or reflecting upon the integrity of Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, was disclaimed today before a senate investigating committee by Edwin J. Clapp, author of an editorial appearing in the Hearst morning newspapers of Decembers 13 and dealing with the pending Underwood Muscle Shoals leasing bill.

With the examination of Clapp, the committee concluded the inquiry, ordered by the senate at the request of Senator Underwood, who charged that the editorial had lied about him. Chairman Spencer expects to submit his report on the results of the investigation before the recess of the senate Saturday for the Christmas holidays.

Called upon to submit proof of the statements in his editorial that the Underwood bill is one to lease the Tennessee River Development to the Alabamaun Power company and that Senator Underwood's ability and statesmanship "have often been at the service of the railroads and the other great corporations seeking public privileges without paying for them" Clapp quoted in the first instance from Senator Underwood's address and in the second he gave a long list of legislation which he said the senator had supported.

With respect to the statement in the editorial that, President Coolidge did not want "another Teapot Dome scandal in the cabinet at Washington," Clapp told the committee that he had not intended to convey any impression that there was any conspiracy afoot in connection with the Muscle Shoals or that criminal matters were involved. He said he simply was warning that there was opportunity for an exhibition of carelessness that might become a scandal.

Cross questioned by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, Clapp said he had no doubt that Senator Underwood had lived up to "the highest ideals and ... actuated by the purest of motives.

"What ... are trying to say is he a man of honor?" inquired Senator Caraway.

"I say that not only now but at another time," was the response.

Clapp explained that when he made the statements touching on Senator Underwood he meant to convey the idea that Senator Underwood had supported legislation favorable to railroads and other corporations because he believed in the philosophy that private interests could best operate the resources of the country for the public welfare.

"We disagree with that philosophy," Clapp said.

Senators Caraway, Butler, of Massachusetts, and Sterling of South Dakota, republicans, sharply disagreed with the witness as to the interpretation of the language in the editorial. Clapp agreed with them after some argument that there was no specific statement in the bill calling for the lease to the Alabama Power Company.

After he had read his prepared statement which included a history of what was termed the "power trust" and had answered questions, Clapp told the committee he had no other evidence to present to support his statements in the editorial and that he had no names of witnesses to suggest.

EMBEZZLER KELLER TURNS STATE'S EVIDENCE

Bridgeport, Dec. 18—Walter M. Keller, former manager of the Stamford office of the Beneficial Loan company, and who was sentenced to state's prison for five years, last week, for embezzlements totalling $21,000, turned state's witness today.

Charles E. McGrath, his former associate, on trial in criminal superior court, profited through Keller's embezzlements, it was testified, and likewise obtained $400 through at least one "fake loan."

Zero Weather In Utah

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 16—Sub-zero temperature prevailed today over a greater part of Utah and Southern Idaho.

At Idaho Falls, Idaho, the thermometer registered 24 degrees below zero; at Boise, five below, in Salt Lake City it was six above and getting colder.

Thomas McNair, ticket agent for the Canadian Pacific Railroad at Amherst, Nova Scotia, who shot himself in a room at a hotel in Houlton, Me., on Nov. 28, died in a hospital.

JOHN L. BILLARD DIED AT HOME IN MERIDEN

Meriden, Dec. 18—John L. Billard, 82, one of the leading financiers of the state, died at his home here this afternoon at 5 o'clock from the effects of a shock suffered Saturday, December 10 there was a change for the worse, and he gradually failed, remaining in a state of coma most of the time.

John L. Billard was born in Saybrook, Conn., July 18, 1842, the son of John Denton and Emiline Spencer Billard. At the age of four years, with his parents, he came to Meriden to live his father entering partnership with George W. Lyon under the firm name of Lyon and Billard.

He was for years a director of the Edward Miller Company, the Meriden Cutlery Company, the Meriden Gas & Electric Light company and other local institutions, including the Meriden hospital.

For over 30 years he was a director of the Second National Bank of New Haven, and through his connection with that institution, he became involved in the litigation resulting from the New Haven railroad acquiring the majority of the stock of the Boston and Maine road. In 1907, when it was realized that the railroad could not legally hold this stock, the New Haven road sold its holdings to Mr. Billard, who at that time was not a director of the railroad.

Thus Mr. Billard personally owned the control of the Boston and Maine railroad. In 1908 the interstate commerce commission claimed that through his connection with the Second National Bank of New Haven, which was known as the railroad's bank, it was virtually an infraction of the anti-trust law for Mr. Billard to hold this stock.

By order of the commission a holding company was formed, known as the Billard company, and the stock sold back to the railroad by Mr. Billard and turned over to the holding company. Then Mr. Billard became a director of the New Haven road.

Mr. Billard, through these railroad deals and the litigation arising from them in the federal courts, became a nation figure during the years following the transaction, the investigations of the government lasting several years.

Mr. Billard was president of the Lyon and Billard company for the past forty years. He was a director of the Meriden Savings bank, the Meriden National bank and the First National bank, serving for about ten years as president of the former.

Mr. Billard is survived by one son, Fred H. Billard, president of the City Savings bank, and by one grand daughter, Mrs. Ambrose Chambers, of New York City, a daughter of the late Herbert M. Billard.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house resumed consideration of the navy appropriation bill.

A senate committee held hearings on the transfer of prohibition enforcement from the internal revenue bureau.

The Washington government bespoke of an era of "the most cordial relations" between the United States and Japan.

The treasury predicted this government, like Great Britain, would insist on equal treatment in any settlement of French debts.

Vice Chairman Culbertson of the tariff commission indicated a desire for transfer to some other branch of government service.

Leigh C. Palmer, president of the emergency fleet corporation, testified before the house shipping board investigating committee.

The department of agriculture estimated winter wheat was sown this fall on 42,317,000 acres, 6.5 per cent. more than in the fall of 1923.

Representative Britten, republican, Illinois, proposed a conference of white nations bordering the Pacific over the protest of Pacific coast members.

Letters urging support of Representative Madden of Illinois for the house speakership were sent out, and the New Jersey delegation put forward Representative Lehlbach for republican leader.

The department of justice began an investigation into charges that an employ of a senate committee accepted ten [illegible] money to use his influence for legislation.

MERCIER FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 18.—Louis P. Mercier was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury late today in connection with the death of his wife, Eugenie, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Mrs. Mercier, the state charged, died from the effects of poison similar to that which had been substituted for medicine which she had been accustomed to using.

CONTRADICTORY TESTIMONY IN FORBES CONSPIRACY CASE

Chicago, Dec. 18.—(By The A. P.)—Elias H. Mortimer's twice-told tale of a $5,000 cash payment to Charles R. Forbes, director of the Veterans' Bureau, in the Drake, hotel, Chicago, on June 20, 1922, as controverted in every detail today by Miss Edna Breese, a stenographer in the Veterans' Bureau office at New York, called as a witness for the defense in the Forbes-Thompson conspiracy trial.

The alleged payment was the keynote of the government's case against Forbes and J. W. Thompson, wealthy Chicago and St. Louis contractor, on trial for conspiracy to defraud the government through hospital contracts.

Mortimer, testifying last week, said he gave the amount to Forbes in the Drake suite about 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon of June 20, half an hour after he had received $10,00 from Thompson in the same room.

Miss Breese, who was assigned to work with Forbes at the hotel, testified that she was in the suite all the time but had not seen Mortimer or Thompson. Forbes, she asserted, was last seen in the suit between 2 and 3 o'clock. He went out the door and had not returned when Miss Breese left the hotel about six o'clock.

The witness also testified she saw no signs of a dice game which Mortimer had sworn he found going on between Forbes and Mrs. Mortimer when he entered the room with Thompson.

Four other witnesses for the defense today refuted other portions of Mortimer's testimony and three of them testified that Mortimer's reputation for truth and veracity was bad.

Elmer Dyer, manager of the Wardman Park hotel, Washington, denied, as did Harry Daugherty, chief house detective, that Mortimer ever had reported a robbery of his suite, in which, according to testimony, important papers bearing upon his relations with Forbes and Thompson were stolen.

Sidney Huston, editor of The Stars and Stripes, a veteran's weekly newspaper in Washington, and former state commander of the Missori department of the American Legion, testified that hospital sites approved by President Harding on May 11, 1922, were publicly announced through the veterans' bureau publicity office within the next few days. The list published by the bureau contained the names of the three sites which Mortimer testified had been named by Forbes in a confidential memorandum handed to him June 4th.

After emphasizing Huston's testimony that the three sites in question had been announced in an edition of his newspaper which went to press on May 24, James S. Easby-Smith, counsel for Forbes, read into the record the second count of the conspiracy indictment, detailing the communication of the same information to Mortimer on June 4, as one of the specific overt acts of the conspiracy.

Fred E. Hamilton, former executive officer in the Chicago headquarters of the Veterans' Bureau, told of Forbes' movements in Chicago on June 19, 20 and 21, 1922, when, according to Mortimer, much of the director's time was given to gay parties in the Drake hotel suite.

Hamilton said he found no evidence of drinking on his visits to the hotel.

The only persons Miss Breese saw in the suite on the twentieth she testified, were Forbes, John B. Milliken, a member of Forbes' staff; Hamilton and Mrs. Mortimer.

"When did you first see the defendant Thompson?" she was asked.

"Yesterday," was the reply.

Mortimer had testified Thompson entered Forbes' reception room with him a few minutes before the latter was handed the $10,000.

"Did you see Mr. Mortimer that day anywhere?"

"No, sir."

Cross-examination of Miss Breese went over to Friday's session.

REPRESENTATIVE JULIUS KAHN DIED IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Dec. 18.—Representative Julius Kahn, chairman of the house military affairs committee, died at his home here today when his illness of several weeks suddenly become complicated by heart attacks. He was 63 years old and is survived by a widow and two sons.

Julius Kahn, who came into national prominence through his activities as ranking republican member of the military affairs committee of the national house of representatives in 1917, was a strong advocate of universal military training, military and naval preparedness.

Born in Kuppenheim, Grand Duchy of Baden, Germany, February 28, 1861, Congressman Kahn was one of the most active supporters of the vigorous prosecution of the war against that nation. He was appointed chairman of the house military affairs committee in 1921.

Congressman Kahn was credited with being the first member of congress to direct attention to the necessity of extending the provisions of the law compelling the publication of campaign contributions and expenditures to primary as well as general elections, ending in such an amendment to the law.

Congressman Kahn received his education in the public schools of San Francisco. He drove a bakery wagon for his father from the time he was 12 until he was 16 years old. He married Miss Florence Prag of San Francisco in 1899. After leaving school he entered the theatrical profession, playing with Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, Tomasso Salvini, Clara Morris and others who gained fame on the stage.

He began the study of law in 1890 and was admitted to the California bar in 1894.

TRANSLATION OF 23D SALM BY MODERN SCHOLARS

Chicago, Dec. 18.—The valley of the shadow of death becomes "thedarkest ravine;" still waters become "refreshing waters" and the "comfort" of the "rod' and "staff is left out in a translation of the twenty-third psalm made by University of Chicago scholars under Professor J. M. P. Smith given out today.

The work is a part of a new translation of the entire old testament now being prepared at the university.

Professor Smiths statement said that the translation is accurate and that many portions of the testament had been rephrased in an effort to preserve the original meaning and the poetic uality of the original.

The translation of the Twenty Third Psam follows:

"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want;
"In green meadows He makes me lie down;
"To refreshen waters He leads me.
"He renews my life.
"He guides me in safe paths for His name's sake.
"Even though I walk in the darkest ravine,
"I fear no harm; for thou art with me.
"Thou layest a table before me in the presence of my foes;
"Thou annointest my head with oil; my cup overflows.
"Only goodness and mercy will follow me all the days of my life.
"And I shall dwell in the house of the Lord down to old age."

The book of Job and a third of the Book of Psalms have been completed, Professor Smith's announcement said, and the entire testament will be finished in about a year and a half.

"Modern scholars today," the statement said, "have a more complete knowledge of the Hebrew tongue than those of a hundred years ago. Not only the psalms but the other books as well are poetry of the highest and purest form. They require accurate translation if the poetic quality is to be preserved."

Because the Old Testament is the work of so many different authors different translations have been assigned to the various texts. They are, in addition to Professor Smith, A. R. Gordon of McGill university, Montreal; T. J. Meek of the University of Toronto and Leroy Waterman of the University of Michigan.

BUILDING PLANES TWICE AS LARGE AS THE SHENANDOAH

Boston, Dec. 18—Airships twice as large as the Shenandoah already are under construction and vessels four times as large as the navy dirigible are known to be feasible, Starr Truscitt, for seven years one of the chief designers in the United States navy aircraft division, said today while testifying as an expert witness in the case of Hellier against the Bausch Machine Tool Company of Springfield in federal court.

The witness, in answering questions as to the future of duralumin particularly as to its use in aircraft and car doors, said that airships of ten million cubic feet gas capacity, or four times as great as the Shenandoah, soon would be constructed.

EXTENSIVE PLANTING OF WINTER WHEAT AND RYE

Washington, Dec. 18.—Higher prices stimulated winter wheat and rye planting this fall, the department of agriculture stated today in announcing that the winter wheat area is 42,317,000, or 6.5 per cent. more than that planted last fall.

The late fall permitted heavier planting in some sections but in some parts of the country excessive rains, droughts and late maturity of other crops reduced sowings. The condition of winter wheat December 1 was 81.0 per cent, of a normal, or 7 points below last year, and 4.6 points below the ten-year average.

The movement toward larger sowings was stronger in the great surplus producing region of the north central states and in Texas than in any other large section. Drought decreased the acerage that would have been planted in states west of the Rocky Mountains, except in Oregon.

The preliminary estimate of 42,317,000 acres of winter wheat comes close to the report on farmers' intentions to plant made August 1, which placed the figure at 42,919,000 acres.

The average annual abandonment of winter wheat acreage in the last ten years has been 10.6 per cent., the reductions ranging from 1.1 to 28.9 per cent. Should the average abandonment occur this winter, it would leave 37,831,398 acres to be harvested next summer, compared with 36,438,000 acres harvested thsi year. No forecast of production is made by the government with the December grain report.

Production this year averaged 16.2 bushels per acre.

FROST "NIPPED" VEGETABLES AND FRUIT IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 18—Vegetables were slightly "nipped" and fruits were damaged "nominally, if at all," last night by the cold weather that has held California in its grasp for two days, the weather bureau announced today.

The Pacific Northwest States experienced cold weather again today. In western Oregon it was two above at Eugene; in eastern Oregon it was 32 below at Meacham. Eastern Washington reported 8.5 degrees below zero at Yakima and at Tacoma in western Washington the lowest temperaure ever recorded by the weather bureau was registered at 6.6 degrees above zero. The previous low mark was 7 degrees.

TWO CONTRACTORS FOUND GUILTY OF "NEGLIGENCE"

Bridgeport, Dec. 18—John Gall and John Kerekes, Norwalk contractors, were each fined $200 in criminal superior court today after a jury returned a verdict finding them guilty of "negligence." They were tried on charges of manslaughter. Rocks from a blast they set struck and killed Mrs. Elizabeth Hornyak, of Norwalk last May.

Any battleship that has been built can be sunk with comparative ease by airplanes," Major General William B. Mitchell testified Thursday before the house aircraft investigating committee.

TAVERN KEEPER FINED AND SENTENCED TO JAIL

Bridgeport, Dec. 18—Convicted by a jury in criminal court of common pleas today, Ralph Johnson, proprietor of a tavern, was sentenced to sixty-five days in jail and fined $400 as a second violator against the liquor laws. Counsel said in court the case will be appealed to the supreme court. Judge Frederick W. Huxford told Johnson he believed him to have been guilty of perjury and to have assumed an attitude on the stand "which unjustly cast odium on reputable policemen", who raided his place.

The department of foreign relations has instructed the Mexican embassy in Washington to discuss with the American Department of Agriculture the situation arising from the quarantining of Mexican products, especially fruits, in American ports.

NEW YORK CRAFT, LIQUOR-LADEN, BROUGHT TO NEW LONDON THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 18.—The fleet of destroyers and revenue cutters stationed at this port, comprising government craft being used in an endeavor to put an end to the constant transporting of liquor from the fleet of supply ships off Rum Row to various ports along the New England coast, are more active than ever at present, for it is known that the rum-runners are seeking to land good sized supplies at various ports in advance of Christmas. Destroyer Downes this morning captured the auxiliary sloop Edith Louise, a New York boat, with 500 cases of champagne and whiskey, when the Edith Louise was detected headed to the westward.

Shortly before daybreak when off Faulkner's Island, the crew of the Downes sighted the Edith Louise, low in the water, and proceeding from the direction where the six or eight rum-supply ships are at anchor. The Downes was headed for the Edith Louise and after a chase of a half hour, overtook the New York craft. An order being given the master of the sloop to bring his boat to a stop, the command was heeded and an officer of the destroyer boarded her. An inspection of the cargo quickly revealed its nature. The crew of the Edith Louise were transferred to the destroyer and members of the crew of the Downes manned the rum-runner into port. Upon the arrival here of the sloop she was taken to the state pier and later to the United States Coast Guard academy, where a guard was placed aboard the craft. The Downes continued her search along the coast for additional rum-runners and it is expected will arrive in port during the night with her prisoners, four in number. If the Downes reaches the harbor during the night it is probable that the prisoners will be given hearings tomorrow afternoon before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson, of Norwich.

The motor launch War Dog, owned by the federal government during the World war, but since disposed of, is tied up at the state pier, the craft having been brought to port by the destroyer Cassin. It is alleged that the master of the craft is guilty of violation of the navigation laws in proceeding upon a foreign voyage without filing manifest and obtaining clearance papers. The War Dog was seized off Block Island, but one did not carry liquor as was evident when members of the crew of the destroyer boarded the boat. However, the War Dog was in the vicinity of the rum-supply fleet and it is believed by the officers of the Cassin that the War Dog was being held where she was sighted for the purpose of attempting to go alongside one of the supply ships and receive a supply of liquor.

Miss Lina Beckwith has been in a tangle with the city of New London for several years over property she claims the city took without compensating her for it and which was used in connection with the extension of Coleman street. Miss Beckwith has made her claim against the city and has at times written the council some sharp notes in relation to the claim, but she has never been successful in getting a settlement with the municipal corporation. Now she is pursuing the council again and a committee consisting of Mayor Clark, and Councilors Streeter and Woodruff has been appointed that they may interview Miss Beckwith and take into consideration her claim with a view to satisfying her as to damages. That committee will report to the council next Monday. Councilor Scott, who is cognizant of the merits of the claim, announced at the meeting of the council last held that Miss Beckwith had been patient and that she seemed to have a claim against the city which must be met and the trouble adjusted.

There is a rumor that a large garage is to be established on Pearl street, just west of Bank street.

Rumor has it that a night lunch car is to be stationed at the corner of Bank and Tilley streets on land which the Atlantic Refining company recently acquired. There will be opposition to the plan, but so there was to the location of such an eating place at the corner of Main and Church streets, but the permission for it was secured. The car at the latter location will represent an investment of $8,000, it is said.

It is probable that the probe to determine the efficiency of the police department, will be resumed tomorrow night. The resumption of the probe is assured, provided Director of Law Frank L. McGuire, who has been absent from the city several days, returns, as it is believed that he will in time to permit the hearing be carried on.

An automobile owned and operated by Harry Hirsch, Ocean avenue, and a machine owned and driven by Thomas Eelahan, also of Ocean avenue, were in collision this afternoon on State street. Both cars were damaged, but not seriously.

Benjamin A. Armstrong has sold a parcel of land on Howard street to Clarence E. Beach.

George Gilmore, Hope street; Mrs. James Griswold and infant son, Poquonoc road, Groton; Owen Bogue, Brandegee avenue; Mrs. William Bromley, Jewett City; Charles Grayman, Stonington, and Warren Hollandersky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer H. Hollandersky, of Park avenue, were patients dismissed today at the Lawrence hospital.

Mrs. Howard Grassel and infant daughter, of Truman street, and George Howe, Pequot avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Harriet Allen, of Hope street, who was a passenger in the automobile, owned and driven by William S. Young, Jay street, several days ago when the machine crashed against a stone wall near Colchester, is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Miss Allen sustained a fractured arm and numerous bruises and contusions.

The will of William H. Rowe, 90 Broad street, a former cashier of the New London City National bank, has been filed with the probate court. Judge of Probate Arthur B. Calkins today assigned Tuesday, the 30th inst. as the date for a hearing on the admission of the document.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Duncan Linsley, son of Dr. James R. Linsley, this city, to Miss Julia Williams Quaintance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Quaintance, 11 West 81st street, New York. Mr. Linsley is employed by Harris Forbes & Co., New York brokers.

Preparations for its annual Christmas tree party to be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Temperance hall have been completed by the Italian Ladies' Aid society. Mrs. G. B. Musante is in charge of the arrangements. Santa Claus has consented to be present and distribute gifts to the little children. Tickets have been placed in the hands of school teachers throughout the city and these will be given to needy children that they may attend the party with their parents. At the party the little guests will be given tickets that may be exhanged for articles of wearing apparel at designated stores. The committee assisting Mrs. Musante in this work consists of Mrs. Joseph Coppe, Mrs. Otto X. Aimetti, Mrs. Frank Carucasai, Mrs. Antone Leverone, Mrs. Antone Orieste, Mrs. Joseph Sandoro and Mrs. Louis Conti. The decorations for the party have been arranged by Antone Orieste. Members of the committee met with Mrs. Orieste at her home, 10 Shapley street, this evening to fill stockings with gifts. Gifts of prayer books will also be made to the little children.

Mrs. Arthur T. Keefe of Bentley avenue has presented a Haines upright piano to the diocesan bureau's community house in Jay street in memory of her father, Thomas F. Foran. The new piano was used for the first time last evening when selections were played by Miss Loretta Murnane preceding the business meeting of the library committee.

Those present were Miss Delia Mooroney, diocesan secretary; Rear Admiral Clarence A. Carr and Mrs. Carr, Mrs. James N. Kelley, Attorney John McGarry, Attorney Frank Shea, James A. May, Miss M. Stella La France, Miss Mary Crofton and George E. Farrell. Mrs. Frank L. McGuire, Attorney Charles L. Smiddy and Miss Beatrice Smith who are members of the committee were unable to attend. It was voted to give a bridge whist in January. Mrs. Carr is in charge of arrangements. On the first Tuesday in January fireside travel talks will be given by Rear Admiral Carr and Miss M. Stella La France. The former will discuss his first two world cruises and the latter her recent tour of France. The talks will be public.

The state police at Groton barracks, who have been working on the mysterious case of Peter A. Toolin, Jr., former assistant paymaster in the employ of the Robert Gair Company, of Montville, whose lifeless body was found in the highway at Station 15, Waterford, early Thanksgiving day morning, the head terribly crushed, this afternoon visited the location of the finding of the body of Toolin, and took measurements of the vicinity where the body was found by a passing automobilist. The state police, under Sergeant Clifford Gorgas, have been following up clues now about three weeks and they believe that within the next 72 hours one or more arrests will be made.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today communicated with the New London police, stating that he had received a request from the secretary of state of Michigan that automobiles bearing Michigan registration for the present year, be recognized as legal after Jan. 1, 1925. Commissioner Stoeckel suggested that the request of the Michigan municipality be granted.

If Joe Periere had stuck to his fishing boat and not been so ambitious to "make a little on the side" he would now be in the enjoyment of the pleasures that have been his in the past. Joe took up his residence at 25 Douglass street a few days ago and began business with hooch that would not be declared a first quality even by the fellows who make a beverage of denatured alcohol. Joe's patrons let it be known that there was booze to be had at 25 Douglass street. They also let the police in on the secret. Sergean Smith went to the prosecutor and obtained a search warrant that permitted a thorough search of the place kept by Periere. Patrolman Dennis Murphy accompanied the police informant to the place where he bought for all in the house, paying a dollar a half pint for the alcohol he required. He had been there but a few minutes when the raiders appeared. They grabbed Murphy as a buyer of booze and Periere as a seller. Murphy feigned usurpation of his rights as a citizen and protested that he was being interfered with. He was interrogated as to what he had bought and he was very free to tell. Then he was asked from whom he bought and disclosed that Periere was the dealer who supplied the booze. Periere set up a plea of innocense until Officer Murphy threw open his coat and disclosed a police badge. Periere weakened and said he was a little guilty—that he had taken a chance to get some money as the fishing business was dull. He gave testimony in the police court which was to the effect that he didn't know any law, but that he wanted the money that came from the sale of booze. He was given a hearing on two counts and was found guilty on each. A total fine of $400 was imposed. Joe went to jail. His friends say he will not stay there to meet Santa Claus, for others are concerned with him and they will pay his fine.

Thomas Connelly was fined $5 for intoxication. He admitted that he had been on a spree since Saturday and kept it up continuously till he was taken into custody yesterday. He gave a bond of $25 for appearance in court today and besides that offered $20 to pay his fine when he had that opportunity.

Amaranth chapter, Order of Eastern Star, elected officers at its annual meeting this evening in Brainard Lodge temple. The Eastern Star chapter will have a feast there tomorrow evening.

Alfred W. Stoll has purchased a building lot on Montauk avenue from Frank T. Cable.

Capt. Lambdin, of the local militia, today took charge of the 1500 rounds of ammunition, 45-calibre bullets, which the police late yesterday afternoon recovered on the grounds of the Connecticut College for Women and near the tracks of the Central Vermont railroad, where the militia have a target range. It developed today that the storage house on the grounds was entered several days ago by thieves by means of ripping away a section of the timber of the rear of the building, through which the boxes of ammunition were removed, carried to the ledge and secreted.

Ernest E. Rogers, of Pequot avenue, complained to the police late last night that while his automobile was parked on Washington street, near State St., a thief stole a new cord tire and rim and cover.

The Sen Ton, a dry goods store, located on lower Bank street, and conducted by Harry Rakowsky, has been closed by attachment, the place having been put out of business when Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin made service on the proprietor yesterday. It is understood that Rakowsky is indebted greatly to several New York wholesale houses for goods supplied the store.

FOUR DESTROYERS GOING TO BALTIMORE SCRAP HEAP

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 18.—Former destroyers Preston, Reid, Flusser and Lamson, sold by the federal government to the New London Ship & Engine company two years ago, at which time it was planned to convert the craft into passenger steamers plying between eastern ports and Florida and Cuba, but which plan was abandoned, are to be scrapped. The four former sea-fighters will be taken in tow tomorrow or Saturday by the tug Neptune, which arrived in port this afternoon, and will be hauled to Baltimore where the task of junking the craft will follow.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS BURN MORTGAGE NOTE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 18.—A banquet by members of Seaside Council, Knights of Columbus this evening at their club house on Huntington street, celebrated the burning of a mortgage that has been held against the property for several years. Recently the mortgage was paid off that will clear the council from debt upon its $40,000 home, so the destruction of the mortgage by burning and a banquet was decided upon.

Councilor William C. Fox was toastmaster at the banquet. Attorney John C. Geary was the principal speaker and lauded the work of the members of the organization and their vigorous efforts which have made possible the paying of the mortgage.

WESTMINSTER

All the schools of the town close for the Christmas and New Year holiday today (Friday). Westminster Hill expects to welcome Santa Claus in person this evening with songs, recitations, and playlets at public exercises.

WOMAN RESCUED AFTER FALLING INTO WELL

After falling a distance of 14 feet to the bottom of a well, containing about four feet of water, Mrs. H. N. Wheeler of High street, Mystic, is apparently suffering no serious results save a slight shock to her nervous system. Due to the quick work of John Leboue, a neighbor, and George H. Griswold, a mail carrier, she will probably not contract pneumonia or a similar complaint from her sudden contact with cold water.

Mrs. Wheeler was sifting ashes on an unused well curb in the yard of her home, when the board, resting across the top, gave way. She plunged feet first downward. The water, which was about four feet in depth, rose still higher and it was only by clinging to a projection on the side of the well that Mrs. Wheeler managed to keep her head out of water.

Mr. Griswold, who was delivering mail nearby, heard her screams, as did Laboue, who was also not far distant. The former procured a ladder, while Laboue went down the well and assisted the woman to the top. Mrs. Wheeler was immediately advised to go to bed and a doctor was summoned. It is believed, however, that no serious results will occur.

NORWICH GIRL CONN. COLLEGE PRESS REPORTER

During the past two weeks Connecticut college has been very busy with various pre-Christmas festivities. There have been Christmas parties given by the Psychology club, the Mathematics club, the German and History clubs. At the history meeting there were several stories told about the customs and traditions of Yuletide. The Christmas spirit was traced from its earliest stages up to the present time, by Miss Rosmund Beebe of Mt. Clair, N. J.; Miss Arline Haskins of Scotland, both of the class of '26; and Miss Dorothy Pasnik, a local girl of the class of '28.

On Wednesday evening all the various college houses gave Christmas celebrations.

Thursday afternoon, the Connecticut College Press Board held a tea in Winthrop Living room for the girls who had made that organization for the year as reporters. These girls have been trying out under the various upper class press reporters for the past two months.

Upon the preliminary try-outs the following have been chosen: Louise ... Towne, '28, Meriden; Marian E. Opton, New York city; Dorothy N. Pasnik, '28, Norwich; Ione J. Barrett, '28, Katonah, N. Y.; Bertha Borgzimmer, '27, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Hazel R. Gardiner, '28, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Amy D. Hubbard, '25, Sunderland, Mass.; Mary Wolcott, '28, Merchantville, N. J.; Amy Wakefield, '26, Beacon Falls; Ellen McGrath, '25, East Windsor Hill; Sadie B. Stein, '28, New Haven; Josephine Henderson, '28, West Hartford; Lilian Supove, 28, Middletown, and Dorothy Davenport, '28, Rochester, N. Y. At the end of the year of probation a number of these will become permanent members of the press board and will then be entitled to the press board key.

The annual presentation of the "Nativity" an old Irish Miracle play by Douglas Hyde was given according to the traditions of the college in the college gymnasium Thursday night. The principal parts were taken by Wanda Volk, '28, Montclair, N. J., as Mary; Emily Warner, '25, of Beacon Falls, as Joseph; and Dorothy Davenport, '28, Rochester, N. Y., as the king. The entire service was illuminated by candles only. After the play the entire student body walked to the end of the gymnasimum where each girl received a lighted candle. From there the procession filed out to the Quadrangle where the girls joined in singing college and class songs.

At midnight the entire freshman class wended their way from house to house softly singing Christmas carols. This is one of the traditions which is looked forward to each year with such delight and, no matter what the weather, is faithfully carried out. The sweet young voices lifted in praise in the silence of the night ring forth their message of cheer like carolers of old and the same old songs are sung as were sung by the shepherds of long ago. At five Thursday morning the sophomore class crept silently out of the warm houses into the chill morn to add their share of praises to the Shepherd of all.

Friday at eleven o'clock Connecticut college closes for its Christmas vacation. It will reopen on the seventh of January, thus giving the girls three weeks vacation.

CLARA BARTON TENT TO ENTERTAIN LOCAL W. R. C.

Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, met in Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening with the President Mrs. Genie Evans in the chair. General Orders Nos. 2 and 3 were read by the secretary, Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury. Ten new tents have been organized in Ohio during the last year. A motion was made and seconded to invite the Woman's Relief corps to the social and entertainment to be held Friday evening, Dec. 19, in Buckingham Memorial. Commander Orrin M. Price thanked the tent for the basket of fruit sent to him on his 80th birthday. There were 28 present including Commander Price. The meeting closed in the usual manner.

Miss Joe Davidson, 77, and Mrs. Ann Peabody, 80, members of the old ladies' home in Atlanta, Ga., have become so interested in boxing that they have started sparring in order to "keep in good trim."

MARKET REMAINS STRONG

New York, Dec. 18.—Stock prices gave another impressive demonstration of strength in today's market, both the rail and industrial averages being lifted to new high levels. To- ceeded the two million for the eighteenth time n day.

of the call money rate to ...nt. and publication of an interview with Secretary Mellon by the financial news tickets, quoting him as saying that he saw no danger in the present course of the stock market, stimulated the buying of all classes of stocks. Fifty-seven issues, including 17 rails and eleven public utilities, attained new top prices. Many others, including United States Steel common, duplicated their previous 1924 highs.

Revival of speculative interest in the oil shares, reflecting the more cheerful feeling by the oil trade circles, was one of the features of the day's trading. Heavy buying of the Pan-American issues, each of which gained about 1 3-4 points on the day was due, in part, to speculative expectation that the present $4 dividend would be increased next year, because of the company's dominant position in the fuel market.

Railroad shares were in active demand from the start with the bulk the buying in the eastern carriers. Delaware and Hudson was one of the features, being bid up 5 points to a new top at 138 1-2. Lacakawanna showed an extreme gain of 3 points at 148, also a new top. Other issues to attain new maximum prices included Reading common and second preferred., Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Atchison, Southern Railway, Louisville and Nashville and New Haven, although the early gains were not maintained in all cases.

Marked buyoancy developed in the merchandising issues. S. S. Kresge standing out with a gain of more than 15 points at 450 1-4. Sears Roebuck was run up 5 1-4 points to 150 on the announcement that the company was to open retail stores but it slipped back to 147 3-4 at the close. Woolworth and Gimble Brothers touched new top prices on buying influenced by reports of unusually heavy Christmas trade.

A spirited demand for American Can just before the close resulted in a jump of more than 9 points to 161, largely at the expense of an overcrowded short interest. Other outstanding strong spots included General Electric, United Railway Investmen common and preferred, American Republics, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Iron Products, Jewell Tea preferred, Market Street Railway preferred, Nash Motor, Tidewater Oil and West Penn Power, the net gains ranging from 3 to 7 points.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent, and then dropped to 2 1-2 where it closed. The time money market showed a hardening tendency with business quiet. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates held relatively steady. Demand sterling moved up about 5-8c to 4.60 3-4 and French francs ruled unchanged around ...cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Dec. 18.—Bond prices fluctuated within narrow limits today but steady investment buying imparted a firm tone to trading. The firmer tendency of the time money and acceptance rates, however, brought moderate recessions in Liberty bonds and discounts any fresh speculative operations.

Heavy over-subscription of the $50,000,000 Belgian loan offered today on a 7 per cent. yield basis, was the principal feature in investment circles.

Bankers estimated that subscriptions exceeded the amount of the loan from three to five times, and said that the demand for the new bonds compared favorably with the response to the recent French loan. Meanwhile, the new Greek bonds, which were sold yesterday, continued to demand a substantial premium.

Negotiations for a loan to Poland of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 reported under way in cable dispatches from Warsaw, have not yet reached the stage where an offering is in sight, although a number of New York bankers have been approached on the proposed financing.

The most interesting price changes in bond trading were in individual issues, the various group movements revealing no clearly defined trend. Among the rail issues which advanced were Delaware and Hudson convertible 5s, Grand Trunk Railway 7s, Great Northern 7s and Central of Georgia 5 1-2s. Robbins and Myers 7s lost 5 points on a small turnover.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $7,000,000 Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee 30 year 6 per cent. binds at 98 to yield 6.15 percent.

CHICAG GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Wheat closed strong today at the highest prices yet this season both for the December and May delivery. Seaboard houses were active buyers. Russia and other European countries were said to be purchasing, and there was unexpected strength in quotations at Liverpool. Compared with 24 hours before, wheat finished 2 3-8 to 3 1-4 cents up, May 1.73 1-8 to 1.73 1-4 and July 1.49 3-4 to 1.49 7-8, with corn showing 1 1-4 to 1.3-4c gain, oats 3-8 to 7-8c higher, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 2c advance.

Upturns in wheat prices started early, but heavy profit-taking sales led to numerous reactions, which, however, all proved to be transient, some of the selling was said to be due to correct surmises that the government crop report issued after the close would show an increase of domestic winter wheat acreage. The government figures indicating a falling off in the condition of winter wheat, though, were apparently unforeseen. Nevertheless, demand broadened on the breaks in price, and with adverse harvest conditions in Argentine offerings here became scarce, especially as the day drew to an end.

Announcement from Washington of a decrease of 440,000,000 bushels in the world's wheat crop as compared with the last year was received too late to be a factor in today's market. A leading unofficial authority, however, was being quoted here as saying that a shortage of food grain underlies the market and that there was no possibility of overcoming the shortage before the next crop.

Corn and oats were weak most of the time until the last hour, when they rallied owing largely to wheat strength. Corn receipts here were fairly liberal, but bad weather was something of an offset.

Packers' selling counterbalanced in the provision market the influence of higher quotations of hogs.

CURB MARKET

New York, Dec. 18.—Stock prices bounded upward in today's curb market, all classes participating in the advance and a number creating new high records.

Oils rallied in sympathy with the better demand for those issues in the 'big board.' Net gains of a point or more were recorded by Standard Oils of Indiana and New York, Gulf, Imperial and Northern Pipe.

Radio shares gave one of the most impressive demonstrations of group strength, Dubilier touching a record top at 65 3-4 and Ware at 37 and Freed-Eisemenn climbing more than two points to 31 3-8. Buying of these issues was stimulated by reports of a heavy holiday demand for radio sets and the expectation of favorable dividend developments on several issues in the near future.

Lehigh Valley Coal certificates responded to the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of 1.25 by advancing nearly two points to 44 1-2. Other strong spots in the industrial group included Chapin-Sacks and Company, which touched a new high at 19 3-8, and Borden's, which closed two points higher at 133.

Steady accumulation of the public utilities took place throughout the session, net gains of a point or more being registered by American Power and Light, American Gas and Electric, American Superpower A and B, National Power and Light, Tennessee Electric Power and Western Power, the last named scoring an extreme gain of 4 points.

SUIT OVER HOUSE SALE WITHDRAWN FROM COURT

A suit brought by Attorney C. Hadlai Hull of New London, as administrator of the estate of the late Frank W. Dart, against Benjamin A. Larrabee also of New London, which was scheduled for trial at the December session of the superior court has been withdrawn and dismissed from the docket.

The suit arose over an agreement entered into on July 26, 1924, between the plaintiff and the defendant for the sale of the house at 188 Vauxhall St., New London, in which the late Mr. Dart resided. According to this original bill of particulars, Attorney Hull claimed that on that date Larrabee agreed to purchase the house and paid over the sum of $1 to make the agreement valid. On Nov. 11, according to the bill the defendant notified the plaintiff that he was unable to meet the payments, and the suit was subsequently started.

AWARDS CONTRACT FOR EAST HAMPTON ROAD

The state highway department has awarded to the F. D. Miller Co., the contract for the construction of 2 3-4 miles of concrete road at East Hampton at appoximately $123,000. The heavy cutting on this work will be done during the winter months and the steam shovel is being moved from Mystic where it has been at work.

SOCIAL WORKERS HEAR TALK ON PUBLIC HEALTH

A meeting of the Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties was held on Tuesday, Dec. 16th, at Willimantic. A luncheon was served to fifty guests and members, after which an address was given the group by Professor C. E. A. Winslow, of the Department of Public Health at Yale university. Dr. Winslow gave a brief resume of the development of public health work since the end of the 18th century, explaining the present day attitude and programme. He stated that there are at present two important questions concerning public health which would undoubtedly come before the next legislature, the first being a bill appointing a commission to study the proper methods for prevention of the industrial diseases which are extremely prevalent in Connecticut due to its large manufacturing industries. At the present moment Connecticut is far behind other states in this respect. Dr. Winslow states. This commission will report to the legislature of 1927.

The second question concerns a bill which will be introduced providing state aid to the small towns under 1,500 population, for the employment of public health nurse. At the present time the majority of towns of this size cannot afford the expense of a nurse without state aid, and there is no doubt that this procedure would result in better health conditions throughout the state. Miss Margaret Stack, R. N., of the Bureau of Public Health Nursing of Connecticut, has drawn up a very comprehensive programme, which, when put in operation in the small towns in question, would not cost more than $85,000 in total.

A short business meeting of the council was held, at which time it was voted that the council accept the invitation to join the membership of the Connecticut Commission on Social Legislation, which has recently been organized.

The next meeting of the council will be held on January 20th with Mrs. Frank Mitchell, of the Department of Public Welfare, at her home in Norwich.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions and detours in eastern Connecticut as of December 17th were announced Thursday by the state highway commission as follows:

Salem - East Haddam - Norwich-Hadlyme road is open to traffic, but shoulders are incomplete.

Gold Railway Bed.

Passengers on a railroad east of Denver are to ride on a roadbed of gold. The right of way for 400 miles will be ballasted with the slag from the gold and silver mines of Colorado. Each ton of this slag contains at least $2 worth of gold ore, but the amount is too small for the smelting companies to get out profitably with the machinery now in use.

Colossal Recipe

Take 46 pounds of butter, 99 pounds of sugar, 127 pounds of flour, 14 qts of milk, 730 eggs, 28 ounces of mace, 2 ounces of salt, 3 pounds of baking powder, 9 ounces of flavoring, 2 gallons of pineapple, 4 gallons of cherries, 12 pounds of pecans, 6 pounds of citron, 3 pints of molasses and ... pounds of icing sugar and you have the ingredients of the 620-pound birthday cake that was baked for the centennial of Elkhart, Ind.

In the northwest territory of Canada six game refuges with a total area of 261,800 square miles have been set aside for the exclusive use of Indians and Eskimos.

JAMES M. WHITTLESEY,
Commissioner on Domestic Animals.
Hartford, Conn., Dec. 17, 1924.

Dated and issued at Hartford, Conn., this 17th day of December, 1924.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 18th day of December, A. D. 1924.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The Administrator c. t. a. appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application.

Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 23d day of December, A. D. 1924, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

If an interesting and well constructed story, capably acted and mounted in a series of picturesque settings can be classified as a good motion picture, then most assuredly Chalk Marks, which is the feature attraction at the Breed theater today and tomorrow earns that distinction, for it answers to all of these requirements.

The story, an original one by Woods and directed under his personal supervision by John G. Adolfi, is a well knit and thoroughly logical narrative. It is told in three different periods, 1880 1910 and the present, and abounds in drama and romance and brilliant bits of comedy relief.

The cast is an exceptional one and includes Marguerite Snow, June Elvidge, Ramsay Wallace, Helen Ferguson, Priscilla Bonner, Lydia Knott, and Rex Lease, each of whom has a role particularly suited to his or her individual talents.

The setting, taking in as they do the old-time architecture of the past with that of the present day, are most picturesque. And while speaking of the settings a word of praise may be uttered for whoever had charge of the immense detail and research of the production.

The direction of Adolfi is all that could be desired and at no time has he exaggerated his situations or allowed impossible situations to creep in.

In all, Chalk Marks is an entirely worth while picture and one that can be safely recommended for the entire family.

The fifth chapter of Days of 49, the Pathe news and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Broadway, Sunday

Merton of the Movies, a novel by Harry Leon Wilson, and later a highly successful stage play, has at last reached the screen via Paramount. Its local premiere takes place Sunday night at the Broadway theatre where it will remain for four days.

To say that the screen version of Merton is hilariously funny is but putting it mildly. As a picture it is a delightful mixture of wistful drama, magnificent burlesque and keen satire. Walter Woods who is responsible for the adaptationand James Cruze, the producer, have taken full advantage of the many opportunities the screen affords. They have incorporated comedy situations and bits of "business" that were out of the question in the spoken version because of the limitations of the stage. The result is the screen play is an alternating succession of laughs, chuckles and grins.

Glenn Hunter, who created the title role on the stage, is also the star of the picture. He is Merton to the life. His gawkiness, his crude naturalness and his terrific sincerity are typical of the average, small-town, movie-struck boy. Viola Dana has the featured feminine role, and her sympathetic interpretation of Flips, the girl who makes Merton a star against his will, proves her the ideal choice for that part.

State Poultry Embargo.

An embargo has been declared by the state commissioner on domestic animals against importation into Connecticut of any live hens, roosters, capons, chickens and turkeys from now until further notice. The embargo and quarantine is occasioned by the epidemic of a dangerous and infectious disease among poultry in New York state and a number of the middle western states as well as in a large number of the shipping centers outside of Connecticut.

Apartment Houses Sold.

Miss Susannah J. Hartshorn, through the agency of A. P. Williams, has sold the block of apartment houses on Franklin street, opposite Grove street, to Thomas Constandi, grocer, who will in the immediate future, make extensive alterations and improvements in his newly acquired property.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ross have returned to Wellesley, Mass., after spending a few days in Lisbon.

Edward T. Fenley of Providence, R. I., was a caller on friends in the village Thursday.

One of the horses owned by Paul Verville of Hunter's avenue was injured and had to be destroyed Wednesday afternoon when it slipped into a hole and broke its leg while being driven by William Verville. Officer Louis Paquette was summoned and shot the animal.

Miss Yvonne Greenwood of South third avenue has resigned her position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

Philip F. Linderson, Jr., of Gurleyville has been a recent guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson, of North Third avenue.

The Misses Mildred and Agnes Troeger entertained the A-o-wa-ki-ya Camp Fire Girls Thursday evening at their home on Highland street.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Germain have moved from South B street to South Third avenue.

The augmented choir of the Taftville Congregational church held a rehearsal Thursday evening at the church under the direction of Miss Nellie Howie.

Troop 3, Boy Scouts, held their regular weekly meeting Thursday evening in the recreation rooms of the Taftville Congregational church, in charge of Scoutmaster Harold E. Linderson.

Committees have been appointed by Taftville Social and Football club to have charge of a minstrel show and dance to be given in the near future.

Local business men are receiving notices from the treasury department regarding the failure to file various forms with the collector of internal revenue. Every person, corporation, partnership, association, trustee, executor or administrator making payments of $1,000 or more of salary, rent, interest and wages to another person, partnership or fiduciary is required to make a return.

NORWICH TOWN

Miss Jessie E. Hyde was the hostess Monday evening, when the bi-monthly meeting of the executive committee of Norwich Christian Endeavor union was held at her home on Washington street.

Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Hyde, several members of the W. I. T.'s were pleasantly entertained. Among the eleven present were Clarence Potter of Westerly and Raymond Smoth of Mystic. There was a short business meeting during which William House was admitted to membership. Miss Hyde was assisted in entertaining by the wives of three members, Mrs. Marcus Grady, Mrs. Burton Jopson and Mrs. William House.

At the conclusion of business those present played charades. This was followed by refreshments.

The W. I. T.'s is an organized class of the First Congregational Sunday school of which Miss Hyde is the teacher. The pleasant social meeting was especially planned for one of the members, who because of business affiliations has been unable to attend any meetings of the club in over a year.

At the Sacred Heart church, Thursday morning at 7.30, Rev. Charles W. Brennan celebrated a requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Mary Dowdall. Miss Elizabeth A. Malone was in charge of the musical part of the mass during which Miss Mary Buckley sustained the solo parts. For a waiting hymn, she sang Abide With Me. There was a large attendance of neighbors and family friends.

Rev. J. N. Pattison and choir of Grace Memorial Baptist church will have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

Miss Alice H. Kennedy of Town street who has been confined to the house the past ten days due to illness, resumed teaching at Occum school Thursday morning.

Santa Claus who daily entertains the children at his workshop in the window of the Porteous & Mitchell companys big department store took a little time off from work Wednesday and came up to Norwich Town. He paid a visit to the Rock Nook Children's home and was warmly welcomed. His visit at this time was most opportune and appreciated as a number of the children have been kept in the house for some time by quarantine regulations and the arrival of such a distinguished visitor was a real event. Before he left the jolly old fellow presented a box of candy and a handkerchief to each child and received hearty thanks from the household.

NORWICH INSTITUTIONS TO BENEFIT UNDER WILL OF CAPT. JAMES LENNEN

Following the funeral of Capt. James Lennen held Thursday afternoon at his home, No. 40 Boswell avenue, it was reported about the city that he had made liberal provisions in his will for a number of public institutions in Norwich. While those directly connected with the will declined Thursday to divulge any information as to its contents, for the present, it was reported from various sources that Captain Lennen had left an estate valued at between $600,000 and $700,000.

It is understood that, after making provisions for his wife, Mrs. Helen Lennen, he has distributed liberal amounts among various local institutions. Among the institutions that will benefit under the terms of the will are mentioned the William W. Backus hospital, the Norwich Free Academy, the Otis library, the Central Baptist church, the New London county home, the Norwich Y. M. C. A. and some branches of the United Workers.

It is said that the amounts left the institutions are large, running up to $100,000 in at least one case, and that others are from $30,000 up. Report has it that the largest public bequest is given to the W. W. Backus hospital. It is also understood that there are several private bequests to personal friends of Captain Lennen.

FORMER NORWICH MAN LIONS' DISTRICT GOVERNOR

William W. Bent, formerly of this city, well known Bridgeport attorney and former president of the Bridgeport Lions club, has been named governor of Connecticut and Rhode Island district Lions clubs. The choice was made at a meeting in Hartford Tuesday night. Ernest Butler of Bridgeport has been secretary of the district since its organization, giving Bridgeport two officers in a body made up of 12 city and town clubs numbering about 1,000 members.

Attorney Bent succeeds the Rev. J. L. Davis, formerly of New Britain, who recently accepted a post in charge of a New York City church, taking him out of the Lions district. Prof. Charles M. Bakewell of Yale university and the New Haven Lions Club, will succeed Bent as vice governor of the district.

The Connecticut clubs are in Bridgeport, Hartford, New Haven, Waterbury, New Britain, New London, Norwich, Meriden and Greenwich, Rhode Island clubs are in Providence, Pawtucket and Newport. Other clubs in the two states are being formed.

Bridgeport now boasts two district governors, Albert E. Lavery, vice president of the Bridgeport Hydraulic company, is governor of the 31st Rotary district. Governor-Elect Bent will make a tour of the clubs in his district.

Waters 33,810; Mrs. Henry Gee 33,325; Mrs. George Brown 33,-010; Mrs. Harry Mason 32,240; Mrs. Louis Mitchell 31,740; Mrs. Frederick Evart 31,140; Mrs. Carl Gelb 30,615.

Refreshments were served at the close of the play.

At the meeting Thursday afternoon the club decided to hold no meetings over the holiday season, the next meeting to take place at the home of Mrs. Frederick Evarts Thursday afternoon, January 8th.

B. Y. P. U. TO ATTEND UNIVERSALIST SERVICE

The Intermediate and Senior B. Y. P. U. societies of the Central Baptist church have accepted the invitation of the Universalist young people to their candle light service at six-thirty Sunday evening. There will therefore be no young people's service Sunday evening in the Central Baptist church. The group will return in a body to the evening service at which Mrs. Vickery is to present "Shantabai."

McCOOK ESTATE CASE TO BE HEARD IN NORWICH

Condemnation proceedings to acquire for the state a part of the McCook estate at Niantic which is wanted for expansion of the Seaside sanitorium, were started by Attorney General Healy at Hartford Thursday. A writ was filed with the clerk of the superior court of New London county asking for the appointment of a committee of three disinterested men to ascertain the value of the land and assess just damages to the owners. Action in the case is scheduled for January. States Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, counsel for the McCook estate, accepted service of the writ.

Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon and Commissioners Stephen J. Maher, Wallace S. Allis and Arthur R. Kimball, of the state tuberculosis commission are the plaintiffs. Rev. Dr. John J. McCook of Hartford, as executor of the estate of Eliza S. McCook, is named defendant and summoned to appear in superior court at Norwich on the date set for the action.

The condemnation proceedings follow the failure of negotiations between members of the commission and the McCook family and counsel to reach satisfactory settlement. The 1923 session of the general assembly passed an act ordering condemnation if agreement could not be reached. An appropriation of $25,000 was made for the purpose of acquiring the land needed and the comptroller and state tuberculosis commissioner were directed to acquire, in the name of the state, "such land as the commission may require for expansion purposes."

The property to be acquired extends from the sanatorium 200 feet toward the McCook house and from the shore line to a railroad track, a distance of about 250 feet.

MULLEN BOY REMOVED TO HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Thomas Mullen, Jr., nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullen of Norwich Town, was taken to his home by Dr. Edward J. Brophy, Thursday morning from the Backus hospital, where he has been under observation for several weeks, having the care of a special nurse, following serious injuries as the result of being struck by an automobile, while riding a bicycle on Town street, Tuesday afternoon, November 4th.

The accident which happened about 4.30 o'clock, while the boy was on his paper route, was considered so serious from the start that the sympathy of the community was with the child and his relatives. For nearly three weeks he remained in an unconscious condition from the effects of a fractured skull and the case has been watched with profound interest by physicians and the general public.

The first real encouraging news came Sunday, November 24th, when it was reported that the boy recognized a little playmate and that he could tell the time.

Since regaining his senses, there has been rapid progress toward convalescence, which warranted his return to the family circle, as the boy was anxious to get home. All indications now are for his steady and speedy recovery.

TO TELL STORY OF CHRIST IN LIFE OF THE HINDU

Announcement was made at the Central Baptist church Thursday night that this year the church will center on the thought of "This Christmas." For the last three years it has dwelt on "The First Christmas" especially through the presentation of the Christmas pageant.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Charles R. Vickery of India, dressed as a Hindu woman, will give a monologue "Shantabai" showing the difference that Christ and Chrstmas make in the life of a Hindu.

Mrs. Vickery comes with the highest recommendation of men like Sherwood Eddy and J. Campbell White, men who know the Orient intimately. Prof. Sitterly of Drew Theological Seminary says, "Mrs. Vickery has the genius of a Kipling, the deep insight of the heart of the East, a true sympathy for it, and the compelling way of telling what she sees and feels which carries all hearers."

The meeting will be at 7.30 and the public are cordially invited.

GIRLS SUNSHINE CLUB HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

A minstrel and Christmas party was given Wednesday evening at the Buckingham Memorial by the Girls Sunshine club of the W. B. A. of Maccabees for the benefit of the members of the review and friends. Members of New London and Windham review were also invited. The surprise of the evening was a large Christmas cake with candles which lighted up the entire hall while the Misses Gladys Hiscox and Berta Wiese sang Silent Night, Holy Night.

Gifts were distributed to the junior members by Santa Claus, being represented by Mrs. Sophie King. Refreshments were served followed by dancing. The committee in charge were the Misses Gladys Hiscox, Victoria Woldosky, Bertha Wiese and Ethel Button.

WHEELER SCHOOL PLAY IS CLEVERLY PRESENTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

North Stonington, Dec. 18.—The first performance of the Christmas play and medieval pageant being given at Wheeler school this week end was presented Thursday evening before an enthusiastic audience.

The first part consisted of the singing of the old carols, opening with a processional that was led by the pages. This was given by the following:

Part I: Tableaux. King, Philip Benson; Jester, George Stedman; Pages, Sally Stewart, Mildred York.

Minstrels: J. A. Roberts, first violin; Mrs. F. E. Reed, second violin; Miss D. M. Bradway, viol d'amore; F. E. Reed, 'cello.

Part III, The play, "Why the chimes rang."

The characters were: Holger, Ralph Morgan; Steen, Carroll Wilkinson; Uncle Bertel, Gordon Bevin; The Old Woman, Helen, Magnus; The King, Philip Benson; The Rich Woman, Florence White; Knight, George Whitelaw; Courtier, Nicholas Leacraft; an old man, William, Magnus; Priest, Edgar Harland; young girl, Evelyn Main; the angel, Marjorie Harland.

The costumes, scenery and lighting effects have all been most carefully worked out and gave an air of medieval charm, which is sustained throughout the entire production.

The story of the play is of two brothers who have waited all the year to attend the cathedral service with their parents, there to make the gift of their pennies, the legend being that the perfect gift will make the chimes ring. At the last moment the father and mother are called away and the boys cannot go, but an uncle offers to accompany them. Just as they are about to leave an old woman, needy and in want appears. The younger boy goes with the uncle but the older stays behind to help the old woman to whom he relates his hope of attending the service which he had given up to minister to her.

At this point a wonderful stage effect is achieved in showing a view of the cathedral altar, before which gift after gift is made, but the chimes do not ring. At length the boy offers his penny and as the priest lifts it before the altar the chimes peal forth, teaching the lesson that charity is the greatest of ill gifts.

A large audience was present Thursday night and another assured when the presentation is repeated this (Friday) evening. Great credit is due Mrs. Aubrey G. Whitelaw as director with the assistance of Principal and Mrs. Floyd Reed, and Mrs. Morton N. Fisher in charge of the music. The scenery was painted by Solomon Laitinen.

FISH AND GAME PROPOSES NEW PLAN

At a conference of delegates representing fish and game clubs of Connecticut, called by the Fish & Game Commission, the following extensive program was proposed by the commission. This program met with the hearty and enthusiastic endorsement of the delegates of this conference. A statement issued says:

We are entering upon a new era with respect to the conservation of our natural resources. We no longer go ahead in the old haphazard fashion doing this or that involving the expenditure of large sums of money as a result of guess work, on the ill considered opinion of a town meeting. Instead, we first determine the facts through a field survey made by experts who tell us what can be done and whether it is worth doing, whether a given enterprise will stand both an economic and biologic test. An expert forester manages our forests, a trained park administrator, our parks, and an expert fish culturist administers our department of fish and game. Thus, in most cases, the glaring mistakes and gross extravagance which result from guess work are avoided. The investigation of the practical loss of our once great shad industry has given us the facts, and with the co-operation of the fisherman for a very few years, the state's shad industry can be restored. In like manner, the pollution of our streams and coastal waters which is a limiting factor in our fish supply, should be investigated and controlled within reasonable limits and at certain strategic points.

Today, the Connecticut Board of Fisheries and Game is confronted with a most perplexing problem of such magnitude that its solution must be determined by the General Assembly or the citizens of the state. In a word, it is this—the more effectively and promptly we stock our coverts with game birds and our lakes, ponds and streams with game and other edible fish, the sooner will our work cease, and the public, the great majority of hunters and fishermen, those of moderate means who cannot afford large private holdings of lands or membership in expensive clubs, will be excluded by the posting of lands and streams now privately owned. This commission is rapidly developing new values for desirable covers and streams by intensive stocking with game and fish, and the public must frankly and liberally recognize these new values to get the co-operation and consent of the land-owner to hunt and fish, or be excluded. Community clubs can be formed which may in a measure relieve this situation, but even these exclude the city sportsmen who are, of course, the most numerous and who need the outdoor recreation even more than the sportsmen living in the villages and small towns.

We believe there is but one complete and permanent solution for this problem which will give anything like satisfaction to a large number of the citizens of this state, and the solution of this problem, carries with it the solution of other acute problems. It is this—the State must own its game refuges and public shooting grounds, own its own fishing grounds by buying some and leasing others of its more desirable ponds and streams. The value in the scientific management of the State lumber which would be derived from forests should yield large dividends to the citizens of this state. The direct food values of the game killed would under this plan, with intelligent management, be an annual recurring supply and furnish important by-products in health and happiness which come from outdoor recreation with rod and gun and camera.

If you question the necessity of some such plan as this, consider Elihu Root's message to the conference on outdoor recreation which convened at Washington on December 11th and 12th of this year:

"I think you are undertaking to deal with one of the most important and necessary readjustments of American life to the new conditions under which we have to live. When our population was small and life was simple, everybody could get his air and sunshine, exercise his muscles and tone up his nerves in the ordinary course of living. But with the greater part of our population, now that is no longer true. We cannot prevent this condition, but it ought to be possible to make up for the loss by intelligent organization and prevision, by furnishing new occasions and opportunities and creating new habits of outdoor life. Unless something of that kind can be done, we shall lose our physical health, our moral stamina, our intellectual power, and become a decadent people."

We are far behind our neighboring states with respect to controlling part of our forests and streams for lumber, food and recreation. The entire country is far behind France, Germany, England and Switzerland in the scientific protection and operation of forests and game refuges.

There are more than 1 1-4 million acres of wild, semi-wild and waste land in this state, much of it swamp land which cannot be drained to advantage which is ideal breeding and feeding ground for water fowl—much of it is second growth timber which, in time, under skillful management would go far towards supplying the state's requirements in lumber. Today, practically 90 per cent. of our commercial lumber is cut outside the state. The state of Pennsylvania now owns more than one million acres of land for forests and game protection. Nearly 200 thousand acres is kept for game refuges and public shooting grounds. Massachusetts owns over 200 thousand acres of land for the same purposes. New York owns two million acres of land for the protection of its water and water power supply, its forests, fish and game. The people of New York state last November voted for a state bond issue of $15,000,000 for the purchase of additional forest and park areas. The vote was overwhelmingly "Yes," receiving nearly a 50 per cent. greater majority than was given Mr. Coolidge in the presidential election and his majority was almost the record for the state.

This plan has an irresistible appeal, for it is found, it answers a crying need. It has been delayed too long. No time should be lost. Every year's delay adds to the average price per acre which the state must pay. Let us not delay.

THE MAN WHO WINS

The man who wins is an average man;
Not built on any peculiar plan.
Not blessed with any perculiar luck;
Just steady and earnest and full of pluck.
When asked a question he does not "guess"—
He knows and answers "No" or "Yes";
When set a task that the rest can't do,
He buckles down till he's put it through.
Three things he learned—that the man who tries
Finds favor in his employer's eyes;
That it pays to know more than one thing well;
And it doesn't pay all he knows to tell.
So he works and works; till one fine day
There's a better job with higher pay.
And the men who shirked whenever they could
Are bossed by the man whose work made good.
For the man who wins is the man who works,
Who neither trouble nor labor shirks,
Who uses his hands, his head, his eyes;
The man who wins is the man who tries.

PROMISES TO FOLLOW OUT THE POLICIES OF GOMPERS

Pledge Made by William Green Upon His Election to Succeed Samuel Gompers as President of the American Federation of Labor—James Duncan, First Vice President of the A. F. of L., at Once Tendered His Resignation Upon Green's Election.

James P. Noonan, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, was named eighth vice president to fill the vacancy on the council caused by Green's promotion.

A close associate of the late Samuel Gompers for forty years, Duncan told his colleagues he felt entitled to the office himself because of seniority and long service. His resignation will not be acted upon until the executive committee meets again at Miami, Fla., about Feb. 3. Duncan, former head of the Granite Cutters, says his decision is "irrevocable."

Green, who has been secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America since 1912, and votes in Coshocton, O., was nominated by Thomas A. Rickert, of the Garment Workers, and seconded by Matthew Woll of the Photo-Engravers. Both Woll and Rickert had abandoned tentative campaigns of their own and retired in favor of Green. In the actual voting Green was unopposed.

Both Green and Noonan take up their new duties at once. Green withdraws from the mine workers' organization, and John L. Lewis, the miners' president, is expected to appoint his successor after a meeting of the executive board in Indianapolis in January.

Mr. Lewis said the election of Green was "the choice of wisdom" because the miners' secretary-treasurer "is the one outstanding figure who can take upon himself the mantle of the revered Gompers and be assured of the cooperation and devotion of the great majority of the American Federation of Labor." He said Green's ascendancy marked the "beginning of a new era of constructive progress" in the organization and would "allay any public apprehension that the long established and proper policies of organized labor were to be seriously impaired."

President-elect Green in his first official utterance pledged himself to carry out "the fundamental principles of trade-unionism so ably championed by Samuel Gompers and upon which the superstructure of organized labor rests."

The executive council after the election authorized President Green to appoint a committee to consider a memorial to Samuel Gompers. Already a beginning had been broached by a prominent eastern leader to fund such a symbol to the memory of the great leader by a public subscription confined from the rank and file of organized labor. None would contribute more than $1 apiece, and sums as low as 25 cents, and even less, could be given. Lump sums given by unions themselves were advised against, and the autographs of all individual donors would be placed among the organization's permanent records. The memorial would be placed at the grave in Sleepy Hollow cemetery at Tarrytown, according to this plan.

The United Hebrew Trades here announced they had endorsed a suggestion that the name of Rutgers square on the lower East Side, where Gompers made his first stump speech for labor as a young man, be changed to Gompers square.

The National Civic Federation some time in January will hold joint services in memory of Samuel Gompers and August Belmont. Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the executive committee, announced. The two men died within two days of each other—Gompers, a vice president of the federation since it started, and Belmont, president in 1904 and '05, and later chairman of its workmen's compensation section.

The New York State Federation of Labor, at its meeting in Albany next Monday to discuss a legislative program, will also consider the holding of memorial services by the various state affiliations of that body, according to John M. O'Hanlon, secretary.

The Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York, representing 750,000 workers, at Beethoven Hall, it was announced by President John Sullivan, and John P. Coughlin, the secretary.

SKETCH OF CAREER OF GOMPERS' SUCCESSOR

Coshocton Ohio, Dec. 18.—William Green, known to every Coshocton resident as "Billy" although an American by birth, elected to succeed the late Samuel Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor, is a Welshman by heritage. His father and mother, Hugh and Jane, came to Coshocton county from Wales in 1868. Two years late William was born, the first of a family of six children.

His father, now 89 years old, is living with a daughter in the little cottage just outside of town where William spent the greater part of his life. To him, his son's newly acquired title of president of the American Federation of Labor means little. He made no response when told of his son's selection.

William Green attended the district schools in the little mining community where he was born March 3, 1870 until his services were needed to support the growing family. He added to his education by careful reading during spare hours.

His affable nature and his close study of mining conditions early brought him leadership in home affairs. In 1900, when thirty years of age, he became president of sub-district No. 6, Ohio Mine Workers' organization.

In 1906 he became president of the state organization. In 1910 he became a state senator and served two terms, being elected secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America in 1923, which position he held when selected to lead the national labor organization.

He married Miss Jane Mobley April 14, 1892, and is the father of six children. Three daughter are married.

In Jefferson county, New York, 79 per cent of the boys of small farms had left them while only 16 per cent of the boys of good-sized farms had left.

SOLD SOME DRUG TO A GOVERNMENT AGENT

New Haven, Dec. 19.—Frank Dowd, alleged to be a dealer in drugs, was arrested by two federal officers, near the railroad station today, after one of the latter had fired a shot towards Dowd as he was running in an effort to escape. Dowd was locked up at the police station to await developments.

Dowd was arrested after he is said to have sold some drug to a government agent. He eluded the grasp of the officer who reached out to hold him, and ran, with several officers, who had been stationed at different points, after him. Dowd ceased running after a shot was fired. In his clothing were found fragments of two bills which previously marked are said to have been paid to Dowd by the officer who bought drug.

Dowd was released from the Atlanta penitentiary recently after serving a year and a day for violation of the narcotic law.

The agents who arrested Dowd, R. A. Kelley and T. A. Kenefick, are said to have been watching Dowd for some time. The accused was to be taken before U. S. Commissioner Lynch for a hearing.

MOORISH CHIEF RAISULI REPORTED TO BE DEAD

Madrid, Dec. 19.—Raisuli, the notorious Moorish chief, is reported to be dead in Morocco, but no confirmation of the report is available.

General Valleesyinosa, a member of the military directors said with regard to the rumor:

"It is news to me, and we have no confirmation, but if it is true, it will not prove a great sorrow for Spain. Official despatches received here today from Morocco made no mention of Raisuli, and the government will not withhold news of his death if it is confirmed."

WHOLE BLOCK BURNED IN CENTER OF TUPELO, MISS.

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 19.—A telegram to Clarion Leader, early tonight, said fire, originating in a three-story building, had spread over a whole block in the heart of the business section of Tupelo, Miss. A score of buildings already had burned, and the loss at the time of filing the telegram was estimated at half a million dollars. Dynamite was being resorted to prevent further spread of the flames.

Mrs. Mary Ragula, of New Britain, was cleaning a hot stove with benzine when the liquid exploded and set fire to her hair and clothing.

London, Dec. 19.—A verdict in favor of President Ebert of Germany in his suit for libel against Editor Rothardt of the Mitteldeutsche Zeitung, was rendered by the court at Magdenburg today, according to an agency despatch from Amsterdam. The editor was sentenced to serve six months in prison.

FINANCIAL REPORT OF REP. STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Hartford, Dec. 19.—Expenditures aggregating $67,808.80 in the republican state campaign incident to the presidential election of November 4 were reported to the secretary of the state's office today by J. Henry Roraback, as treasurer of the republican state central committee. The total receipts were $102,368.32, leaving a balance of $34,559.52.

The democratic state campaign financial statement will be filed tomorrow by Fred P. Holt, treasurer of the democratic state committee. It will show expenditures of approximately $15,000. The democratic party spent about $10,000 more in the effort to elect Hamilton Holt to the United States senate in the special election of Tuesday last. It will have a deficit of about $4,000 after accounting for both campaigns.

Expenses and receipts of the republican party in the special senatorial campaign are not included in the report filed today but will be the subject of an independent report filed in a few weeks. It is understood that the balance from the general election fund was used for the special election campaign.

The republican state ways and means committee, of which Morgan B. Brainerd, president of the Aetna Life Insurance company, is chairman, raised $56,120 of the campaign fund, and the remaining $52,248.32 was contributed to Treasurer Roraback.

Newspaper advertising constituted the chief source of expenditure. The cost of rallies in various parts of the state and the organization of facilities to get out the vote in the thirty-five senatorial districts also proved to be a sizeable item in the expense account.

A. K. McComber, of Shippan avenue, Stamford, a retired business man, was the largest contributor, giving $5,000. The second largest was Colonel Hiram Bingham, the party candidate for governor in that campaign, whose contribution was $4,000. Next in order came Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, of Norfolk, president of the Hartley corporation and a presidential elector, with $3,000, and former Republican National Committeeman Charles F. Brooker, of Ansonia, also a pdesidential elector, with $2,500. Four other presidential electors, Frederick C. Mercer of New London, Colonel Francis T. Maxwell, of Rockville, Miss Annie B. Jennings, of Fairfield and Colonel Louis R. Cheney of Hartford, contributed $1,000 each and Hilton C. Brooke, of Cheshire, a fifth, gave $750.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP ILL WITH TYPHOID FEVER

New York, Dec. 19.—Frank A. Vanderlip is ill at his home in Scarborough, N. Y., with typhoid fever, it was announced here today. Dr. Norman Barnesby of New York, who is in charge of the case, said the former banker's condition was not alarming and that the patient was progressing satisfactorily.

OBITUARY.

Prof. Henry L. Wells.

New Haven, Dec. 19.—Prof. Henry L. Wells, emeritus professor of chemistry, at Yale university, died today after a short illness. When he retired from active duties in June 1923 it was after a distinguished career in his profession which has to do mostly with investigations in inorganic chemistry. When his retirement was announced President James Rowland Angell of the university said that Prof. Wells "was responsible to a very large degree for the excellence of the instruction in chemistry which had characterized the work of the Sheffield Scientific school."

The professor had done extensive research work in compounds of the cement caesium, and double and triple salts, and had published books on analytical chemistry.

Prof. Wells was born in New Britain, received his early education there, was graduated from Sheffield in 1877; two years later was analyzing steel rails for the Pennsylvania road at Altoona, and in 1880 was at Pueblo, Col., supervising, chemically, the construction of a plant for the Colorado Coal and Iron company. He was an instructor in Sheff after 1884, was made an assistant professor in 1888 and full professor in 1893. He had received degrees from Yale and Pennsylvania, and for years was on the editorial staff of the American Journal of Science.

Col. Selah G. Blakeman.

Shelton, Dec. 19.—Col. Selah G. Blakeman, Civil war veteran and long time and prominent local resident, known as "Shelton's grand old man" died at his home, 18 Fairmont place shortly before midnight last night. Col. Blakeman was 83 years old, having been born in Stratford, Conn., May 23, 1841, the son of Gould and Harriet (Birdseye) Blakeman, of that place. He was a member of Co. D, 17th regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, his record as a soldier being such as to make him Shelton's leading Civil war hero.

Colonel Blakeman was department commander of the Connecticut G. A. R. in 1893, and had previously served in minor offices. He served two years on the staff of Governor Lounsbury, receiving the rank of colonel. He was a veteran and distinguished member of Housatonic Lodge, I. O. O. F., serving as grand master of the order in 1900-1901, and as representative of the Sovereign Grand lodge in 1901-2. For five years he was president of the Odd Fellows Home at Groton. He was deputy sheriff of Fairfield for 16 years, and later Deputy United States marshal for four years.

The deceased is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mira Wells, of Stratford, and a brother, Carlos D. Blakeman, also of Stratford. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in Riverside cemetery.

Heavy Sleet And Rain Storm Widespread

Train Service in St. Louis Was Crippled — Temperature Dropped 10 Below Zero.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 19.—A cold wave and sleet storm which severed communication and crippled train and utility services, virtually isolated St. Louis and its environs for a short time today.

Temperatures dropped to ten degrees above zero and a further drop to four degrees with clear weather was forecast for tonight.

FREEZING TEMPERATURE FORECAST FOR SUNDAY

Washington, Dec 19.—The weather bureau tonight extended the cold wave area covered in warnings issued this morning to include eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and the District of Columbia. It was forecast that the temperature in these regions would fall to 10 degrees above zero by Sunday morning. In the south temperatures were forecase from 10 to 20 degrees above in eastern Virginia to freezing in the extreme north section of Florida.

The following storm warning was issued:

"Advisory 5 p. m. northwest storm warning ordered 6 p. m. Cape Hatteras to Boston and from St. Louis to Apalachicola, Florida. Rapidly rising pressure will cause strong northerly winds tonight."

CENTRAL NEW YORK IS RECOVERING FROM STORM

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 19.—Syracuse and central New York were recovering tonight from the effects of a heavy sleet and rain storm of early morning, which coated streets and sidewalks with thin ice. Trolley car lines were halted for several hours, at first due to the ice on the rails, and then because of broken power lines.

Warmer hours during the day melted the ice, but left sheets of water over the sidewalks, and cold weather tonight threatened again to make walking slippery and dangerous.

Several minor accidents were reported today, but in no case did serious injuries result.

Laura E. Robbie, of Bridgeport, was granted a second divorce from John G. Robbie, of New York, by Judge John R. Booth in superior court in Bridgeport after two 12-year terms of married life.

To Vigorously Fight European Fowl Pest

Senate Voted $100,000 For Prosecuting a Campaign of Eradication.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Plans for an immediate virogous fight against the European fowl pest were put under way today when the senate voted to give the department of agriculture $100,000 for prosecuting a campaign of eadiction. The house is expected to act on the appropriation tomorrow.

The authorization is contained in a joint resolution, and Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, member of the agriculture committee said: "We felt the situation required more expeditious action that could be had through an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill."

The funds will be used to enable the department to proceed at once with a campaign, already prepared, designed first to isolate and then eradicate the pest.

Senator McNary said it would be left to the department to determine whether anything could be done at once to reassure consumers as to shipments now en route to the great eastern markets.

BINGHAM TO MAKE STAFF APPOINTMENTS

New Haven, Dec. 19.—Col. Hiram Bingham, governor-elect and United States senator-elect, will make military staff appointments effective when he is sworn in as governor on January 7, and announce the names of the executive secretary and executive clerk, within a few days, it was stated authoritatively today. Lieutenant-Governor-elect John H. Trumbull was to have a conference with Col. Bingham this afternoon and it was thought that whatever appointments the governor-elect may make will be agreeable to Mr. Trumbull. No further appointments will be made as Colonel Bingham will resign as governor on January 8th under present plans and Mr. Trumbull will then be sworn in as governor.

It is understood that Colonel Trumbull will learn from Colonel Bingham today the tenure of the inaugural address, on which the latter has been at work steadily since the November election. Colonel Trumbull has had two sessions' experience in the senate, and at the last one served as the chairman of the joint committee on finance and is probably as familiar with state affairs as Colonel Bingham.

ON THE MOUNTAIN TOP

From the mountain top one can see much farther than from the valley.

The Bulletin—properly used—will guide you to the mountain top. Read it and your vision is enlarged.

Fail to read it and your view is limited—you remain in ignorance of events, trade opportunities and the place to fill your Christmas wants.

Someone might be selling a new, better and more economical food, or a utensil that would add immeasureably to your comfort and well being, or something new for the holidays—but you would never know it because of your restricted view.

You may read every line of the news columns but if you overlook the advertising, you are still living in the valley. You remain uninformed about many things you ought to know in order to live a happy, useful, profitable life in this age of progress.

Climb out of the valley to the mountain top. Read The Bulletin's advertisements.

BAVARIAN REVOLT LEADERS HAVE BEEN RELEASED

Munich, Bavaria, Dec. 19.—(By the A. P.)—Adolph Hitler and Colonel Kriebel, the leaders in the abortive revolution in Bavaria last year and who were sentenced to five years' imprisonment in a fortress, have been realesed.

Erich Meuhsam, who was a Bavarian soviet cabinet minister, and three other men who in 1919 were ordered imprisoned in a fortress for fifteen years as leaders in the spartacist revolution, also were pardoned.

Among others released today was Herr Fechenbach, secretary to Premier Gurt Eisner of Bavaria, when he was assassinated in Munich in February, 1919. He was under a sentence of ten years imprisonment for high treason.

HELD BURGLAR UNTIL POLICEMEN ARRIVED

Greenwich, Dec. 19.—After bundling up silverware and household articles, Frank Schultze was found by Mrs. Paul Lind in her home in Stanwich road, late yesterday, and she secured assistance from her father and an employe and had the intruder held until an officer came. In borough court today Judge Mead held the man, who gave a New York city Bowery address, without bail until the police court further investigate.

HONOR FOR GOMPERS BY MEXICAN TRADE UNIONISTS

Mexico City, Dec. 19.—Traid unionists of Mexico City with the exception of employes of restaurants and amusement places, suspended work for one hour this morning, from eleven until noon, in honor of the memory of Samuel Gompers, late American labor leader. Similar homage was rendered in Vera Cruz by the organized workers there.

TEXTILE CORPORATION OPERATED AT A LOSS

New York, Dec. 19.—A statement of the Consolidated Textile corporation and its subsidiaries for the nine months ended September 27, 1924, but not including operations of the B. B. & R. Knight company, shows a loss of $1,389,405 after all charges, depreciation and amortization.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED IN ELEVATOR ACCIDENTS

New York, Dec. 19.—Five persons were injured and nine others were treated for shock as a result of two elevator accidents in Manhattan and Brooklyn today.

Two women sustained possible fractures of the legs and nine men were severely shocked after an elevator in which they were passengers plunged 11 stories to the basement of a building on West 30th street in this city. The control levers and the emergency brake on the car failed to work, according to the operator.

The breaking of a bolt caused the Brooklyn elevator to drop five stories, injuring three employes of the Kay Manufacturing company which occupies the building.

CUTTER FAILED TO FIND DISTRESSED SCHOONER

Boston, Dec. 19.—The coast guard cutter Acushnet, dispatched from this port today to search for a schooner which was reported to have gone ashore on the island of No Man's Land, off Martha's Vineyard, early today, failed to find the distressed vessel, according to radio messages received at the Boston navy yard tonight.

No trace of the craft was found nor could confirmation of the report that a ship had been driven ashore be had from the nearest coast guard station, Gay Head, Martha's Vineyard. Coast guardsmen there said they had heard nothing of a vessel aground. Thick fog prevailed during the night and the weather remained hazy today.

PROGRESS OF NEW YORK TRANSIT INVESTIGATION

New York, Dec. 19.—Today's session of the transit investigation, the fifth since its inception, was devoted largely to comparisons, in which figures were read into the record in support of the state transit commission's contention that the entire blame for the greater city's transportation troubles lies with Mayor Hylan's administration.

The figures were introduced by Transit Commissioner Leroy T. Harkness, who made a comparison of the millions spent for subways by city administrations immediately preceding those of the mayor and the present city board of estimate.

$300,000,000 NAVAL SUPPLY BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Measure Provides For Activities Already Authorized—Representative Britten Introduced a Bill to Appropriate $101,400,000 For New Naval Construction—Senate Committee Finds That Editorial Published in "Hearst Newspaper" Was Neither Fair Nor Honest.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Coincident with the passage by the house late today of the naval supply bill, carrying nearly $300,000,000 for activities already authorized, Representative Britten of Illinois, ranking republican on the house naval committee, introduced a measure to appropriate $101,400,000 for new naval construction.

His measure would authorize the building of four scout cruisers costing $11,100,000 each and one floating drydock to cost $7,500,000, the elevation of the turret uns of 13 battleships at an aggregate cost of $6,500,000 and would increase the limit of cost of the two airplane carriers, Lexington and Saratoga, now building from $23,000,000 to $33,000,000.

Mr. Britten's bill was automatically referred to the naval committee and he said hearings which would be held on the proposal would serve the purpose of drawing rom navy denartment officials the information as to the exact condition of the American navy he has been seeking to bring out through a congressional investigation.

On the senate side of the capitol the naval committee shelved the resolution of Senator King, democrat, Utah, proposing a searching inquiry into the status of the navy but agreed to seek from the navy department data which will show whether the United States is keeping up its end of the arms conference 5-5-3, ratio.

In addition to the reference made to it in the Britten bill, the question of gun elevation also was brought again into prominence today by the announcement at the White House that a note setting forth the views of Great Britain was before the state department. Hitherto, the officials had not revealed that the British representations on the subject went beyond mere informal suggestions and inquiries. Neither the White House nor the state department would elaborate on today's announcement, or indicate what might be the next step in the diplomatic angle of the controversy.

Commenting on his bill and its purposes, Mr. Britten said it was introduced, "in accordance with a statement made by the secretary of the navy to the committee on appropriations of the house indicating that additional ships and authorizations were necessary to bring our navy up to 5-5-3 ratio promoted by the Washington arms conference."

"Unless another conference is called for the limitation of all naval craft," continued Mr. Britten, "it will be necessary for us to meet the desires and the intention of the former conference and to maintain our navy at its very highest efficiency for the number of ships in the service, and the quicker we do this, the better.

"If England and Japan supersede us in fast cruisers, submarines, aircraft carriers, and naval aviation, congress should immediately take such steps as are necessary to make out navy equal to any other on earth, not only in cold steel, but in having superior officers, and men and make the nation safe in time of an emergency.

"I personally cannot see a threatening speck on our peaceful horizon, but that is no reason why we should go unprepared or unprotected against any future emergency."

As approved, the naval appropriation bill carried only one amendment, by Chairman Butler of the naval committee, to appropriate $35,000 for the construction of fuel oil storage at the Pensacola, Fla., naval air station.

As sent to the senate, the bill provides for maintenance of the navy during the coming fiscal year at its present strength of 86,000 enlisted men and for a slight increase in the officer personnel, but would decrease the marine corps from 19,500 to 18,000 men.

A total of $14,800,000 was carried for naval aviation and funds are provided to finish all naval vessels under construction except the aircraft carriers, Lexington and Saratoga, and three fleet submarine.

SENATE CONTINUES TO DEBATE MUSCLE SHOALS

Washington, Dec. 19.—The senate made such progress today on the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill that a final vote appeared likely soon before the Christmas recess.

A number of amendments which hitherto proved troublesome, were disposed of.

After two days of debate the senate accepted, 41 to 29, the amendment by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, providing for government regulation of power distributed interstate.

The Walsh amendment served to put the senate on record as being opposed to state regulation of a government corporation. As drawn the bill provided for state regulation of power produced at Muscle Shoals by either a lessee or government corporation. Senator Underwood made no serious objections to the amendment but considered it unnecessary.

A number of other amendments were accepted by the Alabama senator and adopted without a record vote. These would require the distribution of all power not needed for the manufacture of fertilizer; provided that a lease of the property cannot be transferred without approval of the president and that farmers be given preference in the sale of fertilizer; authorize leasing of the property either separately or as a whole, and stipulate that the lessee shall set aside "an adequate reserve fund" to cover depreciation and guarantee the government against loss.

COMMITTEE FINDS EDITORIAL NEITHER "FAIR NOR HONEST"

Washington, Dec. 19.—An editorial attacking Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, and his Muscle Shoals leasing bill, published in the Hearst morning newspaper, December 13, was neither "fair nor honest," says a report of an investigating committee adopted unanimously today by the senate.

"No evidence was submitted," the report says, "nor was it claimed that any evidence existed that in any way reflected upon the integrity or honor or character of Senator Underwood. The personal vindication of Senator Underwood was full and complete, and it was repeatedly denied that in the editorial there was any intent to make any personal reflection upon Senator Underwood."

SOME IMPROVEMENT IN PROHIBITION CONDITIONS

Washington, Dec. 19.—Present and prospective were pictured in the house today in the report of the appropriations sub-committee which drafted the annual supply bill for the treasury and post office departments.

The record of hearing, which was conducted in the executive session disclosed that Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, told the sub-committee his anti-rum-running fleet would be in full operation by July 1, next, and that "there has been little, if any reduction in the amount of liquor smuggling by sea," since he appeared before a house committee early in the year. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, however, testified that "there is, unquestionably a distinct improvement as regards the quantities of liquors being smuggled into the Atlantic ports at this time.

Speaking of denaturing plants and distilleries, Commissioner Haynes expressed the opinion that "if we have an adequate force, so that, we, can use two men in eight-hour shifts at these sources, it will be, by all means, the proper method of handling it."

"The percentage of cases coming to us today from the division of industrial alcohol, as compared with other violations is, I would say, a very large percentage," he added, but said the placing of men drawn from the west and south on guard at denaturing plants in Philadelphia and New York, had resulted in a decrease in withdrawals. He also told the sub-committee he was preparing to increase the forces on the Canadian border next spring.

Admiral Billard was unable to estimate the exact quantity of liquor landed on American shores. Seizure of vessels he disclosed, reached a peak in August, with 31, and September with 33.

The New York boundary presents particularly difficulty in coping with rum smuggling by land, Commissioner Haynes testified because of the proximity of large markets. The old type moonshiner, he asserted, is "practically a thing of the past," particularly in Kentucky and Tennessee.

There has been a decided decline in the use of pure alcohol, he said, adding that prohibition was more effective now than last year because of the "curtailment of source of supply," through the reduction of releases of bonded whiskey, "from twelve and a half million to one and three-quarters million" gallons and because illegitimate permit holders are being thinned out.

Assistant Commissioner Jones disclosed that more physicians are taking out permits to prescribe intoxicating liquor for medicinal purposes than formerly, while about 3,300 such permits were revoked last year for lack of good faith on the part of the holder.

There are now 63 industrial alcohol plants, and 33 denaturing plants, Mr. Jones said, and Dr. J. M. Doran, chief of the industrial alcohol and chemical division, revealed that 70 bonded warehouses, of which 28 are concentration and nine are consolidated warehouses, are in operation with 20,000,000 gallons of whiskey in bond.

"It will take considerably over 10 years, possibly 12 years at the present rate of medical consumption," Dr. Doran estimated, "to exhaust the whiskey stock."

B. & A. PLAN WOULD ABANDON 1,000 MILES OF TRACK

Boston, Dec. 19.—A plan by which the Boston and Main railroad would undergo a physical and financial readjustment, discontinuing approximately 1,000 miles of track and obtaining $13,000,000 cash for improvements to the lines retained, was outlined in a communication by Homer Loring, chairman of the executive committee of the railroad, today. It was said to follow consultations with general bond holders which hold $48,000,000 of bonds, and large stockholders of all classes.

Motor traffic has taken such a large part of the always meagre traffic on branch lines that rapidly increasing losses have resulted, Mr. Loring said. Of the 2,450 miles of road, more than 1,000 miles handles only three per cent. of the business. This it is proposed to abandon, and the Boston and Maine Transportation company has been organized to assist with motor service in caring for the needs of the communities involved.

Advancing the need of financial readjustment, the chairman said discontinuance of losing lines was only a partial remedy; that credit must be restored. Although net earnings have increased in the past six months, and a surplus after fixed charges, sinking funds and equipment installments of $700,000 was probable without a plan such as proposed he said it seemed clear "there is no prospect of dividends on any of the present classes of stocks for many years to come.

The opinion that the United States government "would co-operate with the other security owners in a conservative effort to re-make a prosperous Boston and Maine road" was followed by details of the plan.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1151
Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

An explosion of denatured alcohol fumes from the radiator of his automobile caused Dennis F. Haggerty, parcel post delivery carrier of the Willimantic office, to sustain severe burns on the upper part of his face and forehead and he is now a patient at St. Joseph's hospital. Monday, Mr. Haggerty placed a new Ford truck in use in his delivery work and he left the machine parked near the postoffice building Thursday night while he attended the theatre. When he went back for the machine late in the evening he took off the radiator cap to determine the amount of water which it contained and held a light match close to the opening. The resultant explosion blinded him for the moment and he was taken to a physician's office by two companions. It was at first feared that Haggerty would lose the sight of one eye or both, but at the hospital Friday afternoon it was said that his sight [illegible] not be affected, although his [illegible]shes and eyebrows were burned the eyelids blistered. The ma[illegible] was not damaged. Substitute [illegible]ier Norman Fultz is covering Mr. Haggerty's route.

The resignation of Rev. O. D. Fisher from the Congregational church is greatly regretted in all circles throughout the town. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have allied themselves so closely and so helpfully with every town interest as to render their departure a serious matter with many.

Thieves have been reported in this neighborhood, with depredations to a considerable extent.

The cutting of so many Christmas trees, and in places where their growth would be an ornament to the roadside, the field or the pasture, is greatly to be deplored. There is no surplus of beauty spots anywhere and the reckless cutting of trees and shrubbery is ruining some that now exist. The Taftville correspondent in a recent edition of The Bulletin has well expressed this situation, Joyce Kilmer's poem, "Only God Can Make a Tree," should make all more careful of trees, wherever they are.

Tuesday's election was fairly well attended by people in this vicinity.

The Palmer brothers have bagged 50 gray squirrels, which have been sold to Mrs. Pearl Tennant.

Local residents are pleased to know that Birdsey G. Palmer has qualified as a justice of the peace. It is a long time since there has been a justice within three or four miles of this locality.

Friday evening was Neighbors' night at the grange. There was a large attendance of members from this vicinity.

Measuring Lightning

Photography determines the distance of a lightning flash, and hence the dimensions of any of its features. Two cameras are mounted side by side and exposed at the same time, says Nature Magazine. Objects of known distance from the point of observation are photographed along with the lightnings, and a comparison of the two pictures, plus a little mathematics, gives the distance of the lightning much more exactly than the old process of counting seconds between the flash and the thunder.

If women were to size up men correctly the most of their male acquaintances would feel quite small.

Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday

Men and women and boys and girls if accompanied by adults are cordially invited to see the splendid poem classics in moving pictures in the gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. on Sunday, December the 21st at 4 o'clock, when the following films will be shown upon the screen. Home Sweet Home which is a picture as tender as its name; it is built on a theme with a universal appeal, striking a responsive chord in every heart. The Village Blacksmith by Longfellow. This picture is a contrast between honesty, when "the smith a mighty man was he," and the modern hectic times. The Old Oaken Bucket pictures the fact that after all the scenes of our childhood are dearer to our hearts than modern comfort and progress; the happy days of childhood are impressively pictured. "The days we love" by James Whitcomb Riley has a fine lesson on the screen. Just as the boys face in the old swimming hole used to glimmer back at him so bright and glorified, the joys of the days of yesteryear take on a glamour and a glory for the man in reverie at the scene of cooling plunges on the hot summer days of boyhood.

These national poem classics by Woodworth, Longfellow, Payne and Riley will make a deep impression when thrown on the screen with the extra fine photography and faithful portrayal of the poems so endeared to our hearts.

Breed Theater

Along Came Ruth, Viola Dana's latest Metro picture, opens on Sunday evening at the Breed theater, for a run of three days.

The screen's most vivacious little comedienne has one of her best roles as Ruth Ambrose, the girl who woke up the sleepiest town in Maine. Crammed with amusing situations and acted by a wonderful cast, Along Came Ruth is sure to satisfy the most critical who seek entertainment of a fresh variety. Winifred Dunn adapted the Henry W. Savage stage production of Holman Day's play, and Eddie Cline directed. John Arnold was cameraman.

Other pictures on the bill include Topics of the Day and an Educational comedy.

Today's bill consists of Frank E. Wood's dramatic achievement Chalk Marks, the fifth chapter of Days of 19, the Pathe news and a Mack Sennett comedy. Continuous show today 1:30 to 10:30 P. M.

Broadway Theater

Another picture which bids fair to attain screen immortality comes to Broadway Sunday night. James Cruze's latest Paramount production, Merton of the Movies, starring Glenn Hunter. Cruze's knowledge of human nature, his understanding of comedy values, and his genius for mixing humor and pathos have never before been better illustrated. It is a sure thing Merton is a fitting successor to The Covered Wagon and Cruze's other big hits.

Walter Woods wrote the screen play from the famous novel by Harry Leon Wilson and the popular stage success by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.

The story of Merton is the story of what happens to thousands of boys and girls who go to Hollywood without knowing what is ahead of them.

Glenn Hunter has been identified with character of Merton so long on the stage that it was natural to expect he would create the title role in the screen version. He plays Merton with such sincerity and feeling that for the time being you forget that he is acting. Mr. Hunter is surrounded with a superlative supporting cast, headed by Viola Dana, featured as "Flips" Montague, the girl whose machinations are responsible for Merton's final triumph.

Kinograms, comedy and orchestra make this a program that will be worth your while to see.

Money makes the mare go, a bargain advertisement makes the woman go, and a green pickled muskmelon makes the mango.

POETRY

"AS I CAME DOWN FROM LEBANON."

As I came down from Lebanon,
Came winding, wandering slowly down
Through mountain passes bleak and brown,
The cloudless day was well-nigh done.
The city, like an opal set
In emerald, showed each minaret
Afire with radiant beams of sun
And glistened orange, fig and lime,
Where song-birds made melodious chime
As I came down from Lebanon.

As I came down from Lebanon,
Like lava in the dying glow,
Through olive orchard far below
I saw the murmuring river run;
And 'neath the wall upon the sand
Swart sheiks from distant Samarcand,
With precious mules they had won,
Lay long and languidly in wait
Till they might pass the guarded gate.
As I came down from Lebanon.

As I came down from Lebanon
I saw strange men from lands afar,
In mosque and square and gay bazar,
The Magi that the Moslem shun,
And grave Effendi from Stamboul,
Who sherbet sipped in corners cool;
And, from the balconies o'errun
With roses, gleamed the eyes of those
Who dwell in still seraglios,
As I came down from Lebanon.

As I came down from Lebanon
The flaming flower of daytime died,
And Night, arrayed as is a bride
Of some great king, in garments spun
Of purple and the finest gold,
Outbloomed in glories manifold,
Until the moon, above the dun
And darkening desert, void of shade,
Shone like a keen Damascus blade,
As I came down from Lebanon.

—Clinton Scollard

YOUTH.

Youth has no need of pirate ships
Of dark and tossing spars,
No need has youth of silvered paths
Beneath the guiding stars;
Or chanteys sung upon the watch
By men who bear salt scars.

Youth has no need of secret trails
That to the rainbow lead,
Of roads to romance, white and wide
Youth has no urgent need,
Nor of the magic lore that lurks
In some old wizard's creed.

For youth itself is all these things,
A sailing-ship, a song,
The rainbow at the journey's end,
Bright romance, youth-time long,
And all the wizards' wisdoms to Enchanted youth belong!

—Faith Baldwin.

The beginnings of the American postal system date back to 1673, when Governor Lovelace, of the province of New York, and Governor Winthrop of Massachusetts, started a mounted carrier between New York City and Boston. Governor Lovelace issued a proclamation announcing that on and after New Year's day of that year letters would "be conveyed to Hartford, Conn., Boston, or any other parts in the road, and be carefully delivered, according to the directions by a sworn messenger and post, who is purposely employed in that affaire."

Tests of the appetite of the Rocky Mountain mantled ground squirrel and the San Francisco mountain chipmunk are being conducted by the biological survey at the Southwestern Forest Experiment Station. These little animals show an astonishing capacity for pine seeds, the ground squirrel eating 340 pine seeds in a day, while the chipmunk can account for 337. It is found that a group of four seed trees in an acre of cut-over Western yellow pine land will produce about 33,000 seeds in a good year, which would be just enough to carry one family of squirrels and three families of chipmunks about two weeks. Thus it is proved that the rodents interfere seriously with the natural reforestation of western yellow pine.

NEW LONDON COUNTY SHORT ON CLOVER PRODUCTION

The last census enumeration shows a total of 15,954 cows in New London county says a statement issued Friday by the New London county farm bureau.

There were 9,289 other cattle, largely calves and heifers under two years, with a few steers and bulls. The latter group would likely consume about half as much hay per animal as the cows and thus be equivalent to 4,645 cows. The hay needed in the county for cattle is what 20,599 cows would consume. The average cow consumes approximately two tons of hay per year (as much as three tons are satisfactorily fed with less grain when good alfalfa or clover hay is available). To feed its dairy animals, New London county needs then at least 41,198 tons of clover and alfalfa hay.

The census figures show a hay production of 39,013 tons or slightly less than enough to supply the cattle but what kind of hay is it? Only 17,120 tons are classified as mixed clover and timothy hay. Surely no one who has travelled about New London county will consider that all of this has an appreciable amount of clover. The writer thinks one-half of the mixed clover and timothy or 8,560 tons as "about" is being liberal. "Clover alone" is credited with 469 tons and alfalfa with 49 tons. The total clover crop was then 9,098 tons when 41,198 tons are needed as a minimum for the dairy animals alone.

Why is New London county 32,100 tons short on her clover production? There are two explanations? Clover must be seeded more often, good seed, lime and acid phosphate must be secured. The second obstacle is that most farmers are not in the habit of doing the things necessary for clover and thing them more difficult than they really are.

Are clover and alfalfa much more valuable than grasses to be worth the extra trouble they would seem to cost? Dairy experts estimate that as much as 25 per cent. of the feed cost may be saved by using clover and alfalfa hay instead of grass hays. How fast grain would sell at a 25 per cent. discount. A saving of ten dollars per animal per year is a very low estimate. If you do not include a cash value for the hay in figuring the cost, the difference is much gerater and more nearly a correct estimate. Clover hay means less money going from the farm for feed, a greater farm return at the end of the year. Furthermore, farm accounts in this state show that clover and alfalfa are actually grown at a smaller cost per ton than grass hays.

New London county can grow 41,198 tons of clover and alfalfa needed. Some farmers are now raising clover and alfalfa. Few are raising enough to feed them exclusively. Only 16,050 more acres are needed with an average yield of two tons per acre. There are 80,000 acres of improved land in farms. Nearly every dairy farm has land suitable for raising all the clover or alfalfa needed. Competing milk producing districts are increasing these crops rapidly and New London county cannot long compete without doing likewise. A successful grower of alfalfa, in another county recently remarked to a number of farmers inspecting his alfalfa, that he firmly believed after a dozen years' experience that alfalfa offered the greatest hope in sight for Connecticut dairymen.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

"Get in the swim—K. H. S. gym!" This is the slogan that has been adopted for the drive, that has been undertaken by the Killingly High School Alumni Association, Inc., with the student body to raise funds for a much needed gymnasium at the institution.

The drive will be inaugurated with a Tag day in Danielson today (Saturday) and every one who is interested in the school or in the town of Killingly as a whole will, it is hoped, contribute as liberally as possible to the success of the effort. During the coming week all the town will be covered by canvassers seeking contributions to this fund.

Killingly High has needed a gymnasium for several years and has felt the handicap in not having one. Its athletic teams have had to go outside the school to do preparatory work and for practice games. This operated in some degree to slow up athletic teams of the school although they have not been unsuccessful. The interest in the school itself in having a gymnasium is indicated by the fact that the student body, garnering a little at a time from entertainments and efforts of various other sorts, have raised $16,000 for the fund. This is a bag of money for such young people, with such limited opportunities for earning, to get together; but it is indicative of the enthusiasm at the school over the gymnasium project.

Today the public will have the opportunity to encourage the pupils. In the Christmas season, a time of gift-giving, probably everyone will be glad to do something to help along such a worthy cause.

Other events planned by the Alumni association in the interest of the fund include a dance and basketball game arranged for evenings during the coming week.

A cog in the usually efficient mail service between Danielson and Norwich slipped somewhere Friday evening and The Bulletin news letter from this place failed of delivery. It chanced that the letter was lost on a day when nothing that over-burdened the pages of history happened in this town and the explanation is made merely in the interest of hundreds of subscribers in this territory. The incident, however, should impress people with the need of following the advice of the post office department to mail Christmas packages early. If one piece of mail matter can go astray, any piece may do likewise; so if you would protect those who would receive your gifts in time for the holiday, see the post office people early!

Apologies are due the town of Pomfret. In this column on a recent morning it was stated that every town in Windham county had turned in a majority for Colonel Bingham in last Tuesday's election. F. O. Davis writes The Bulletin from his home town of Pomfret, "Holt 174, Bingham 166. Pomfret is still a part of Windham county." The Bulletin's error in compiling this item was due to the fact that the newspaper summary on which the item was based carried the figures incorrectly and showed Pomfret giving a majority to Bingham.

For the fourteen consecutive season the Nativity play is to be presented tomorrow, Sunday evening, by the Pomfret Community players in Pomfret hall. There will be a presentation at 8 and at 9 o'clock and if it is necessary to accommodate those who come, the play will be given a third time. Christ church will be opened for an overflow attendance and there will be carol singing there. No elaborate notice of the Pomfret Nativity play is necessary. It has attracted nation-wide attention and the press and gazuines notice it has received in the last ten years has really made it famous.

PUTNAM

Thursday, Dec. 18, was the end of the three months' period in which all claims could be filed against the First National bank, that closed its doors Aug. 11. George M. Coffin was appointed receiver a few days later and his first official action was to publish notices to claimants, which included those who were depositors in the bank, that they must present their claims within three months. Notwithstanding the wide publicity given this notice, there are scores of depositors who have not filed proofs of claims. What their rights are now is a question for the lawyers. There has been much comment on the order issued by Comptroller of the Currency Dawes regarding the claims of those who had left bonds, stocks or other securities with the bank for "safe keeping" and hel da receipt of some official of the bank. These claims were returned to those who presented them stamped "Denied."

It is expected that the comptroller will secure an order at once for the payment of the first dividend due depositors. Those who are in a position to know say it will not be less than 25 per cent., and may be as high as 40 per cent.

Which Washer shall I buy?

Isn't it true that the present question is: "Which washer will serve me best?"

The washer simplest in action and most thorough in its performance is obviously the washer for your home.

The EASY Vacuum Electric WASHER will respond to your every washing requirement.

These large Air Pressure and Suction Cups—the tried and true washing principle—clean delicate garments gently, clean soiled clothes thoroughly.

IT "STANDS UP"

Day after day and for many years the "EASY" has delivered the goods throughout the length and breadth of this land. Its sound mechanical construction is one reason for this satisfactory performance.

STRAIGHT LINE LEVER ACTION—minimum power consumption.
THE "EASY" IS GEAR DRIVEN—no belts to slip and give trouble.
THE "EASY" HAS AMPLE CAPACITY—this permits a gentle yet thorough cleansing action.
SWINGING, REMOVABLE BURNER—gas heater readily lighted and adjusted because it swings out from under the tank; an exclusive feature.

It will be worth your time to ask us to demonstrate these FACTS to you.

SALVATION ARMY'S CHRISTMAS WORK.

For a number of days the kettles of the Salvation Army have been making their appeals about the center of the city. As the great holiday approaches there is bound to be an increasing appreciation of the object of such solicitation of funds and an eagerness to participate in the effort to provide a Christmas that will be more than the ordinary week day for many households where it is impossible to make such provisions themselves.

This appeal permits of the display of the true spirit of Christmas. For the most part the people of this city will look well after their own observance of the day, provide a sumptuous feast with all the good things, distribute nice gifts and participate in the full joy of the occasion. With some others it will be different. However much they would like to do for others, or to provide Christmas dinner for themselves, circumstances are such that they cannot. It is for such that the Salvation Army is disposed to provide a bit of Christmas cheer and it seeks the assistance of the people of the city in doing so. It is an undertaking in which generous contributions are deserved.

Could those who are desirous of aiding in such efforts but accompany the members of the Salvation Army in the distribution of the Yuletide cheer and see those homes where a dinner is provided and perhaps some toys left to permit the children to enter into the joy of the day, there would be not only a deep impression made but a thorough appreciation of the excellence of the cause.

It is a time for giving proper consideration to the unfortunates, and those who are dependent for Christmas and its customary observance upon those unfortunates. The willingness of the Salvation Army to seek out and aid such cases is not only most praiseworthy but the opportunity which it provides others to help in such a good cause should bespeak for it adequate funds to carry out its commendable Christmas undertaking.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS.

Out in Detroit there have been 79 children killed in the streets by automobiles this year. It is a heavy toll and if the individual cases might be reviewed they would unquestionably show that the responsibility rested upon both drivers and children, and in no small degree upon parents.

The Detroit Automobile club has gotten out a report concerning these cases and it cannot fail to be noted that it does not place the responsibility for the accidents in the streets upon the children. It believes that they have no sense of responsibility and their protection rests in the hands of others.

There are children who have no sense of responsibility, but there are others who have. In many instances they use more care in the crossing of streets than do their elders, and they are free in valuable advice to others to be careful. They reflect in most instances the warnings impressed upon them by their parents. They have had it hammered into them that they must look out for themselves, that they must avoid danger and they know what danger is. If the same type of parental training could be provided for all children there is no certainty that all would react to it in the same way, but it is believed highly probable that better regard for street and other dangers would be displayed by a larger number.

Streets are not safe playgrounds. Their location should determine how much it is wise for such use to be made of them, and it is not possible to magnify the highway dangers too greatly. This by no means absolves the auto driver of the responsibility of having his machine in control and driving in such a manner that accidents can be prevented. Well may drivers anticipate the possibility of accidents and through watchfulness guard against them. But with the increase in the amount of traffic the fact that is being more and more strongly impressed upon all users of the highway is that carefree use of the highway must cease and all possible safeguards taken for the protection of others as well as self. There's responsibility resting upon pedestrians as well as autoists.

ENDING BASEBALL FRICTION.

From all indications President Johnson of the American league labored under the impression that while others might be expected to abide by the decisions of the commissioner of baseball he was immune, or at least it was not obligatory for him to concede a higher authority. The impression is gained that President Johnson was thoroughly satisfied with his own view of things concerning baseball, that he was confident that he was right and it was therefore difficult for him to accept any other view.

It is quite evident that there cannot be two heads to baseball under the system that was put into effect a few years ago when an arbiter was named to settle baseball disputes. Either it is a case where the commissioner must be recognized as the final authority or else some change in the system must be made. The idea of antagonizing the commissioner can hardly be upheld. When that point is reached it is a case of either standing by the commissioner or the antagonist. That was the situation between Commissioner Landis and President Johnson, and by the action of the members of the American league the commissioner has been supported. They have rebuked President Johnson because of the attacks which he made upon the commissioner and he stands humbled before the baseball world, not because of any wrong doing but because of the manner in which he refused to accept the decisions of the commissioner.

It becomes evident that any commissioner must fill his office with hands untied. He cannot meet the requirements if he is to do the bidding of someone else, and it is not to be expected that there will be a toleration of antagonistic efforts which are intended to bother or sway the commissioner in his actions. Mr. Johnson's colleagues clearly stand with the president, and there is no reason to expect that they would have done otherwise. Between the commissioner of baseball and the head of one of the leagues there could be only one decision if friction was to be overcome.

BORAH'S PEACE PLAN.

When Senator Borah spoke in Philadelphia this week concerning peace and war he was heard upon a subject that interests many people. Senator Borah has no use for the league of nations. He doesn't believe that that is the agency that is going to either get our membership or is going to free the world of war. He isn't opposed to an international effort, however, and he makes an interesting appeal in behalf of law rather than war for the adjustment of the international troubles which so often lead to the shedding of blood.

World peace is certainly desirable. To try to outlaw war doesn't impress the Idaho senator as the way to go about the job. His aim is to get a settlement of differences between nations in the same manner that law-abiding citizens adjust their disputes. He would have established a body of international law with jurisdiction and power to settle all controversies involving treaties or international law. He would thus set up the best possible rules of conduct for the nations and hold them responsible for the departure from such a code. Under it war would be made a crime and could not be sanctioned under the law.

In his reference to the countries of the world in general he maintained that we profess friendship and practice vengeance. The need of getting away from such conduct is obvious. How to do it, and how to get those who are so steeped in the war spirit that it is difficult to think along the lines of peace to join in such an effort, and do it seriously and conscientiously, is no small problem. The fight for peace is a most worthy one, but worthy and desirable as it is it faces a long, uphill struggle.

SEEKING THE LYNCHERS.

Prompt and laudable is the action of the governor of Missouri in offering a reward for the arrest and conviction of the leaders of the mob that took a colored man from jail, hanged him, dragged him about the streets and burned his body, and in starting a probe to find the guilty persons. The affair developed from the claim that the Negro had grabbed a white girl on the street and seems to have been intensified by the fact that the assailant of a woman two months ago was never identified.

Apparently Governor Hyde is determined to have law and order enforced in Missouri. Time alone will tell whether the investigation will result in justice being meted out to those who took the law into their own hands in such a horrible manner.

The indignation of a mob under such circumstances may be understood, but it evidences a disposition to utterly disregard the laws which have been established in that state to be obeyed. It places lynch law above everything else and the governor of the state does no more than should be expected of him when he undertakes to show that lynch law is neither supreme nor countenanced by established authorities. Every case of lynching places a blot on the commonwealth where it occurs, and it is natural that Governor Hyde of Missouri should want to do everything possible to erase it. He takes the right attitude toward those who are inclined to and who participate in outrageous acts of lawlessness.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

That great emphasis has been put upon the value of material treasure in this country is seen in the fact that so much of it has been accumulated. Our country is by no means an exception in this respect, neither does our age differ from preceding ages in its grasp after wealth. When it is sometimes thrown at Americans that they worship the almighty dollar, the taunt is generally suggested by envy, and those who do it are strangely unmindful of the many adventurers who sailed at divers times and from divers European ports in quest of the gold of the new world. Still it is true that we like all other races over emphasize the value of the material. We stand in danger of letting sordid to that extent that we crowd out all place in our lives for the ideal. The real wealth of any nation comes more from its idealism than from its money bags. Poetry, fine arts, love of the beautiful ought not to be crushed by gold.

There are the very best of reasons why Christmas should appeal to childhood, and that is the reason why it should ever remain a bit of splendid idealism. There is as much reason for continuing the splendid allegory of Santa Claus as there is for any of the allegories of the Bible. It occupies so large a place in childhood that there is a sense of loss when the ideal has to be disclosed. It isn't intended for adults, but let it stay forever in the realm of childhood. Would it not be well also if giving were confined to childhood? Why do we spoil the beautiful idealism of Christmas with our grossness? Why do we give smoking jackets, cigars, pipes, electric flatirons and washtubs, or as one man called the climax by giving to his wife on Christmas a big cheese of which he was very fond? Leave these things for birthdays, but touch Christmas with idealism.

There is no nation on earth that is more justified in observing the Christmas season than our own. First, no great war clouds hang over us. We may have various opinions as to national policies and we may support two or more political parties as in the recent presidential election. But when one of the parties is triumphant at the polls and no doubt exists as to the will of the people as expressed by their ballots, even the other parties gracefully submit and the government goes on. No more than a surface ripple was the revolution as started in as in Mexico or the other Spanish American states. Second, we are not on the verge of bankruptcy as so many foreign states are. For quite a [illegible] our main industries have been normal, and many of them working on full time. But little [illegible] been no widespread [illegible] no bread lines anywhere. The present outlook is very promising for a busy year ahead.

There are many lands where the song of peace on earth, good will toward men does not have the glorious ring that it has to us. Take France, for instance, that is still smarting under the loss of the young men destroyed in the World war. We also admire every man who fell in that terrible strife, but our loss in comparison with our population has merely made a dent in the surface of our national life. But in France it is entirely different. So many were taken that every one of her industries is crippled. Not only that but a recent visitor to France has said: "The average number of young men withdrawn from active work and serving in the army since the war has been three-quarters of a million." This has not been due to a militaristic spirit, but as a precaution against the repetition of the tragedy of 1914. O that war might be made forever impossible!

In view of the tremendous shortage of man power in France, due in part to the wanton sacrifice of the flower of the nation's manhood in the late war, and also in part because so many are called upon to enter military training, it has been necessary to resort to the enforced labor of women—enforced not by government, nor against their free consent, but enforced just the same over though it be through the cruelty of circumstances. Scattered all over France, and especially throughout the devastated provinces, are women both young and old doing the laborious work that naturally falls to men. There is no whining on their part over the rank injustice of the situation, but it is a crime just the same. Remember they have their own household duties to look after just as urgently, but they must do this other sort in order to drive away the grim spectre of hunger and possibly starvation. This in itself is enough to banish all wars.

Nothing is more amazing in the material world than the recuperative power of nature. Nothing impresses the present visitor to France like the reconstruction that is now going on. It would seem as though a special Providence was blessing the efforts of the nation's brave womanhood. Villages and cities that were wholly or partly destroyed in the war are rising again like the fabled phoenix out of the fire. As the women have taken so much of the agriculture upon themselves, it has given just so much more of the nation's man power to the important work of reconstruction. The results achieved are a little short of the miraculous. The weather has been most propitious for [illegible] and vegetables. The havoc wrought by shells has not been so destructive of the soil as was first supposed. In a few years France will be her mighty self again.

Last Sunday in many churches was observed as Golden Rule Sunday. Emphasis of course was put upon the results of living up to its precepts. The Golden Rule as an academic proposition is perfectly rational, but as an actual principle to go by is extremely difficult, simply because of the selfishness of our hearts. Somebody has put it this way: "Life is a good deal like a see-saw, and it pays to be decent to the fellow who is down, for he may be up tomorrow." That is, we ought to be "decent" for prudential reasons. We ought to do for the poor fellow who is down and out all we can because tomorrow we may be down and out and we shall want him to help us. Is that the highest motive for benevolent action? Ought we not to help others because it is right, and not because we may expect to get it back sometime?

As this is Forefather's day, we naturally turn our thoughts to the beginning of our New England life. Like all national life it has been an evolutionary process, "first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear." Not only does this principle characterize vegetable growth but everything else capable of development. Evolution applies to nations as well as to forests, wheat fields and flower beds. Three hundred and four years ago today a band of devout men and women landed on Plymouth and did some very important planting. Nothing [illegible] propitious in that cold winter of '20. They had to deal with ice, snow, sickness and the savages. The most lenient of all were the savages because so responsive to human kindness. What small beginnings were these out of which grew this mighty republic! It is not at all strange that patriotism should insist that Forefather's day ought to be kept in perpetual memory by some form of public exercises.

Geraldine Farrar Had to Learn to Study

After learning the value of concentration and routine work Geraldine Farrar became a raging favorite in Europe, but when she returned to her own country she had to win her way to success once more.

Born in Melrose, Mass., the only child of "Sid" Farrar, the baseball player, she inherited her love for music from both her father and mother. She was brilliant in her studies when she chose to apply herself but was full of mischief and preferred to select her program of activities.

At seven she began to take piano lessons, but preferred tunes to scales and after 20 lessons was given up as being "too young." Hearing Calve in Faust, she became fired with the ambition to be a great singer, and devoted the greater part of her time to singing grand opera roles without the aid of a teacher.

At 13 she made her first public appearance in the Melrose Town Hall. A few weeks later she sang in a concert in Association Hall in Boston, for which she received $10. Then she studied in Boston, New York and Washington.

Deciding that it was best to have her study abroad before her self-confidence became over-confidence, her parents borrowed funds and her mother took her to Paris when she was 17. Not easy to please in the matter of teachers, she later went to Berlin. Then began rigid training under Madame Lilli Lehmann, who tied the girl's hands behind her because she "swung them around too much."

Inspired with new interest and zeal, Geraldine became an intense student. At 19 she made her debut as Marguerite, at the Royal Opera House and was given an ovation. Soon she became a favorite of public and royalty of Europe.

After five years of success, she returned to America, making her first appearance as Juliette at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Critics were severe in their condemnation of her singing and her acting. Other appearances brought more scorings, but the next year her Elizabeth, in Tannhauser, won both press and public. For 15 years Miss Farrar sang with the Metropolitan and when she retired to take up concert work she was given an ovation seldom accorded anyone.

AN AUTO TRIP ACROSS THE CONTINENT

One arbitrary old Spanish governor, Trevino, in 1675, forbid the Indians to hold any further meetings in their kivas and to enforce his commands, he imprisoned more than forty of the haughty chieftains, hung three of them, and after the imprisoned ones had been severely beaten, he sent them home. Think of it! These proud old men, whose fathers and grandfathers and great grandfathers, for no one knows how many generations, had been accustomed to having their slightest word accepted as law, to be publicly beaten and disgraced! Their lands, horses and cattle were being taken from them and now they were forbidden to hold their lodges, which were just as much a part of their lives as was their breathing. Why should these newly come white men dictate to those whose ancestors had been the governors of these pueblos for hundreds of years?

Of course, the old chiefs, with hanging heads, returned to their villages, held no more meetings and destroyed their kivas. Of course they did—not. They returned to their villages with murder in their hearts, called a conclave of all their braves, sent messages by "moccasin telegraph" to all other pueblos and to the even blood thirsty Apaches and Navajos and rose against the white settlements for many miles around. The men were killed, women and children carried into captivity, homes were pillaged and burned and stock was driven off. As is ever the case, the innocent suffered with the guilty. Eleven Franciscan friars who were doing missionary work in and around Santa Fe, who had traveled many weary miles through dense forests and over trackless deserts, in heavy storm and under blazing sun to teach and help the Indians, had escaped to a high hill just north of the town, where they met a band of the red skins, whose one desire was to kill.

The Cross of the Martyrs

Fifteen feet high, there now stands on this hill, in all its white beauty and to commemorate for all time the sacrifice of these unselfish men. The Cross of the Martyrs, it's base surrounded by the swaying branches of evergreen and the juniper clearly outlined against the deep blue of the sky and the warm sunshine over all. One might easily say "the most peaceful spot in all the world—can that other awful day have been possible? And yet—we wonder just where to place the blame. Does it really belong to the [illegible] ing life [illegible] the [illegible] Indians, [illegible] the new comer who [illegible] in any way except [illegible] death.

When Don Bernardo made their [illegible] into the southwest, they were accompanied by a priest, Friar Padilla who, in some way got separated from the rest of the party. How he ever escaped the hostile Comanchi, Navajo and Apache in all his wanderings it is difficult to understand, but he finally reached the village of the friendly Pueblos at Tesuque, about seven miles to the north of the present site of Santa Fe. The Indians treated the weary father kindly, though they kept him under constant surveillance, until by his kindness, gentleness and his exemplification of true Christianity in his daily life, he won their respect and affection.

Gradually he was admitted to the inner circle of their lives to their lodge meetings and to their religious ceremonies in their kivas. For 20 years he lived and worked among them, when one day a runner from another pueblo arrived with the news of the approach of Coronado and his band of conquistadores.

Immediately there arose the question "would the padre betray to the people of his own race, the secrets he had learned from the tribe?" There has always been talk of a great wealth of hidden treasures—perhaps 'twas true, perhaps not, perhaps of this treasure the good father knew—but the Tesuque Indians decided to trust the gentle priest who had lived among them. Not so, the runner who had brought the news of Coronado's approach and he settled the question by sticking a knife in the back of the unoffending Father Pia. The gentler Indians of Tesuque were horrified at the breach of hospitality which they had extended to the padre and also asked themselves the question as to what would happen should the Spaniards arrive and find one of their own race slain in such a treacherous way.

That night they placed his body on a litter and it was carried by four swift runners to the village of Isleta, seventy-five miles to the southward. Here a log was hollowed out as a coffin and in it was placed the body of the murdered man which was then buried deep about six feet in front of the altar of the church of Isleta with the earth carefully pressed down as it had been before.

The Ghost of Isleta

More than five years after the burial, an old Indian caretaker noticed a bulge in the earthern floor of the church—about the size of a man's body and six feet in front of the altar. The bulge very gradually became a crack, which widened until several years later, some Indians entering the church, found the father's body on top of the ground and in a perfect state of preservation. Of course it is not to be understood, but the old men of the church decided to bury him in the same place. But—he does not stay buried. The bulge in the earth appears the crack grows and again the body lies on top of the ground—as though the breath had just left it. There are old Indians in the village who have seen this several times, for it occurs each twelve of fifteen years, there is one younger Indian, a graduate of Carlisle and a fine, outstanding citizen he is, who has seen it twice.

The last time it happened was in 1911. The governor of the state was called and he saw. There happened to be visiting the archbishop of Santa Fe, a cardinal from Rome—they came and saw—and the cardinal made a report of the matter to the pope in Italy.

Up to this time the floor of the church at Isleta had been of earth, as are those of all Indian missions. Now it was decided to build a heavy oak coffin for the restless padre, and to lay a floor of two inch planks nailed down with heavy spikes, over the entire church, and it was was so done. That was in 1911. Today the planking is slightly bulged upward about the length and breadth of a man's body, and about six feet in front of the altar. The nail heads show no sign of clear or brummer having been used to loosen them.

Untrue? Superstitious? Fantastic? Perhaps, yet it is attested to by a cardinal from Rome, the archbishop of a state, the governor and the priest of Isleta—and let no man suggest to any Indian it's lack of truth!

Just perhaps some Indian could tell the whys and wherefores—certainly no white man knows. May it not be possible that the day of miracles is not past? Well right have we to question, anyway?

A TRAVELER.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Glad Tidings.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord.—Luke, 2, 10, 11.

But there is a deeper meaning in the angel's song of gladness than can be measured by the outward condition or even kindlier relations between men, for Isaiah had long before proclaimed the truth that Christ would take upon Himself the responsibility for man's sin and make a full atonement for it if man would accept the gift of eternal life and might live in the full enjoyment of God's favor and friendship.

Christ brought to the world the good news that God loves and longs to save and bless all men. When Jesus declared that God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.

Is it any wonder that the angel who announced His coming and could understand by his experience in heaven what a wonderful change would be brought about on earth when Christ should come. He who would sorrow with the sorrowing, whose only thought was, not for Himself, but for others, always helpful. And may the Star which guided the shepherds to the Christ child, may we also follow the star and encourage others to see the star that shall lead up higher where the Christ will be waiting to receive all who have tried even in their weak, faltering way, to follow the Christ Jesus.

In the long ago Isaiah proclaimed that Christ should come and make atonement, when he says, "Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. But He was wounded for our transgressions. He was bruised for our iniquities. The chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed. Isaiah 5, 4, 5. "When thou shalt make His soul an offering for sin."—Isaiah 53, 10. So we see that then the Christ child was foretold, and now we have the beautiful life and example of the One that was sinless but suffered the penalty not for Himself not for those alone who were His, but that all might come to that light and life which has been shining since that wonderful Christmas so many years ago. May our Christmas day be filled with thought and acts that He would know we were trying to follow the star.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Michael Hainisch, who has been re-elected President of the Austrian republic to have fulfilled the prediction made at his first election four years ago that he was the one man capable of putting Vienna on her feet and bringing rural Austria to her senses. Austria, according to all reports, has made greater progress toward a restoration of order and prosperity that has any of the other countries allied with Germany in the late war. Except for a brief period when he was attached to the Department of Education, Dr. Hainisch had never held a political position and never concerned himself with politics until elected to the presidency. His life has been devoted largely to the writing of books on economic subjects, of which he has published a long series since he graduated from the University. His practical knowledge of agricultural economy has been gained from the personal management of his large estate at Gloggnitz.

Stories That Recall Others

He Coined a Word

A farmer had a fondness for using words of two, three or even more syllables. Often he would use the wrong word; at other times he was thinking the right word but could not pronounce it.

There had been a shortage of butter and the farmer's wife had used a substitute. He was telling a friend about it being used in a cake and said: Why you couldn't umtect the difference.

"I'll Marry You Anytime."

She was on the train on her way home for Thanksgiving. The train was rather crowded so a young man asked whether he might sit beside her. She rather grudgingly gave her consent. He began to discuss the weather, but got no response from the girl. Then he asked her her destination, but she still gave no response. After a few more attempts at conversation he gave up. Then just as they were reaching the station he said: "I'm mighty glad to have met you. Come over to M— some time and I'll marry you."

At that she turned around and gave him the one long holler-than-thou stare.

"Oh, it's perfectly all right," he said, "just come over any time. I marry dozens of couples every week end. I'm a justice of the peace, and marrying is my main business."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

REVAL

Reval, scene of a recent communist outbreak, is the capital of the new republic of Esthonia, whose stability was demonstrated by the quick quashing of the disturbance, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Reval is a sprightly city, a music-loving city, a progressive and up-to-date city," continues the bulletin. "This is contrary to all expectations of a port of the upper Baltic and a people of whom one American exclaimed, 'The Esthonians? Oh, yes, they live up in the frozen north, like the Lapps, don't they?'

"Just before the World war Reval completed a magnificent opera house, built entirely by contributions of the people. The Esths are not witty or demonstrative—their virtues are the sturdy patience and hardy endurance of the north countries—but even the peasants can improvise verse and narrate legends by the hour over their black bread and weak tea. Neither has Esthonia been accounted a literary nation, but one prodigious compiler has collected 45,000 Esthonian songs, 8,000 tales, 52,000 proverbs and 40,000 riddles, not to mention 60,000 superstitions! And another embodies more than 12,000 folk melodies.

"Once the Esths were the Vikings of the Baltic, hardy and adventurous, terrifying the Danes and the Swedes with their piracy. They retain today their love of sea faring, which, keyed to the demands of modern shipping, makes Reval, despite its one ice-bound month, a port of growing business. The capital has more than ten per cent of the country's population of some 1,110,000 people—and, economically, Esthonia is a transit land rather than a self-productive one.

"Neat little trolley cars cruise through the crooked streets from the modern shipping district of the lower city past crumbling churches and ancient castles. Commerce has not crowded out reminders of the days when the Hanseatic merchant, proud Dane, Swedish conqueror and Russian assailant successively held sway. Out in a suburb is a chateau, and its environing park, which Peter the Great built for his wife, a former housekeeper of a Lutheran pastor and later Empress in her own right.

"In the days when the Danes were the Romans of the north Reval's history began. Its colloquial name, Tallinn, means 'Town of the Danes.' The Danish flag of today commemorates a legend of a mighty battle near Reval. The Danes lost their banner, so the story runs, and were exceedingly hard-pressed. Suddenly from heaven fell a red banner with a white cross and around this insignia the Danes rallied to a decisive victory.

"Reval has the only medieval Gothic hall remaining in the Baltic countries. Its venerable palace, a memorial of the thirteenth century, now is an official residence. Visitors may ascend its tower for a good view of the harbor where Russia's men-of-war used to ride, though Baedeker quaintly notes that 'the ascent is not recommended to ladies.' Another hall contains rooms of the Blackheard Society, a 'national guard' formed by merchants of the fourteenth century.

"Geography was kinder to Reval than to Esthonia as a whole. A splendid harbor, recently enlarged, invites the world's largest ships to moor there. The whole of Esthonia is a plain, elevated slightly, with a soil partly as sandy that it cannot be cultivated at all, partly pure clay which often is impassable, and the moist atmosphere is good for grass but bad for grain. Consequently Esthonia's chief industries center about cattle from its grazing areas and wood pulp from its forests. Potatoes are grown in plenty, and potato spirits are distilled. Leather, cement, furniture and paper are manufactured, and Narva uses water power to weave cotton.

"The present government of Esthonia, which resisted the communist attack, places the power in the hands of the people who elect a legislative assembly of 100 members, chosen by proportional representation."

Man—The Builder

Civilization is largely the result of man's inherent qualities as a builder.

In every age skilled tradesmen preserved and perpetuated the arts of industry with an ever increasing perfection. It is still the mission of the skilled artisan to render this type of service to humanity.

The State Trade School, Putnam, provides training in the established methods, skill, and practices of the following trades:

Cotton Manufacturing, Machine Shop Practice, Carpentry, Electrical, Architectural and Mechanical Drafting, and academic subjects related to these trades.

COUNTY SOCIAL WORKERS TO MEET WITH MRS. MITCHELL

The next meeting of the Social Workers Council of New London and Windham counties is to be held Jan. 20 with Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell of the department of public welfare at her home in Norwich. A meeting of this council was held Tuesday at Willimantic. The members listened to an address by Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale university, on pending bills that concern the improvement of industrial health conditions in this state.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Judge and Mrs. Gardiner Greene are in New York over the week end. Later they will go to Riverside, near Greenwich, to spend Christmas with Mrs. Greene's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Reynolds.

Miss Constance Traill Learned, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned, gave a Christmas party Friday evening for sixty friends. Among the guests were Lucius Seiberling of Akron, Ohio, and Harvey Alonzo Basham of Texas, classmates at Yale of Miss Learned's brother, Eben Learned, Jr., and his guests for the holiday. The entire lower floor of the house was given up to dancing to music by D'Atri's orchestra. The decorations were Christmas greens, festooned over the doors and mantels, as a foil to poinsettias and roses. Miss Learned wore a very effective frock of yellow chiffon velvet, with orchids. Before midnight there was a supper of chicken salad, rolls, coffee, ices in fruit forms, cakes and punch. In addition to members of the younger married set in town and the college girls and boys home for the holidays, Miss Learned's guests included friends from New London and Jewett City.

WEBSTER D. COPP
(Fletcher Post Commander.)

With the American Legion rooms filled to capacity Friday evening, the annual meeting of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, was called to order by the retiring commander, Herman A. Bruckner. Reports most gratifying to the members were made by the various officers and committees during the evening.

In reviewing the work of the year, District Commander William A. Andreson said that the post had every reason to be proud of its record in 1924. Fletcher post, he said, has gone through a year during which time it has answered the call of State Commander E. P. Armstrong to increase its membership 100 per cent. The post has also backed the New London County Legion organization and turned out strong to back the Voiture, and in 1925, with its enlarged membership, it should go ahead to greater things.

Commander Bruckner also spoke along similar lines and Chef de Guerre Jonathan L. Johnson of the New London County Voiture spoke briefly of the work done during 1924 and of the plans ahead for 1925, which should be the biggest Legion year New London county has ever had, especially as the state convention is to be held in New London next fall.

Reports of the various officers and committees showed similar progress for the year and advocated a more elaborate program for 1925.

Commander, Webster D. Copp; first vice commander, Samuel E. Jennes; second vice commander, Frank P. Chase; adjutant, Jonathan L. Johnson; chaplain, Rev. Edward C. Dunbar; treasurer, Warren Wilcox; sergeant-at-arms, Percival Chapman; members of the executive committee for three years, William A. McClimon, William F. Skelly and Benjamin B. Pullen. Other members of the executive committee holding over are as follows: For two years, William E. Corey, Harold P. Robinson and John A. Cunningham; for one year, William A. Anderson, J. C. Broadhurst and Harry W. House.

Previous to the close of the meeting County Commander Anderson, on behalf of the post, presented Past Commander Bruckner with a past commander's jewel, the retiring commander thanking the members for the gift.

The remainder of the evening was enjoyed with a smoker and refreshments were served. The social program was one of the best of the year and was due to the efforts of the retiring entertainment committee, Comrades Samuel E. Jennes and William A. Anderson.

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE GRANTS THREE DIVORCES

Three divorces, all uncontested were granted Friday at a short calendar session of superior court held in this city with Judge George E. Hinman on the bench. The matters on the short calendar were disposed of as follows:

Motion for oyer was denied; Comstock vs. Johnson, et al. Motion for default for failure to plead went off the list. Donnelly vs. City of New London. Motion for default for failure to plead went off the list; Adelene P. Lee vs. Harry M. Lee. Argument of demurrer, judge took the papers; Mabel Foran Keefe vs. State Finance Corporation. Motion for default for failure to plead was denied; Henry A. Gulle vs. Anna L. Guile. Order of reference was granted; Percy Riley vs. Sarah Riley. Appointment of guardian ad litem of defendant, Hibberd R. Norman appointed; Gledhill vs. Mystic Manufacturing Company. Application of Receiver for authority to sell real estate and plant equipment subject to mortgage securing bonds was granted.

Uncontested divorces: Pauline Murano vs. Angelo Murano; granted on the grounds of desertion; Mary Madeline Torrance vs. Russell Howard Torrance went off the list; Evelyn S. J. Woodmansee vs. Albert E. Woodmansee was postponed; Frances W. LeVaughn vs. John D. LeVaughn, granted on statutory grounds; Louis G. Holder vs. Susie A. Holder, went off the list; Earle C. Alexander vs. Alice Alexander, granted on statutory grounds.

Pauline Murano was granted a divorce from Angelo Murano on grounds of desertion and was given the custody of their 4 year old child. She testified that she was married Jan. 15, 1920 in Stonington. She does not know where he is now. Her sister, Madeline Frank and Elsie Atherton testified for her.

On grounds of a statutory offense Frances W. LeVaughn of Norwich was granted a divorce from John D. LeVaughn.

Judge Hinman ordered actual service on the defendant and that either the defendant or the officer appear in court Tuesday next. The wife told of being married June 11, 1921, and of her husband living with her only about five weeks.

Earl C. Alexander of Willimantic was granted a divorce from Alice Alexander, now of Norwich. Mr. Alexander testified to his wife leaving him and living with a man in Norwich. The divorce was granted on grounds of a statutory offense.

Previous to the opening of court a meeting of the New London County Bar association was held with President William H. Shields presiding. Attorney Hibberd R. Norman, clerk of the association read the call. Judge John H. Barnes presented to the association the affidavits of good moral character of Joseph C. Harrison of Preston who had made application for membership in the association. Judge Barnes stated that Mr. Harrison, who is a Baptist minister in the town of Preston, had practiced law in the state of New Jersey for eight years and then had studied for the ministry. Charles L. Stewart spoke in favor of Mr. Harrison stating that he had investigated and seconded the motion of Judge Barnes to have the president appoint a committee of three to investigate Mr. Harrison's credentials. Judge Shields appointed Attorney Stewart, Judge Barnes and Attorney Gilman, who will report at the next short calendar session their findings.

NORWICH SAVINGS SOCIETY AWARDED TOWN BOND ISSUE

Sealed bids for the $115,000 refunding courthouse bonds of the town of Norwich were opened Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the first selectman's office at a meeting of the board of selectmen, Town Counsel Henry H. Pettis, Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook and representatives of the various firms submitting bids. The Norwich Savings society submitted the highest bid. All the bids were above par, indicating that the credit of the town is exceptionally good. The town officials expressed themselves as pleased over the fact that a local banking institution has been awarded the bond issue. The high bids not only indicated the excellent condition of the town's credit but speak well for the management of the town by the selectmen, who have conscientiously for many years striven to keep down expenses as much as possible.

The bids submitted were as follows: Harris Forbes & Co., New York, 100.201; R. L. Day & Co., Boston, 100.29; National City Co. of New York, 100.309; R. M. Grant & Co., Boston, 100.52; W. A. Harriman & Co., New York, par plus cash premiums of $1,206.35 upon delivery (101.049); Eldredge & Co., Boston, 100.19; George B. Gibbons & Co., New York, 100.389; Estabrook & Co., Boston, 101.057; Norwich Savings society (101.41 plus), $116,627.12. The Norwich Savings society bid means that the town has sold the bonds for $1,627.13 over and above the par value of the bonds, $115,000.

The bonds are issued for the purpose of refunding courthouse bonds under authority of Sec. 383, Chapter 25, laws of 1917, of the general statutes of the state of Connecticut, and authorized by a town vote of Oct. 6, 1924. The $110,000 is issued in denominations of $1,000 and are dated Jan. 1, 1925. Each year from Jan. 1, 1928, to Jan. 1, 1948, the town is to pay off $5,000 at the rate of 4 1-4 per cent., payable semi-annually in January and July. The principal is payable at Merchants' National bank of Boston, Mass.

Following is the financial statement of the town as of Sept. 15th last: Assessed valuation (year), 1923, $21,432,065; real value of property (estimated), $30,000,000; total bonded debt (including this issue), $374,000; water debt, included in above, none; special assessment debt, included in above, none; floating debt, in addition to bonded debt, $13,301.41; amount of floating debt issued for water purposes, none; tax rate per $1,000; $22.50; population, 29,685, census of 1920; present population, estimated, 33,000.

OBITUARY

Mrs. George W. Rogers

The death of Mrs. George W. Rogers occurred at her home 44 Tanner St., Norwich Town, Friday, at 1 o'clock, after a lingering illness with Bright's Disease and heart trouble. She was born in Greeneville in 1850, the daughter of Hannah Trourgee and George W. Carpenter. She resided several years in Greeneville and was united in marriage with Everette Greene in 1868, two children were born to the union, a daughter, Millicent Greene and son, Edward Greene. Mr. Greene died in February, 1883. Later she resided several years in Worcester and in February 1907 was married to George W. Rogers of Norwich Town. She bore her long illness with patience and courage and was a loving wife, mother and friend. She is survived by her husband, George W. Rogers and a son, Edward Greene.

Dr. William F. Barry.

Dr. William F. Barry, president of the Rhode Island Medical society, and for a quarter of a century a member of the Woonsocket school committee, of which he was chairman for the past seven years, died suddenly Wednesday morning in Franklin, Mass.

Dr. Barry is also survived by three brothers, Dr. Cornelius B. Barry, health officer of the city of Woonsocket; Thomas J. Barry and Frank Barry, all of Woonsocket, and five sisters, Sister Charles Borromeo, a nun at Worcester; Mrs. Frank Evans of Plainfield, Conn.; Mrs. Michael Dwyer of Boston; Mrs. Catherine Quinn of Woonsocket and Miss G. Barry, principal of the Grove street school, Woonsocket.

Elias Franklin Corey.

Elias Franklin Corey, who was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage, Saturday morning, Dec. 13, and died Monday morning at the home of C. L. Perkins in Hanover, where he lived for the past six months, was the son of Elias R. Corey and Frances Mary Bennett Corey. He was born in Canterbury in March, 1855. His parents later bought a farm of 400 acres on the Scotland road, now called the Corey farm, and he managed a large dairy and sold milk in Baltic, Occum and Taftville for 25 years. When a young man he joined the Baptist church in Baltic, which was located on the site where Arthur Roy's blacksmith shop now stands. Mr. Corey was clerk of the church for many years and was prominent and efficient in church affairs.

After the death of his parents he sold the farm and for many years past he sold nursery stock and traveled over a large territory and was prosperous.

He had a friendly and genial disposition and made scores of friends throughout the countryside and in adversities he was always hopeful and optimistic. At one time he was mail messenger from the Versailles post office to the railroad station.

He was a strong republican and took a deep interest in political affairs. He served as grand juror for many years in the town of Sprague. He kept well informed of current events and from his familiarity with historical affairs he was often consulted by writers and correspondents.

He was living near the Versailles schoolhouse when that building was burned and his tenement was destroyed, together with his household goods, and, as they were uninsured, he suffered a severe loss. Soon after that he made his home with Mr. Perkins. When Mr. Corey's father was a young man he was employed for several years as overseer and boss dyer in woolen mills.

Mr. Corey is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elias Parkhurst of Norwich and Mrs. Charles H. Holdredge of Mystic. The former was at one time organist at the Baptist church at Baltic and the latter was a member of the church choir. The deceased is also survived by four nieces and a nephew. The nieces are Miss Grace Parkhurst of Norwich, Mrs. Mabel Stott of Plain Hill, Mrs. Frances Spicer of Norwich and Miss Holdredge of Mystic. Charles Holdredge of Mystic is a nephew.

LOUIS LUBCHANSKY FILES SUIT FOR $2,000 DAMAGES

Damages of $2,000 for services rendered are claimed in an action which Louis Lubchansky of New London has brought in the superior court against the Sullivan Granite company of Westerly.

Plaintiff claims he acted as agent for the defendant company in the purchase and removed of sundry metal goods and merchandise from the Groton Iron Works. He now seeks payment for his services.

JUDGE DENIES MOTION TO AMEND COMPLAINT

In a decision filed with the clerk of the superior court, Judge George E. Hinman has denied a motion to amend the complaint in the case of Ernest L. Martin of Lebanon against Hayward C. Martin of Lebanon, et al. The case is a controversy over property situated in Lebanon.

NORWICH WOMAN IS SUED ON COMMON COUNTS

The Phoenix Cheese Co. of New York has filed suit in the superior court against Matilda Bendett of Norwich, claiming damages of $1800. The suit has been brought on the common counts and the papers have been filed with the clerk of the court.

Minor Homestead Sold.

Mrs. Anne Rogers Minor, honorary president-general of the D. A. R., has sold the old Robert Minor homestead at Waterford, occupied by her and the late Dr. George Maynard Minor for many years. The house and studio are to be removed from the property and the purchaser, a Chicago man, plans to erect a new house and other buildings.

Beasts as Baggage

R. L. Ditmars tells an amusing story of shepherding wild animals from San Francisco to New York. Among them were pythons, pygmy water buffalo and two orangoutangs. Mr. Ditmars was kept busy protecting other apes from changes in temperature. The large orang had a sunny warehouse room, but shivered at night being given an army blanket, he soon learned to wrap up in it. The smaller orang lived in his master's room at the hotel, "upon reluctant permission from the management." By the kind co-operation of the railroad all these specimens were transported on the Overland Limited as baggage; four days' travel brought them safely to their new home.

Live Wire Prank

An electric wire which had been severed by blasting operations played a mean trick on Stephen Moran of Oakland, Me., when he wasn't looking. He was working with an iron crowbar and was resting it on the pile of rock which had been blasted. Attracted by the bar the wire coiled and slithered several feet over the ground until it touched the crowbar. The resulting shock threw Moran down, at the same time burning his right hand and arm and one finger on his left hand.

Thirty-Pound Bean

Jacob Kepler of Dresden, N. Y., sent to Germany for German bean seed at a cost of $3 for four seeds. Now he is exhibiting a bean which weighs about 30 pounds. It stands 22 inches high and measures 17 inches around. His seed furnished 6 beans and it is estimated in Germany that each bean will serve a score.

Sacred View

There is only one spot in the western Hemisphere where it is possible to view the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans at the same time. That is from the top peak of El Volcan, an extinct volcano rising 12,000 feet in Panama. The peak is regarded as holy ground by the Maya race of Indians, and but two white men have reached the top. Only one returned, John Q. Critchlow of Salt Lake City having the distinction of accomplishing the unique feat. Charles Brown disappeared and is supposed to have been killed by the Indians.

Phenomenal Hair

Born with curly hair that reached the shoulders, little Alice Winder of Norfolk, Va., is exciting the interest of the doctors and hairdressers. At birth the child's hair was so long it was cut off by her nurses. Before she was three weeks old it was cut twice more, and now, at two months she has had six haircuts.

BULKELEY ELEVEN HAS RECORD THAT RANKS WITH THE BEST IN THE STATE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 18.—The Bulkeley football team, terminating the present season, brought to a close one of the most successful campaigns enjoyed by a team wearing the Orange and Black colors. Not only was Bulkeley conceded the best eleven in the state, but the prowess of the Bulkeley eleven was spread throughout the New England states. Four games were won, four tied and a single contest lost in the most fruitful season on the Bulkeley football program which dates back as far as the school.

It was a fighting Bulkeley eleven which met teams from three states and gave as good account in all three states as any individual would desire. Bulkeley besides turning in a brilliant season, marked in successful ventures on almost all its attempts, had in its lineup 11 individual stars. Nearly throughout the entire season with the on of one game Bulkeley was hed, but not outgamed. The and Black had a line that opponents to a measly 27

What other school eleven in the state was able to hold the opponents to this number of points or less? There was in that forward wall the Bulkeley eleven, seven men, who had speed and grit with school spirit combined as only one requirement needed to produce a winning combination.

Through graduation, Bulkeley loses practically the entire eleven men. This team has been gradually but surely working its way towards the highest position a football team can attain in this state and New England. The last three years has done much by these same players on the football team who gained glory for the local institution. Bulkeley has assumed a vise-like grip upon its position which includes her with the elite of the athletic teams in the New England states.

Deviating for the moment from this subject it would be interesting to know that Bulkeley will be further represented this spring in baseball, with games pending with many of the leading college freshmen and prep schools.

A backfield, which was composed of Henkle, Sheflott, Rice and Barry, was called by many "the four horsemen of high school fame." Henkle, a field general of note, expert runner-back of punts, fine broken field runner, had for his mates both Rice and Sheflott. These backs were finished products, above the ordinary run of high school grade which make up the bulk of high school teams in this state. But then a speciality in one department or possibly two makes the fourth member of this famous quartet as valuable as either Henkle, Rice or Sheflott. That fourth member is Barry at fullback. Barry filled in better as a defensive back. His interference was notably missed in the games he was forced to remain away from due to a broken leg. His defensive work was also prominent in early Bulkeley success, while his receiving of passes helped Bulkeley to win its first game of the season against Springfield Technical High school.

It would not be a surprise if one or more members of the line were given a place on the mythical all-state teams. Their work all season has been worthy of praise. It will mark the acress of the best team and individual combination seen at Bulkeley along with a team which has gained wide prestige and at the same time placing the Bulkeley athletic teams in the position which was coveted by the local institution for some years back. Bulkeley is firmly established among the select circles of sport, as the result of the past successes of the Bulkeley team.

Minus Captain George Sheflott, the Bupkeley team opened its season opposing Rhode Island State College freshmen at South Kingston, R. I. A scoreless tie resulted, but Bulkeley was easily master of the college frosh eleven. The freshmen had an opportunity to try running plays but four times during the afternoon of play, being kept on the defensive almost throughout. Bulkeley could easily claim this game as a moral victory, for it was reported that the freshmen combination met the varsity team twice a week and administered a weekly drubbing to the first team.

The second game of the season found Bulkeley mixing with state high school teams and Ansonia High was the opponent. Again a member of the team which proved to be a cog in the machinery which could not be dispensed with was missing from the game the afternoon Bulkeley tackled the strong Ansonia team. Rice was the missing member of the backfield, and his absence just about lost the Orange and Black a victory. The playing of the locals was an improvement over the opening game, and Ansonia was fortunate to escape being defeated. Bulkeley outplayed the Ansonia team, showing a concentrated attack which threatened several times to end in a score for Bulkeley. This game was another scoreless tie.

Bulkeley opened its home season auspiciously to say the least. Not only atoning for a defeat handed the Bulkeley team in the previous season, Bulkeley showed a winning form. It was the result of a 20 to 0 victory over Springfield Technical High school, one of the leading schools in the Bay state. This game which was a victory for Bulkeley was really the beginning of a short winning streak which lasted for three games, in which time Bulkeley defeated some of the best teams in the state and was then really considered a title contender.

Following up its success with the second victory of the year, Bulkeley made short work of the strong Naugatuck High eleven. Much prominence came with this victory for the sporting writers of the state were at last awakened to the fact that a strong team was in the field this year from the eastern part of the state. There seemed to be no weakness in the Bulkeley team, and smooth sailing was predicted through the season by many fans.

Bulkeley seemed to grow stronger week by week and the team which met and defeated Crosby High school of Waterbury, was the first Bulkeley team to send that representative school team down to defeat since Bulkeley resumed relations with the Brass City school and that in itself dates back to more than fifteen years ago. It was a sweet victory, a decisive one with the ultimate outcome reading 34 to 0 for Bulkeley. Bulkeley's hopes for their first state championship went high, for it was the first team produced by Bulkeley which had the earmarks of being a state championship team.

But New Britain dealt the death blow to Bulkeley's aspirations towards an unchallenged state title. This defeat Bulkeley received was the only score to mar the season's record. The remainder of the season seemed to hold no incentive for the team to defeat other teams. Although Bulkeley played good football in the remaining games, the New Britain contest seemed to take heart out of the players and they did not play the strong game after this contest.

However, Bulkeley recovered enough to score an overwhelming victory over Norwich Free Academy at Norwich in the annual contest between these traditional rivals. This game was the only chance to compare the strength between Bulkeley and the other teams in this section of the state. Bulkeley scored almost at will in this game, but allowed the Academy players to hold them on the one-yard line on three occasions, which robbed the Orange and Black team from piling up over a half hundred points. This contest showed up an individual performer in the person of Edward Henkle, quarterback. Henkle scored four touchdowns, one of these coming after a kickoff.

Torrington, Stamford and Western A. C. were the three remaining games on the schedule with two games being played while the contest with Stamford High was called off due to the poor condition of the field.

Torrington High led by a 7 to 0 score for a greater part of the game, but a last minute spurt by Bulkeley gave the Orange and Black a tie score at 7 all. This game really showed the offensive strength of the Bulkeley eleven, for three great drives were made upon the Torrington goal line with the fourth drive being successful to the extent of a touchdown. In all, during this contest, Bulkeley gained a total of over 300 yards in rushing the ball, and by the overhead game.

Although the entire Bulkeley team was in Stamford on the day the game between Stamford High and Bulkeley was scheduled to be played, rain made the ground too muddy for a game and this contest was called off.

Bulkeley ended its season by tying the Western A. C. eleven at Morgan park. The Western A. C. was made up of star players both in pro and high school ranks. This team won the pro honors in the city during this season, and were favorites to win this game. Bulkeley, however, played good football even though the contest was played in a sea of mud.

PLAINFIELD BEATS CHAPMAN IN CLOSE CONTEST

(Special to the Bulletin)

Plainfield, Dec. 19—On Thursday evening the Plainfield High School basketbal team won their second game of the season from the fast Chapman Technical High School of New London. The score being 22-20. The game was a nip and tuck affair all the way, and it was one of the best games played on the Plainfield floor.

The first quarter started with a fast passwork by both teams, but the score was held down by some very good guarding. The quarter ended with the score Plainfield 6, Chapman 4.

Tech started the second quarter with a rush and by a whirling attack headed by Hewitt and Andrews. The score stood at half time 12-6 in Chapman's favor.

The second half started with a rush, each team playing a whirlwind game but the superior shooting of Plainfield was in evidence, and the score gradually grew to a tie at 16-16 at the third quarter. The fourth quarter was the most exciting of the game. Plainfield forged ahead due to a field goal by Tyler and two foul shots by Allard, with one minute and a half to play. The score stood 20-18 in Painfield's favor. When play again started Hewitt tied the score by a foul shot. A field goal by Allard moved Plainfield ahead and the game was over.

Chapman Tech played a whirlwind game but its shooters were offset due to the wonderful five man defense of the Plainfield team. The shining lights of the game for Plainfield were Mercier and Allard. For Chapman Tech, Hewitt and Andrews were the outstanding players.

This was the lineup:

CANNONBALL MARTIN CAPTURES BANTAM CROWN FROM GOLDSTEIN

New York, Dec. 13.—(By he A. P.)—Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, black-haired mite from Brooklyn tonight is bantamweight champion of the world.

Boring in through fifteen rounds at Madison Square Garden, the sturdy little Italian refused to allow Abe Goldstein, of New York, the former champion to exercise his famous lef jab and the hooks that carried him to the title.

Jabbed about the ring in the first two rounds until it seemed that the title would remain where it was, Martin resorted to infighting and drove home blows to the body and uppercuts to the chin which kept Goldstein in difficulty constantly. Crashed by the champion's swift right, he continued his aggressive tactics and piled up a lead which could not be overcome. In the third round his right sent Goldstein spinning across the ring but failed to floor him.

In the second the Brooklyn man measured the jabs and scored to the head but not heavily. His right opened a cut over his adversary's left eye.

The new champion's right found its mark in the third and Goldstein went tottering across the ring but recovered in time to stave off the all-conquering blow. He covered for the rest of the round. Goldstein was holding in the fourth and had to be cautioned by the referee.

The next two rounds were even but Martin captured the following six in a sensational manner, carrying the fight to Goldstein and counting repeatedly to the head and body. In the infighting his uppercut kept the champion's head bobbing and it was apparent that Goldstein was unable to hold the pace as he hung on continually.

Martin's great battle brought 12,000 spectators to their feet and the remainder of the bout was fought in an increasing uproar.

With three rounds to go the former titleholder attempted to box and rocked his opponent from side to side. His blows apparently lacked speed for Martin continued to bore in, flaying with both hands. Goldstein took the 12th and 13th on boxing alone. The 14th was even and Martin, with victory in sight set such a slashing pace in the final session that he could not be denied.

Carl Tremaine, of Cleveland received the decision over Sonny Smith of Brooklyn in the 8 round semi-final. Tremaine weighed 119 1-2 and Smith 118 3-4.

In a preliminary of six rounds Midget Mike Moran of Pittsburgh outpointed Harry Haron of New York, in six rounds.

COLLAR CITY A. C. IS SUSPENDED BY COMMISSION

New York, Dec. 19—The Collar City A. C., of Troy, N. Y., was indefinitely suspended today by the state athletic commission for failure to pay its state taxes. Suspension goes into effect Dec. 28. Inspector Thomas E. Long also of Troy, was suspended for 15 days by the commission for permitting an unlicensed boxer to compete at the Collar City A. C.

Lew Marullo of New Orleans, who is matched to fight Mike McTigue, the world's light-heavyweight champion, at New Orleans, La., Monday night, was warned by the commission today that he will be subject to disfavor in this state if he fulfills any engagement with McTigue, who is already on the commission's blacklist.

CREAM OF DISTANCE RUNNERS TO COMPETE

New York, Dec. 19—One of the biggest field of distance runners that ever competed indoors will appear in the special mile race featuring the Finnish-American A. C. games at Madison Square Garden, January 6.

It will furnish a notable test between American and Finnish talent for the limited field of eight entrants includes Yankee runners and three representing the little Scandinavian country. All but one competed in this year's Olympics.

Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, the chief factors in Finland's clean-up of the Olympic distance events, will have a rival compatriot in Lewendahl, who recently came to this country. The American group is headed by Joie Ray, veteran former mile champion, and also includes Lloyd Hahn, of the Boston A. A., Walter Higgins of the New York A. C., Jimmy Connolly, former intercollegiate mile champion, and Leo Larrivee, Holy Cross star.

The entries of Lewendahl and Larrivee, received today, completed the field. Higgins is the only one who did not appear in Olympic competition.

PLAINFIELD WINS OPENING GAME FROM STAFFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

Plainfield, Dec. 19.—Before a large crowd in the Plainfield Community club house Friday night, the fast Army1Navy basketball team defeated the Stafford Kaceys 29 to 23. It was the opening game of the basketball series and the fans saw some fast work and plays. Normandie, the fast state forward, starred for the home club and time after time the fans were in their feet yelling for more. The Army and Navy club drew first blood when Normandie hooped the first basket. The first half ended 13 to 11 with Plainfield in the lead. The second half was a duplicate of the first half with the exception of the last five minutes of play. Snappy pass work and team work aided Normandie to break away from the Kaceys who had tied the play with five minutes to go, and the score anded 29 to 23.

The lineup:

Army and Navy		Stafford Kaceys
Benjamin	Right Forward	Sullivan
Normandie	Left Forward	Pallanck
Murphy	Center	Norris
Provost	Right Guard	B. Calchera
Belair	Right Guard	M. Calchera

Goals—Benjamin 5; Normandie 5; Murphy 3; Belair 2; Kaceys, Sullivan 5; Pallanck 2; Norris 3; Calchera 1. Fouls—Plainfielu, Provost 1; Kaceys—B. Calchera 1. Referee, Ray Green; timers, Bouley and Taylor.

LAWRENCE TEAM TAKES THREE FROM MOOSUP

New London, Dec. 19.—Moosup's hopes for the Eastern Connecticut title in bowling seemed to fade from the picture, when the up-staters dropped their entire three strings to the Lawrence bowlers at the latter's alleys. The former team which was held as invincible up until the time the Peerless bowlers dislodged them from first place, have been slipping since and are almost considered out of the race.

Moosup bumped into the Lawrence bowlers when they bowled their best since entering the league, and for that reason Moosup with mediocre bowling was bowled over three times in succession, giving no indication of the real strength that this team once dominated the bowling quintets but a short time ago. Both teams hit 500 in the initial string, but the Lawrence total was 18 pins better. The second string was easily won by the Lawrence by a larger margin, while the third and final string found the Moosup agregation submerged beneath a total of 538. Some of the lowest bowling seen in the league saw the Moosup bowlers being guilty.

Both Stone and F. Sistare of the Lawrence were tied for high single honors with a total of 120, but in the three string recapitulation, F. Sistare led with 327. King led the Moosup bowlers with 312.

ORGANIZING FOX HUNT FOR CHRISTMAS DAY

Announcement was made Friday night that a committee of local hunters is at work among the local fox hunters organizing a fox hunt for Christmas day in the Wauwecus Hill section. Sportsmen from all nearby cities have been invited to take part in the chase. One of the committee men at work on the plans said the idea in holding the hunt on Wauwecus Hill is that it is away from all main roads and some distancme from railroad tracks. This he pointed out will be a protection for the dogs used in the hunt for there have been cases where valuable dogs have been killed or mained by automobiles and trains.

We are in hopes to have all the old time fox hunters on the trail for the hunt, said the committee man and we also hope that all those who take part in the hunt will pay strict attention to hunting. All fox hunters will be welcome, even the man who recently shot at four foxes and got one, he said. The committee are in hopes that picks and shovels will be left at home, he added. It is said that at least one local hunter has used these implements to dig out a fox so that he could increase his batting average which has been hovering around the zero mark.

The committee are going to organize at a meeting to be held Sunday. According to the plans for the hunt the hunters will not start from the same place. Some will come in from the Bear Hill section and some from Boggy Ledges. Others will start from the Gold Mine section, Tadma and Lathrope Hill. A suitable prize will be offered for the hunter who brings in the largest number of foxes over six.

The Norwichh untsmen are very enthusiastic over the coming hunt and it is said that one of the Norwich boys recently made a trip to Eastford where he secured a valuable dog which he claims will without doubt make a better showing than the Walker dogs used by some of his friends. His claims, however, are being hotly disputed.

TAFTVILLE GIVES PEERLESS TWO GAME SETBACK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 19.—Taftville invaded this city this evening and left with a prize of a two string victory at the expense of the league leading Peerless bowlers. It is very unusual for the Peerless to drop two strings to any team in the Eastern Connecticut league, even more so to the Taftville aggregation.

With the exception of the first string the visitors outclassed the league leaders. Low bowling marks seemed to hold the local bowlers in their grasp, not one bowler on the Peerless hitting 300 for a total. The Taftville bowlers did not register spectacular bowling. Dugas had high three strings for 323 while S. White hit high single with 110. The scores:

Taftville.
G. White	85	114	102— 301
Fitzmaurice	94	97	88— 279
Edwards	92	103	97— 292
S. White	84	119	104— 304

WESTERLY

In Third district court Friday morning Judge Michael J. Turano imposed sentences in two reckless operation of automobile cases, one a fine of $200 and costs and the other a fine of $100 and 10 days' imprisonment in Providence county jail. The first sentence was given Harold H. Lihme, a Watch Hill cottager, and the second, with jail sentence, to Salvatore Ferrare of Cranston, R. I., who on a count of operating an automobile which he had not registered got an additional fine of $50 and costs.

State, Fred T. Mitchell, deputy sheriff, complainant, vs. Salvatore Ferrare. Two counts, operation of automobile without registration and the operation of an automobile recklessly.

State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly, complainant, vs. Lawrence Maine.

Civil docket—new writ:

Anna H. Saddow vs. Catherine Bezar. If unanswered during day, continued one week.

Harry King vs. Nathan Tinkler et al. If unanswered during day, continued one week.

Vivian Barnard vs. Sante Spogato. Continued one week.

Antonio Louille vs. Victoria Barney. Continued one week.

Judge Turano came in at 2.30 o'clock and called the case of state, Chief Brown, complainant, vs. Harold H. Lihme. Judge Herbert W. Rathbun, for the defendant, asked that a former plea of not guilty be changed. The defendant changed his plea to nolo.

Town Solicitor Ferguson told the court that on Sept. 23d the defendant in company with a boy and two girls was operating an automobile down Main street, going about 30 miles an hour. At no time was the speed slackened, according to two of the state's witnesses, so that when the junction of Elm and School streets was reached they reported the car as going fast. The complaining witness, Coast Guardsman Vennard, in the employ of the life saving station at Watch Hill, was going to his home in Stonington and approaching the junction at 15 miles an hour, blew his horn when near the southeast corner of the junction of Elm and School streets. The car of defendant came on him like a flash, with no opportunity for him to turn either way, the defendant's car crashing into him and knocking him 20 feet up School street. He was severely injured and taken to a hospital in Providence, with injuries to his scalp, head and had his arm broken. Defendant felt keenly the injuries done the coast guardsman, as he told Chief Brown, wishing he was the person injured and not the man who has been in the hospital. Solicitor Ferguson said it was a serious thing to cross intersecting streets at a high rate of speed.

Attorney Rathbun for the defendant produced in court diagrams and photographs showing the junction of Elm and School streets, with the heavy foliage, the damaged motorcycle and automobile of Mr. Lihme. He said this was no different from other auto accidents where the occupants of the machines thought the other at fault. He had advised his client to plead guilty to the charge, as the auto was proceeding at a rate of speed greater than 15 miles an hour. The motorcycle operator was inexperienced, not licensed, and had a borrowed car, and perhaps, if the whole truth was known, th motorcycle ran into the Lihme automobile. The defendant was away at school and had now come into court with his father and had been to a considerable expense and he asked the judge to impose a nominal fine.

Judge Turano said that he was not disposed to give a nominal fine, as certain features of the matter almost caused him to send the young man to jail, but he did not think he would. He imposed a fine of $200 and costs, which was paid.

Salvatore Ferrare changed his plea of not guilty to guilty on both counts in the cases brought against him, when he was operating a Ford sedan in company with his wife on the Post road on Dec. 14th, between 9 and 10 o'clock, the charges being operating a car without having the same registered and operating a car recklessly. Deputy Sheriff Mitchell detailed the results of the collision when a Ford coach, containing five people and one boy, and a Chevrolet car with two men and two women, were struck, although no one sustained serious injuries. He said that the man had left the scene of the accident when he was notified about 12.20 last Monday morning, that he located the man about to take the 12.58 train for New Haven. Judge Turano asked if the man was intoxicated, but the sheriff said he was not when the arrest was made. In reply to a question by the judge, defendant said that nervousness on his part was the cause of the accident. A fine of $50 and costs on the non-registration charge was imposed and a fine of $100 with costs and 10 days' imprisonment in Providence county jail on the reckless operation count.

There being no appearance, the judge ordered forfeited to the state 31 pints of beer, contained in 31 pint bottles, and four gallons of gin contained in four gallon jugs seized on the place of Nunziato Vuono when his place, the old Wayland Saunders farm, at Bradford, was raided several days ago.

FACE AFFECTED WITH PIMPLES

Were Also on Neck. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.

"My face and neck were affected with large pimples that later turned to sore eruptions. The eruptions itched and burned causing me to scratch, which made them worse. My skin was red and very rough, and I lost my rest at night because of the irritation. My face was disfigured.

"The trouble lasted about three months before I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. They effected relief in about two weeks, and after using them two months I was healed." (Signed) Miss Bessie Waldman, 48 West River St., Providence, R. I., March 20, 1924.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

RED MEN.

A very interesting meeting was held by Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, at its last council. Sachem Clyde Whitman presided and he had the brothers interest during his enjoyable talk on Redmanship.

During the business session it was voted to pay the per capita tax of one dollar on all chiefs. It was also voted to have the ewidows and orphans' fund of one dollar paid, either annually or semi-annually. Both motions were carried and the collector of wampum was instructed to notify the brothers of the resolution.

The remainder of the session was confined to the most important part of the meeting, namely the nomination and election of chiefs for the next six moons. After careful deliberation the following chiefs were selected:

Sachem, Raymond N. Harris; senior sagamore, Leroy E. Messer; junior sagamore, James Connell; prophet, Clyde Whitman; chief of records, Geo. F. Farrell; keeper of wampum, D. A. Deane; trustees for three years, Rufus D. Harris, Adelard A. Gauthier Fred Nowatzki; representative great council Clyde Whitman; alternate, past sachem, Harold A. Hiscox; auditing committee, Leroy E. Messer, chairman, James Connell, Adelard Gauthier.

Brothers Deane and Nowatzki gave interesting talks on Redmanship and its large growth in the state. Junior Sagamore L. E. Messer entertained as usual.

The retiring sachem, Clyde Whitman, in his closing address emphasized the fact that the tribe must stand behind its new chiefs and assist them upon all occasions.

Owing to the length of time taken by the balloting the usual spread was omitted until the first meeting in January, which is installation night. As this is one of the big Redmanship nights in Norwich invitations have been sent out to the various tribes in surrounding towns to be present. Deputy Sachem Steele and his staff from Bridgeport, will be present to officiate at the ceremonies.

The entertainment and feast committee announced that there will be a good time in store for all Red Men, January 7, 1925, at Steiner's hall.

VICTORY LODGE.

The regular meeting of Victory lodge, I. O. O. L., M. U., was held Thursday evening in Steiner's hall with a good attendance of members. Routine business was transacted following which plans were made for the double installation of officers of Victory lodge and H. M. Osgood lodge on the evening of Friday, January 2nd. The regular degree team of Victory lodge has been practicing the drills and has made good progress. It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the joint installation, when a fine programme will be presented and a social time enjoyed.

ITALIAN BENEFIT SOCIETY.

The United Italian Mutual Benefit society at their last meeting presided over by President Frank Pedace was one of the biggest events in the history of the organization since its foundation. Seventy new candidates were admitted and about one hundred and fifty members were present. President Frank Pedace gave a brief address to explain the necessity to be united and the loyalty to the fraternal institution and the American constitution. Ex-President Bruno Pedace also spoke, voicing the appreciation to the new candidates. He described the meaning of mutuality, fraternity and loyalty.

Election of officers will take place at the next meeting.

Jepps, Clara Moran; A Hired Girl, Birdie Vivins, Louise Clark; A Collector, Miss Goldstein, Barbara Goodenough; The Plucky Little Stamp Girl, Kate Kenyon Helen Risley.

The play was in three acts and the parts were well interpreted. The play was a comedy drama of American life depicting the joys and sorrows, the heartaches and struggles and temptations of a small group of government employes working in a post office in a small city in the middle west. There is the stern inspector, the officious postmaster, the busy-body mail clerk, the ambitious young clerk who yields to temptation and robs the post office, the kind hearted old man who carries the rural mail, the raw recruit and the noble hearted plucky little stamp clerk, who bravely stifles her own feelings, and lives for the advancement of her friends. Steve Audiane, the hero of the play, has been living beyond his means and is deeply in debt. He steals two fifty dollar bills from a letter but soon repents his rash action. The post office inspector arrives hot on the trail of the thief. Just as Steve's guilt has been established "Old R. F. D.," a kind hearted old man, the rural free delivery carrier comes forward and assumes the guilt. Years before he has robbed the mails and was sentenced and served fifteen years in the penitentiary. When he was sent to prison he had a baby boy but when released was unable to find him. He now discovers that Steve is his son and resolves to keep him from following in his father's footsteps. The father's love prompts the self-sacrifice and makes him happy in giving his boy all he has in this world to offer—his liberty. But through the pluck and sagacity of Kate Kenyon, the little stamp clerk, neither Steve nor his father is required to suffer the penalty of Steve's rash action. All ends happily and Steve and Kate and old R. F. D., with his faithful old mare Bess, go out on a homestead in Montana to begin a new life free from temptations and care and out of the bonds of Civil Service. The play was well presented and heartily applauded.

WESTMINSTER

"My grace is sufficient for thee" was the text last Sunday morning.

For several weeks, study in the book of Nehemiah will be the theme of the Wednesday evening home prayer services in the homes of the parish. For next week Wednesday, Dec. 24, the first chapter of Nehemiah will be the Scripture assigned.

Christmas night, Dec. 25, at 7.30, the church school is to have its festival with a tree and Santa Claus. As the fire destroyed all the available program material there has been little chance for preparation, but friends are being invited, the school feeling sure all will make allowances in view of that fact.

As in many places, the special election was a quiet one in this town and there were those who stayed away. Hiram Bingham was the senator elected by the town as well as by the state.

Mrs. Allen Moody, with her son, Manfred, and Bobbie Joslyn, left Friday to join Mr. Moody in New York for the winter. A small surprise party was held for Mrs. Moody in Newton's hall, Saturday evening some being detained by the weather.

Frank and Jim Koch and their chums, who have been camping in the Koch homestead for a fortnight of hunting and trapping, returned to New York the first of the week.

Mrs. Everett Moulton is still in the Backus hospital, Norwich, but it is hoped may be able to return home in time for the holidays.

The welcome rain is helping Canterbury's water supply, and will probably soon make necessary the bringing of each day's supply from a distance.

Earle MacLeod is hoping to be in Westminster at his home for a few days at Christmas.

Axel Heistrom, who has been working in South Canterbury while the Bennett lumber camp was closed, plans a visit during the holidays, for several weeks with his wife and children and other relatives in New York.

JEWETT CITY

The Christmas music programs in the three Protestant churches will be given Sunday, and at St. Mary's church on Christmas morning. At the Baptist church the program will be: Morning service—Christmas prelude (Nazareth), Gounod; anthem, What Mean Those Holy Voices, Lorens; male quartet, Jesus Came to Save, Aamier, C. F. Gardner, Tyler Gilbert, G. H. Prior, L. E. Green; Festival postlude, Hesse. Evening service—A service of story and song, The Shepherds' Story, by Tullar and Meredith; solos by Misses Winifred Scates and Verna Tarbox, Mrs. Scates and G. H. Prior; duets by Misses Frink and Miss Doris Carpenter and C. F. Gardner. The reader will be A. M. Brown. Miss Vera McBroome will sing Postlude in D, Scottson-Clarke. Mrs. George H. Prior is chorister and Ellen R. Prior, organist.

At the Methodist church in the morning the order of services will be: Voluntary, Christmas Pastorale in G, Frank Adlam; anthem, Worship the King, Ira B. Wilson; offertory, Sowing Reaping, Fred B. Holten. Evening—Voluntary, Hope, J. S. Fearis; anthem, Softly the Night is Sleeping, Caleb Simper. Mrs. Irving Thornton is organist and W. J. Robertson chorister.

In the evening there will be a carol service arranged by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Carter. The history of each carol will be read and there will be the singing of the carols by the congregation and children.

The program at the Congregational church in the morning is to be: Organ prelude, Christmas Pastorale, E. L. Ashford; anthem, What Mean Those Holy Voices? Lorenz; organ offertory, Holy, Holy, Holy, MacLaren; choir offertory, Message So Wondrous Sweet, Roy E. Nolte; with solo and obligato by Sadie Thompson; three-part anthem, Christmastide, Roy E. The annual meeting of A. A. Young, Jr., Hose and Ladder Co., No. 1, was held Thursday evening. The officers elected are: Foreman, Thomas Wakely; first assistant, Peter Bryant; second assistant, Austin Harris; secretary, Leslie Hyde; treasurer, Clovis Casavant; steward, Philip Jarvis; finance board, Louis Masse, Walter Field, Eugene Carroll; fire police, Philip Jarvis, Lionel Boucher, Hector Siebeleand, William Grenier, John Blake, Edmond Bryant, Dennis Griffin, Leslie Hyde. The matter of another truck has been under discussion for some time. The truck in use now is inadequate. It is not large enough to carry the necessary equipment. The firemen discussed the need of a change for better and quicker protection for the borough and decided to start a drive soon to raise $6,000 to purchase a heavier and up-to-date chemical and pumper. Property owners and citizens will be askeo to contribute toward protecting themselves and their property. No one would neglect to do anything possible to protect his family and home and these firemen give their services to help do this for the borough. They answer the call for fire any time, day or night, take all kinds of risks as to health and ruined clothes, and manifestly should have the means provided to do this service in the best and most rapid manner. The committee in charge of this Safety First drive comprises Foreman Wakely, Louis Masse and John Blake. The proceeds of the firemen's ball this year are to be used as a contribution for this purpose. The committee of arrangements for the ball is Thomas Wakely, William Duggan, Clovis Casavant, Hector Siebeleand and Moses Loranger.

Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Campbell their daughter, Georgina, was united in marriage with Merrick B. Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Carpenter of Wethersfield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church, of which the bride is a member. There were no attendants. The ceremony took place in the living room before a curtain festooned with club moss. A basket of carnations and sweet alyssum was on the piano. The bride wore henna satin crepe embroidered with gold design and edged with swansdown. She had a corsage bouquet of orchid sweet peas. After dinner was served Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter went by automobile to Hartford, and will go to Washington, D. C., for their honeymoon. The bride's traveling gown was garnet chenile, with orchid hat. The bride received gifts of linen, china, silver, aluminum, money, pictures and household furnishings. The groom is with the Hartford Electric Light Co. and he and his bride will live in a newly furnished home in Wethersfield. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Carpenter, of Wethersfield, were present at the wedding. HANOVER

Ye Colonials of Norwich presented a most interesting entertainment in Hanover parish house, Friday evening, Dec. 12, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church. Costume songs and dances by Mrs. Mabel C. Buckingham and Miss Hazel Banfield, accompanied by Miss Mary Gray, brought forth hearty applause from a good sized audience. Mrs. Buckingham was encored again and again in a group of solo songs. William J. Banfield in Forty Minutes of Magic, kept his audience full of interest and provided plenty of surprises for them. A Christmas sale of fancy articles, food and candy was held in the men's room of the parish house by the Ladies' Guild, before the entertainment.

The Congregational church felt fortunate in securing Dr. Wallace L. Gallup of Connecticut College to preach last Sunday.

Christmas services will be held on Sunday, the 21st, with Dr. Gallup preaching the sermon. In the evening a Christmas pageant written by the children of the church school will be presented for the community.

The December meeting of the Woman's Missionary society was held on Friday afternoon in the parish house parlor. The program was prepared by Mrs. Dean, Mrs. W. G. Park and Mrs. C. MacKenzie were the hostesses.

Storrs Lee of Middlebury college is home for the Christmas vacation.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The grand list of the town of Norwich was $27,361,056 in 1874, taxable property being valued at $12,151,384. In that same year Connecticut mills were using 48,000,000 pounds of cotton and New England led the country in practically all manufacturing lines.

Items of interest in the Bulletin of 1874 were in part as follows:

Monday, December 14, 1874—The grand list for the town of Norwich as obtained from the assessors' books shows a total of taxable property of $15,189,672. Tax exempt property in the town is valued at $12,151,384, making a total valuation of $27,361,056 or about $40,000 less than the list of 1873.

The new patent brake, which is now being tried out on the Norwich & Worcester railroad, is the joint invention of E. F. Lewis and Lorenzo Spaulding of Preston. Mr. Lewis has had the honor given to him, but he states that Mr. Spaulding is entitled to fully as much credit.

A monument on the site of the Pequot fort in Groton is being talked of by people living in that vicinity. F. Denison proposes that it be made of two boulders taken from the site of the fort, to be simply inscribed, "May 27, 1637." He thinks it will cost only $100.

Statistics obtained from the Commercial and Financial Chronicle show that Connecticut has 104 mills, 903,917 spindles, and uses 48,000,000 pounds of cotton annually.

Tuesday, December 15, 1874—The gentlemen who recently began the manufacture of horse blankets in the Hopeville mills near Jewett City are languishing behind the iron bars of the Norwich police court, sighing over their lost liberty. The charge brought against them is that of swindling Haskell the Norwich hatter and Clark the merchant tailor. It is believed that the parties will recover their money.

The largest vessel ever put on the ways on the Shetucket river, was hauled ashore just above Preston bridge recently, by William Noyes, the owner. It is the sloop yacht Vivid, which has been bought to go into the fishing business. Capt. Noyes will take her to the Vineyard in the spring.

In the [illegible] over one of the front windows of the old probate court house, which is being altered for the accommodation of the Dime Savings bank, was found nearly two bushels of small twigs, brought in by doves, with which to make a nest. Two eggs were found in the nest and how they got there is a mystery as there was apparently no entrance or egress to the nest from the outer world.

Wednesday, December 16, 1874—Perhaps the most astonished citizen of this vicinity at this moment is the gentleman who has paid taxes and voted in this city for the past thirty or forty years, who, since the recent survey of the city boundaries by Gen. Stanton, has suddenly discovered that he resides outside the corporation.

Dr. A. E. Gay recently amputated the foot of a man from Sterling, using the new bloodless operation to do it.

The two men from Hopeville were charged by the city court yesterday on payment of costs of $8.12.

Ice dealers are planning to begin their harvest this week if the weather continues cold. Temperatures averaging about 5 above zero have been prevailing for several days past and ice has reached a sufficient thickness for cutting.

Thursday, December 17, 1874—Hon. David A. Wells of this city was among the guests invited to the dinner in Boston Tuesday evening, given by Messrs Houghton & Co., publishers of the Atlantic. Among those present were Oliver Wendell Holmes, Mr. Howels, Mark Twain and J. T. Trowbridge. Russell Lowell and Longfellow were unable to attend.

Mr. Ruggles, who recently exhibited many fine painting in this city is one of the two Norwich men who were appointed to consulates by President Grant. The other is Dr. C. B. Webster, now at Sheffield, Eng., and both have reflected credit on their native city and their country by the manner in which they have discharged their duties.

James Lloyd Greene, John F. Slater, H. H. Osgood, Charles A. Converse and James Hall have received notice from the Bureau of Revenue of their appointment as an auxiliary centennial board for the City of Norwich and vicinity (all country east of the Connecticut river.) We understand that the centennial medals and stock will be on sale here, also on exhibition in Lee & Osgood's drug store on Main street.

Friday, December 18, 1874—A monthly paper is being published in Ledyard, which, like the school teacher, boards around. One family publishes it one month, another the next and so on.

A correspondent writes us that the Norwich Bulletin was the only paper in the state that had a report of the State Board of Agriculture's proceedings yesterday morning.

The car was left for repairs.

Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Sundt attended the meeting of the Ashford Association of Baptist ministers held Monday at the Spring Hill church. Mr. Sundt read a paper on "The Teachings of Jesus."

F. H. Meeker and B. Pikiell spent the weekend at their homes in Southington.

Miss Leila Church of Rockville is directing the rehearsals for the Christmas pageant to be given by the community next Tuesday evening at the Hall Memorial school auditorium. There will be a chorus of old hymns, tableaux of the Nativity and symbolic scenes of the teaching of Christ, with special costuming effects. Mr. Hamilton will sing a solo, and Mrs. A. E. Waite of Rockville will sing several times. A dress rehearsal is to be held Monday evening.

The pastor moved Tuesday from the parsonage on Willington hill, to the new parsonage at South Willington, which is beautifully furnished.

Miss Rose Pelikan, 18, who has been ill nearly two years, died at the Norwich State Sanatorium last Saturday. She leaves her father and mother, three brothers and four sisters. The funeral was held Monday afternoon. Rev. E. E. Sundt conducted the service. Among other tributes was a floral piece from employes at the Hall Thread company, where she formerly worked. Burial was in the town cemetery. The bearers were Lawrence and Rudolph Amidon, Otto Vonasek, Ralph Parizek, Joseph Kollar and Mike Petrovitch.

Fokker Here To Build Planes For U. S. Army

Anthony G. H. Fokker, famous Dutch airplane inventor and manufacturer, recently arrived in New York. Mr. Fokker said that he was here to take care of a contract for 100 planes, made with the United States Government, at his plant in New Jersey and that his plant in the Netherlands is turning out 500 planes a year, mostly for South America. Japan is making its own planes under direction of German engineers, he said.

Building Railroad Across Everglades

Barron G. Collier, capitalist, Special Deputy Police Commissioner of New York, Deputy Sheriff of Westchester County, Vice-President of the Boy Scout Foundation, a governor of the Sulgrave Institute, and member of a dozen boards of directors of huge corporations and an active officer in many, has found time for another "little job." He is president and active head of a corporation which has started to build a railroad across the trackless Everglades of Florida, opening up hundreds of thousands of fertile acres to agriculture and horticulture.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
The Christmas Tree

You come from a land where the snow lies deep
In forest glade, on mountain steep,
Where the days are short and the nights are long,
And never a skylark sings his song.
Have you seen the wild deer in his mountain home,
And watched the fall of the brown pine cone?
Do you miss your mates in the land of snow,
Where none but the evergreen branches grow?
Dear tree, we will dress you in robes so bright
That ne'er could be seen a prettier sight;
In glittering balls and tinkling bells,
And the Star which the story of Christmas tells;
On every branch we will place a light
That shall send its gleam through the starry night;
And the little children will gather there,
And carol their songs in voices fair;
And we hope you will never homesick be,
You beautiful, beautiful Christmas tree.

Help the One Next to You

Help the one next you,
Hold out your hand,
Help him the forces of sin to withstand.
Comfort and cheer him whatever befall,
Lead him to Jesus the best friend of all.

Help the one next to you passing along
Give the glad message, or lift up a song.
Say a kind word that comes warm from the heart
He needs a blessing that you can impart.

Help the one next to you, help him today,
Help him with heart and hand and no delay.
The good work will grow and the seed that you sow
Will ripen in everyland.

The Blackberry Girl

Why, Phebe, have you come so soon?
Where are your berries child?
You cannot sure have sold them all
You had a basket piled.

No mother; as I climbed the fence
The nearest way to town
My apron caught upon a stake
And so I tumbled down.

I scratched my arm and tore my hair
But still did not complain
And had my blackberries been saved
Should not have cared again.

But when I saw them on the ground
All scattered by my side
I picked my empty basket up
And down I sat and cried.

Just then a pretty little miss
Chanced to be walking by
She stopped and looking pitiful
She begged me not to cry.

Poor little girl; you fell said she
And must be sadly hurt.
Oh, no, I cried; but see my fruit
All mixed with sand and dirt.

Well; Do not grieve for that she said
Go home and get some more
Oh no, for I have stripped the vines
These were the last they bore.

My father, Miss, is very poor
And works in yonder stall
He has so many little ones
He cannot clothe us all.

I always longed to go to church
But never could I go
For when I asked him for a gown
He always answered, no.

There's not a father in the land
That loves his children more
I'd get you one with all my heart
But Phebe we are poor.

But when the blackberries were ripe
He said to me one day
Phebe if you will take the time
That's given you for play.

And gather blackberries enough
And carry them to town
To buy your bonnet and your shoes
I'll try to get a gown.

Oh, Miss, I fairly jumped for joy
My spirits were so light
Anr so when I had leaf to play
I picked with all my might.

I sold enough to get the shoes
About a week ago
And these if they had not been spilled
Would buy the bonnet too.

But now the're gone, they all are gone
And I can get no more,
And Sundays I must stay at home
Just as I did before.

And Mother, then I cried again
As hard as I could cry
And looking up I saw a tear
Was standing in her eye.

She caught her bonnet from her head,
Here, here she cried take this,
Oh, no, indeed; I fear your Ma
Would be offended, Miss.

My Ma, no, never she delights
All sorrow to bequile
And tis the sweetest joy we feel
To make the wretched smile.

She taught me when I had enough
To share it with the poor
And never let a needy one
Go empty away from our door.

So then I took it. Here it is,
For pray what could I do.
And Mother I shall love that Miss
As long as I love you.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Dec. 31—Club No. 4 meeting, Red Men's hall, Pomfret St., Putnam.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

AUNTY NO. 1: Many thanks. The season's greetings.

ROSY POSY: Cards forwarded as requested.

PAULA: Cards sent as directed.

CALLA LILY: Thank you. Season's greetings extended.

KITTY LOU and PICES: Many thanks, with the season's greetings.

GREAT G.: Your name has been added to the Social Corner roll.

CHRISTMAS PARTY MUCH ENJOYED

To the Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Those who did not attend the Christmas party in Franklin hall Dec. 10 missed a very pleasant occasion.

Hope Cobweb was a fine hostess, served a good dinner and provided an amusing entertainment.

After dinner Santa Claus appeared and I am sure everyone expected to see the big, fat, jolly fellow we have always known. Evidently the high cost of living has hit Santa Claus in his solar plexus and the dry weather finished the job, for he was like a match. Such a pity! But he carried a bag full of nice gifts that pleased each recipient.

Busy Bee: Please feed Santa plenty of milk to build up his figure before another Christmas.

Next to a pleasant Social Corner party or picnic is to have a Social Corner birthday. I recently had such a birthday and thank August, Foxglove, Whirlwind, Theoda, Marigold, Mary France, Lilac Lady, and others for cards. As it was a beautiful day Marigold, Mary France and I celebrated it by visiting the Industrial Training School at Mansfield. We were received cordially by those in charge and shown the work being done there.

The smallest children have a kindergarten where they learn to sing, play games and make paper work. The older girls make rugs, baskets, embroider many beautiful and useful articles, some learn to cook and have canned a supply of fruit and vegetables. The boys make toys of different kinds. One boy made a large doll house that any little girl would be happy to own. One young girl danced very gracefully while her teacher played the piano. In another room a blind girl played by ear a difficult piece on the piano. It has made her very happy to learn to play. It is wonderful what is being accomplished in this Industrial school. The teachers take an interest in each pupil and try to teach them as much as possible. It was all very interesting. The people of Connecticut are doing a good work at this colony where there are several large, fine buildings. Suppose you visit this school and see how busy and happy these children are.

Rural Delivery: Are you making Christmas candies? I have a Social Corner page dated Dec. 10, 1910 before me in which you gave several recipes for making candy and many items of useful information about it.

I wish the editor and each Social Corner sister merry Christmas and happy New Year.

NEMA.

HOW TO PAINT WITH CANDLES

Dear Cornerites: I want to tell Aunty No. 1 how to paint with candles. Have glass warm, then heat wax over alcohol lamp and drop on glass. Then spread it around with nut pick, or put it in spots over the glass and hold over the alcohol lamp and it will run together. For painting on wax dissolve the colored candles in alcohol and proceed to paint as usual.

Caro: You certainly have the best of me. You are right concerning the F. J., A. R. and also Ethelyn.

L. E. M.: You wished to know what to do for perspiring feet.

Change the hose every day or daily, washing each time in a weak solution of boric acid. After bathing sponge the feet with this deodorizing lotion:

Distilled water, 1 pint, essence of lavendar, 1-2 dram; bighromate of potassium, 3 1-2 ounces. Be sure to sponge between the toes. When dry dust on the following powder:

Alum, 1 dram; lycopidium, 1 drams; tannin, 30 grains.

With these precautions, frequent shampoos, and the occasional use of a pleasant toilet water, you should be able to get along without your feet perspiring and without losing a particle of your ordinary sweet daintiness.

About laundering a corset I would have written before but expected a letter from one of the sisters who spoke of sending in her recipe. You can keep your corset sweet and clean with the aid of a small brush (stiff) such as we use for sink and vegetable brushes. Use a washboard, lay your corset out on that, and scrub thoroughly with hot soapy, then with several clean waters. Roll tightly in a bath towel for a few moments then hang in the sun to dry.

KITTY LOU.

SOME RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Members: I send this week a few recipes which you may like to try.

Caramel Cake: Cream together one cup sugar, one half cup butter, stir in the beaten yolks of two eggs, one half cup milk in which dissolve 1-2 teaspoon of soda, 2 cups of flour sifted into the measuring cup with one teaspoon of cream of tartar. Add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, stir rapidly and bake in two or three layers.

English Christmas Bread: To about 4 1-2 quarts of flour add 2 tablespoons of lard, 1 tablespoon salt 1 cup brown sugar. Set on the back of the stove to warm. Boil 4 medium sized potatoes, strain when luke warm, add two yeast cakes, 1-2 cup sugar, enough flour to make a sponge. While the sponge is rising prepare one pound large raisins, one fourth pound candied citron, two teaspoons each allspice, cinnamon and mace, one teaspoon cloves, one handful of caraway seeds and add when sponge is ready use enough lukewarm water to make about the same as white bread adding one-half cup of syrup to the water. Let rise over night, put in tin and let rise again. Then bake in a slow oven. This is used by an English woman in the country who keeps up the Christmas customs of the old country.

Wishing you all a merry Christmas.

PAULA.

WINDOW FULL OF BLOSSOMED FLOWERS

Dear Corner Folks: How do you do this nice morning? Having a few moments to spare thought I would write a few lines to help fill up the Corner page. I wish to extend thanks to the editor for yellow slip that I received a week ago; it was wholly unexpected.

Savilla: Your chatty letter at hand. As usual very much pleased to hear from you.

Savilla's Daughter: Your's also at hand. Was very sorry to hear the news it contained. Hope the next one may be more cheerful. Glad you both like the baby kitten. That "specie" never bites nor scratches. I have its grandmother.

Theoda: I have not written that letter yet, but have not forgotten.

J. E. T.: Have you returned from that trip yet? Keep your weather eye open, if you want to see the huge bon fire at H. C. Christmas night.

That last card was a beautiful one. Is that the ship you went on? Hope you did not have a rough sail—guess I should say trip.

Am wondering how many of the sisters have plants in bloom. I have a whole window full and they look very cheerful as well as pretty. My Christmas cactus has many blooms already opened out beside 15 more buds. Think it will soon be very pretty.

Olga and Lonesome Pine: What has become of you? We seldom see anything from your pens lately. Spruce up and get busy and donate your little bit to the Corner page.

Yours for the good of the Corner.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

AS THE YEAR IS ENDING

Dear Social Corner Writers: I wish to send my thanks for the yellow slip I received some time ago, which was a great surprise.

I seem to be rather dull at this time and can't find material to write about.

J. E. T. says always wanting something to keep the brains busy. That is what invents things. I am wanting to write a letter, but I can't seem to invent subjects. I guess my brain doesn't work. I'm no inventor any way. I haven't the originality about me that she has.

Kitty Lou: I am very greatful to you for the information you gave over the 'phone. I hope I may be able to repay you in some way.

Hopeful: I would like to see a letter from you in the Corner page. I don't know but there is or was Hopeful No. 2 as I have been informed that Hopeful had passed on to the Great Beyond. So prove yourself among the living.

Necia: You have my sympathy if you have a sick hubby. I hope he will soon be well again. I am glad Fairy-Godmother appeared again with her blessings for the children.

The year is fast closing on us, and this year has brought sorrow to many hearts. While many members have been called many have lost friends, and may they all be able to pray master sanctify every sorrow to our growth in grace. In sorrow may we learn the blessedness of the comfort wherewith Thou canst comfort."

A merry Christmas to all and a prosperous and happy New Year is the wish of

GOOD IDEAS

Dear Cornerites: When your coal fire gets low and co dead in the corners, or even if the whole half of one side is dead, shake it down add fresh coal on both sides just as if both sides were alive. Then on the dead side sprinkle a little water—not too much, but enough to dampen the coal. In a short time you'll have a fine fire on both both sides. This never fails.

To prevent the annoyance caused by the deposit of moisture upon eyeglasses when going from a cold into a warm atmosphere moisten the tips of the fingers and rub them over a cake of soap. Then rub the lens, and polish as usual. One application is all that is necessary.

When using coal siftings if a little water is poured over before putting in the stove you will have a good and lasting heat.

Tin cans are one of the best coal savers. When ironing or fixing a fire for heat except for the oven place two or three cans in the stove. You'll find they will hold the heat a good part of the afternoon. Or in the furnace they will keep a fire over night.

I find you can use a much more inexpensive piece of corn beef, by buying the fresh cuts of beef and putting them in your own home brine made from two gallons of luke warm water, 1 1-4 pounds of brown sugar, two pounds of salt, 1 ounce saltpetre.

Let them stand 24 hours. Buy your cut of beef and corn it yourself. You'll never buy any more store corn beef.

IMOGENE GRAEF.

GREETINGS FROM MARIGOLD

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How are you all this fine morning? It is a long while since I have written a few lines but have been sort of waiting for the spirit to move. It doesn't move so will write anyway.

I wish to thank the sisters who sent me birthday cards.

Lo: It was nice of you to remember me.

Whirlwind: You were missed at our last gathering and I was pleased with your card.

Necia: I hope all is well at home.

Bonie: I thank you for your kind thoughts. The Christmas meeting of Club No. 1 was well attended with the usual good time and must not forget the extra fine dinner.

Lonesome Pine: No trouble at all in picking out the scallop lace and it works fast. Betsy Bray says it's lickerty split lace.

Canterbury Bell: How are you? Would like to have a nice chat with you.

True Blue: The turkeys were fine, mostly sixteen pounders.

Noank Brownie: Quite a treat to meet you and Tootsie. Perhaps we will meet again next summer.

Mary France: Haven't seen you for some time. Where art thou? I like the idea of adding to our signature the name of our town.

A merry Christmas to all.

MARIGOLD.

South Coventry.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is a long time since I wrote. I thought I must wish you all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. Where are you Kitty and Guess? Looked for you on Tuesday but did not see you. I suppose you do not like to leave that pretty home. I looked for you at the Willimantic meeting. Had a good dinner and a good time. Foxglove and Whirlwind were not there and we missed them very much.

Necia: I think of you often and your troubles so near Christmas time. Hope to hear better news when I hear again.

WINDHAM BLUE BELL.

MANY HAVEN'T ANSWERED ROLL CALL

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: I am glad to see new names coming in the Social Corner every week for with so many of us we ought to have a full page or more every week. I enjoy reading the letters very much and when you know who is who it seems like talking with each other. I have been able to attend but two socials, one in Norwich and one at Twice Twenty's. Suppose all sisters are busy getting ready for Christmas.

Holidays seem sad to me for some of my loved ones have passed away at that time, but I always try to help others to have a nice time.

So many have not answered the roll call of the Social Corner! They might just say "present", and sign their name.

I wish to thank Just Me, Whirlwind, Avon and Lilac Lady for remembering me with cards on my birthday.

Think I will stop now and let some one else have a space in the Corner page. Wishing the editor and all Corner members a merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

INO (Club 4.)

A MERRY CHRISTMAS FOR THE CORNER MEMBERS

PLEASED AT MANY NEW MEMBERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I was pleased to meet so many of the sisters that I knew, also those I hadn't met before at the Social Corner gatherings at the Buckingham, Dec. 5. If new members keep joining as fast as they have for the past few months our editor will have to print a list of them to add to those we all ready have. "The more the merrier." Glad to welcome each one.

Caro: No, I haven't forgotten those rides we used to enjoy together. Why don't you plan to come to some of the Social Corner gatherings at the B. M.?

Rosalind: Why didn't you visit your sister on the 3rd; then you could have been present at the meeting of Club 3 at the B. M.? Next time you come to N. call on me.

Balsam Fir: Your card received. I certainly would be pleased to meet you.

1492: Am waiting patiently for that letter. Maybe you have been busy helping somebody hunt.

Censi: Am very sure you have met Chocolate and White Dawn. They tell me they have been at your home.

Chelsea: When are we to take in that meeting.

Hoping each member may have a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. I will ring off.

KEZIAH DOOLITTLE.

TARRY AND TROT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Folks: One of Poor Richard's sayings was, "He who tarries late in bed trots all day." That is certainly true of me these days. Not being at all well I am late in rising and consequently trot around all day and slow at that. That is one reason why there has not been a letter from me in the Corner page.

Three weeks ago I had a letter nearly finished, laid it aside and other things came up, so now I have to rewrite it as it was written in the present tense and gone by now.

I used to have a motto in my kitchen "Do It Now" and if I don't write a letter now it will be delayed again.

Firstly, I will send my congratulations to Mary 'Gusta and wish her much happiness now and in the years to come.

Secondly, am very glad that Alwilda has returned to our ranks, and know we shall have interesting letters from her. Alwilda and I have been good friends for many years, and I know her ability in letter writing as well as verse.

Was glad to note recently a letter from Isadore. Have not seen a letter from her in a long time. Have often thought of the pleasant chat we had at the first Social Corner picnic I ever attended at Wilwood park. At that picnic I met Comfort. What has become of her?

Delish Deal: Thank you very much for the fine letter you sent me. Sometime when I have reduced a pile of unanswered letters that have accumulated previous to yours I will write you.

Hope Cobweb: I appreciated your kindness in remembering my birthday with a pretty card. Have not forgotten our pleasant talk at Twice Twenty's picnic last summer.

Was exceedingly sorry that I could not attend the Social Corner party at East Killingly. My health would not permit. I met Bee True in Danielson a few days previous to the party and told her I would try to attend but could not keep my promise.

May B: It is time you wrote one of your interesting letters. They are always worth while.

As I sit here writing and listening to the cold wind blowing I am reminded of what one of the sisters said last winter in one of her letters. "Beautiful winter. Grand old winter." How she enjoyed it. Well, I don't. I hate the cold and wish that I might go to Florida and remain until spring. I never could see anything beautiful in cold winter except in pictures.

How many of the sisters have read Joseph Lincoln's new book, Rugged Waters? I have had the pleasure of reading it and enjoyed it, to. Am very fond of Lincoln's stories and think Mary 'Gusta one of his best.

If I get started on books my letter will be too long, so think I better stop. Wishing all the Cornerites a merry Christmas and a happy New Year from

JUST MA.

CHRISTMAS AND THE PRESENTS

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Corner: Peace on earth, is God's will toward men. Shouldn't we try to make Christmas a peaceful day in our homes? If we will keep the thought in mind and do our best peace will surely come to us and we can all have a merry Christmas in the true sense of the word.

There has been much comment in recent years concerning the American method of observing Christmas and "where there is a whole lot of smoke there must be some fire." Or perhaps we deserve some of the criticism. It can do no harm any way to review our last year's methods and thereby profit by the mistakes made at that time.

We might also analyze the motives that prompt our gifts this year for others are sure to do so, and it is sometimes profitable to "stop, look and listen" that we may catch a glimpse of ourselves as others see us.

Are we putting our friends before our nearest and dearest relatives—those loved ones who have always shown us kindness and service?

Are we going to give presents of too great value and thus empoverish our pocketbooks and cause no end of financial difficulties for weeks to come?

Have we kept our last year's list that we may consult it and avoid duplicating Aunt's Mary's present? Come to think, we almost did that very thing. We gave her a tea apron last year and we have one all made for her this year. What did we give her the Christmas before last and before that and that and that, etc.? A tea apron, I'll wager, she must have a stack of them by this time.

Are we going to give some of those appropriate presents that are so disappointing to the receiver? A box of soap to our laundress, a workbasket to our seamstress and a hot water bottle to our invalid friend? Don't I bet of you! On Christmas of all days you ought to forget your trade and afflictions and be at peace with the world. In our presents to our elderly relative are we going to fairly scream—you're old so here is a nice pair of warm slippers for you?. Why not give her a latest novel instead or at least study her case and try to have her present a surprise.

Now you could make an individual Christmas tree for each one of the family in place of hanging up your stockings. Take a piece of wire about 27 inches high and place it in a large block, wind this with green paper, then take double wire stem cleaners and fasten to the main piece after covering with green paper, then take cotton covering and sprinkle over the trees and a little diamond dust. Now the tree is ready for Kris Kringle at the top, and a little Santa Claus tied on the tree. Put candy or any thing on that order you can put on the tree and you'll find it a very pretty and novel idea. String cranberries or pop corn and you'll have quite a pretty present in the tree alone. Make apples, or bananas out of silk, a crocheted cat, a chocheted dog, cookies make in shape of a star and hung on the tree. The presents which are too heavy can be laid under the tree. Spread a piece of green paper in the floor or table and cover with diamond dust and the bottom of the block or box you can paint red or cover with red paper, for mother's tree you could make a collar and cuff set, a handsome boudoir cap or buy her a pair of silk stockings. Any of those things you can hang on a tree.

ETHELYN.

SPECIAL DAY SUGGESTIONS

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Friends: I was glad to be numbered among one of the guests at Franklin hall, Dec. 10. It seems quite hard to pick out the best things week after week, at times we take up the paper with a hurried look, but on Saturday there are so many things.

Twice Twenty: I passed your home Dec. 11 but was not positive which house was yours. I have thought for some time that it would be nice to have some special day in our anniversary week by which each member might show to the public where there is a Cornerite, as a symbol to stand by our colors. What do others think about it?

Shirley: Whenever I feel a little blue the thoughts of the The Burglar drives them away. If you've got another poem as good send it along.

Would Hancie mind sending us her banana cake recipe?

I think these long winter evenings are just the time to specialize on our home made sweets.

Best of Christmas wishes and a prosperous New Year to you all.

AUNTIE BEE (March 25.)

HERMITS AND MINCE PIE

Dear Social Corner Members: At this late day I will add my testimony concerning the very pleasant day those of us who were privileged to go to East Killingly spent in social converse, and enjoying the dinner. Some of us enjoyed at a distance a delicious looking lemon pie. It was a very tantalizing object because alas! it was not on our table.

There were many surprises as to who was who, but they were all happy ones. Was glad to meet Peggy Alder, Anzi, Nellie Grey and Rosalind under their new titles. Their faces were very familiar to me. There were also many other old time friends. Am sending you the recipe for hermits. Rosalind, which you mentioned.

Hermits: 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons sweet milk, 1 cup chopped raisins, 1 teaspoon each of nutmeg, cloves, and allspice. Mix very stiff and roll thin. For myself, I use less spice. It is according to one's taste about that. I would like to sent you the mince meat rule from the same book.

Mince Meat—1 quart ground meat, 2 quarts chopped or ground apple, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup boiled cider 1-2 teaspoon clove, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 3-4 of a nutmeg, 1-2 tablespoon salt, 1 cup raisins. Add water in which the meat is cooked and cook slowly till the apple is well cooked. If not moist enough add water from time to time as it cooks. Put into jars while boiling hot and seal. I never have to taste to see if it is right. A neck piece of beef makes good mince meat. Five pounds of beef will make a number of quarts.

Papa's Boy: Did I, by any chance meet you in West Hartford Thanksgiving day at the home of a mutual relative?

Will close with a merry Christmas to all old friends and new one of the Corner.

CACTUS BLOSSOM.

DECEMBER

Dear Sisters: To the last month in the year belongs the beautiful turquoise enblem of prosperity, happiness and success. Tradition affirms that a turquoise should always be given to and not bought by the wearer. A Russian proverb runs to the effect that the happiness that "A turquoise given by a loving hand carries with it good fortune." As the name implies the stones are found principally in Turkey, though Nishapur mines of Persia are far famed. Other stones of less value are found in Siberia and France. Orientals often cut texts from the Koran upon them, the whole having a very beautiful effect. The presence of danger is also associated with the turquoise, some even asserting that the gem will draw upon itself hurt and injury, and thus protect its fortunate owner. The belief was markedly prevalent in the middle ages.

MERCIA.

PLEASED WITH REMEMBRANCES

Dear Social Corner Folks: I wish each and every one a merry Christmas and happy New Year and I also want to thank all who sent me birthday cards Dec. 17. My little grandson said to me, "Grandma, what made you have your birthday so near Christmas?" I told him I couldn't help myself.

I had a nice birthday with presents and cards. It is nice to be remembered, although it is near the holidays. We are to have a tree and we are all looking forward to it—grown-ups as well as the children. We are having beautiful weather and hope it will last a while longer.

I hope all and every one will be happy and have a nice Christmas.

Again I thank you. As ever

MA OF GREENE GABLES.

MAKES 'EM STEP LIVELY

Dear Corner Members: As everybody who keeps hens knows exercise and green feed are the best egg producers. An easy way to make a hen step lively is to take a small cabbage, tie it firm with a string and hang it in the center of the house so there is plenty of room and just high enough so the hen can pick at it.

After she picks it will swing. Then the hen is on her nerve and she will jump up at it. Soon you can raise it about six inches and the hen will sure reach it. Try it, you will surely have sport as well as eggs.

MR. DOOLEY.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends; I did not expect to write again so soon, but I wanted to send in the requested poem, The Blackberry Girl, and to wish you all a very merry Christmas.

Rosy Posy: Thank you for the card. Will send you my address after Christmas. No, I can't tell who you are. You should have been more explicit.

Delish Deal: I will write to you before long. Sincerely.

DAISY DEAN.

AN EXPERIENCE WITH HOME WORK

Mr. Editor, Friends, Sisters and Uncles of The Social Corner: Greetings and Compliments of the Seasons.

As I notice so many advs. in recent papers for women to take work to do at home either in part or whole time, I think it may interest some if I give the experience of a friend of which I was cognisant some time ago. She was a young married woman and was boarding and like many others had more time than was fully employed. She saw an adv. in a paper for women to bind dress shields at home and do much or little as best suited to their convenience and opportunity to earn a goodly sum per week. She wrote to the firm. I don't remember just how much the equipment was but of course it cost something. She received two dozen shields to bind as a test. As I remember she was paid for most of them. Then another consignment came and it is unimportant whether she was paid for those or not. Then a letter came saying they would give her steady employment provided she gave a bond of $150 signed by two reputable merchants and she must do a certain number of shields each two weeks which must be returned to them to be examined and if one imperfect one was found she received no pay for any of them and also forfeited the $150 bond. So you can understand how very rich she would be after doing the work for nothing and paying that bond.

As I remember she wrote the firm a very indignant letter which I presume they expected and had a laugh over and that was the end of that affair as far as she was concerned. What should have been done was to send the adv and all correspondence to the post office department at Washington, D. C., which would have stopped such an adv and the firm would have had to pay for the publishing of such a fradulent advertisement.

A woman once asked me if I would like to learn to make artificial flowers. I asked what the cost would be and she said only $25 and I to sell my own work. I said nothing doing here.

This year is nearly over and we shall soon enter upon another. May it prove as happy and successful as the past and to those to whom it brings sorry and trouble may they find comfort and sustaining grace at the only unchanging fountain, our heavenly Father's throne.

SISTER WRINKLE, Ja. 19.)

CHRISTMAS PLUM PUDDING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Every one busy getting ready for Christmas and yet they take time to keep our page full with all kinds of nice ideas. One sister told of making holders out of stockings. I sat down and made three in about as long as it takes me to write it.

Mavis: You say we must be neighbors. That is fine. Glad to hear it. What is your street and number? Tell me and I will look you up. Maybe I already know you. I will help you a little to guess. My number is 78 Bliss street and I drive a Ford sedan. Do you know me? Who is Peggy Anne? Is she a neighbor too? There may be sisters enough here but I don't know of any as yet.

Rosy Posy: Your potato fudge sounds good. Will try it if I ever get over nervous indigestion.

Crimson Rambler: Can you make the soap out of suet? If so I think I will try it.

Annie B: So you like my letters! Glad someone does. How are you all? How many times I have thought of that family of yours. My, my, have you got them all yet? Won't you take time to join this wonderful Corner of ours? I will welcome you and I know Rural Auntv will, won't you Old Top? And don't forget to say something about that family around the stove so I can guess who is who.

Balsam Fir: You will hear from me soon.

Can any of the sisters tell me what will kill scales on plants? I can kill the plants, but not the scales. I wish you could all see my Christmas cactus. It is very large and so full of buds. It usually keeps blooming until Easter time. I hope Santa doesn't fall into it if he happens to come this way.

Christmas Plum Pudding: One cup of raisins, cut up, one cup molasses, one cup sweet milk, one cup of chopped suet, or half cup butter (I use suet) three cups of flour, one teaspoon of saleratus, one each of salt, cinnamon, clove and nutmeg. Steam three hours. Serve with a rich sauce. If your family is small use half of this recipe. It is very good.

To the sisters and editor I'm sending my heartiest good wishes for a merry Christmas day. I wish you many. I wish you more. Christmas blessings than you can store. And may the New Year bring to you much cheer and all that life holds most dear, is the wish from

GOOD RECIPES

Dear Sisters: Some recipes for you to try this week:

Tea Sandwiches: Mix thoroughly orange marmalade, chopped pecan nuts and cream cheese. Spread between thin slices of white bread slightly buttered. Cut in long narrow sandwiches.

Creamed Eggs: Boil 2 eggs 10 minutes. Make cream sauce and slice in the eggs. Pour over hot buttered toast and it makes a nice breakfast.

Mountain Dew: Scald 1 pint of milk add 3 crackers rolled fine, yolks 3 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Bake until done. Frost with white of eggs.

Parfait: One cup sugar, one cup cream and 1 cup of any fruit juice. Pack with ice and salt and let stand three hours or longer if possible. Use plenty of salt and do not turn the freezer.

Squash Pie (requested): One quart squash (sifted) 3 tablespoons flour, one teaspoon of cinnamon and nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups sugar, 1 eggs, 4 tablespoons of melted butter, 3 pints milk.

Appetizer for Breakfast: Fry bacon over night and set it away. In the morning make a batter beating in 2 eggs. Drop a spoonful into a hot frying pan, add a slice of bacon, cover with batter and so on until bacon has been used. Fry brown on both sides and you will have a delicious breakfast easily cooked.

Molasses Cookies: One cup each of molasses, sugar and shortening and also hot water, 2 heaping teaspoons of ginger, one heaping teaspoon soda and flour to roll. Sprinkle with sugar and cut in squares. Bake in a hot oven.

Mayonnaise Dressing: A tablespoon of mustard, one of sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, the yolk of one egg, 6 tablespoons of oil. Stir egg yolk, mustard and salt together with an egg beater until they begin to thicken. Add the oil gradually stirring all the time. More or less oil can be used.

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER.

A LETTER OF THANKS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I wish you all a merry Christmas and glad New Year and to thank Esmeralda for my nice birthday card. I thank little Pep and Bee True, also the others for the birthday surprise party they gave me. It certainly was a genuine surprise. Also I thank Gypsy Wanda for the birthday feast.

Congratulations to Mary 'Gusta.

BUTTERFLY.

PUTNAM MEMBERS WILL ENTERTAIN DEC. 31.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Putnam members will have a meeting in Red Men's hall, Putnam, Dec. 31—only three minutes walk from station. All members welcome. Please bring plate, cup, knife, fork, spoon and something to eat.

Thanks, Caro for card. Be sure and come.

AVON.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER.

Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I took great delight in meeting with you at Bumble Bee's last summer and at East Killingly. I hope I can meet on other occasions. I am wondering if Esmeralda has found her lemon pie yet. If you would allow me to join with you I would take my name as

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Uncle Lucky Has Trouble Eating

"Goodness gracious me, what a din!
'Twas lucky the cowbell was brass and not tin.
The Yellow Dog Tramp swung it this way and that Till he almost knocked over the old bunny's hat.

Yes, sir, the Luckymobile was going faster than a comet. Uncle Lucky was bent on showing everybody that the little red sleds were speedier than wheels. And I guess they were, for in less time than I can take to tell it; that wonderful automobile arrived in Rabbitville, when, all of a sudden, it stopped, just like that, quick as the wind that blows off your hat, right in front of the Peppermint Candy Shop.

At led the way into the candy shop

"We'll have a hot soda," laughed dear Uncle Lucky. "Come, let's get out," and with a hop-t-idy, the old gentleman rabbit jumped to the ground. Then helping Little Miss Mousie and Lady Love to squeeze out from under the buffalo robe, which had been tucked in nice and tight, he led the way into the candy shop.

"Now, let me see," said Uncle Lucky to the pretty white pussy cat behind the counter when she asked what they all wanted, "Lady Love likes orange juice; Little Miss Mousie, cheese sticks; Little Jack Rabbit, lollypops; the Yellow Dog Tramp frankfurters, and I — goodness meebus! what do I want?"

"Heart of lettuce," squeaked Little Miss Mousie, with a smile and a toss of her bobbed head.

But, dear me. When they all were seated at a table and Uncle Lucky began to nibble on the lettuce, he found he could open his mouth only a little way. You see, he had tied his blue silk polkadot handkerchief so tightly over his chin that all of his whiskers were tucked in, and so, of course, when he tried to open his mouth, he couldn't. No sir, it just wouldn't open wide enough to let a lettuce leaf squeeze between his teeth. Dear me, again. Maybe something dreadful might have happened if Little Miss Mousie hadn't jumped up to untie the knot in the blue silk polkadot handkerchief so that the merry old gentleman rabbit could smile all over.

After a while and a laugh and a smile, and the bill was paid by generous Uncle Lucky, they all jumped into the Luckysnowbile and turned off towards home, singing,

"Merrily we roll along, roll along, roll along, Merrily we roll along o'er the deep white snow."

Then leaving Little Jack Rabbit and his pretty bunny mother at the dear Old Bramble Patch, the old gentleman rabbit sped away to his little red shingled house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street. Parking the Luckmobile in the garage, they hurried into the warm kitchen, the Yellow Dog Tramp to lie down before the kitchen stove, Little Miss Mousie to scamper into her little room, the door to which was a round hole in the floor in the corner of the sitting room, and dear Uncle Lucky to hop upstairs and into his pink pajamas.

NEW LONDON HEALTH OFFICER RULES AGAINST OUT-OF-STATE LIVE FOWL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 13—Health Officer Pannell announced today establishment of an embargo on live hens, chickens, capons, turkeys, etc., because of the contagious and infectious disease that has appeared among fowl brought into the state. He gave notice to the railroad and steamship companies today and the regulations of the department of domestic animals will be enforced.

The New Haven police tonight requested the New London authorities to be on the lookout for a Ford coach, 1924 model, and bearing registration, A-4462, which was stolen late this afternoon from one of the New Haven business streets.

The police believe that an attempt was made this evening by a burglar to enter the store of McMahon & Sexton, 60 State street, or one of the other stores in that vicinity, for shortly after 5 o'clock a fellow was discovered on the roof of the rear of the McMahon & Sexton building. The discovery was made by James R. May, real estate dealer, whose office is located on the second story of the building. The police were notified and Acting Lieut. James D. Gaffney and Patrolmen William Manice, Braxton Hill, John Sullivan and John Hogan hurried to the building and a search throughout the rear of the structure was made without the supposed crook being located. How the fellow could have gained the roof of the building mystifies the police, for a series of exceptionally high fences makes it next to impossible for the fences to be scaled except by means of a ladder. The police were of the opinion that the crook made his escape by climbing through one of the open windows of the building occupied by the Canton restaurant and slipping down the stairs to State street. The employes of the restaurant, however, declared that such was not the case.

While the police were making a search for the crook, Patrolman Hill discovered one of the windows of the Cook-Eaton company, 70 State street, open, but it is not believed that the crook forced the window, for the theory is that the window was carelessly left open when the store was closed at 6 o'clock. The police, however, made a search of the store, but did not find any of the stock disturbed. Harvey S. Easton, a member of the firm was located, and visited the place, but no evidence of the crook having entered the place was visible.

Deputy Collector of Customs Jeremiah Dillon was in New York today on business connected with the customs department.

Bonsens Engine company's pumper was given a test by Chief Charles Rose late this afternoon on the property of the New London Fruit & Produce company, Bank street, the pump being tested by a supply of water from Shaw's cove. The pumper became disabled a fortnight ago while responding to a call for assistance in fighting a serious blaze at Waterford.

Henry Healey was taken into custody tonight by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman August Ray when he was found on North Bank street, much the worse for overindulgence in drink. He will be given a hearing in the police court Saturday morning.

The crew of the motor yacht Pocomoke, Philadelphia, which was seized in the Sound several days ago with a cargo of approximately 1,000 cases of champagne, destined for the holiday trade, were before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich, at the customs house this afternoon. The crew were released, but the boat and her cargo were held.

David Taylor, colored, was locked up this evening when he appeared at the police station and applied for lodgings. Taylor, who has previously sought shelter at the police station, was beastly intoxicated tonight and when he entered the station house he was taken in charge by Desk Sergeant Frank Howard and lodged in a cell. Taylor will be arraigned in the police court tomorrow morning.

Many poor families throughout the city will receive a bounteous dinner Christmas day, for the Salvation Army and B. P. Learned Mission are completing arrangements for providing the needy families with a sufficient quantity of food for a family of five or six persons. The mission and the Salvation Army officials will distribute the foodstuffs Christmas eve so that wherever the families are supplied they will have their supply of articles early and in sufficient time to provide for the members of the household. Not only are the mission and the Salvation Army arranging for extending cheer to the destitute families, but New London lodge of Elks will distribute provisions and apparel to the less fortunate of the city's population, a practice the lodge has followed a number of years. Already a sum of close to $2,000 has been contributed by the members to defray the cost of supplying the wants and needs of the families found lacking.

At Hillside home, the home of the city's poor, a hearty meal will be served the inmates and at the New London county jail, which houses about a score of prisoners, a roast pork dinner will be served.

The Salvation Army is being assisted in raising its funds to defray the expense to be incurred in the generous project by a force of workers soliciting funds on the streets and by members stationed in the lobby of the theatres. At the playhouses the response to the solicitations of the Army workers has been prompt and liberal.

At the semi-annual meeting of Herrick lodge, No. 12, O. D. H. S., held in the rooms of the organization, Main street, last evening, Herman H. Appeldorn was elected president. The other officers elected are: August Dittman, vice president; Herman Staab, secretary; Paul Fendler, financial secretary; Gustave Neuman, treasurer; Fritz Vogt, trustee for 18 months. The installation ceremony will take place Wednesday, January 7th.

The public schools, St. Mary's parochial school, Williams Memorial Institute and Bulkeley High school closed today for the Christmas recess.

James Stanners returned to his home in Hanners street, today, having been under treatment at Home Memorial hospital several days.

Patrolman Edward Daniels is absent from night duty, being ill at his home in Howard street with grip.

Mrs. Robert D. Taylor, Bristol street, is in San Antonio, Texas, where she will spend the winter at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George W. Alves.

Miss Loretta Heavey underwent a minor operation at Lawrence hospital today.

Rev. Chester H. Hoke, pastor of the First Baptist church, was in Hartford Thursday.

Meyer Hollenbersky is contemplating the establishment of a big public garage in the rear of his Bank street property. He is now at work on it and on the erection of a three-story building on Bank street in front of the proposed garage. The property on Pearl street extends to the rear of the former Schwaner building, and is the most extensive parcel of real estate on that street under one ownership. The property known as the Hlinck place on which a handsome three story business building is to rise as soon as the work can be done shows a cellar of very large proportions. The Bulletin has already referred to the scheme for utilizing the sidewalk so that the second story of the building will overhand the first, and thus give more sidewalk space than would be possible if the wall of the building was brought out to the sidewalk line.

It is claimed that lamp chimneys are not to be found in the stores of this city. The day of the lamp has passed and electricity is responsible for this condition. Neither can burners for lamps be had here.

There is a revival of talk to cut Green street through to Tilley street thus giving a parallel street with upper Bank street that will greatly relieve congested travel in the business section of the city. With Bank street cut through by way of North Bank street to Main street above Federal street, it is believed that traffic next summer can be greatly relieved.

The pupils of Connecticut college begun their Christmas recess today. The young ladies flocked to the city this forenoon to get the 11.40 trains east and west. They were garbed in raincoats and furs and filled the railway station platform for a half hour before the departure of the trains.

All day today fog has hung over the river and sound. The weather was what was called propitious for the vessels that go to and come away from the liquor-carrying vessels that are at anchor in what is known as Rum Row, off Montauk Point. The small boats can go alongside the liquor carriers and get away with loads in the fog, for they cannot be seen from the coast guard craft and the revenue vessels that are on the watch for them. The enforcement craft are all operated by steam and they are not supposed to be cruising during fog so that the bootleggers have a chance to get supplies that does not come to them in clear weather.

New London lodge of Elks has arranged for a watch night, when the members will see the old year go and the new one come in. An orchestra of colored people will provide music and give some selections of an order not common in this city.

The city is to have a municipal Christmas tree on State street at the soldiers and sailors' monument. An appropriation of $50 has been made for the decoration of the tree by the city council and children of the public schools will sing carols under the direction of the instructor of music in the schools. The tree will be put in place early next week.

Railway postal clerks at the union station are doing overtime work this week and will so continue until Christmas day. The mails are reported to be very heavy, more cumbersome now than at any time in the history of the business at the station.

Some time ago the stores in general established a custom of closing at 6 o'clock, but they will deviate from that custom beginning Saturday and remains open for business till after Christmas even.

An effort may be made from New London to secure legislation that will insure the apparatus of the fire department greater freedom and avert hampering conditions that prevail now, when the apparatus is called into service for fires. The object is to prevent automobiles from approaching the vicinity of fire and following after fire apparatus as it passes to fires.

Brainard Masonic lodge has lost three members by death during the past three months.

One of the big double truck cars of the Connecticut company was derailed on State street, corner of Washington street, last night, when the car split the switch. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the car back on the rails and much more time was experienced in getting the car to the barn, because of motor trouble. During the time that a wrecking gang worked on the derailed and disabled trolley car, traffic on the main line was interrupted, while automobile traffic was greatly hindered, traffic officers being located during the congestion at the location of the derailment and between Washington and Main streets, on State street.

The resumption of the probe by a special committee of the city council for the purpose of determining the efficiency of the police department, which was temporarily discontinued a week ago, because of the absence from the city of Director of Law Frank L. McGuire has been deferred until some time next week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday. Director of Law McGuire, who, it was expected, would return to New London last night or today, has been detained in Pittsburgh and will not reach New London before Monday or Tuesday.

For several nights since residents of the city have placed Christmas wreaths outside the windows of their homes, they have suffered the loss of the decorations, thieves removing them. Last night a visit was made by the wreath thieves to houses on Federal and West streets, when a score or more wreaths were stolen. Complaint has been made to the police because of the thefts.

The funeral of Patrick J. Corcoran was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by many relatives and friends. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. The bearers were Michael O'Neill, John Flanhgan, James P. Neilan, Cornelius McGrath, P. J. Collins, and David M. Reagen. The committal service at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery was read by Rev. Fr. O'Callahan.

The funeral of Alex J. Dahl, former night watchman in the employ of the Standard Oil company, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 33 Eighth street. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron B. Genter. Relatives of Mr. Dahl acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

John Sideritz, 288 Ocean avenue, lodged complaint with the police today that while his automobile was parked on Masonic street yesterday afternoon some thief stole a motor meter.

Mrs. John Brown, of Howard street, Miss Alice Briggs, Westerly and Mrs. Fannie Rogers, Waterford, patients at Lawrence hospital were able to return to their respective homes today.

The condition of Alfred E. Saunders, of Mystic, who was found lying in the highway on Stanton Hill, near Mystic several nights ago with a fractured skull as the result of having been struck by an automobile, was reported this afternoon at Lawrence hospital, as being considerably improved.

Some men look for work with about as much enthusiasm as they would look for a case of smallpox.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET CLOSED REACTIONARY

New York, Dec. 19—Spectacular advances in special stocks featured today's market which advanced vigorously until just before the close when heavy week-end profit taking sales forced recessions of 1 to 3 points from the earlier highs in many issues. Despite the sharp curtailment in wire service to middle western and far western points because of sleet storms, trading was in enormous volume, the day's sales running over two million shares.

Nearly sixty issues attained new peak prices for the year, the industrial list including such representative stocks as United States Steel Common, American Locomotive, American Smelting, American Telephone, Studebaker, Mack Truck, the Pan-American issues, General Electric and International Harvester.

Brokers reported that the renewed demand for stocks was based on reports of further improvement in several lines of trade, rising commodity prices and the huge surplus of funds available for stock market and commercial purposes at low interest rates.

Some of the biggest gains took place in stocks in which a large short interest is believed to exist. Baldwin opened a point higher at 126 1-2 and then moved up rapidly to 132 3-4 as the shorts scurried to cover, later falling back to 130 3-8 for a net gain of about 5 points on the day. United States Cast Iron Pipe advanced from 155 to 161 and then slipped back to 158 1-2 a net gain of 6 3-4. American Can opened 1 1-2 points lower at 158 1-2, climbed rapidly to 163 1-2 and then fell back to about the opening price.

The general rail average was slightly lower at the close although New York Central, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, Louisville and Nashville, Southern Railway, Missouri Pacific preferred, Baldwin and Ohio preferred and Chicago Northwestern preferred all broke through their previous 1924 highs.

United States Steel common responded to the further stiffening of commodity prices by touching 119 3-8, the highest quotation since 1917. Crucible and Sloss-Sheffield also touched new tops while Gulf States Steel was run up about 4 points and then cancelled half of its gains.

Copper shares responded to reports for an increased export demand and additional sales of the red metal at 14 3-8 cents a pound, the year's high. Oil shares were galvanized into action by a remarkable bullish demonstration in the Pan-American issues, each of which closed more than two points higher. Transactions in the "B" stock alone approximated 120,000 shares. By reason of its dominant position in the fuel buying of the Pan-American has been due, in part, to speculative expectations of an increase in its dividends next year.

Some of the other individual strong spots were Texas Gulf Sulphur, General Rankin, Mathieson Alkali, Nash Motors, West Penn Power and American Car and Foundry, up 3 to 5 points.

United States Realty broke 9 points to 120 and then rallied 2 1-2 from its low price. Heaviness also was noted in Baltimore and Ohio, Lehigh Valley, United Railways Investment, Commercial Solvents B, Gimbel Brothers, Iron Products, Postum Cereal, Tidewater Oil and Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke, all of which closed 2 to 6 points lower. A bear drive against Mallinson forced that stock down 9 points but a good support was provided and it recovered half of its loss.

Call money held steady at 3 1-2 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged with business quiet.

The foreign exchanges developed moderate strength. Demand stearling ruled about three quarters of a cent higher around $4.70 1-2 and French Francs were quoted four points higher at 5.29 1-2 cents. Argentine pesos sold around 30 cents, the highest rate reached in recent years.

BOND MARKET

New York, Dec. 19.—Bond prices fluctuated irregularly in today's quiet trading. Investment buying of high grade railroad issues brought substantial advances in this group but these were counteracted by recessions in the speculative rails and industrial liens.

Firmness of the time money market had a tendency to retard trading activity although some encouragement was provided by the fact that the local federal reserve bank's rediscount rate remained unchanged at three per cent.

Demand for the investment railroad bonds embraced Delaware and Hudson convertible 6's, Great Northern 5's, Southern Pacific Refunding 4's, Northern Pacific 6's and "Nickel Plate" 5 1-2's, which scored gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. Frisco, "Katy" and St. Paul liens receded fractionally. Seaboard Adjustment 5s were quiet following the official announcement that no definite policy had been adopted regarding payments on accumulated interest.

Pan-American Petroleum bonds, keeping pace with a rise in the stocks of this company, led an upward movement in the oil issues, which were the strongest feature of the industrial group. Skelly 6 1-2's sold at a new high price for the year.

Interest in new financing centered in the announcement that a public offering would be made soon of $10,000,000 five year notes of the Krupp works of Germany.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 19.—New upward flights took wheat today, well beyond $1.75 a bushel as a goal for the May delivery here, and lifted all Chicago deliveries of wheat and rye to above any previous top quotations this season. The smashing of high price records was associated with continued reports of breadstuff shortages, especially an estimate that the world crop of wheat is 440,000,000 bushels less than last year's total. Closing prices on wheat were strong, 1 1-2 to 3 3-8 net higher. May 1.76 3-8 to 1.76 1-2 and July 1.51 2-8 to 1.51 1-2, with corn 1-8 to 7-8 up, oats 1-4 to 5-8 off, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 35 cents gain.

Indications of liberal foreign buying of future deliveries of wheat here acted as an early stimulating influence in the wheat market today, and so did a sharp advance in Liverpool quotations of wheat available for immediate delivery there.

Bullish aspects of the United States government crop report as to wheat and rye were given considerable attention, particularly the fact that the condition both of wheat and rye was shown to be below what had been generally expected.

Corn price advances were due almost entirely to wheat strength. Profit taking sales weakened oats.

Provisions averaged higher, in line with grains and hogs.

CURB MARKET

New York, Dec. 19.—Spirited bidding for the public utility issues featured the rising trend of prices in today's curb market. Commonwealth Power was boosted 7 points to 130, American Power & Light advanced 3 3-4 to 68 3-8 and Lehigh Power securities moved up 3 3-8 to 98 7-8 while several others, including American Light & Traction and Middle West utilities advanced a point or so.

Oils pointed upward but they failed to rally as extensively as the Petroleum issues on the "big board." Lago touched a new top at 8 3-4 and Prairie Oil & Gas closed a point higher at 209 but the other gains were largely nominal.

Radio issues continued to reflect the heavy Christmas demand for radio sets. Dubilier responded to the proposal of a stock dividend by mounting to a new record at 63 1-4 but the traditional "selling of the good news" carried it back to 64 1-4. The stock sold as low as 10.50 a share earlier in the year. Ware closed a point higher and Thermiodyne touched a new top at 17 3-4.

Except for a gain of about a point by Lehigh Valley Coal certificates, the most active feature, there was little of interest in the industrial list.

In the bond list, International Match 6 1-2's of 1943 were again actively traded in, closing a point higher at 114 1-2.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

MANY POINTS IN JUDGING VALUE OF CALVES

"Is my calf worth raising?" is a question continually asked by farmers throughout the country. It's no easy question to answer, for there are so many possibilities in an individual animal that it is difficult to predict just what combinations are going to predominate.

The best way for each breeder to tackle the problem is to consider carefully these points: First, not whether the calf has promise of constitutional vigor, and capacity to produce; second, see if its sire has any producing daughters that are worth while, or better than their dams; third, find the production of the calf's dam, and of the dam's dam; fourth, look up the production of the sire's dam.

If all these things can be determined satisfactorily, there is a good prospect of the calf developing in a worthy individual. If a purebred calf, these questions can probably be answered much more easily than if a grade calf. In looking up pedigrees, by the way, don't become too enthused over a calf because his great-grandsire or his great-granddam was a "world beater." The nearest dams and sires are far more important.

ANIMAL PROTEIN FEED INCREASES HEN PROFIT

According to H. W. Fitting, of the poultry department at Purdue university, twenty-four farmers in Vermillion county having an aggregate of 1,400 hens, are keeping daily egg records in co-operation with the Purdue university poultry extension division, as is being done also in numerous other counties in the state.

Eighteen of these farmers are feeding animal protein, either tankage or skim milk, to their hens, while the other six are only feeding grain, such as corn, oats and wheat.

An interesting observation is that during October, when eggs were scarce, the hens which were fed tankage or skim milk produced, on the basis of 44 cents a dozen for eggs, an average of 25 cents' worth of eggs a hen. On the contrary, the hens which were not fed the tankage or skim milk produced only 15 cents' worth of eggs on the average.

A laying hen may be fed about one-half pound of tankage each month, costing about 2 cents, which investment will return about 10 cents profit, Mr. Fitting said. Since with the present high grain prices the monthly cost of feeding a hen is about 15 cents, the farmers who are feeding no animal protein to their birds are only breaking even on the feed costs and virtually receiving nothing for their labor, he asserted.

Those farmers who are feeding the tankage or skim milk are profiting even at a time of the year when the farmer does not expect much from his hens, he said.

In the high flock of this feeding project which fed the excellent ration, the average was 60 cents worth of eggs a hen, producing a handsome profit to the owner. In the low flock, which received no animal protein, each hen during October produced 4 1-2 cents worth of eggs which, in other words, lost the owner about 10 cents a hen for feed and labor.

METHODS SUGGESTED FOR PACKING MEATS

Now that winter is here, with freezing weather, fresh meat, secured by farm slaughter of a cow or pig, can be kept for a long period. It is probable that more swine than cows will be killed for home consumption in this county. The fresh pork may be allowed to freeze, then if the cuts are wrapped and packed in oats or sawdust they will remain in perfect condition for a long time.

The Massachusetts Agricultural college extension service has published a leaflet on the methods of curing pork and for hams, shoulders and bacon strips recommends the following procedure for a good sugar cure and smoke:

After the meat is trimmed, rub with fine salt and allow it to drain over night. Pack in a barrel or large crock with the ham and shoulders in the bottom, skin side down. Cover with a brine made as follows: For each 100 pounds of meat use eight pounds salt, two pounds brown sugar, and two ounces saltpeter, dissolved in four gallons of boiling water. Remove all scum from brine and allow it to cool before pouring it over the meat. Enough brine should be used to entirely cover the meat.

Bacon strips should be left in the brine from four to six weeks and the hams and shoulders six to eight weeks depending on whether a mild or strong cure is desired. Remove the meat from the brine, wash with warm water and brush the surface to prevent a crust of salt forming when it dries.

Allow the meat to hang for a day or two in the smoke house before starting the fire. Green hickory or maple wood smothered with sawdust makes the best fire for smoking. If a steady fire is maintained the meat should be thoroughly smoked in from 24 to 36 hours. Care should be taken not to overheat the meat.

Smoked meat will keep for a time in the smoke house, if dark and protected from insects. To preserve for a long time, rub each piece with pepper, wrap in parchment paper or newspapers and sew in a canvas or heavy burlap bag. After sewing up the meat paint the outside of the canvas or burlap with common lime whitewash to which has been added a little glue. Store in a cool dark room where the temperature will be uniform, and let the meat hang without touching other pieces.

For preparing salt pork the following formula is given: Salt pork may be made by cutting side strips into six-inch squares and rubbing each piece with salt. Pack closely in a crock or clean barrel. After the pork has remained in the barrel for a night pour in a brine made by dissolving 10 pounds of meat salt in four gallons of boiling water, for each 100 pounds pork. Allow the brine to cool before pouring it into the barrel, cover the pork with brine and place boards with a weight on top to hold the pork under.

The trimming of a pork carcass may be utilized for sausage in this way: To each three pounds of lean meat trimmings add one pound of fat, and run the mixture through a grinder. Add the seasoning material and run through the grinder again. A standard seasoning recipe for sausage is one ounce salt, one-half ounce black pepper, and one-half ounce sage, to each four pounds of sausage meat. Sausage may be packed in crocks and covered with hot lard, or stuffed into muslin bags or casings.

USE CARE IN FEEDING THE HORSE

Care in feeding horses, especially when they are working hard, as during harvesting, will pay well. New York men who are making a study of the horse declare. A horse's stomach has a capacity of only 19 quarts, as compared with 267 quarts for a cow of equal weight. He therefore needs to be fed more often and in smaller quantities than a cow; he will do more work, keep in better flesh, and have better wind if he is not allowed to stuff himself to full capacity with hay.

A horse is always more susceptible to sudden changes in feeds than any other farm animal. Similarly, the character of feed required by young growing animals or dairy cows. A good rule for feeding a horse doing moderate work is given as 1 1-4 pounds of hay and three quarters of a pound of grain to each hundred pounds of weight, but horses at hard work are sometimes given as much as 1 1-4 pounds of grain.

Corn or barley, being starchy foods, balance the protein in alfalfa hay, and are fed with it, while oats contain enough protein to make up for the lack of it in timothy. A protein concentrate, such as wheat bran, will balance the ration if corn is fed with timothy. Cutting down the ration and feeding bran is the best substitute for pasture when the horse is idle; a full ration then is almost sure to result in stocked legs, according to experienced horsemen.

WINTER IS SEASON FOR REPAIRING EQUIPMENT

"Well-painted and well-oiled farming implements attract the best type of labor," said Roy Castor, one of the largest land owners in central Indiana. "Well-kept farm machinery makes working conditions better, and at the same time enables the men to do a better day's work. When machinery has been painted and kept well even the most careless workman will be more careful with the outfit which is given to him. That is natural, and better returns will be received by the owner of the machinery. At least that has been my experience. The men on my farms where the machinery is kept in good repair and painted take pride in keeping things "shin shape," and every farmer knows how much farm labor can be saved each year by care and precaution in handling equipment. Paint and oil has both physical and psychological effects on farming."

Some farmers who are business men as well as farmers, say that failure to paint and oil machinery brings depreciation up to as much as 25 per cent every year, whereas with proper care and protection the implements will last for an indefinite period. The replacement and repair of farm machinery made necessary by decay, rust and carelessness on the part of the owner are only half the story. John Harley, a large farmer of northern Indiana, said he knows of many binders, mowers, thrashing machines, grain drills, wagons and other equipment that have been in use from thirty to fifty years.

"But the owners of this equipment have spent much time each year, when work on the farm was slack, in painting and oiling their machinery," he said.

In the tillage of the soil and the harvesting of the crops many things must be taken into account. Time is probably the most important one. Time depends in a measure on weather conditions, but in a greater degree on the condition of the agricultural implements when they are needed. Broken plows and cultivators, when the season is in full blast, are aggravating things and this loss and delay are largely the result of the machinery not getting the necessary repairs in the winter. In the event a tractor or a mower breaks down when a crop is ready for harvest it may tie up operations at the most critical moment. While the farmer is sending away for the necessary repairs the grain may reach the shattering stage, or storms may flatten it. Machinery which is kept in repair and painted properly and oiled, as a rule, will not break down when it is needed.

Prosperity on the farm is due in a large measure to good equipment. Just now, when the business farmers are putting away their machinery for the winter, they are painting the wooden parts for protection and putting oil on the iron parts to keep them from rusting. Then many of the more enterprising farmers insist that if farm trucks, wagons and machinery are painted they will sell much better at farm sales.

Further depreciation to farm property is likely due to dampness in barns, corn cribs and other places used for crop storage, unless these structures are repaired properly. Hay for instance, is a bulky crop, but it must be stored inside, because it is too valuable at $18 and $20 a ton to put up in ricks. Water leaking through the roof or side wall of the barn where the hay is stored can cause a great deal of damage. A good coat of paint on all outbuildings used for storing products will protect and conserve them.

NORWICH TOWN

Plans are progressing for the community Christmas tree and festival to be held Christmas night on Norwich Town green, under the auspices of the Norwich Rusral association.

President Francis Gilman, who also is general chairman of the celebration activities is keeping closely in touch with his several committees, who are assisting him to repeat the success of last year.

This week a large and shapely spruce treet, the general gift of the Gilman family, has been cut, hauled, and placed on the green, under the efficient supervision of Bartholomew Sullivan, chairman of the tree committee, and helpers. The tree is about 40 feet high and has been made secure with guy ropes contributed through the courtesy of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company, by its manager, Harold D. Larabee.

About 15 feet out from the main tree are 12 young cedars, 10 or 12 feet apart and so arranged as to form a wide circle.

The work of setting up the trees was practically completed by Mr. Sullivan on Friday.

The lighting of the tree will be in the hands of Clyde M. Beebe, chairman of the lighting committee, as last year. The work of an electrician in wiring the tree will require a day or two, then the decorations will be quite complete and the lights in readiness to switch on Christmas eve, preceding the evening of the celebration.

It is planned to have 150 or more electric light bulbs of assorted colors, arranged in such a manner that the tree from all sides will look brilliantly lighted.

There is much enthusiasm on the part of the townspeople and much interest has been shown thus far.

It is expected that large delegations from nearby places will contribute to the evening's success by their presence as well as by assisting in the community singing.

BRITISH ATTITUDE ON NATIONAL DEBT PROBLEM

London, Dec. 19.—(By The A. P.)—In all probability no more correspondence on the subject of American reparations claims will pass between the British government and the United States until the meeting of the allied treasury heads at Paris in January, when, it is understood in official quarters, Great Britain hopes her representatives there will have an opportunity to arrive at an understanding with the American delegate accredited to the conference for this purpose.

It has been stated the British official attitude on the debt situation is that the government is not concerned in the matter of other creditors of the United States receiving better terms than England, but Great Britain would not be inclined to assume a docile attitude in the event of a debtor nation giving precedence in payment to another creditor.

Norwich Bulletin

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

NORWICH, CONN., SATURDAY, DEC. 20, 1924.

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday, Dec. 20, 1924.

THE WEATHER

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Strong northwest, probably of gale force and weather overcast, probably rains or snow Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Northwest gales and overcast weather, probably local rains Saturday.

Conditions

The cold wave will overspread practically all portions east of the Mississippi river within the next 24 to 36 hours and weather will continue cold for several days. Freezing temperature is probably as far south as Central Florida by Monday morning.

There will probably be local snows in the Washington forecast district Saturday. Sunday will probably be fair. Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Maine.

The area of abnormally high pressure and low temperature has continued to spread eastward and southward and Friday night it covered all sections from Alaska southeastward over western and central Canada and the entire United States except the Atlantic states and along the east gulf coast. At Washington the temperature reached 74 degrees which is the highest of record for December. Precipitation has occurred almost generally within the last 24 hours over the eastern half of the country.

Ten P. M. Advisory

North of Boston to Eastport, Maine, disturbance central over Cape Cod, and moving eastward, will be followed by rapidly rising pressure and strong northwest winds.

Forecast

For southern New England: Cloudy and much colder, possibly snow flurries Saturday; cold wave Saturday night; Sunday cloudy, and colder.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY TO MAKE CHRISTMAS GIFTS

The splendid cooperative spirit which exists is well manifested by members of Mercier Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus. Candy boxes are being made and filled and the boxes of toyh to be sent out make the assembly rooms look indeed like Santa Claus top shop. The object of the committee and members is to make the children happy for Christmas. A good sized sum of money has been contributed for this purpose and many splendid contributions have came from interested persons outside of the society. The children will be entertained on the lawn of the Knights of Columbus home on Broadway, by the joint committee of Knights of Columbus and Catholic Ladies of Columbus, Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock with Santa Claus as guest of honor.

On Christmas morning the boxes of toys will be distributed by automobiles to worthy children.

On Sunday, January 4th the state president, Mrs. Esther Reardon of Rockville, will be present to install the officers of Hoey assembly and of Mercier assembly, the meeting to be in the Community house on Church street at 2.30 o'clock.

Plans are about perfected for the card party to be given by the musical club in the assembly rooms on this Monday evening after Christmas.

The reports of officers submitted at the last regular meeting, show the splendid results obtained from the work done by the members of the assembly during 1924 and very bright prospects await on the horizon of 1925.

FINED FOR THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE PARTS

Joseph Shurly of the Westchester section of Colchester was found guilty of theft of automobile parts when presented before Justice of the Peace John Sweeney in Bozrah Thursday night and was fined $25 on each count. He also made restitution of $50 to Patrick Sullivan and $25 to John Beswick and returned the stolen parts.

The man was arrested about two weeks ago by County Detective William Lewis, Constables Riley and Hoxie, who found a large quantity of automobile parts at the man's place, the largest part of which are believed to have been stolen.

A Trumbull portrait, the subject being a merchant of Norwich, Conn., of the Revolutionary period, has recently been presented to the Chicago Art Institute by an anonymous donor.

PARK CHURCH WOMAN'S FEDERATON ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Women's Federation of Park church was held in the parlors of the Osgood Memorial on Friday afternoon. After devotional exercises led by the president, Mrs. Frederick W. Carey, the report of the last meeting was read by the secretary, Mrs. Harriet Blackmar. The most important item was the budget system suggested at that meeting which will be tried for one year any way.

In the absence of Miss Amy Cogswell, the chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. Frederick Sayles read the following names for the coming year.

President, Mrs. Frederic W. Carry; first vice president, Mrs. Frank Hempstead; second vice president, Miss Edith M. Bliss; third vice president, Miss Louise C. Howe; missions department, Miss Edith M. Bliss; parish house department, Miss Louise C. Howe; recording secretary, Mrs. John S. Blackmar; corresponding secretary, Miss Barbar Allen; treasurer, Mrs. Rollin C. Jones; finance, Henry D. Johnson; membership, Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley; hospitality, Mrs. John F. Rogers; programme, Mrs. Edward J. Graham; sewing, Mrs. Herbert Branch; custodian of parish house, Mrs. Harrison Gray; church interior, Miss Mary A. C. Avery; friendly aid committee, Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson; hospital committee, Mrs. Charles A. Saxton; Sunday school library, Mrs. Frank S. Bunnell; flower committee, Miss Margaret Sayles; young people's work, Camp Fire, Mrs. Louis H. Walden and Mrs. Bennedict C. Pullen; Blue Birds, Mrs. Frank L. Crowell, Mrs. W. Manley Eastwood, Mrs. Beatrice Eastwood Peterson and Miss Ruth Loring; auditor, Henry D. Johnson.

The above officers were unanimously elected.

Mrs. Blackmar's report for the year showed how many had taken part in the meetings of the federation and how much work had been accomplished. The year's report from the treasurer showed a comfortable credit balance, an ever welcome result in church finances.

The meeting closed with the serving of tea by Mrs. Harrison Gray and Miss Annie Vaughn.

NINE DAYS REMAIN TO REGISTER AUTOMOBILES

With nine days remaining in this year for the issuance of motor vehicle registration certificates for the year 1925, less than one-quarter of the cars now in use in the state have been registered. Approximately 50,000 motor vehicles are ready, so far as registration is concerned, to get on the highways on New Year's Day. The number is about 60,000 less than the number of cars which may be expected to be offered for registration for the entire year 1925, judging from the experiences of previous years. In other words nearly 7,000 cars will have to be registered daily between now and the end of the year if the same proportion of the cars owned in the state are to be registered for use January 1. This will mean the same long lines of waiting applicants at New Haven, Bridgeport, Waterbury and New London.

The motor vehicle department began issuing 1925 registrations as early as October 20 this year. Despite this fact and the issuance of repeated requests for early registrations to avoid a great rush at the end of the year, motor vehicle owners have not responded in any greater numbers than usual in proportion to the total registration of the state. Extra clerks and added facilities have been provided by the department two months and ten days in advance of the time when the change in registration markers on all cars is required by the law.

The policy of the motor vehicle department will be the same this year as it was a year ago, not to ask police authorities in the several towns and cities to extend the period for use of 1924 markers beyond the legal limit, December 31 at midnight.

WILLIAM H. FRINK FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON FLOOR

The Bulletin's Goshen correspondent writes:

A. J. Randall, who is taking the agricultural census in town, called at the home of William H. Frink on the Scott Hill road, finding it peculiar not to see Mr. Frink about. He opened the door to find Mr. Frink lying unconscious on the kitchen floor. This was Wednesday morning. Mr. Frink seemed as well as usual Tuesday evening. He had lived alone for several years. It is thought he had a shock. Help was gotten from his nearest nighbor and Mr. Frink is being carefully looked after.

GOODYEAR CO. TO BUILD BIGGEST AIR CRAFT

Because the Goodyear Company controls the activities of the village of Goodyear, Windham county, there is Eastern Connecticut interest in the following dispatch from Akron, Ohio: Construction of a proposed giant dirigible of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity, twice as large as the Los Angeles, by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation at Akron, is only a step toward development of an airship of dimensions never before considered in air craft construction, P. W. Litchfield, president of the corporation, indicated in a statement recently.

"A dirigible with 10,000,00 cubic feet capacity, capable of making nonstop flights around the world, probably will be the next job tackled by the corporation after exhaustive tests have been made with the 5,000,000-cubic-foot dirigible, Mr. Litchfield stated.

"A 10,000,000-cubic-foot ship could carry a proportionately greater pay load than a 5,000,000-cubic-foot ship, and could fly around the world in a non-stop flight—could fly it either way. Indeed around the equator or around the poles," he said.

"However, it is logical to start first in the intermediate size of a 5,000,000 or 6,000,000-cubic-foot ship and learn what problems are involved before going into the next step."

He declared that taking up the design of the 5,000,000-cubic-foot ship was in itself a new problem.

"This ship will be twice as large as any airship ever built before," he said. "In undertaking the design of a shop, there are various considerations that must be taken into account—whether the first requirements of American would be a military or commercial ship is a primary factor involving many variations in design."

Noted Rabbi Pays Tribute to Scouting

The spiritual and non-sectarian character of the Scout movement has recently received a strong tribute from Dr. Julian Morgenstern, president of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio, who was one of the principal speakers at the 1924 conference of Scout executives. Dr. Morgenstern has written the national office as follows:

"Now that I am back at home, and have had time to consider the work of the recent conference of Boy Scout executives which I was privileged to attend, I am more than ever impressed by what I saw, heard and learned.

"I am more deeply impressed than ever by the value of the Boy Scout work in its every phase. I feel it to be one of the supreme movements making for the development of a right boyhood and a healthy manhood and citizenship in America. Its religious work I find to be broad, constructive and truly spiritual and absolutely free from all denominational partisanship. I believe that all the churches of America ought to give loyal and eager support to this movement; particularly to the Jews of America and to our Jewish congregations I commend the movement most heartily and unqualifiedly.

"I would like to see at least one Scout troop organized in every synagogue in the land. I find the movement to be in complete sympathy with the aims of Judaism in America and feel convinced that the presence of a Scout troop in a synagogue can make only for the deepening and intensification of the spirit of loyalty and positive Jewish observance of all its members."

CONSTIPATION OVERCOME

The use of Foley Cathartic Tablets will bring speedy relief from constipation if taken promptly. They are purely vegetable and act on the liver. Mr. John D. McComb, Lucas Co. Home, Toledo, Ohio, writes: "Have used Foley Cathartic Tablets in severe cases of constipation to which I am subject and found them beneficial." Foley Cathartic Tablets are easy to take, leave no unpleasant after effects. Try them. Lee & Osgood.

NO EVIDENCE OF MISUSE OF STATE FUNDS

Methods of operation and of accounting in the office of the state treasurer are not up-to-date and do not adequately safeguard the funds of the state, Searle, Cakey and Miller, accountants who have been examining state funds to ascertain if there has been any misappropriation of funds by former Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric have reported to Gov. C. A. Templeton.

The report shows no evidence of misuse of funds by the former treasurer, but says many opportunities exist for irregularities and for misappropriations of funds which would be eliminated by the establishment of up-to-date methods of accounting. A number of recommendations are made, one of the chief being that the state treasurer should be a full time official and should not at the same time be an officer or employe of a bank or financial officer of a corporation. The salary of $2,500 for the treasurer and $4,000 for the deputy treasurer is called utterly inadequate for men responsible for the handling of $25,000,000 annually.

It criticizes the present system which allows the head clerk in the treasurer's office to control the school fund, stating that many officers and employes of the state have borrowed money on mortgages from the school fund or bought school fund property. Such practice should be prohibited and the treasurer or deputy treasurer should assume responsibility for the fund rather than the head clerk.

ALBANIA HAS APPEALED TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Bishop Fan S. Noli, the Premier, Has Proclaimed Jugo Slavia as the Invader—Asserts That Soldiers of Bulgarian Origin Have Taken Refuge in Jugo Slavia and Are Among the Invaders—Transport of War Material is Being Done by Jugo Slavian Automobiles—Politics in Italy Are in a State of Commotion.

Geneva, Dec. 21.—(By The A. P.)—Actively supporting Albania's appeal to the League of Nations against Jugo Slavia is Jos. H. Bilnisthi, Albania's permanent representative in Geneva, who issued a strenuous Sunday circulating [illegible] in an endeavor to [illegible] the appeal of Bishop Fan S. Noli, Albania's bishop-premier, for intervention.

Mr. Bilnisthi issued a series of communiques fresh from Bishop Noli at Tirana, insisting that the people of Albania, far from revolting against the existing regime, have become more and more united in combatting the foreign invaders. Jugo Slavia is proclaimed as the invader. Further, the communiques allege the seizure of guns near the frontier bearing marks which prove that they were furnished by the Jugo Slavian army.

Despatches received by Bishop Noli's legions are claimed in the communiques to have admitted that they participated in incursions into Albania by [illegible] assembled at Prizend, [illegible] the statements says that soldiers of Bulgarian origin who had taken [illegible] Jugo Slavia are also [illegible] invaders and are in charge of the heavy and light artillery. It declares that the entire transport of [illegible] and general war material is [illegible] Jugo Slavian automobiles.

[illegible] communique issued by Dr. [illegible] bare-faced invention of the whole story, the report that [illegible] Essad Pasha conference to depose Premier Noli and all [illegible] of his ministry.

Meanwhile the council of the League of Nations finds itself confronted with a Balkan conflict which it is recognized will require delicate handling [illegible] with the application [illegible] probably will necessitate a special session of the council.

POLITICS IN ITALY ARE IN A STATE OF COMMOTION

Rome, Dec. 21. (By the A. P.)—Premier Mussolini's drastic announcement in the chamber of deputies yesterday, giving notice of a bill modifying the electoral law, kept the political atmosphere buzzing today. The senate and chamber, the newspaper men, legations and other circles were in a state of commotion. Most of the deputies have not yet recovered from their astonishment.

Mussolini's decision is interpreted as meaning that he intends to have the general elections in March a [illegible] it has caused something of a shock among the majority members as well as the opposition.

Former Premier Giolitti expressed satisfaction that Mussolini finally had decided to return to the electoral system which Giolitti had always supported. This system, he argued, had worked well in Italy for over half a century, since the constitution was granted; that it responded better to the testing of the nation, each voter preferring to choose his own deputy rather than to vote for a collective party ticket, which gave him the impression that he had no representative in parliament.

Former Premier Salandra also approved the bill, saying that he and his friends had always supported a return to the old electoral system, but he expressed doubt as to whether he would stand again for parliament the next election.

In expressing his support of the bill, former Premier Orland said: "It undoubtedly was a master stroke on the part of Mussolini to seize the bull by the horns," thus upsetting the plans of the opposition and even of some of his [illegible].

Tommaso Amendola, former minister of the colonies, who is the mouthpiece of the opposition, declared: "Rather than have the next elections under the fascist government we prefer to make to make a resolution."

The so-called Aventine opposition, when Amendola personifies, together with Deputies Filippa Turati, leader of the intransigeant socialists, Modigliani and Cesaro, has adopted a resolution declaring the Mussolini's move in presenting an electoral bill is mere an attempt to distract attention from the gravity of the situation and to find an outlet for the government, "which morally and politically is unable any longer to stand the grave responsibility of a situation which it has created."

The resolution goes on to say that the bill presented by Mussolini is implicit acknowledgment that the opposition is right in maintaining that the fascist majority in the chamber is illegal, and that the presentation of the bill cannot imply that the present government will carry the general election, experience having shown that free election and a fascist government are incompatible terms."

The resolution concludes with the statement that the opposition has unanimously decided not to participate in parliamentary work, despite the attitude of the government regarding the electoral law, and that it will refuse "to take into consideration the absurd reports of amnesty which the present government would grant to themselves."

The definite attitude of the various parliamentary groups is not yet clear, but from present indications, it would appear that the extremist fascisti are annoyed in the fear that for the the next elections may be less successful than the previous elections. In addition, they look upon the new electoral bill as a concession to the opposition and a renunciation of the intransigeant spirit animating fascism.

The moderate fascisti, who are more numerous, consider Mussolini's move a wise one, permitting the government to overcome present difficulties, clear up the situation and reconstruct the fascisti party.

The liberals of the right, as Salandra's followers are called, approve the electoral bill, nursing the hope that Salandra may be Mussolini's successor. The liberals of the left—Giolittis followers—are equally satisfied with the bill, also in the hope that Giolitti may be his successor.

Naturally the section which joined the Aventine opposition is irreconcilable, while the section which remained with the majority is undecided as to whether to support the bill, as the Catholics have always been the strongest upholders of the system of voting for a collective party ticket and giving preferential votes, by which system they have won more than 100 seats in the chamber.

The democrats led by Cesaro, stand by the resolution adopted by the Aventine opposition; they are not opposed to the new electoral bill, but refuse to participate in the discussions in the chamber except under the one condition that new general elections shall not be carried out under the fascist regime.

The Unitarian socialists led by Deputy Turati, refuse to be taken in, as they put it, by the presentation of an electoral bill which they characterize as "a jack-in-the-box."

The Maximalist socialists think that Mussolini aims to bridge over the conflict which they believe exists between fascismo and the crown, creating a new situation whereby a conservative coalition will be formed, having as its chief exponents Mussolini, Salandro and Federzoni. Therefore they are more than ever Mussolini's opponents.

DENIAL MADE BY JUGO SLAV LEGATION IN PARIS

Paris, Dec. 21 (By the A. P.)—The Jugo Slav legation in Paris, on behalf of its government, today issued a categorical denial on charges brought against it in connection with the disorders in Albania. The note issued by the legation says that Jugo Slavia has distinctly observed the principle of non-intervention in the internal affairs of Albania, the independence of which country Jugo Slavia always has considered one of the essential guarantees for peace in the Balkans.

The note ascribes the present troubles in Albania to bolshevist agitation and political struggles among the various parties, which it says exist throughout the country and are not limited to the frontier.

STATEMENT TO SHAREHOLDERS BY THE CUDAHY PACKING CO.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—President E. A. Cudahy of the Cudahy Packing company says in a statement to shareholders that the company's net profit for the year is $8,352,229, based on a total sales of $203,750,000, representing an inventory turnover of slightly more than ten times in the course of the year. The frequent turnover, Mr. Cudahy says, enabled the company to sell its products at an average profit of a quarter of a cent a pound.

On the quarter cent profit the company has added $2,083,714 to its surplus.

Disapprove Mussolini's Bill.

Rome, Dec. 21.—(By The A. P.)—The opposition parties today passed a resolution expressing the disapproval of Premier Mussolini's electoral bill. It is declared that the bill tends to cloud the political issues and that it will make possible the holdings of elections by the Fascist government under the conditions announced.

TRYING TO GET A STANDARD TENNIS BALL

New York, Dec. 21.—Tennis associations and players throughout the world are engaged in an effort to bring about further standardization of the ball, according to an announcement by the United States Lawn Tennis association.

It has come to be the universal opinion of players coming from distant sections to compete in international play are handicapped by the type of ball used, especially if it is one to which they are not accustomed. These differences are not always due to manufacture, atmospheric conditions, type of court and other factors entering into consideration.

At a recent meeting of the council of the English Lawn Tennis association, the ball test committee, which has been carrying on such investigations, reported that a large number of tests had been made in twenty-five different makes of ball, all of which professed to comply with existing definitions of a lawn tennis ball which provide limits for its diameter, its weight and its bounce. The national committee, in the course of its investigations, recorded the hardness of the ball, the inflation pressure; height of bounce after deflation; reduction in diameter after deflation; alteration in hardness of ball in storage a[illegible]ing to the length of time in storage, etc.

Among the findings are statements to the effect that a soft ball will feel lighter on the racket than the harder ball; that with a given racket action it is possible to impart more spin to a soft ball than similar action will impart to a hard ball; that in baseline driving the hard ball and the soft ball will each, after bouncing, come off the ground differently.

The council of the English association, in accepting the committee's recommendations, voted to add a fourth requirement to the ball regulations which would define hardness or compression with a view to containing greater regularity in performance.

COAST GUARD CUTTER TAMPA HAS FREIGHTER IN TOW

Boston, Dec. 21.—The steamer Manaqui was reported in distress today off the island of Nantucket, in a wireless message received at the Boston navy yard. The message stated that she had lost her propeller. The coast guard cutter Tampa was rushed from this port to her assistance and help was also sent from New York, it was reported.

The Tampa reached the Manaqui late today, according to advices received here by an official of the United Fruit Steamship company, which owns the vessel. The Tampa, it was reported, was able to take the freighter in tow, despite the gale that was blowin, and started for New York to meet a steamer which, it was said, had been dispatched from that port. The Manaqui was to be turned over to the New York boat, it was planned, to be towed to New York city for repairs.

The Manaqui sailed from Boston yesterday noon for Havana. She carried one passenger in addition to her regular crew. She is an oil-burning ship of steel construction, of 2,802 registered tons, and was built at Glasgow in 1921.

M'CULLOUGH ELECTED HEAD OF NEW CENTRAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh, Dec. 21.—At a meeting here today of owners of six franchises in the central baseball league, formed six weeks ago, W. T. McCullough of this city was elected president and announcement was made that two additional teams would be added to the circuit. Franchises, it was announced now are held in Erie, Johnston, Altoona, Pa., Youngstown, and Canton, Ohio, and Wheeling, W. Va. A committee was appointed to consider applications for franchises from Dayton, Ohio; Springfield, Ohio; Akron, Ohio; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Parkersburg, W. Va.; New Castle, Uniontown and Washington, Pa. Selection of two teams to complete the circuit will be made January 4, it was announced.

TWO WOMEN LEAPED TO DEATH FROM ROOFS

New York, Dec. 21.—Two women plunged to death from apartment houses here today. Police reported both as suicides. The women were Mrs. Mary Klineck, 34, and Miss Frieda Cohen, 34, stenographer.

Despondency over the death of her husband and financial embarrassment were said by relatives to have been the cause of Mrs. Klineck's act.

FUNERAL OF HORACE L. WELLS IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 21.—The funeral of Horace L. Wells, emeritus professor of chemistry at Yale university, whose death occurred Friday morning, was held today at his home, 239 Edwards street. Interment followed in the Old Lyme cemetery at Old Lyme.

Prof. Wells was a member of the Academy of Science and several other organization and was for many years connected with the department of chemistry at Yale.

Washable maps have been invented, on which records that are to be changed frequently can be made with water colors or crayons.

Business Starting On Upward Movement

Cheerful Tone Prevails in Financial and Business Circles.

New York, Dec. 21.—(By The A. P.)—With the chief speculative markets still buoyant, a cheerful tone prevailed in financial and business circles last week.

Industrial news continued favorable. Operations in the steel industry reached 80 per cent. of capacity with the leading interest maintaining a somewhat better rate. Firmness in steel prices was maintained with the position strengthened by advances in wages paid coke workers in the non-union plants.

The latest figures on car loadings reflected the improvement in the railroad industry. While the freight movement at this time of year normally slackens in response to such influences as the closing of navigation on the Great Lakes, the car loadings during the week ended December 6 totaled 968,000. This is materially higher than the best record for the week in any previous year.

According to the more optimistic opinions, business is now started off on an upward movement that will continue at a steady pace during the whole of the coming year. On the other hand, there are those who foresee the possibility of another short wave of overproduction similar to that of last spring.

Further strength in grains was a feature of the week. Wheat gained about 9 cents with the May future rising above $1.76, a new high level for the year. More discussion of the possibility of a world shortage in this commodity was a factor, as was active speculation for the rise.

Cotton remained quiet and continued to move within a comparatively narrow range. A moderate rally early in the week on the large November exports and the consumption report for that month was reduced after the census bureau announced that ginnings to December 13 amounted to 12,706,000 bales. The latter report was interpreted as indicating that the crop would exceed 13,000,000 bales. More wage reductions were announced at the New England mills.

BREAK IN ANTHRACITE COAL STRIKE EXPECTED

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 21.—A break in the strike of 12,000 Pennsylvania and Hillside Coal and Iron company mine workers is expected before the end of the week by district union officials.

District President Rinaldo Capellini announced tonight that he would attend a special meeting for the Underwood colliery strikers in Olyphant tomorrow and take a vote of the men on a proposition to end the strike immediately and allow him to handle the Underwood grievances. The district president declared that he would meet with all of the other local unions affected by the general committee's strike order and submit his request for a poll on the ending of the walkout to the membership of the individual local.

PUBLIC OFFERING BY THE BRIGGS MANUFACTURING CO.

New York, Dec. 21. — The Briggs Manufacturing company, of Detroit, one of the largest manufacturers of closed automobile bodies, tomorrow will change from a closed corporation to one in which the public will have an interest. Public offering of $400,000 shares of the company's stock will be made by local bankers at a price of $39 a share.

In connection with the offering the directors announce that quarterly dividends at the annual rate of $3.50 a share, will be inaugurated next month.

TAX COMMISSIONERS TO MEET IN HARRISBURG, PA.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 21.—Methods which would permit deductions of inheritance taxes, when the taxes also are paid in other states, will be discussed at a meeting here tomorrow of the tax commissioners of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Maryland, Ohio, and Kentucky with the Pennsylvania commission. It also is planned to consider a petition to congress asking that the federal inheritance tax law be abolished on the theory the subject is for state taxation.

Taber Receives Support Of "Grange" At Convention

KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK

Louis J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, which recently held its annual meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., who was publicly endorsed before the convention for the post of Secretary of Agriculture to succeed the late Henry C. Wallace. With [illegible] of the job, the farmers of the Grange believe they will be treated on a better basis than ever before.

Burglars Abandoned Automobile in Moosup

Three Strangers Took to the Woods When Detected by Policeman.

Moosup, Dec. 21.—Dyer Russell, night policeman here, discovered three men attempting to break into the Champagne clothing store, owned by Alfred Champagne, at an early hour this morning, but the strangers made their escape.

The men seeing the patrolman approaching jumped into an automobile and dashed away. Patrolman Russell fired five shot at the machine and declares that he heard a cry of pain from one of the men. The strangers abandoned their car a short distance from the Champagne store and took to the woods. A search for them was made but they were not found. Investigation showed that they took a few notions and two coats from the store.

Earlier in the night they attempted to enter the store of Clifford Millinger but were frightened away.

The automobile carried Massachusetts and Connecticut registration numbers.

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATION OUTSIDE WALLS OF PARIS

Paris, Dec. 21.—(By the A. P.)—The communist party today finished its week of propaganda in favor of national and international syndicalism, with a manifestation held just outside the walls of Paris, to the northeast of the bleak Saint Gervais meadows, which so often have been the scene of similar activities. Between 5,000 and 5300 persons attended the demonstration. The participants dispersed without the necessity for intervention by the strong bodies of police, who had been carefully hidden adjacent to the scene. The only active service performed by the police was giving first aid to unfortunate persons who succumbed to the cold.

Premier Herriot's appeal of Saturday night against panic-mongering with regard to communism was received today by the people in accordance with party beliefs. To government supporters it was considered as disposing of the alleged communist peril as a reactionary invention. To the government's opponents it was declared to be equivalent to an admission by the government that peril exists.

LEVIATHAN ARRIVES WITH 10,000 BAGS CHRISTMAS MAIL

New York, Dec. 21.—The United States liner Leviathan arrived this afternoon with 11,000 bags of Christmas mail and 929 passengers.

Bishop Charles W. Brent of Bukalo, who has been attending the narcotic conference at Geneva, was among the passengers. He said that as a result of the conference the present annual production of opium and other narcotics would be curtailed one-tenth. "It should be stated," Bishop Brent pointed out, "that America strongly opposed the idea of the conference, foreseeing what might and probably would happen."

Denouncing the first agreement reached by the conference as a travesty, he charged India with being responsible for most of its worst features.

TWO CARLOADS OF POULTRY HELD UP IN SCRANTON

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 21.—Two carloads of poultry, consigned from the western part of Ohio to the Hoboken, N. J., terminal of the Lackawanna railroad, for use in New York city, were held up in Scranton today due to teh embargo placed on western poultry by the department of health of New York. The cars remained in the local yards of the railroad until orders were received from the New York officers of the company, reconsigning the shipment to dealers in Pnittsburgh.

More than 8,000 chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese, for the New York Christmas trade, were in the cars.

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER ENTIRELY FROZEN OVER

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Dec. 21.—This city today was in the grasp of a cold snap which struck the north country at midnight when the temperature descended to 23 below zero, freezing the St. Lawrence river entirely across to the Canadian shore for the first time this year.

DIED FROM WOUNDS INFLICTED BY HUSBAND

West Orange, N. J., Dec. 21.—Mrs. Cecelia Quinby, of this city, died today from injuries inflicted, according to the police, by her husband, William Quinby, a carpenter and contractor, last Sunday during a quarrel over a shirt which she had not ironed.

OBITUARY.

Walter F. Ballinger.

Philadelphia, Dec. 21.—Walter F. Ballinger, widely known architect, died today from injuries received in a motor car accident last Friday. He had been unconscious since the accident.

Mrs. Mary Gaston of Bridgeport, Conn., who was released in $500 bail after the collision between her automobile and that driven by Ballinger, was rearrested and held by a magistrate without bail to await the action of the coroner. She was not put in a cell, however, but was placed in the custody of a police matron.

The two cars collided during a dense fog, the machine driven by Mrs. Gaston striking Ballingers in the rear, causing it to skid on the slippery streets and crash into a tree. In the car with Mrs. Gaston were her husband, Peter Gaston, their 5 year old son, and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Trumbull, parents of Mrs. Gaston. None of them was injured. They were bound for Florida, where Gaston nad Trumbull expected to obtain employment.

Mr. Ballinger was born in Petroleum Center, Venango county, Pa. He is survived by a widow, one son and one daughter. Mrs Ballinger yesterday sent Mrs. Gaston a message of cheer through the lieutenant in charge of the police station. "Tell her," she said, "that in the midst of my sorrow I can still sympathize with her in her troubles."

THERMOMETER BELOW ZERO THROUGH OUT NEW ENGLAND

Shipping Was Tied Up as the Result of a Gale Which Swept Offshore— Fishing Craft at Sea Did Not Venture to Return to Port Because of the High Wind—In Vermont the Mercury Dropped to 30 Degrees Below.

Boston, Dec. 21.—Driven by a freezing northwest wind, the cold wave which for days has been moving eastward, developed New England today, bringing with it a long chain of below zero temperatures. An ineffective sun failed to bring the relief it promised and tonight temperatures throughout New England were again falling. Throughout the territory the mercury hovered near the zero mark or below, but Rutland, Vermont and Manchester, N. H., with reports of 12 to 20 below, Colebrook, N. H., with 26 degrees below and Waterville, Me., with a minimum of 30 and a maximum of 30 degrees below zero in the rural districts appeared to be the coldest spots on the map.

The full force of the cold wave struck Boston early today giving the city its coldest day of the season as the mercury was sent tumbling to one degree below zero at 9.30 a. m. today. A drop of 30 degrees was recorded in Boston in the 21 hour period following one 9 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Along the New England coast, shipping remained largely tied up as a result of the gale which swept off shore and lashed the Atlantic. Fishing craft at sea did not venture to return to port in the blow.

In Burlington, Vt., the mercury touched 12 degrees below zero and early this evening the city shuddered in a temperature of 10 degrees below zero as the mercury again began falling, after sunset.

Provincetown at the tip of Cape Cod experienced one of the worst "vapor storms" seen there in years, as the cold win swept across the comparatively warm water of the ocean, clouds of vapor of fog-like density steamed from the water in the harbor.

On shore the temperature was 2 degrees above zero.

28 DEGREES BELOW ZERO AT SARANAC LAKE, N. Y.

Old Forge, N. Y., Dec. 21.—Winter officially made its bow in the Adirondack mountains today. In this little settlement the thermometer today registered thirty-one degrees below zero. Saranac Lake, farther north, reported 28 below. Thendara shivered in 26 below, Saltbatis 25, Big Moose 22 and Malone 14. The below-zero temperature was accompanied by heavy snowfall.

AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC IMPEDED BY ICE ON ROADS

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 21.—The cold wave reported spreading eastward from the western section of the country arrived in eastern New York state last night and today.

Thermometers showed the mercury was hobbnobbing with zero throughout today, and there were indications it would drop below as night came on. Automobile traffic, already reduced by a sheet of ice covering virtually every highway, fell almost to none. The ice coating on streets and sidewalks in many places made pedestrian travel difficult and dangerous.

TREASURY RELEAVED OF HEAVY FINANCING

Washington, Dec. 21.—The treasury has been "successfully relieved of excessively heavy financing" for next March by its recent fiscal operation, Secretary Mellon declared tonight in a formal statement in which it was disclosed that the total issue of new bonds in the December programme has been something over $750,000,000.

While the new issue of twenty to thirty year, four per cent. bonds was primarily for refunding purposes, the treasury sought and obtained in excess of $220,000,000 in cash. The remainder of the issue of new bonds was taken [illegible] in refunding early maturing issues, including third Liberty loan four and a quarter per cent. bonds, treasury notes of 1923 and certificates of indebtedness maturing next March 15. With the cash obtained from the sale of the new bonds together with the December 15 tax payments, the treasury will be able to meet all requirements until March, when another fiscal operation is due.

He was graduated from Amherst, the same college attended by Calvin Coolidge, in 1874, and took his law degree at Harvard in 1877.

HIGH RECORD RAILROAD FREIGHT TRAFFIC IN OCT.

Washington, Dec. 21.—Railroad freight traffic in October was the largest for any single month ever reported, it was announced today by the American Railway association, and the expeditious manner in which it was handled saved the shippers of the country millions of dollars through prompt delivery of commodities to market.

The new record, the statement said, was made possible by prompt loading and unloading of freight cars, by speeding up car movements, and by increasing the load carried per train.

The daily average movement per freight car in October was 30.7 miles, the greatest for any month in history save October last year, when the record was equalled.

In analyzing the various branches of the service which contributed to the record for the month, the association brought out that there was a daily average surplus of 100,000 freight cars as compared with 27,000 for October, 1923, and about 200,000 freight cars were in need of repair during the period, an increase of 45,000 over the same month last year.

CHEERY NEWS FOR EMPLOYES OF AMERICAN WOOLEN CO.

Andover, Mass., Dec. 21.—In a letter of Christmas greetings to the employes of the American Woolen Company in the present number of the company's publication, The Booster, President William W. Wood says that "we believe the truly American thing to do is to adhere to the 48 hour week and that all textile mills should be on the same uniform basis."

Foreign competition he calls serious, but he adds that the "competition within the United States is even more serious for right in th eseame localities with ous mills, independent mills operate longer hours and on reduced wage schedules. Many independent mills has their wages on a 54 hour week, or even a longer week."

The textile depression of the past year he says has been the wost in his 36 years experience as a mill man. He anticipates however, "a very busy and prosperous season in the new year."

RED CROSS CHEER FOR SERVICE MEN ABROAD

Washington, Dec. 21.—To give the thousands of disabled service men in government hospitals and soldiers, saildiers and marines on duty overseas a "homelike" Christmas, the American Red Cross, has prepared thousands of gift packages for distribution.

In addition the Red Cross announced today 100,000 gift packages for destitute children in all parts of the world have been prepared by the Junior Red Cross with contributions from 5,000 school children.

The Christmas bags for the military outposts contain pipes, razors, playing cards, stationery, pens, key rings and cross-word puzzles. They are nearing their destinations in China, Guam, Hawaii, Alaska, Canal Zone, Haiti, Santo Domingo and the Virgin Islands.

TO CONSIDER IMPROVED METHODS IN MARKETING

Washington, Dec. 21.—Manufacturers, merchants, economists and representatives of the consuming public public were invited today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to attend a national conference on distribution here January 14 and 15 to consider economies and improved methods in marketing.

"Injudicious buying, suffers with injudicious selling the blame for what appears to be excessive costs," said Richard F. Grant, president of the chamber, in calling the conference. "The problem of distribution cannot be weighed intelligently nor can improvements be made in existing methods until there has been a complete survey of conditions on distribution and a compilation of facts relating to it necessary to a conclusion."

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1131
Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

The cold snap which struck Willimantic Saturday night and remained very much in evidence during Sunday brought considerable work for members of Engine Company No. 1 who were called out five times, between 9.20 and 11.38 o'clock Sunday forenoon, to fight chimney fires brought on by householders who overtaxed their stoves. All were still alarms and although reptresenting an output of 30 gallons of chemicals the fires were extinguished without damage. The first of the series of blazes was at 9.10 at 74 Spring street, in the building used as the A. M. E. Zion church and occupied on the second floor by the pastor, Rev. David R. Overton. Nine gallons were used here. The second was at 9.55 in a house owned and occupied by Mrs. Joseph Martin, 38 Maple avenue, nine gallons were used. At 10.43 a call came in for another chimney fire at 919 Main street, the house occupied by Fred Chapman and owned by the firm of Jackson & Sumner, three gallons were used. Seven minutes later, at 10.50, the fire crew answered a call for a blaze in the chimney at 75 Windham street. The house is occupied by Mrs. Thomas Brown and owned by Fred D. Jordan. Fifteen gallons were used. The last in the series was at 11.38 in a house owned and occupied by Henry Hebert, 501 Pleasant street, where three gallons were used.

Resultant from the work of the committees of the community Christmas celebration, an immense Christmas tree tapers to the height of surrounding roofs on Lincoln square on Main street and nearly half a hundred house-size trees set in green tubs line the sidewalks on either sides of Main street, also along the business sections of Church, North, Union, Bank, Walnut and High streets and opposite St. Joseph's hospital, on Jackson street. Sunday, nothing had been done toward decorating the big community tree but its mere appearance along with its smaller companions served in a measure to kindle a true Christmas spirit, which, in conjunction with the elaborate plans for a municipal celebration, promises to manifest itself in the most beautiful and sincere Yuletide sentiment ever manifested here.

The committee appointed by Acting Mayor George W. Hickey has made a thorough canvass of the town and has completed a long list of needy and deserving poor families, whose Christmas will be made a happy one through this charitable endeavor. Chairman Albert B. Smith holds the names of over fifty boys and girls overlooked by other agencies. The work of the community committee is not to interfere in any way with the organizations which annual dispense charity in the city on the holiday. Gifts will be brought to the needy homes the night before Christmas. On Christmas afternoon from 3.30 to 5.30 o'clock an entertainment will be provided along with other amusements at the state armory on Pleasant street for children between five and fifteen, inclusive.

Charles W. Alpaugh, agent of the Holland Silk Manufacturing Company since January 1, 1905, is to retire from active service for the concern on or about January 1, next, it was announced Saturday, at the office of the local plant. His successor will be Edward G. Kenney of New York, son of W. J. Kenney, president of the Holland company. Mr. Alpaugh entered the employ of the company, September 20, 1875, 49 years ago, when Samuel L. Burlingham was superintendent and later agent of the company. Mr. Alpaugh is a native of Willimantic, born February 4, 1858. He received his elementary school education at the Old Natchaug grammar school and at 17 entered the employ of the Holland company. He became remarkably skilfull in the silk twisting business and four years later, at 21, he was promoted as overseer of the finishing department, retaining that position until advanced to agent of the plant, upon the resignation of Samuel L. Burlingham, December 31, 1904. The operatives of the plant feel keenly the loss of Agent Alpaugh. He held the love of all who worked under his supervision and was unfailing in his loyalty to his company and to the employes. In point of service, Mr. Alpaugh is the oldest employe of the company. He plans to take a complete rest after his retirement and will devote his time to his favorite sports of hunting, fishing and walking.

A birthday party was tendered Miss Evelyn Thomson of Hartford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson of this city, at a local tea room Saturday evening. Present were Mrs Philip Dean of Glastonbury; Mrs. Harold T. Robinson of Norwich; Mrs. Harry Gaucher, Mrs. Thomas J. Keegan, Misses Beatrice Bill, Florence Hevrin, Mary Twomey and Irene Vanderman of this city. Following a dinner during which Miss Thompson was presented a handsome gift, bridge was played.

The removal of the town of Chaplin's four-ton safe from the home of the late Frank C. Lummis to the B. M. Welch building, one-third of a mile away, brought out a good sized gallery of spectators Saturday. The board of selectmen supervised the work. Frank Pratt of North Windham backed a heavy farm wagon to the door of the Lummis home, Saturday morning and several men, using block and tackle got the safe on the cart by pulling it up on skids. They had some difficulty as the big safe tipped over and they were forced to spend a laborious hour in righting it. The huge package was finally delivered to the Welch building and installed there. Mr. Welch was appointed town clerk a few days ago to succeed the late F. C. Lummis. The building which houses the town safe is rather small in dimension but within its walls. Burton M. Welch conducts a store, the town post office, the probate court of which he is judge and now it will also be the town clerk's office.

The year old controversy concerning the right of cottagers to bathe in Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry and its return action, questioning the lawfulness of the South Coventry Water supply company in using the lake water as a drinking supply, due to the possibility of a cemetery to the body of water was brought to its final chapter last week when the supply company withdrew its action which would have brought the case to trial in the superior court of Tolland county today (Monday.) The trouble started late in the summer of 1923 when at the instigation of the supply company, the state department of health posted prohibitive signs on the lake shore and warned cottagers not to bathe in the lake, to avoid possible contamination. The water is sold to Coventry village residents as a drinking supply by the company. In a test case, Henry Mathieu of this city was arrested by the state police who were patrolling the shores. The cottages banded and with Major John Buckley in the lead, filed an application to stop the water company from using the lake as a supply reservoir, claiming the practice was illegal, as the lake is within one-half mile from a cemetery. The company then went to court with an application which Major Buckley contested, on the grounds that it was not filed by a proper party, as the company is not a property holder.

Funeral services for Lewis Shippee were held at 62 North street, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. F. F. Foshay conducted the service. Burial was in North Windham. Avery and Van Zandt had charge of the arrangements.

The bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Julia W. Coleman held in South Coventry Friday were Theron Dunham, W. L. Boynton, W. C. Holbrook and George H. Gurley. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge.

For the William Harvey funeral, held Friday, the bearers were F. A. and L. A. Burnham, Charles Chesters, Green Hulling and Alfred and George Harvey. Rev. A. Avery Gates officiated. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge.

In the Chaplin town court Saturday forenoon Guy Fettabele of this city was presented for driving an automobile equipped with faulty brakes and insufficient light. He entered a demurrer, which was overruled by Justice of the Peace Charles B. Russ and he was found guilty on both charge. Twenty dollars on both counts, with costs, totalling $35.24 was imposed and paid. Fettabele's Ford car, which he was operating struck a Chevrolet machine owned and driven by Nathaniel Sherman, near Sherman's corner, on the Danielson-Willimantic highway last week, in the evening. Officer Merrill E. Keith investigated the accident and later arrested the local man. Grand Juror Frank W. Ladon prosecuted the case.

A telegram received Saturday morning informed George H. Shafer, principal of the Willimantic state normal school of the death of his mother, Mrs. Roman Shafer at a hospital in Palmerton, Pa., Friday night. Mrs. Shafer had been a patient at the institution for several months suffering with a fractured leg. She had been a frequent visitor here and had made a number of local friends.

Luther B. Martin of this city, graduate of Windham High school and senior at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute won first prize in an essay contest conducted among student initiated last spring in the institute chapter of Tau Beta Pi, an honor society. The subject of his essay was The Value of Cultural Studies to an Engineer.

Chairman Pierre J. Laramee presided at a meeting of the distribution committee for the community Christmas celebration, held at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Names of needy people were gon over and classified and plans were completed for the work of distribution, the night before Christmas.

Kenneth V. Fryer of this city, member of the Freshman class has been pledged a member of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute chapter of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

College students to arrive here for the Christmas vacation include: Jack Lewis of Moses Brown Prepartory school, Providence; Richar Shea of Tufts college; Lester Gelinas and George Healy of Harvard; John Harvey, Yale Law school; Miss Sarah Abbe, Columbia University, New York; Everett Isaacs, Goddard Seminary, Barre, Vt.; Miss Doris Bowen and Miss Dorothy Buffum, Gordon college, Boston; and Misses Marion Taft and Arlene Murphy of Mt. Holyoke.

At the corner of Walnut and Main streets, Sunday forenoon, cars operated by Joseph Morrisette of 248 Main street and Charles Tillman, of North Windham, collided with slight damage to both machines which damage the drivers in reporting to the police, agreed to settle for. The machine driven by Tillman was a Dodge sedan owned by John P. Burnham.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Judge Heald has rendered his decision in the case of William Ryder tried in the borough court on Dec. 15th. Ryder was charged with reckless driving, also with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty on the charge of reckless driving and a fine of $50 and costs was imposed. On the second count judgment is withheld for six months provided Ryder does not apply for an operator's license in the meantime.

The funeral of First Selectman William R. Preble was held at his home in Orcutt ville Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. Charles H. Puffer of the Universalist church officiated. Burial was in the Springs cemetery.

The Christmas rush at the local postoffice began in earnest Saturday. The amount of mail passing through the office is much larger than ever before and it is expected that there will be no let-up until after the holiday.

The musical review given by a number of Stafford young men at Warren Memorial hall Friday evening was well attended and was a social and financial success.

The death of William R. Preble leaves a vacancy on the board of selectmen. If the governor is filled there will probably have to be a special town election for this purpose. The members of the board now are Burt T. Eaton and Arthur M. Cady, one republican and one democrat.

There is to be a Christmas service at the Orcutt ville schoolhouse this (Monday) evening at 7.30.

Joel Henry Reed of Williston seminary is spending two weeks' vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis H. Reed.

At the annual meeting of Court Oronoco Tuesday evening, there will also be initiation of candidates.

The Young People's W. C. T. U. is to hold a sale.

The Parent-Teacher association held a very interesting meeting last week. Rev. J. Wilkins, the new president, gave a very interesting address on "Mince Pie, a Philosophy of Life." Mrs. T. F. Mullen sang a solo which was much enjoyed, and a quartet of Messrs. Burwell, Moore, Wagne and Long also entertained with popular selections.

EGG PRODUCTION SHOWS GAIN IN STATE CONTEST

The sixth Connecticut home egg-laying contest started off with an average production of 5.80 eggs per bird for the month of November, from a total of 165,992 birds. A consistent gain has been made since the very first.

Just what this increase in production since the contest started means to Connecticut poultrymen in dollars and cents is shown by the following calculation:

The average egg production for November in 1919 was 3.70 eggs per bird. In November last the average egg production was 5.86 eggs per bird—or an increase of 2.16 eggs. Using total number birds reported—163,992 as a basis—this means an increase of 30,000 dozen, or 1,000 cases of eggs in the month of November. At 75 cents per dozen (which is a fair estimate of the value of eggs in November) this increase in production is worth $22,500.

Where it is possible to work out the increase in the average egg production from the flocks that have been reported for the entire period, the gain in production would be decidedly more than the above figures. The many new flocks that have been added each year tend to pull down the average.

It is interesting to note that 99 backyard flocks with an average of 25 birds each have an average production of 5.25 eggs per bird; that 251 farm flocks with an average of 201 birds each had an average production of 5.68 eggs per bird; and 103 commercial flocks with an average of 579 birds each had an average production of 6.03 eggs per bird.

The increase in the production of commercial flocks over the farm and backyard flocks is probably due very largely to the use of artificial lighting.

The increase in the total average production over this period of years is due to earlier hatched pullets; a larger percentage of pullets in the flock; and the use of artificial lighting—as well as improvement in the methods of feeding, care and management.

EMBARGO ON LIVE POULTRY SHIPMENTS

The recent embargo prohibiting the shipment of live fowl into Connecticut, issued by James M. Whittlesey, commissioner of domestic animals, has caused considerable alarm among Connecticut poultrymen. The situation is serious in the cities where live poultry shipments have been received from the west. The disease has appeared on farms where poultry have been purchased from western shipments and were allowed to mingle with the home flock.

As the disease is carried by live birds and may be carried in crates and equipment or by individuals, every poultryman should maintain the strict quarantine recommended by Commissioner Whittlesey. Live poultry buyers offer perhaps the most dangerous means of the spreading of the infection; visiting from one farm to another should be postponed until another time.

Isolate all sick birds at once and report any evidence of an epidemic to the state commissioner of domestic animals, James M. Whittlesey, at Hartford, Conn. The first evidence of the disease is difficulty in breathing, with symptoms common to bronchitis and pneumonia, as they appear in poultry. Death may occur in a very few hours.

This poultry epidemic appeared at first in the middle west, and its spread has led to embargoes by nearly all markets receiving live poultry from that territory.

CONNECTICUT PLANS A STRICT MARRIAGE LAW

Amendments to the state marriage laws designed to present hasty marriages, discover perjury in the application for license, check mesalliances, and decrease divorce, are embodied in a bill which will be presented to the state legislature at the coming session with the backing of many of the welfare organizations of the state.

A five day interval between application for and issuance of licenses would be required, both parties would be compelled to present themselves in person to the license bureau and swear to the truthfulness of statements in the application, and applicants who have been divorced or whose marriages have been annulled would be compelled to present certificates showing their exact legal status. Parental consent would be required for the marriage of persons under twenty-one years old and the consent of the judge of probate would be necessary for persons under sixteen.

Bombarding Blackbirds

Thousands of blackbirds made life miserable for all Athens, Pa., last summer. They were bombarded with roman candles and skyrockets and the fire department turned the hose on them, but if they will only come back and drive out the screech owls all will be forgiven. The blackbirds whooped it up only at sundown and at daybreak, allowing all good citizens to sleep through the night, while the owls begin where the blackbirds left and screech all night long.

Persian Finances

M. Shumiatsky, the Soviet minister to Persia, who has arrived in Moscow, says the general situation in Persia, is greatly hampered by a financial crisis. The American financial experts who were recently engaged by the Persian government have failed in their task of balancing the Persian budget, and the government plan of obtaining a loan of $10,000,000 by granting an oil concession to the Sinclair group of American financiers in northern Persia has fallen through.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The type, like various other things, is contrary these days. Possibly that's why it was stated in this column Saturday morning that the fund already raised by Killingly High school students for the gymnasium fund was $16,000, instead of $1600. In this instance an extra cipher creates a decidedly wrong impression, as one might ascertain if one thought one had $16,000 and eventually found, as people eventually do, that one had only $1600. Having what you haven't is an awful disappointment!

All of which leads to saying that Killingly High School Alumni association Tag day in the interest of the school gymnasium fund produced $245 in Danielson, Saturday. This week the remainder of the town outside of Killingly will be covered for contributions to the fund. The hope is that $500 will have been collected by next Saturday night.

If this prediction is realized, the gymnasium fund will have reached over the $2,000 mark. Frankly, that is only the nucleus of such a fund as will be needed to make the gymnasium a reality. In these days of high costs $2,000 does not go a long way in building operations. It is the flame that lights the way, however, and in due time it need surprise no one if the town of Killingly takes a hand and does something in its usually generous way to make the project for which the Alumni members and the student body are working a reality with a generous appropriation. Perhaps it is a bit early to talk about that, but not too early to record the opinion that the town of Killingly should be interested, not for the alumni or the student body of today particularly, but for the town of Killingly, which has been in business something over 200 years and likely will continue to be in business for an even longer time and periodically, will be called upon to step forward, even at considerable expense, to meet such requirements as the high school gymnasium represents today.

For the first time in a score of years there is to be a midnight mass at St. James' church Christmas eve. The announcement was made at the masses Sunday by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S. It hapens that 1925, the coming new year, will mark the silver anniversary of the erection of the present St. James' edifice. It's also a fact that 1925 has been proclaimed a holy year in the Roman Catholic church. In view of the fact that the membership of St. James' parish is so large that it would be impossible for all to attend the midnight mass, admission to the service is to be by ticket and the tickets to be issued will be limited to the seating capacity of the church.

The Weather Man was a bit rough with people who live hereabouts, Sunday morning, and gave little indication of relenting during the day. A below-zero temperature greeted those who were up early and concerned with their obligations for the day.

One could mingle a bit of sympathy and a saturning laugh, after a look at a fur-in with four-buckle overshoes on his way to church with his wife wearing low cut shoes and filmy silk stockings. Evidently the weather has little to do with some things and less with others. In open confession it will have to be admitted that the woman looked the warmer of the two, but you never can tell!

Anyway, Sunday, supposed to be the shortest day of the year, made the most of its opportunities. It seemed longer than some June days that one might remember. At the first day of winter it registered with a vengeance! It was five below zero at some cold points around the borough just after sunrise and it was 2 below at 9 a. m. As a forecaster of weather that means an ice crop and its attendant comforts next summer, Sunday was the Christmas berries! It is, happily, now a thing of the past.

Another victory goes to the credit of the Service battery basketball team as the result of their play against the Willimantic Collegians in the game played at the state armory Saturday evening. The soldiers chalked up a 37 to 30 victory. The Collegians led at the end of the first half, 11 to 8. In the second and especially in the last few minutes of the game the Service Battery players did their most effective work and made victory sure. Armington and Gale played splendidly for the battery, getting six baskets each. The Michael brothers played best for Willimantic. Next Saturday evening the Service battery team will play the K. H. S. Alumni team.

A large class of candidates received the third degree of the Knights of Columbus at a meeting held in the town hall Sunday afternoon. The degree attracted attendance from all of the neighboring towns.

Saturday morning, the funeral of Mrs. Eva Aubin, wife of Felix Aubin was held from their home in Wauregan, with funeral services at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. C. Mathieu, the pastor, was celebrant of the high mass of requiem, which was attended by many relatives and friends. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were James Ward, Jeremiah Doyle, William Harrold, John Schenail, Arthur Couture and Arthur Mantell. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

SO MANY AUTOMOBILE LAWS A BUGABOO TO DRIVERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Dec. 21.—If the legislature of Connecticut submits during the session that is to open in January, driving a car is going to be the most hazardous pastime in which one can engage in Connecticut. Robbins B. Stoeckel, motor vehicle commissioner, is circularising influential persons with some suggestions for proposed legislation. Some people hereabouts who have received the circulars, or have seen them, have not gone into a frenzy of approval over them. Quite the contrary.

They have been moved, with a view to the ridiculous, of making some suggestions of their own, as to new legislation. Here are a few of them:

Each car shall bear on its side a likeness, at least four feet square, of the owner of the car.

No car shall be taken out on any trip without first obtaining from authorized officials, a permit to travel, much the same as a train order.

Any car owner caught kissing his spare tire outside his own garage, shall be regarded as guilty of a misdemeanor and fined accordingly.

Upon encountering any place of business that is under suspicion by the police, a driver shall immediately detour, going at least twelve miles in any given direction to avoid passing it.

When encountering three miles of torn up highway, one should exclaim: "Isn't this lovely! This will be a wonderful road three years from now!" Failure to do this will be regarded as lese majeste.

One could think of a lot of stuff like that, but what's the use? The matter may be dismissed, at least temporarily, with the recital of the comment of one man, who says that a motorist is taxed today, by the borough, by the town and by the state—three separate taxes. He has to buy a driver's license and he pays the state a tax of a cent a gallon on all the gasoline he buys. The state takes its share of the money and uses a good portion of it to hire officers to watch the man that puts in his cash for the privilege of a ride on the roads.

There are some blooming idiots who drive motor cars, but the average citizen who operates a car is careful and conservative and tries to do the right thing, all the time. And that being so he is about fed up on any more suggestions as to further regulation. A little less regulation would be decidedly more acceptable—for all excepting those who deliberately disobey the law. And there is law enough to control all such as these.

PUTNAM

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Williams will spend Christmas with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Greenlaw at Bridgeport. Mr. Williams will return home Friday but Mrs. Williams will make two weeks visit with her relatives.

So far there has been no Christmas rush at the post office. Postmaster Macdonald says that the holiday business there has been the lightest for several years and while he expects a decided increase for the next three days the total will fall considerably below the average. The parcel delivery truck is loaded to capacity but the same is true of a day at almost any time of year. George D. Clarke, who has been connected with the post office for many years, has charge of this branch. He states that there has been a steady growth in the use of the parcel post service and that it has evidently resulted in a change of merchandising as a local dealer can make quick delivery to a customer of most articles sold in retail stores which he may not have in stock at a low cost for transportation. There is of course a limit as to weight and size but nearly all the parts of a Ford car could be sent through the mails and assembled after arrival. At the present price of Fords there is no particular advantage in such an arrangement, but this correspondent started to say that the Christmas business at the Putnam post office is much below the average.

Ray C. Beeworth, Robert Page, Otis Morarty and George P. Minor drove to Norwich Friday night to attend the meeting of Columbian Commandery, Knights Templar. Thomas W. Morgan of Hartford, grand inspector of the state, was the guest of honor.

J. Eugene Taylor arrived here Friday from Chicago in response to a telegram notifying him of the death of his father, George H. Taylor. Funeral services were held Saturday morning at ten o'clock at local undertaking rooms. Rev. N. B. Burton officiated.

John D. Moss, a mill man of Athens, Ga., has been in Putnam visiting his son, John H. Moss and family.

Professor and Mrs. Malcolm M. Willey of Hanover, N. H., are here to spend the week with the former's grandmother, Mrs. A. W. W. Macdonald. Professor Willey is a member of the faculty of Dartmouth college.

The school of the city, public and parochial, closed Friday for two weeks, until Jan. 5th, 1925.

The Nativity Play was given at Pomfret Sunday evening as it has been for the past thirteen Christmases. Those in charge of the affair have received inquiries about it from every state in the Union and from Hawaii and there have been some inquiries from New York as to details and the reasons why it has proved so successful. One publication for December has an illustration of the play which it sums up as follows:

"Without any doubt this Pomfret spectacle, in its impressive beauty, and in the fact that it is a community enterprise, stands alone among Christmas festivities in the United States."

Martha Candler in her book on Religious drama gives much space to this play and says that in the movement to represent the old mystery play the Pomfret Nativity play has approached most nearly to the achievement of the spirit of those plays.

Mrs. W. F. Rafferty was the guest of relatives at Hartford last week.

Mrs. Helen M. Willey, house manager of the House in the Pines, Norton, Mass., is spending the holidays with her mother, Mrs. A. W. McDonald.

Mrs. Harry Davis attended the funeral of Capt. James Lennen in Norwich Thursday.

There was a drop of 25 degrees in temperature, Saturday, between 8 a. m. and 3 p. m. At the latter hour it registered 21 degrees above zero.

Stuart L. Pease, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Pease, a student at Syracuse University, is home for the holiday vacation.

Otto Smith, sub-master at the Putnam High school, has gone to his home at Dorchester, Mass., to remain until the re-opening of school two weeks hence.

Miss Mabel Lee, teacher in the primary department at Smith street school, is spending the holidays with her parents at Middletown.

DEATH AT NORWICH OF JOHN B. DAIGLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Dec. 20.—John B. Daigle, 42, died at 3 o'clock Saturday morning at the Norwich State Tuberculosis Sanatorium. He was born in Mechanicsville, Putnam, Oct. 8th, 1882.

Mr. Daigle was stricken with the malady that caused his death three years ago. More than half of that time he spent at the Norwich institution where he improved greatly and for a while it was thought that he had conquered the disease. He came back to Putnam and resumed work, but the symptoms developed again in a more acute form and he returned to the sanatorium forty-two days ago.

He leaves his wife and eight children. Leona, the oldest is 16 and her brother John is next in point of age. Both are employed in the Lynch store. Of the other six, the youngest, a girl of four and a half, underwent an appendicitis operation at the Day Kimball hospital ten days ago.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daigle. They make their home with their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Parent, (Leona Daigle) of Woodstock avenue.

For more than 26 years Mr. Daigle was in the employ of the Putnam Light and Power Co. He was the first person engaged by the company when it began operations here, with an office over Mansfield's store. No one in Putnam had such a thorough knowledge of the location of the gas pipe system and of the light and power lines. There is probably no one in Putnam who knew so many people, and by all of them he was held in high esteem.

The officials of the company, Ralph E. Thurston, resident manager, Robert W. Perkins, of Norwich, president of the company, and other executives, thoroughly appreciated his long years of faithful, intelligent service. During his long illness they manifested their friendship in many substantial ways, helping to make his last days as comfortable as possible.

Mr. Daigle had been a member of the Putnam fire department for a score of years, retiring from active duty only when compelled to by his physical condition. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, and of L'Union St. Jean de Baptiste. Against the disease that ended in his death he made a brave and manly fight, under most discouraging conditions.

TIME RIPE FOR SUPREME COURT OF NATIONS

Blessed are the peacemakers, Matt. 5:9, was the text of the Christmas sermon given Sunday morning by Rev. Gordon F. Bailey at the 1st Congregational church, Norwich Town. A special programme of music was given by the organist and choir. As the offertory, In Old Judea (Adam Geibel) was sung by Miss Bernice Underwood. In his sermon, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bailey, said:

The recurrence of the Christmas festival finds us in our best mood. If we have grown old through the year with our burden of cares we unconsciously renew our youth at Christmas. There is a spirit in the air which is invigorating. One has only to open the windows of his soul to the atmosphere of these days, to yield himself to the tides of the prevailing spirit and he finds himself happy. He may not be able to explain the reason for it in psychological terms but he knows it to be a fact in his experience.

The most of us go to Bethlehem for our explanation. There we hear the angels sing of peace on earth among men of good will. The sound of guns has died away in the distant past, the tramp of soldiers, the bursting shells, the groans of dying men are but the recollections of a day that has gone forever from the earth. Envy has disappeared from the social sphere, unholy competition in the marts of trade has been replaced with friendly cooperation and old enmities have melted away in forgiveness. Then the Yuletide passes we awake from our dream and go back to face conditions as they are and not as they ought to be. It will take more than a Yuletide dream, delightsome and heart warming as that may be to bring a permanent condition of peace to earth.

There are at least two definite contributions which can be made toward the establishment of peace among men of good will. The first is to follow St. Paul's advice and as far as possible live peaceably with all men. Carry no chip on the shoulder but carry the Christmas spirit in the heart. Look for the good in yourself and in the other fellow. You will find some in each of you. Try to cultivate it in both of you that it may multiply. When the spirit of good will grows strong enough it becomes contagious and everybody catches it and it is beneficial when it gets into the system. This is an important step toward the enthronement of peace among men. It is the witness of daily living, the genial influence of a Christian, the warmth and cheer of a shining light.

Another definite thing we can do to enthrone peace in the earth is to work positively and energetically for conditions which make for peace. Blessed are the peace makers as well as they who live peaceably with their fellows.

During the last generation the mind of civilized people has undergone a radical change in its attitude toward war. War has always bulked large in the thoughts of men, and, until recently has been regarded as a necessary and honorable method of solving national and international problems. Accepting the doctrine of the survival of the fittest, people have been wont to feel that justice could only be secured by maintaining a military force superior to that of a possible foe. Then when occasion arose this superior force marched on to the field, and millions of men died and millions of money burned up in the effort to enthrone justice. Yet there was something about it which did not seem to quite satisfy the conscience of men. The end was right but the method of obtaining it—was that right? However the justice of the end obscured the ethics of the means.

Was it right? The ethics of war has been subjected to a critical examination within the last generation. War as a business still allures the profiteer but it has been shorn of its glories.

The militarist of today is in the minority. His war propaganda is accompanied with apologies, and it is bolstered up like old theological sermons by appeals to the element of fear. It resembles also a certain type of theological doctrine by appealing to the instinct of selfishness. It offers individual and nation security, and teaches men to nestle comfortably and self-congratulatorily in that security though the rest of mankind may be on the road to destruction.

We can not progress in every other sphere and not progress in our methods of establishing justice and peace among the nations of the world. The best minds of the generation are devoted to plans for world peace. Twenty-two thousand people in America and 12,000 in Europe have been thinking out plans for the establishment of peace. One American has cared enough about a world peace plan to pay $100,000 for it. World peace has got to come. The song of the angels must be realized. The human conscience will never be satisfied so long as men kill each other in a dispute.

But war won't go so long as it is protected by international law. People talked and prayed about human slavery, condemning it in every form, pledging themselves not to hold slaves under any condition, but slavery did not end until it was written out of the Constitution by the fifteenth amendment. The same was true of prohibition. Prayers, oratory, temperance societies were all employed to rid our nation of the dreaded saloon. But so long as the liquor business was entrenched in the law and protected by law, temperance reform measures were tremendously handicapped. When, however, the legal status was removed by the enactment of the 18th amendment all future rum-sellers became by the act outlaws and criminals, and the corner saloons were closed.

At present war is a legalized method of adjusting international disputes. It is the last appeal for international question not previously settled. It is the old method of the duel, wheres in the Middle Ages, individuals who had a difference of opinion went out into the open and settled the matter with their swords. Justice was arrived at not on the merits of the case but on the dexterity with which one could handle his sword. But duels are not lawful and the world has found a better way. All efforts for international peace will continue to be made against great odds so long as we leave war entrenched in international law. It would seem that the first movtoward world peace should be a conference of the nations for the purpose of writing into the existing international code an amendment declaring that war no longer shall be a legitimate method of determining the issue between nations, any nation which resorts to war is ipso facto for some other method of procedure. In place of war it has been proposed to set up a Supreme Court of the nations with a code of international law for its governance. The court would have the power to summon to trial a criminal nation, and the decision of the court would be final. It would function among the nations as our supreme court functions among the states of the Union.

To bring this to pass it becomes necessary for some influential nation to lead the way and declare itself willing to cooperate with the other nations of the world in outlawing war and setting up a supreme court of the nations. The time is ripe for such a step. The people of Europe are weary and heavy ladened with burdens of war. They would surely welcome a program of permanent peace for themselves and their children. The opportunity to lead in a movement so far reaching in time and space is waiting at the doors of America, the strongest member of the family of nations. Will the present congress embrace the opportunity and become a practical maker of a permanent peace.

AUTOMOBILE KILLED 39 PEOPLE IN NOVEMBER

Thirty-nine people were killed in motor vehicle accidents in Connecticut during November according to announcement from the state motor vehicle department. Thirty-seven fatal accidents occurred in the month, the largest number in any month since October, 1923. The number of victims for last month was the greatest on record for any corresponding period in the history of the department, the average being more than one person a day killed. It brought the total of deaths due to automobile accidents in Connecticut in the first 11 months of this year to 372, a new high record as against 348 in the first 11 months of 1923.

During five months of this year the number of fatal automobile accidents showed a decrease from the total for the corresponding months of last year. These months were May, July, August, September and October when traffic supervision was at its height, and the motor vehicle department felt greatly encouraged in its safety campaign. The traffic hazards were increased in November by the large number of automobiles which swarmed to and from the major football games of the season. Several of the November accidents occurred on the dates of the big games. All but eight of the deaths occurred outside the large cities. New Haven, New London and New Britain had two each and Hartford and Waterbury one each as against seven each in Hartford and Waterbury in November, 1923, four in New Haven, three in Bridgeport and one each in New London and New Britain. Increased traffic supervision in the large cities may be responsible for the reduction of fatal accidents within their limits.

There was also an increase in general accidents. There were 2,105 of these last month as against 1,883 in November 1923 making the total for the first 11 months of this year 19,377, whereas the total for all of 1923 was 16,500.

Only seven towns have perfect records for the year, as far as the motor vehicle department records show. These are Ashford, Hartland, Scotland, Sherman, Union, Warren and Weston. No accidents of any kind have been reported as having occurred within the limits of these towns.

ACADEMY STUDENTS RECEIVE PRIZES FOR ESSAYS

Miss Natalie Connor of 13 Lincoln avenue, is the winner of the first prize in the N. E. A. essay contest held by the Norwich Electrical League. Announcement of the prize winners was made Friday at the Academy by Principal Henry A. Tirrell, as follows:

First prize, $50—Miss Natalie Connor, 13 Lincoln avenue.

Later in the morning the winners were presented their prizes in the principal's office by James C. Macpherson and Charles W. Taggert, the general manager of the Norwich Gas and Electric department.

Mr. Macpherson told how materially their education had helped them to win the prizes. He congratulated them cordially and urged that these prizes act as stimulants for securing greater honors. Mr. Taggart also congratulated the winners and said that the first six essays on the list of prize winners were now in the hands of the national committee of judges, who will announce the winners of the nation-wide prizes in January. He thanked the winners for the interest shown in the contest and said that he wished all those who had submitted essays could be present so that he could so thank them.

The essays were judged under three heads—the personal investigation of three homes, the pasting of fixtures on drawings and the essay of the student on home lighting; neatness and thoroughness knowledge of the lessons, clarity of language and originality, and the number and location of the fixtures wasted into the drawings were the basis of the judges' awards. Each essay was judged in a specific grading slip which gave a definite number of points for each part of the student's work in the contest.

WESTERLY

The New England Express eastbound due at the Westerly station Sunday morning at 6.43, did not leave here until after 11.30 and then without baggage, mail cars or coaches, being made up only of Pullmans. The delay was reported as caused by the collision of the express train with a freight at the west end of the Midway freight yard. It is said that in the smashing of the coaches the occupants were shaken up and received scratches and bruises so that they were taken to New London for medical attention. The registered mail was put in charge of the baggageman and the Sunday newspapers from Hartford and Springfield did not arrive in Westerly until afternoon.

Tracks at the Midway yard were blocked and required the services of the wrecker before even one track was made passable.

The death of Mrs. Helen E. Pagan, widow of Dr. Frank C. Pagan, occurred Sunday afternoon at her home on Grove avenue. Mrs. Pagan suffered a shock several days ago, from the effects of which she was unable to rally. Dr. Pagan died September 27.

Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at the rectory of Christ Episcopal church, Elm street, Miss Ida M. Thompson of Stonington became the bride of J. Forest Young of 21 Summer street, Westerly. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. Edwar Tobin, rector of Christ church, only members of the families and a few friends witnessing the ceremony.

Miss Josephine Lucker of New London, was bridesmaid and Henry Havens of Westerly was best man. After the ceremony the bridal party went to the inn for dinner. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a jade bracelet and that of the groom to the best man was a pair of gold cuff links. Mr. and Mrs. Young left later for New York and upon their return will make their home at 21 Summer street.

The bride is well known in New London where she has been a visiting nurse for some time and Miss Lucker, her bridesmaid, is also a visiting nurse in that city. The groom is employed in the office of the American Thread company, Westerly.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth H. Morrison was held Saturday morning at 8.30 o'clock from her home, 45 Morgan street. At 9 o'clock a requiem high mass was sung at St. Michael's church by Rev. J. J. Keane. During the service Miss Helen McGrath sang Face to Face. Burial was in St. Michael's old cemetery, where the committal service was conucted by Rev. J. F. Quinn. The bearers were Harry Stedman, Joseph Crowley, Frederick Crowley and James Cunningham.

Mrs. Morrison was born in Pawcatuck, the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Hugh Morrison. She is survived by three sisters, Misses Margaret and Katherine A. Morrison of Westerly and Mrs. William Fallon of Stonington, and by two brother, Andrew Morrison of New York and James Morrison of Attleboro, Mass.

Funeral services for Richard Henry Searles, 26, were held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. John Stevenson in Clarkville. Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church officiated. There were many relatives and friends present and choice floral tributes.

The body was placed in the vault at River Bend cemetery and burial will take place later.

Herbert E. Cooke of Pawcatuck, Westerly agent of the American Railway Express Co., who has been confined to his home for the past week suffering with laryngitis was able to be out Friday and Saturday for a short time.

George R. McKenna was in Providence Saturday.

Miss Laura E. McIntire, principal of the High school, left Saturday morning for Boston to pass the vacation as the guest of friends.

D. Harold Rogers was a visitor in Providence Saturday.

Miss Catherine Wilbur, a teacher at Park Avenue school, left for Providence Saturday morning for the Christmas vacation.

The Methodist Church Choir Minstrel troup left the Westerly Masonic club Saturday afternoon for Wallingford, where they repeated their entertainment for the benefit of the household at the Masonic home.

John Tasca, injured in an automobile accident the first Sunday in December near Trail's Corners in Groton and as a result of which has been a patient at Lawrence hospital, New London, has so far recovered that he will be able to return to his home in Pawcatuck the first of this week. Mrs. Tasca will remain in the hospital for several weeks more before she can return home.

The cold weather Sunday afternoon made perceptible inroads on the attendance at the Community Club Christmas Tree service in Wilcox park at 5 o'clock. The high wind of Saturday night was the cause of much of the decorations being blown off but this was cared for Sunday, so that the brightly lighted tree gleamed forth making a beautiful picture for those who had the courage to bear the cold. The carol singing was led by Dr. Edwin Whitford, the exercises being preceded by the ringing of the chimes on Christ Episcopal church.

Miss Rhode A. Young, R. N., of New Haven, arrived in Westerly Sunday afternoon to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Selden Young, and her sisters, Misses Hilda K. and Frances L. Young, who will be at their home, Hillside farm, for the Christmas vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Gates, and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Gates, Jr., all of Wakefield, were automobile visitors in Westerly Saturday, the guests of relatives and friends.

Miss Phoebe Lewis, a teacher in the public schools of Plainfield, N. J., arrived in Westerly Sunday afternoon and is at the home of her father, Horace E. Lewis, of Boom Bridge.

Thomas W. Curtin of Stamford, recently discharged from the hospital where he has received treatment for an attack of ptomaine poisoning, accompanied his father, Westerly Patrolman Michael Curtin, by automobile from New London to Westerly Saturday evening to be with his parents for the Christmas holidays.

Miss Jeanie B. Meikle, a teacher in the public schools of Mount Vernon, N. Y., arrived in Westerly Sunday for the Christmas vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Meikle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hubbard of Colona, N. J., are guests of Mrs. Hubbard's parents in Avondale.

Frank L. Friend of Pawcatuck was a Saturday business caller in Providence.

Joseph Gomena was a visitor Sunday afternoon and evening with Providence friends.

HOXIE HOUSE RAIDED, ARRESTS FOR GAMBLING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Dec. 21.—For alleged violation of state gaming, gambling and games of chance laws, a special session of Stonington town court will be held by Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck Monday morning in the town court room, Borough hall, Stonington. To answer to the compiants are several residents of the town of Stonington, who were gathered in by Connecticut state policemen from the Groton barracks, Sergeant Gorgas and four assistants. A raid was made by the state officers Sunday morning after 1 o'clock on the Hoxie house, James Service, proprietor, when not only were frequenters of the place arrested, but tangible evidence was secured upon which to prefer charges. The parties apprehended having been placed under bonds, were released, to make their appearance in Stonington town court.

Sallis, and the hymn "In the Fields With Their Flocks." Miss Pauline Christie sang "Night of Nights" (Van de Water), and Elwood D. Lathrop played "Prelude" (Batiste), "O Holy Night" (Adams), and "Christmas March" (Flagler).

Sunday evening the cantata consisted of a collection of the choicest Christmas carols from the lands including France, Germany, Bohemia and Austria besides England and America. The solos in the cantata will be sung by Mrs. Ruth McDougal and Mrs. Mabel LaFerier and there is also a duet by Mabel Carpenter and Millicent Sallis. In addition to the cantata there will be a vocal solo by Mrs. James W. Jackson and a violin solo by Miss Isobel Grinnell.

The official board Wednesday evening adopted the following calendar of events for the ensuing month: December 25, Christmas communion at 8 a. m., December 26, Christmas tree, December 27th, Cradle Roll party, December 31, watch service, preceded by social hour. January 4-11 Universal Week of Prayer.

NOANK

The Ladies' auxiliary of the Fire company this (Monday) evening expects to have one of the big affairs of the year, when they give the Fire company a Christmas tree. After the tree, a surprise is waiting for everybody.

Many of the High school boys attended the Bulkeley play at New London.

William McBride of Taunton, Mass., spent a day here recently.

C. M. Shaw was a recent caller at Point Judith.

Fred Harris of Fort Wright was calling on John Scroggins recently.

The Methodist church voted to ask Rev. J. Garfield Sallis to conduct a special Sunday morning communion service Dec. 21 at 9.45. Special music was given by the choir under direction of Mrs. James W. Jackson.

The light and power company men from Mystic were in the village trimming the branches of the trees to keep them away from the wires.

The Reading club was entertained by Mrs. Linus Barber at her home on High street. The meeting was largely attended. Refreshments were served.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist church met with Mrs. Martha Smith at the home of Alden Adams Thursday afternoon. A large number of members was present.

Every grade at Noank school is getting ready for Tuesday, when plays will be given at public exercises. That day school will close until Jan. 6.

George White spent a day last week in Waterford.

An ex-service man from Noank was elected second vice commander of the American Legion in Mystic. Mr. Jensen was in the navy.

E. Bogue was a caller in Hope Valley, R. I., recently.

JEWETT CITY

The Christmas music in the several churches Sunday was excellent, especially that in the evening. A carol service in the Methodist church was given, in which the stories of the carols were told by Irving Thornton, Mrs. A. C. Burdick, David Carter, Mrs. Merton Bartlett, Frank Mell and John Chadwick. A Service of Story and Song, The Shepherd's Story, was a feature at the Baptist church. A. M. Brown read the story, and the music was by a chorus choir. There were solos by Winifred Scates, Verna Tarbox, George H. Prior and Mrs. E. E. Scates. Mabel and Esther Frink, and Doris Carpenter and Chas. F. Gardner sang duets, and Vera McBroome sang a solo.

A story-cantata, The Word Came True, was given at the Congregational church. The story was read by Edward A. Faust, Jr., and the music was sung by the congregation, led by the choir. The decorations at all the churches were in green and red, the cheery Christmas colors.

The Christmas tree and exercises at the Congregational church are to be held Tuesday evening at 7.30. In the church auditorium. After the exercises, the carol singers will go about the town singing to sick and shutins, or wherever a candle is lighted in a window.

Rev. Dwight C. Stone, of Stonington, preached at the Congregational church Sunday.

Following is an order of the postmaster general, received by Postmaster W. T. Crumb: All work in post offices shall be discontinued not later than 11 o'clock on Christmas morning, except such as is absolutely necessary for dispatching outgoing first class mail and newspapers and receiving but not working incoming mail. There will be no rural delivery service on that day.

HARRY S. NEW,
Postmaster General.

Pursuant to the foregoing order all windows in the local office will be closed at 9 a. m. and there will not be any delivery of parcels or other mail after said hour. The lobby will be open from 6 a. m. to 9 a. m.

As cold weather is on, and there is more danger of fires, Foreman Wakely thinks it wise to again tell the public where in the borough fire extinguishers are located. Brown avenue at William Grenier's; Aspinook street at Velo Sharkey's; Mathewson street at John Hannon's; Mechanic street at Joseph McCarthy's; East Main street, at Earle Gilbert's; Green avenue, Thomas Wakely's; Hill street, Philip Jarvis'; Ashland, Joseph LaBonte's; Taylor Hill, Ernest French's; Slater avenue, Peter Bryant's; South Main street, L. G. Buckingham's; Main street, Finn block, E. H. Hiscox, Carey's store, Soule street, Town hall; Tracy avenue, J. H. Tracy's; North Main street, St. Mary rectory.

Children's night was observed at the last meeting of Pachaug Grange, No. 99, the children of Pachaug school gave the programme under direction of Mrs. Idella Babcock. It consisted of songs, recitations, exercises, a drill and a pantomime. Gifts were distributed by Santa Claus himself from a heavily laden tree. He was assisted by several members. A light supper was served in the dining hall, the children being seated at a reserved table. There was a good number in attendance, and the large hall was splendidly heated by a new furnace. At the next meeting there is to be the installation of officers, when Mrs. Lillian Frink of Canterbury grange will be the installing officer.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox attended the presentation of The Nativity, given in Wauregan Congregational church at a vesper service, Sunday evening.

NORTH STERLING

Thursday afternoon there was a Christmas tree and one of the best programs ever given at the Titus school under direction of Miss May Healey, the teacher. The pupils had spent much time and had held rehearsals to make the entertainment a success, and it was much enjoyed by the visitors present. Santa Claus was there and helped to distribute the gifts to the pupils.

A party of local people motored to Norwich Saturday afternoon.

A social and dance was held at the home of Freeman Carr Saturday evening. An oyster supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey K. Viall have returned home after three weeks' visit with theih daughter, Mrs. Harold Buker, at Hickory, Va.

There was a Christmas tree at the church Tuesday evening.

Twenty-eight manufacturing industries of Worcester and county towns went the entire thirty days of November with freedom from lost time accidents. These factories employ 9,866 men and women.

SHORT HAUL FREIGHT.

With the announcement that the Boston & Maine Railroad company contemplates the cancellation of its services on the unprofitable lines of the system and substitution for it of service by automobile trucks there is no ground for surprise in view of the experiments entered into by other roads.

Only recently it was set forth by the Pennsylvania system that it had tried out the substitution of auto service for the steam road in the handling of less than carload lots with excellent results. It meant a big saving to the railroad and it gave better service to the shippers and receivers of freight.

The Lehigh Valley road has been using a motor truck and trailer to do the work which had formerly required a local freight train in handling less than carload lots between Ithaca and Geneva, N. Y. This experiment shows a monthly saving to the road of $3,900. It can operate the truck and trailer for $36 a day, while it costs $123 to run the train. This same road has placed a rail motor coach on the run between Plainfield and Perth Amboy N. J., in the place of a train with the result that the experiment has paid for it in the first year.

It is unquestionably in the height of such experiments and those which have been tried on a smaller scale by the Boston & Maine that it has decided to come to its own relief by a reduction of expenses in the same manner that others are doing, and in the way which it is believed that many other roads will be obliged to do in order to meet present day conditions.

Service is what is desired. If it is possible to get something better and more satisfactory than the railroads furnish the transportation lines that provide it are going to get the business. This is particularly true of the short hauls. With such a situation fully realized by the railroads the action by the Boston & Maine can be regarded as differing in no respect from what is or will be done on other systems.

SPOKE FOR AMERICA.

There are those who act as if they considered the whole future of this country depended upon the manner in which they keep the so-called yellow peril to the front. They are not satisfied with the ill feeling that has been created by the exclusion act adopted by this government, but seek to keep it alive if not stir up more. They seem disposed to create unfriendly relations if such do not exist.

How harmful such efforts can become is fully sensed by Secretary Hughes following the move made in congress in behalf of what can be regarded as an anti-Japanese effort. Even though the claim may be made that such is not the intention it is easily susceptible to such an interpretation. It is just what can be expected to arouse suspicion.

In fact the purpose of letting Japan know that such efforts do not represent the attitude of this government that Secretary Hughes has acted so promptly in extending a welcome to the new Japanese ambassador. The desire of this country is not for ill feeling or trouble with Japan. Its object is to keep away from those things that can easily, even if unintentionally, create resentment and discord. It doesn't require much effort to arouse the jingo spirit and cause the undermining of the confidence that exists between nations. More can be done in a harmful way in a brief time than can be removed through years of diplomatic effort.

It can thus be appreciated that the welcome by Secretary Hughes was intended not only for the rebuke of those who are giving support to efforts which cannot get administration approval but for the allaying of any misgivings which may have influenced the jingo class in Japan.

The importance of the good relationship of nations cannot be too greatly emphasized. Neither can there be allowed a misrepresentation of the government's attitude. When Secretary Hughes spoke he spoke officially. He spoke for this government and he spoke in the interest of continued good will and peace between nations. It was intended to serve as a guide to Japan of American feeling.

THE NEW LABOR CHIEF.

Labor throughout the country has been interested in the choice that would be made as the successor to Samuel Gompers as the head of the American Federation of Labor. In view of the several considered eligibles opinions naturally varied as to the outcome and as to the merits of the respective men. The unanimous action which featured the selection of William Green of Ohio indicates the possession of what must be regarded by the mind of the labor leaders as qualifications for the administration of such an important office.

Mr. Green is a native born American, one how has had political experience in his own state and long years of service in behalf of the cause of labor. He is fully in touch with the policies of Samuel Gompers, but evidence that his mind does not run on exactly the same track is to be found in the fact that while the former labor leader supported the recent third party movement Mr. Green stood in opposition thereto.

The new federation leader will be included in the list of conservatives, a fact which should be gratifying to the greater body of labor men, although it is not to be forgotten that there is a considerable element which is urging radical policies.

Mr. Green was a miner. His experience in labor activities have been long and conspicuous. He has had a rapid rise in positions of responsibility. Naturally there will be speculation as to whether his selection will get endorsement when it comes time for the election of the federation's leader. He will have an opportunity in the time that intervenes to influence support by the manner in which he acts. The united backing of the miners is an excellent beginning. That will carry much prestige in the next convention and if his action as labor chief makes a favorable impression there will probably be no difficulty in overcoming such resentment as may be manifested now because the choice did not fall on other shoulders.

PRACTICING ECONOMY.

President Coolidge's economy is not a fly by night policy. He has asked others to meet the requirements of the government by keeping down expenditures and not rushing into extravagance just because it may have become a habit or because it is the easiest thing to do. He has even gone further than making an appeal for economy for he has put into practice the very thing that he has preached. He has taken the leadership in saving government funds. He asks others to do no more than he is ready to do, and then he proceeds to show that economy can be applied to funds over which he has control He sets a fine pace.

When he went to Chicago he made use of facilities which are provided for others and the result was his transportation expenses were lower than would otherwise have been the case. At the first state function of the white house social season last week, the dinner to the cabinet, their wives and guests, there was no skimping on the menu or the service, but instead of hiring an expensive outside caterer the dinner was prepared by the chef at the white house. This no doubt reflects due credit upon the chef and his ability, but it also means that there is going to be a larger amount to turn back to the treasury from that fund which the president is allowed for traveling expenses and such entertainment.

Instead of extravagance, economy is the motto at the white house. It has been adopted at a time when greater need for economy in many directions is evident and there is no greater exponent of the merits of a proscription than the conscientious use of it by the one who advocates it. Instead of keeping up with the other fellow on expenditures it is time to keep up with the president on sane economy.

CONGRESSMAN KAHN.

The death of Congressman Julius Kahn of California has brought new attention to his career as a member of the national legislature during the worst war in the history of the world.

Julius Kahn was one of those who came to us from another country. He thought enough of the United States to change his allegiance and he proved that he was by no means a hyphenated American. Even though he came from Germany his work was wholeheartedly in behalf of his adopted country. As the ranking republican member of the military affairs committee of the lower house of congress he was keenly alert to the responsibilities of this country and to the manner in which we must go into the war to be successful. He made the fight in behalf of compulsory military service, and he succeeded but not without plenty of opposition within as well as outside of congress. It was something new for this country. There were others which had tried it without results that impressed, but it was maintained that it was the only manner in which this government could be assured of escaping failure.

When the proposal for compulsory service came, Mr. Kahn might have opposed it for political reasons. He might have maintained a passive attitude. But it was no time for either. It was a time when all Americans were expected to join hands and stand back of the country and that is what he did in a generous measure. He was one of those immigrants who have done much for as well as been helped by their adopted country.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Trotsky isn't the kind to get sick because of opposition. He thrives on that.

Is it the coming eclipse of the sun which causes some people to see such an unusually harsh winter ahead?

Think what a lot of disappointment there'll be over the failure of the $300,000 booze cargo to make port.

When they stop the sale of firearms through the mail it is probable that the bootleggers will go into the business.

The man on the corner says: The Christmas spirit may be in the air, but take good care it doesn't all remain there.

Do we hear some joining in the chorus, "If we only get a sufficient water supply again we'll never waste any more water"?

When Moscow throws Trotsky out is it getting rid of an old and worthless model and confining its efforts to the perfection of something new and less radical?

Any weakness that develops in the ice storm between Chicago and Connecticut will cause no complaint lest it be from those enjoying their Christmas vacation.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Household vinegar will remove old glue from furniture.

Use cornmeal and vinegar to remove fruit stains from the hands.

Never add salt to uncooked meat as it toughens even tender meat.

A half-teaspoon measure is very handy and accurate for making very small measurements.

You can sharpen the knives of a food chopper by running bits of scouring brick through it.

The flavor of lean or dry meat is much improved by larding it with bits of fat pork or bacon.

An asbestos sheet such as is used under a sheet cake tin is good to be used on the ironing board on the end you set the flat iron on.

To make the meat of a chicken juicy and tender rub the fowl inside and out with a cut lemon before you cook it.

If the meat that is boiling seems tough, put a tablespoonful or two of pure cider vinegar into the pot. It will make the meat lovely and tender.

Lace that is streaky and whole, but soiled or stained, may be dyed a pretty color by steeping it in tea and ironing it while damp.

Turn the children's colored gingham and chambray dresses inside out before hanging them on the line. This will prevent fading.

Make babies' booties from the tops of old kid gloves, using as a pattern an old worn-out bootee, which is easily ripped. Pieces of ponlin, velvet and flannel can also be used.

Make a small bag to hold string that comes around the grocer's and butcher's packages. Roll the string in a ball, put in the bag and hang the bag in the kitchen.

Stairrods cannot always be afforded. When economy is necessary lay several thicknesses of newspapers evenly over the edge of the stairs to spare the tread.

When making cakes or omelet always break each egg into a cup and examine it carefully before putting it with the others. Many a good egg has been wasted by too-quick mixing.

CONCERNING SEASONING

Perhaps the wise thing to remember about seasoning is to season sparingly when having new guests for meals. More salt and pepper can be added by the individual if desired. So often persons are restricted as to high seasoning on their physician and a highly-seasoned dinner would prove just a worry to them.

MAKE YOUR OWN

Lime water can be made easily at home and is much less expensive than the bought liquid. Take a piece of unslaked lime the size of an egg and pour over it one quart of pure water. Let stand several hours, then filter through a clean white cloth. Pour in clean bottles and cork.

EASY ENOUGH

After frying any scattery food wipe off the stove with an old newspaper. It will not only make the stove clean and polish better, but will do away with any odor of cooking that would linger around the scattered grease.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A teaspoonful of the juice of a lemon in a small cup of black coffee is almost certain to relieve a bilious headache.

One-fourth teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in a quarter of a cup of hot water is an excellent gargle for sore throat.

The finest of manicure acids is made by putting a teaspoon of lemon juice into a cup of warm water. This removes stains from the fingers and nails and loosens the cuticle.

If that boy of yours has suddenly decided he is too big to drink milk, give him a paper soda straw and he will drink the milk, if only to use the straw.

Toasted bread, served plain or as milk or cream toast, will always be of importance to the sick, while milk soups, beef tea, mutton and chicken broth and broiled chops, birds or steak will probably be ordered in late convalescence. The woman who can tempt a finicky appetite with a nutritious, daintily made dessert will also find the knowledge a sickroom asset.

BOBS AND WIGS

Some of us do and some of us don't like the bob, but that is beside the point. Lots of women and girls who would have shuddered at the thought of wearing a wig are complacently sport them now. Not because they are bald or their hair is poor but because they frequently desire bobbed hair and just as frequently don't. And the simplest solution is to wear a bobbed wig which most of the time produces more flattering results than the regular, natural bob.

LEAVE A FEW SPACES

Don't have the mistaken idea that lots and lots of little ornaments and decorations make the house more homelike. It only makes it junky. Have enough pictures and small comforts to remove any bare look, but avoid too many things. It is a relief to get out of a room of that type; it proves overpowering.

A DRESS FIGURE

A dress figure is a somewhat pretentious gift, but would be a boon to anybody who sews, and enable one to fit her own clothes without independent help. Probably few people would remember to give dressing boards and cloths and yet they are very necessary in the business, and are exactly what one seamstress says she would like to receive. White galatea or duck is used for hard pressing by professional tailors; for light pressing cheesecloth is satisfactory. Covers of cambric, percale or some dust resisting material are used for covering finished garments. Every seamstress needs half a dozen bags made of mosquito netting to hold left over bits of like materials.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Kasha-lined coats are very smart and very warm. They are very popular in Paris.

Intricate tailored designs are prominent in all styles whether the silhouette is straight or flaring.

Putty shades are very much liked in wools and silks for gowns for all occasions.

Pleated ruffles outline the wrists of the very smartest sleeves and they extend far over the hand.

Taffeta flannel is the name given to a material almost as light in weight as challis and which comes in stripes and checks.

Very high cockets on the newest coats and dresses bear out the belief that the Directoire line is growing in popularity.

An unusual combination is noticed in a dress of red crepe. Finely pleated trimmed with an overdress of black lace.

Double chiffon scarfs are lovely for evening or dartime wear, and frequently they match the hat.

Very long tight, narrow sleeves are seen in afternoon and dinner gowns of Russian inspiration. Slashed effects are also seen.

A most attractive pair of pajamas are made of black satin with frills of pleated white chiffon about the neck and wrists.

The most popular boudoir outfit of the moment is of pastel colored satin edged with marlbeu or ostrich of exactly the same shade.

The underarm seams of tailored frocks have become important as the point where tailored decorations usually buttons, are introduced.

The newest dance frocks seem almost to dance of themselves so light and airy are they in fabric and so irregular in hemline that they suggest motion even if the model is silent.

NEW TAILORED COAT

The newest coat for the woman who goes in for tailored styles is made of tweed or homespun in the soft grayish tones called London lavender. These are made like a man's coat and are slightly fitted to define a natural waist-line. With these coat is worn a plain hat of velour and a gay scarf inside the collar.

TREND OF FASHION

Subtle details vary the mode of the hour but the essentials remain the same, and one finds gratifying simplicity of line, an elimination of superfluous decoration and a sophisticated use of color.

While the line in most instances is undeviatingly slim and straight, a newer aspect is given by the introduction of a slight flare. Sometimes this is achieved by godets, often scant ruffles, and frequently by the use of small box plaits which open out when the wearer is in motion and fall into slender lines when she is in repose.

A circular movement is seen in several of the new frocks but it is handled in a way that marks it as distinctly of this season. Back and front of the skirt are plain and the flare is concentrated at one side. It is a tremendously smart line and very youthful. One hears that a foremost couturier is contemplating a revival of the princess silhouette much modified to be sure, but reminiscent of the fashion of a decade ago.

CORSETS BACK

There seems to be a tendency to return to some form of corset or "cointure" as it is now called. These are lightly boned and most of them are of brocade or combinations of brocade and rubber ribbing. Many back-laced models are seen.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To iron crepe de chine lay the garments on the ironing board or on an ironing blanket and sheet, on a table. Smooth them well, and cover with muslin. Iron with a fairly hot flat iron over the muslin until nearly dry. Finish without the muslin. Hang up to air.

To blue clothes use clean cold water and mix the bluing thoroughly with the water before putting in the clothes.

The ironing board should be covered first with a thick pad, then with cotton tightly and smoothly stretched.

To remove indelible pencil marks from linen put lard on the stain, rub well into the grease spot, wash with warm soap and water. Repeat until removed.

When ironing curtains of voile, scrim or such material fold them so the selvage ends are together and they will hang perfectly even and straight.

FOR BUSINESS GIRLS

The old-fashioned, stiff-collared, and starched "shirtwaist" and the severely plain serge skirt, once worn by almost every female in the world of affairs, were impossible for evening elegance. But the current one-piece frock, shaped in various collarless ways at the neck and with countless sorts of trimmings, and accessories to give it distinction, meets almost all requirements of modern informal dining and theater-going. The plainest black crepe de china gown with the addition of a fresh scarf, gloves, flower at the waist, and hat perhaps left off entirely will turn the well dressed worker into a pleasure-seeker quite well enough apparelled for ordinary occasions. Black is always in good taste, day or night, in thick or thin fabrics, and, if made after simple, distinguished models, lasts its owner a long time and is always a good standby; or one may choose flat crepe, in dull gray or woodsy brown.

PAPERING THE BOUGHT HOUSE

New papering means money, but the extra amount expended for scraping off the old paper before papering anew is well spent. You cannot tell how clean the former occupants were, and the only safe method is to have the walls scraped, so that no "boarders" lurk in the soiled paper. Very often you will find even another soiled paper under the top one.

KEEPING CURED MEAT

When hams, shoulders, or other pieces are taken out of the brine and dried, sew each piece in a taut covering of cheesecloth, and brush it all over with melted paraffin.

When taken out of this covering, the meat emerges clean and there is no loss of meat or time in getting the paraffin out of the crevices.

IT SAVES MENDING

It always worries many to see the corners of tablecloths, sheets or blankets flapping on the line in a strong wind, for it means that these same corners will be frayed and worn. On a really windy day, double these large pieces lengthwise and pin the four corners to the line.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Alaska has eight women's clubs with a combined membership of 250.

More than 800 women are engaged in the exporting and importing business in the United States.

At the age of 77 years, Mrs. Annie Besant recently journeyed from London to Amsterdam by airplane.

Mrs. Margery N. Ludlow of Pasadena, Cal. has invented an easy reach revolver holder for automobile drivers.

There are 38 national women's organizations in this country affiliated with the International Council of Women.

At the age of 90 years, Mrs. Juliette Adams, frequently called the George Eliot of France, is still active with her pen.

TO CLEAN BRONZE

Perhaps the most satisfactory way of cleaning bronze is to first immerse the articles in boiling water and then rub with a soft cloth dipped in powdered rock, lessening the amount of threat to the future which must lie in hearing these great masses of children to know nothing but bitterness and misery, stealing countenancing forces of goodness and sympathy.

Are You Discouraged?

Whitlock, the Minister's Son

Son of a clergyman in a small college town, Brand Whitlock early formed the desire to be a writer and one of his boyish compositions was accepted and printed—then for 22 years he was unable to have another manuscript accepted, and often his writing was interrupted.

After his father had taken him to attend the Musical Festival at Cincinnati, the boy returned to his home in Urbana, Ohio, and wrote an article on music that was published by a magazine.

Following his attendance at public and private schools, he became a reporter at 18 for a Toledo newspaper. Three years later he jointed the staff of a Chicago morning newspaper. Deciding to be a lawyer and finding it difficult to write or to study after his work was ended at midnight he became a clerk in the office of the Secretary of State at Springfield, Ill., and studied at night.

Admitted to the Ohio bar at 21, he opened a law office in Toledo but spent most of his time writing his political novel, The 13th District, until his literary labors were interrupted by his appointment as attorney for the humane society. Then Golden Rule Jones, the mayor, asked him to make speeches for him. The two became friends and soon after Jones died Whitlock was elected mayor.

After serving four terms he declined a fifth. The 13th District, The Gold Brick and other novels of his had been published, and he was planning to write more books when President Wilson appointed him Minister to Belgium.

Within eight months came the outbreak of the world war and Whitlock soon was busy aiding the people of Belgium and representing in addition to the United States, eight countries. So great were the demands on him that his health broke down and he had to return home but he went back after his recovery and became an idol of the Belgians. After peace had been proclaimed he wrote Memories of Belgium Under the German Occupation.

In 1922 he resigned as ambassador and returned to this country where he is busily engaged in writing.

RECIPES

Macaroon Custard: One and one-half cups scalded milk, three eggs, one-third cup sugar, four macaroons rolled into crumbs, one-half cup seedless raisins, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup whipped cream. Scald milk in a double boiler; beat eggs slightly, add sugar gradually. Pour hot milk over the mixture and stir until sugar is dissolved. Then set over hot water and stir gently over a low fire until custard thickens and coats the spoon. Add raisins and macaroon crumbs. Remove from the fire at once, stir a few seconds and turn into a cold bowl. Add flavoring when partly cold. Serve in sherbet cups and garnish with whipped cream.

Holiday Fruit Cake: A fruit cake can be made as quickly as an ordinary cake. A steam pudding is no more of a task than making a pie. The food chopper and seeded, clean raisins have minimized the labor of making mincemeat, so none of these New England holiday treats require any special effort.

This recipe makes a small, round cake weighing about three pounds, a very nice size for home use of a gift:

One-quarter cup of butter, 1 cup brown sugar 3 eggs, 1 cup flour 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 teaspoon each, cinnamon and nutmeg, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 teaspoon each, cloves and allspice, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups seedless raisins 2 cups seeded raisins, 1-2 cup shredded citron, 1-4 teaspoon soda dissolved in one teaspoon cold water.

Mix fruit well, sift flour and spices, cream butter until waxy; add sugar gradually beating well. All beaten egg yolks, molasses, vanilla, melted chocolate, and flour beating until smooth. Combine fruit and cake batter; when well mixed fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs and the dissolved soda. Line a baking pan with greased paper, pour in the cake batter and bake in a very slow oven about two hours.

GANDLE HOLDERS

If you have no candle holders for granny's birthday cake, try sticking the tiny candles into marshmallows. All the small guests will be delighted when they find they can eat the candle holders.

Stories That Recall Others

Keeping Secrets.

Hanna's wife and son left to spend several days with relatives in another part of the state. While approaching another city their car skidded on a wet pavement and turned over. They suffered some injuries and the car was badly damaged. They were taken to a doctor's office and a wrecking crew looked after the machine. The work took several days and in the meantime the wife and son were recuperating in a hotel. They finally reached their destination and then Hanny's wife wrote him a letter telling of her experience.

"I did not let you know of the accident," she wrote, "fearing it might worry you."

"Atta wife!" is the comment of every husband to whom Henry has told the story.

Juvenile Discourtesy.

A motor car drew up in front of a [illegible] home. It was driven by a young man who was vehemently puffing a cigarette. He took the cigarette out of his mouth and looking toward the house gave a sharp whoop-a-to whistle. Then he leaned back in the seat and resumed the cigarette. Presently a young girl with bobbed hair and other marks of the modern flapper came tripping out of the house and down to the car. She hurried around to the other side and climbed in beside the young man, who did not even look down the door for her. She was scarcely seated before the car was speeding down the street.

The next morning at breakfast the girl's father, who had observed the manner in which the young man had [illegible] asked:

"Did it ever occur to you, my dear," he said, "that a young man who will treat his girl like a dog probably will treat her even worse after she becomes his wife?" The girl was shocked by her father's frankness. She [illegible] about it that way [illegible] but an observing father had.

At last the music teachers' business is scaly.

SERMONS, PAGEANTS AND TABLEAUX TELL STORY OF CHRIST'S BIRTH

The story of the birth of Jesus Christ was told in the churches of Norwich Sunday in sermon, pageant and tableau. In practically all the local churches of the Protestant faith Christmas services with special programmes of music were held. In spite of the low temperature the congregations were large in most of the churches. The Episcopal churches and those of the Catholic faith will hold special services Christmas Day.

LIGHTING CHRISTMAS WREATH AT METHODIST CHURCH

The lighting of the Christmas wreath, an annual custom, was carried out Sunday evening at Trinity M. E. church by twenty-six young ladies of the Sunday school. With a large congregation present the service opened at 7.30 o'clock with the organ prelude, Prayer and Cradle Song (Woodman). The evening's programme was as follows:

Hymn No. 112, "There's a Song in the Air," Holland; Scripture lesson, prayer, anthem, "The Song the Angels ...g," Metcalf; soprano solo and quar... with violin obligato; Screen ser... "It the Star of Bethlehem," ...ducing Channing Pollock's, "The Fo... ...nent, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," Ashford, contralto solo and quartette; ...ding of the Christmas wreath.

In the white gift service the societies and classes listed below marched to the altar and deposited their gifts, followed by the individuals of the congregation: The Ladies' Aid Society, the Men's Class, the Loyalty Class, the Epworth League, the Costello Lippitt Class, the True Blue Class, the Gleaners' Class, other classes, the congregation.

A feature of the service was the lighting of the Christmas wreath. The young ladies with lighted candles and gowned in white, formed in a circle around the large wreath, and after repeating a verse, each young lady lighted a candle on the wreath. The recessional hymn, Joy to the World, brought the service to a close. Those who took part in the ceremony were: Misses Mary Gray, Isabelle Shearer, Gladys Newbury, Mildred Crowe, Nancy Colberg, Alberta Boardman, Mary Boardman, Bessie Boardman, Mildred Flye, George Greenlaw, Rita Greenlaw, Mrs. Merton Palmer, Eva Frieze, Evelyn Wheeler, Mrs. Myrtice Germain, Mrs. O'Mara, Arlify Haddad, Bertha Hahn, Dorothy McNeely, Marcia Stanton, Stella Purvis, Grace Purvis, Hazel Foley, Charlotte Geer and Elizabeth Durie.

At the morning service Rev. J. Harlow Graham, the pastor, took as the text for his Christmas sermon, Matt. 2-2. We have seen His Star in the East and are come to worship Him. In part he said:

There are two major notes in the Christmas lessons. One is the note of worship—of the presence of God and the propriety of kneeling in the stable in Bethlehem about the manger cradle. The other is the note of good will—of man's rightful attitude to his fellowman.

This text invites consideration of the call to worship.

Imagination and research have pictured the Magi as men whose vocation or avocation was scholarship. They were students of nature, of life, and of the stars; astrologers from beyond the desert. The boon of leisure was theirs but their devotion was to life's mysteries and its substances not to its shadows, fancies or frivolities. Their tribute is the tribute of the older civilizations and of the older religions of the East to the new western religion. They represent the Gentile world at the cradle of Christianity.

To all men life is a pilgrimage but not all men lift their eyes to see the sky that arches overhead and still fewer find and follow the significant stars. This story is an age old symbol of an eternal quest of the human soul.

We may appropriately ask three questions, suggested by the text:

1—In the morning sky of our life's daily task, can we find a star that leads to Christ?

To so many the daily task is monotony and humdrum; a weariness to the flesh, a vexation to the spirit. But some there are whose eyes are not holden. God finds a vision and they see it. God speaks. They heard. The voice of God is heard by the waiting ear. "Earth's crammed with heaven."

2—In the blue sky of God's goodness can we see the star?

Our Pilgrim forefathers did. They learned to count their blessings, and they gave thanks. Can we see the star which leads to Him when the skies are blue?

3—In the clouded sky of trouble does the star shine out for us?

When the Jews were in captivity then God seemed the tenderest shepherd. When life smites, only trust avails. Men walk with chattering pleasure but learn no worth-while lessons. They walk with silent sorrow and wisdom is imparted to them.

SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS WHOLE YEAR THROUGH

That the spirit of Christmas will prevail the whole year through was the hope expressed by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, in his Sunday morning sermon. There was a large attendance at the service and the church was prettily decorated. A delightful program of Christmas music had been arranged for the service.

Rev. Dr. Pitt took his text from Ecc. 7: 12. In his sermon he said:

We are all familiar with the story of the first Christmas, but what do we know about the second and the third and the story of Christmas down through the ages? What do we know about Christmas as it will be celebrated this week around the world? For three years in the Central church we have specialized on the first Christmas. I am suggesting, therefore, that this year we center our thought on this Christmas. And in order to prepare our minds and hearts for such a celebration, I wish to speak on Christmas historically, Christmas geographically, Christmas religiously.

I. Christmas historically. We know practically nothing about the beginnings of the Christmas festival Christmas is of Catholic origin and received its name from Christ-mass, the mass celebrated in honor of the nativity. At first Christmas was a movable feast like Easter and celebrated in April or May. It was not until the fourth century that Dec. 25th was adopted but by the fifth or sixth century that date was universally accepted.

When the Puritans came to New England they brought with them the Purian reaction against Christmas. The Massachusetts legislature in 1651 imposed a fine of five shillings upon whoever shall be found observing any such day as Christmas or the like.

Who then, knowing of the Roman revelry, the Feast of Fools in the Middle Ages, the Lords of Misrule in England, or the Purianlic laws prohibiting the observance of Christmas, who, knowing this, will say the former days were better than these?

II. Christmas geographically. We all know that the Christmas festival had its origin in the Roman world, then it spread to Europe, then across to the British Isles. Some centuries later it crossed the Atlantic. In the beginning of the last century it crossed the Pacific and has been spreading in the orient until today it girdles the globe. There is probably no land under the sun where Christmas will not be observed this present week.

III. Christmas religiously. We wonder if a Christmas was ever before observed in a way more pleasing to the Christ of Christmas. Consider the centrality of the Child in the festival as it is celebrated today. Christmas more and more is placing the child where Christ placed him, in the midst.

Again, consider the Christmas thought and provision for the poor and needy in our own and other lands. America this year at Christmas time is providing for thousands of orphans in the Near East in addition to the provision that she is making for the needy in her midst. Moreover, we believe that the Christ of Christmas is coming to His own as never before.

Never was so much of the spirit of Christ manifested at Chistmas as there is today, so we dare to hope that the spirit of Christmas will prevail not only the whole earth round but the whole year through.

CHRISTMAS VESPER SERVICE AT COMMUNITY HOUSE

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon the story of Bethlehem was presented at the Community house by the choir and members of the Sunday school of the United Congregational church. There was a good sized congregation present. The programme was as follows:

Prelude—Christmas Eve Malling
Soliloquy of Joseph—Isaiah 9:6
Hymn by Congregation—O Little Town of Bethlehem
Soprano solo—When I View the Mother Barnby
Choir—Birthday of the King Neidlinger
Soliloquy of Joseph—Isaiah 9:2; Psalm 103:1
Song of the Angels—Hark! the Herald Angels Sing
Soprano solo—Hymn of the Angels Garrett
Hymn by congregation—O Come All Ye Faithful
Carol—We Three Kings of Orient Are Old English
Offering for Near East Relief
Hymn by congregation—Joy to the World
Benediction
Postlude—Fanfare In D Bridge

Those who took part in the tableaux, all in costume, were as follows: Mary, Jean Cram; Joseph, Alfred Bliven; Shepherds, Charles Sargent, Oscar Mosesion, Earl Whitehead, Donald Bullard; women of Jerusalem, Mrs. Richard Gregson, Mrs. Avery Gallup, Miss Emma Thompson; angels, Kathryn Zumbro, Elizabeth Zumbro, Marion Mitchell, Suzanne Higgins, Bessie LaPierre; wise men, Walter F. Lester, Benjamin Brown, Archibald Mitchell 4th.

The special costumes were made by the women of the church under the direction of Mrs. F. W. Lester and Mrs. Ozias Dodge. The posing was in charge of Mr. Dodge.

The committee in charge of the programme comprised Miss Marion Beebe, Miss Clara Evans, Miss Mary Lucas, Mrs. W. H. Dawley, Miss Elizabeth Pullen and Herbert B. Cary. F. W. Lester presided at the organ. The members of the choir follow, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, soprano; Miss Dorothy Myott, alto; George A. Turner, tenor and Benjamin Brown, bass.

An offering for the Near East was taken up.

At the morning service at the United church there was a special programme of Christmas music with a Christmas sermon by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, the pastor.

CANDLE LIGHT VESPERS AT UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

Candle Light vespers were held Sunday evening at 6.30 o'clock at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, in charge of the Young People's Christian Union and were attended by many people, including the Young People's society of several local churches.

The church was prettily decorated in evergreen for the service and crosses of burning candles at two sides of the auditorium and in the choir gallery added much to the effectiveness of the service.

The service opened with the Processional by the vested choir, using the words, It Came Upon the Midnight Clear and the Recessional was Hark, the Herald Angels Sing, this in turn being followed by Holy Night and the benediction.

The organ and piano accompaniment during the service was rendered by William Huber and Henry Brenen played the violin.

GAVE CHRISTMAS PAGEANT IN ORIENTAL COSTUME

In place of the usual Sunday lessons at the church school of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, the session Sunday noon was in charge of Mrs. A. N. Foster under whose guidance the pageant, Following the Star, was presented. The characters appeared in Oriental costume and were assisted in presenting the pageant by the vested choir of the church.

Those participating and the characters impersonated were: Miss Hattie Fowler, Mary; Laurice N. Foster, Joseph; Miss Thelma Bjurstrom and Miss Betsy Pike, Shepherds; Sherman Barber, George Bell and Louis Talbot, Three Wise Men; Miss Alice Farsons, reader; Miss Beatrice Green, pianist.

THE OTHER WORLD THAT CHRISTMAS REVEALS

An attractive programme of Christmas music by the organist and choir with a sermon on The Other World that Christmas Reveals, by the pastor, Rev. A. N. Foster, featured the Sunday morning service at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist. Rev. Mr. Foster took his text from Luke 2:9. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shown round about them and they were sore afraid. In part Rev. Mr. Foster said:

When Marco Polo, the great traveler of the 13th century returned to Venice, he told wonderful stories of the mysterious lands in the Far East. Many of those stories have been verified by later history.

In a later century when De Leon, the Spaniard, invaded Florida he reported amazing scenes in that "land of flowers."

An ever increasing number of witnesses bear similar testimony in our day and generation. New worlds have been opened to humanity.

Today science opens new worlds in the very physical atmosphere. Latent forces become active in the transmission of the messages of "wireless" and "radio." We stand in adoration before such triumphs of sciences and eagerly seek further exploration in the new worlds thus opened.

We commemorate at Christmas the beautiful story of the Shepherds watching in the Judean fields by night. Revelation of another world and of a new life was opened to them. They fell on their knees in adoration and then arose to their feet to follow the guiding star in the light of a new discipleship.

The story is illustrative of the fact that the Christmas observance symbolizes our passing from the old world into the new.

Purpose and motive largely determine in which realm we shall live and work.

The old world of yesterday is associated with things which are familiar and things which are habitual and it is permeated with suspicion and envy. Christmas opens a vision of a new world and declares a new purpose and almost every nation the earth over responds this week to the inspiring invitation and command.

Such response is subject to perversion as men commercialize the Christmas observance but the primary meaning it wonderfully clear.

That meaning tells us that we highly resolve to emphasize giving and not getting; to earnestly strive to give happiness to others and not merely to satisfy self; to recognize the duties and the realities of Brotherhood in our social and our international life and not appeal to prejudice or resort to evasion.

We think, that thought and we live in that world at Christmas time and we may well pray for the extension of such blessing. The glory of the higher thought shines round about us and the light of faith calls us anew to discipleship.

MADE STRONG APPEAL FOR REAL CHRISTIAN SPIRIT

A strong appeal for a real Christian giving spirit this Christmas was made Sunday evening when Mrs. C. R. Vickery, in pure white sari, the high cast Hindu widow's garb, spoke to a large congregation at the Central Baptist church, impersonating Shanfabai, childwife and widow, telling in brief the pitiful story of the life of the women of India.

The story as told by Mrs. Vickery began with the birth of Stantabai and her life up until her ninth birthday, when her mother died, and it became her lot to become the bride of her uncle, for under the Hindu law, her uncle had first claim upon her. From her marriage to the end of the story was just one pitiful appeal after another.

Cursed because her first born was a daughter, she lived in hopes of giving a son to her husband, that he might reach the highest Hindu reward after death. Joy reigned following the birth of her son, but not for long, for the husband had pledged the daughter to the temple if a son was born and her four year old daughter was taken from her never to be seen again.

Finally the boy goes to the white Sahib's school, learns of God and of Christ and through fear of torture by the priests of the temple, her son also goes from her.

After the death of her husband, for which she was blamed by the priests because she was not a virtuous woman and had poisoned her husband in a former life, two courses remain open to her. To go to the temple where beautiful widows are welcome, or go to the well to commit suicide.

She decides to go to the white Sahib's wife and here for the first time she finds peace in the white Sahib's Master.

The story of Shantabai, which is the story of one of the missionaries now working among her own people, said Mrs. Vickery, is only one of millions of similar stories.

Women have been nothing in India but the day is changed now. In one Baptist church in India over 25,000 attend the services and thousands are unable to get in to hear of Christ. We have been at work for many years in India, said Mrs. Vickery, but, when you think of the 26,000 widows in India bound by vow never to marry again, millions of them under 10 year of age, when you think of over 40,000,000 women shut away in seclusion, over a million girls under 12 or 15 year, mothers every year and that the population of India is three times that of the United States, you begin to see the vast task being faced by the missionaries to that land.

Instead of spending millions in luxuries; instead of giving so much for Christmas, said Mrs. Vickery, couldn't you give half what you spend in this manner to Christ—just to help these millions of women of India tear themselves from a life worse than death and learn to live the life we, as women, because of Christ's teachings, are enjoying in America? Share Christ this Christmas with some other woman.

Previous to the story told by Mrs. Vickery and during the service a special musical program was enjoyed as follows:

Prelude, Christmas Pastorale, Harker; carol, Sing Noel, Harker; anthem, Sing O Heavens, Tours; anthem, The Hush of Night, Spence; anthem, There Were Shepherds, Spence; carol, Cradle Song, Harker.

VESPER SERVICE FOR PARK CHURCH SCHOOL

The Sunday school of Park Congregational church held a Christmas vesper service in the church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Pews in the front of the church were reserved for the members of the schools. The address was given by the pastor, Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D. Following is the programme:

Organ prelude, Christmas Pastorale, Rogers; Processional, Invocation, Offertory, choir, "Holy Night," Hawley; address, Dr. Howe; carol, by school, "The First Noel;" solo, Miss Elizabeth Collins.

Primary department: I. Bell Song; II, carol, Away in a Manger. Intermediate Department: Song, Holy Berries! sacred cantata, The Longing for Christ—I. The Wise Men; II, The Longing for Christ; III, The Shepherds; IV, Joy at His Birth. Final hymn, Joy to the World. Organ postlude, Chorus of Shepherds (Lemmens).

An unusually attractive program of music featured the morning service and the sermon was given by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Howe. The offertory, The Hush of Night Hath Fallen (Spence), was sung by Mrs. E. A. Harris.

SAYS STORY OF THE NATIVITY HISTORICALLY TRUE

In his Christmas sermon Sunday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich Town, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich, said the reason Jesus Christ means so little to many of us today is that there is no room for Him in our lives. Rev. Mr. Aldrich took his text from Luke 2: 11. In part, he said:

The story of the Nativity is not only very beautiful, as surely all will be willing to confess; it is historically true—a thing some have shown themselves eager to deny.

The man who has been led by the light of the world through the dark places of life does not ask the wise men to give him permission to believe in the Star of Bethlehem.

Luke is writing of the birth of his Lord, the nativity of the King of Kings.

"Was the birth in the manger of His own ordering? It was not chance. God forbid it was the will of the Divine Baby to be born in a manger and not in the inn. Born in the city of David because He was the son of David, the king of Israel, and was to fulfill all the prophecies; He would not be born in royal state or comfort, as the son of David might be expected, because He was to save us by suffering and humanity. What was true of His entrance upon life was true of al

LIONS ENTERTAIN CHILDREN AT PALACE THEATRE

Over 1,300 children filled the Palace theatre to capacity Saturday morning and enjoyed the entertainment provided through the courtesy of the Norwich Lions club and the theatre management.

President C. Edward Carpenter of the Lions club opened the programme by requesting the children to join in the singing of America, after which he welcomed the children to the Lions annual Christmas show, telling them that whenever they saw a man wearing the Lions badge they saw a friend. He also announced that presents would be given to the children at the close of the entertainment.

Lion Max Hanover spoke briefly to the children, saying how glad the Lions were to have them as their guests and that it was the wish of the club that every child might have a merry Christmas and that they might take a message of good cheer home to their parents.

In closing Mr. Hanover asked for three rousing cheers for the management of the Palace theatre, which he said, had put on this Christmas show without charging the Lions one cent. This is real civic spirit, he said, and ours are a people who appreciate such a demonstration of civic devotion.

The children responded with three ringing cheers after which they were treated to a show which delighted them to say the least. Between the acts prizes were awarded the lucky guests. The first lucky boy received a pool table; the second, a tool chest and the third, an erector set. The first lucky girl was awarded a large talking doll, the second a large doll and the third a beautifully dressed doll.

Lions Louis Fontaine, J. B. Caron and John Barry were in charge of the arrangements and their work was worthy of commendation, every child in the theatre receiving a gift before they left for their homes, well entertained and happy.

Prizes were awarded by Edward L. McAvoy, manager of the theatre who did everything in his power to make the children comfortable, as did the staff employed at the theatre.

That Ought to Deter Her

A woman who frequently went out to spend the day with friends had been accompanied by her six-year-old son. One evening, on returning home very much bored with the day's experience, the boy remarked: "Mother, if you don't stop taking me around with you so much people will think you have married a dwarf."—Boston Transcript.

Tongue Troubles

Betty is a great talker. It was often said of her tongue that it was loose at both ends and it wagged in the middle. But when she ate she quite often bit her tongue. One evening at supper she bit her tongue and then burned it on something hot. After a few tears and a little sympathy she remarked: "I guess I'll take my tongue out when I eat and put it back when I talk."

Wonderful Victoria Falls

The great river Zambezi, after flowing for miles through a level country in Rhodesia, suddenly disappears in a chasm less than 400 feet wide and creates one of the world's wonders, Victoria falls. About a mile from end to end the falls are divided by many islands and projecting rocks forming the Devil's cataract.

Potato Consumption

Ireland is an easy winner in the eating of potatoes. The average per capita consumption in the Emerald isle is four pounds a day. The United States is second in this class, with a record of 200 pounds yearly for each inhabitant.

Epidemic Among Birds

That birds suffer from infectious diseases is a well-known fact. Ten years ago an epidemic slew thousands of wood-pigeons in the south of England. Their dead bodies littered some of the coppices in Wiltshire and Dorset.

When Canaries Molt

Canaries renew their feathers once a year. Adults molt late in the summer. Young birds molt the juvenile body plumage after leaving the nest, but keep the first growth of wing and tail feathers for a year. Canaries are somewhat dull and stupid while molting, and should be disturbed as little as possible.

Clock as Money Box

A savings bank in the United States is making a present of a clock to every new depositor. It is a timepiece of a peculiar kind, and is really a combination of a clock and a safe. It needs rewinding every 24 hours, but before it can be rewound a coin must be inserted. The owner is thus compelled to add something to his savings every day.—London Tit-Bits.

Reading and Doing

A truly good book teaches me better than to read it. I must soon lay it down, and commence living on its hint. It is slipping out of my fingers while I read . . . So I cannot stay to hear a good sermon, and applaud at the conclusion, but shall be halfway to Thermopylae before that.—Thoreau.

Geographical

It is a seldom noted fact that Nome, Alaska, is further west than the Hawaiian islands.

SUB BASE FOOTBALL PLAYERS CLOSE SEASON WITH SPLENDID BANQUET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 21.—A sumptuous repast held at the Hotel Mohican Buffet room last evening marked the successful termination of the football activities of the Submarine Base football team. Nearly thirty members of the squad, including officials attached to the team were included in the list of names which made all Eastern Service championship eleven at the Sub Base possible this season. In appreciation of the efforts put forth by the team members, coaches and manager, these men were awarded gold footballs and sweaters.

Captain King, commander at the local station acted as toastmaster and called on several players who distinguished themselves during the past season by their spectacular playing. A resume of the season was made and will be related in this story. Among the speakers to respond were Biddy, Leslie, Saulsbury, Chief Chaplain, Cleary, Gilbert, Gallagher and several other speakers. Chief Chaplain explained the absence of Captain Bagley who was recently transferred to the U. S. S. Savannah, which left port before the date of the banquet.

A resume of the season's record which was compiled and presented for inspection to those present was then given. Winning the Eastern service championship and [illegible] the only defeat of the season was [illegible] the large mark upon the [illegible] record for this season was [illegible] in points and in others [illegible]. CHAMPIONS BEAT RANGERS IN CLOSE CONTEST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 20.—A breakaway for the New London Rangers at Manchester presented an opportunity for the Manchester team, and on the winning [illegible] of play in a game played here this afternoon. Thanks to this unfortunate incident, which favored the visitors, the [illegible] scored and outgamed the [illegible] locals. The final score of the afternoon was two goals [illegible] visitors.

CROH WILL PLAY THIRD FOR GIANTS

New York, Dec. 21.—Heinie Groh, veteran third baseman, will be at his [illegible] position when the Giants [illegible] the field for the pennant race next season, Manager John McGraw announced today.

Groh was forced out of action in the world series with the Washington Senators this fall and was replaced [illegible] 19-year-old Freddie Lindstrom, who played sensational baseball in the crucial test and it was generally predicted that the younster had [illegible] a regular position.

Groh hit for .289 in 145 games for the Giants this season. He joined the Giants in 1911, was sent on option to Buffalo that year and returned in 1912. Then he went to Cincinnati for eight years, and again was obtained by the Giants in 1921. He has suffered at times with a weak leg, which has kept him out of many games.

Providence College Grid Slate.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 21.—Providence College will play all of the eight games announced in its 1925 football schedule today, on the fields of its opponents. The arrangement was made as a result of the opening of the Brown stadium which will result in an all at home schedule for Boston. The schedule: October 3, Fordham; 10 Holy Cross; 17, open; 24, Syracuse; 31, Boston college; Nov. 7, Colgate, Boston University; 21, open field; 26, St. John's.

NEW HIGH MARKS IN CENTRAL STATES BOWLING

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 21.—The central states bowling tourney ended at the Garden alleys here tonight with two new high marks written in the bowling records.

Featuring the final day's bowling was the 1,303 score of C. Frank and T. Owens of Louisville, Kentucky, this score exceeding any bowled in the tournament prior to this year, however, the score gained them only second place in that Ernie Hartman and Walter Reppenhagen, of Detroit, hold the leading position with 1,419 in the doubles division. The Detroiters' score came within two points of the world's record.

Rolling late Saturday night, the Central Recreation team of Erie, Pennsylvania, went into first place in the team event with a score of 3,067. The Erie team bowled consistently throughout gaining over 1,000 points in each of their three games.

Hartmann's score of 682 bowled with his partner, Reppenhagen sets a new record in the tournament competition, and aided in placing him in the lead of the all-events with 2,024 another new record for the tournament.

The five leaders are five men event: Central Recreation, Erie, Pa., 3,067. Double: W. Reppenhagen—E. Hartmann, Detroit, 1,419. Singles: E. Kalschk, Detroit, 705. All events: E. Hartmann, Detroit 2,024.

BROWNS CAN PLAY BUT NOT TALK ABOUT GOLF

St. Louis, Dec. 21.—Although members of the St. Louis American training squad will be permitted to play golf, they will be required to leave their golf on the links George Sisler, manager of the Browns announced. Golf conversations in the hotel and on the ball field will be strictly taboo, Sisler states.

"With few exceptions, golf does not hurt a player," Sisler said. "In some cases it will help and in rare instances it will hurt a man's batting. However, the Browns can play all the golf they want. But when golf gets a hold of a man so strong that he must talk it on the ball field and at the hotel, it is time for him to stop."

Legend of the Raven

There is an ancient belief that the raven was originally white but was turned black for its disobedience. The Greek legend is that Apollo sent the bird to the fountain for water but on arrival it found a fig tree with fruit so nearly ripe that it decided to wait until it was quite so; and, since an excuse for the delay was necessary, it brought back to the god a water snake in his pitcher with the explanation that the creature had drunk the fountain dry.—Exchange.

YALE LEADS EASTERN COLLEGES FOR ATHLETIC HONORS DURING PAST YEAR

New York, Dec. 21 (By the A. P.)—The Bulldog of Yale holds a firm grip on eastern intercollegiate athletic laurels for 1924. Already well stocked with titles from previous campaigns, the Elis, through one of the most stirring of 11 years of athletic strife, have emerged with a solid grasp of nine major titles in the 19 fields of competition, forming a basis for annual review. Yale outclassed all rivals in the east, the summary shows, and has a record of the whole that no institution anywhere in the country can match.

The Blue's greatest glory came in track and field, where Yale won a desperate battle for the classic intercollegiate A. A. A. A. crown that California had worn for three previous years and in rowing, where the famous Eli eight capped the climax of a two-year victorious sweep in the United States by capturing the world championship at the Olympic games. The achievements of this Yale crew, conquering the best at home and abroad, has few parallels in rowing history. The far west was a formidable menace to eastern laurels and in the outstanding branches of rivalry it was checked only by Yale, whose track squad beat back the charge of Stanford and Southern California as well as that of the title-holding Golden Bears.

The University of Washington, however, reaped a rich harvest for the invaders, leading the intercollegiate rowing parade on the Hudson for the second successive year, while Wallace Scott, of the same institution, won the intercollegiate tennis singles championship.

Wisconsin's crew, coming back after a long absence, heaped further humiliation upon eastern rowing by finishing second to Washington in the classic at Poughkeepsie. University of Texas gathered other honors for the west when her champion doubles team, White and Thalheimer, won the intercollegiate tennis title for the second straight year.

Yale's closest rival in the east was Princeton, but the Tigers, despite a good all-around showing, carried off only three titles. The Naval Academy also shared in three championships, while Washington, Penn State and Pennsylvania, each with two victories to their credit, were the only other institutions registering more than one triumph.

Besides track and rowing triumphs, Yale won the "big three" baseball crown and boasted one of the best nines in the east, finished in a triple tie with Pennsylvania and Dartmouth for football laurels besides trampling on Harvard and Princeton for the second straight year; led the hockey title chase; captured the indoor polo crown, although losing the outdoor title to Princeton and shared water polo honors with Columbia. Two of the major individuals titles were carried off by sons of old Eli when Dexter Cummins annexed the golf championship for the second successive season and Macauley L. Smith, a sophomore, led the pack in the annual cross-country race.

The Blue's chief setbacks came in swimming, where Princeton ended a winning streak the Elis had maintained since 1912, in basketball, where Yale, 1923 champions, finished last in the league race won by Cornell.

Baseball—1923, Yale, Holy Cross; 1924, Yale.

To Open Sealed Jars

When glass jar tops stick the easiest way to open them is to invert the can in hot water and leave it for about five minutes. Of course a cold glass jar should not be plunged into boiling water. Pour hot water in a small container to a depth of two inches or more, then invert the can in it. After a few minutes the top will come off easily. Corks may be removed in the same way.—The Pathfinder.

Coffee Flowers Beautiful

The Arabian coffee shrub is an ever green plant, which under natural conditions grows to a height of from 18 to 20 feet, with oblong-ovate, smooth and shining leaves, measuring 6 inches in length by 2½ wide. Its flowers, which are produced in clusters, are pure white in color, with a rich fragrant odor, and the plant in blossom has a lovely and attractive appearance.

Nautical Term

Plimsoll line is a name given to the marking on the hull of a vessel showing how heavily a vessel may be loaded with safety. Many vessels have been lost through overloading. Samuel Plimsoll, a member of the British parliament, prepared a merchant shipping act, which became a law in 1876. The act has been amended since but forms the basis for the load-line marks of vessels.

Pumice Widespread

Pumice is volcanic scoria or lava spongy or cellular from bubbles of steam or gas which it contained during liquidity; much used as a polishing material especially when powdered. In minute fragments it has been shown to have an exceedingly wide distribution over the earth's surface. It occurs in all deposits which cover the floor of the deepest portions of oceans.

Classes in the State

In every state the people are divided into three kinds, the very rich, the very poor and those who are between them. Since, then, it is universally acknowledged the mean is the best, it is evident that even in respect to fortune a middle state is to be preferred; for that state is most likely to submit to reason.—Aristotle.

Coffee's Earliest Home

The home land of the coffee plant is said to be Abyssinia, in eastern Africa, bordering on the southern part of the Red sea. In early times the cultivation of the coffee plant spread to Arabia, on the other side of the Red sea, and it is from Arabia that the world obtained the plant and learned the use of its product.

Spreading Use of Coffee

The use of coffee in Abyssinia was recorded in the Fifteenth century, and was then stated to have been practiced from time immemorial. In time the practice spread to Arabia. The plant began to be cultivated there, and the use of coffee as a national beverage became as inseparably connected with that country as tea is with China.

Attribute of Kindness

Kindness is not easy unless you have a gift that way. Distinct from good nature on the one hand, and from a sense of duty on the other, its modest name covers all the qualities we love best. Kindness is not a small department of the mind; it is the attitude of the whole character.

Aid to Forest Rangers

Forest rangers carry an instrument called a sling psychrometer for determining the relative humidity of the air and so learning when forest fires are most likely to occur.

America Uses Much Rubber

Three-quarters of the world's supply of rubber is used by Uncle Sam, in the myriad ways that modern men and women find rubber necessary.

Electrical Ice Machines

A thousand tons of ice are made electrically every day by a New York city artificial ice company. This concern has been in business since 1900 and used steam power to operate its plant. Now, instead, electrical energy supplied by a service company at 13,000 volts converts water drawn from city water mains into 300-pound cakes of ice.

Safety for Milk Drinkers

Sterilization is a process by which the temperature of milk is raised high enough or maintained long enough to destroy all germs and spores. This method is seldom employed because it gives the milk a boiled taste. In pasteurization the temperature used is high enough only to destroy most germs, including disease germs, such as those of tuberculosis and typhoid.

Islands Adrift

A drove of "floating islands" was encountered on a steamer off the coast of Borneo. The largest was about seven acres in area, and contained palm trees over a hundred feet high.

Ways of "Milk Snake"

There is a snake known as the "milk snake" which is found around dairies, and the belief that it sucks milk from cows seems to be founded on fact, although the occurrence is much less common than is generally believed.

In Native Gutturals

A correspondent reports a perfectly illiterate Moro who can beat any white tourist playing chess. The writer expresses surprise and then adds naively: "While playing he sings continuously at the top of his voice."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Santa Claus will come tonight
If you're good
And do what you know is right
As you should
Down the chimney he will creep
Bring for you a wooly sheep
And a doll that goes to sleep
If you're good.

Santa Claus will drive his sleigh
Through the wood
But he'll come around this way
If you're good.
With a wind-up bird that sings,
And a puzzle made of rings,
He will bring you many things
If you're good.

Jumping jacks and cars that go
If you're good.
And a rocking-horsey Oh!
If he would
And a doll that can squeeze,
That says "Mamma!" when you squeeze,
He'll bring you one of these
If you're good.

Santa grieves when you are bad
As he should:
But it makes him very glad
When you're good.
He is wise and he's a dear;
Just do right and never fear;
He'll remember you each year,
If you're good.

The Little People

The Lord of the Little People,
Gentle and very wise,
Walking His woods in the twilight,
Harks to His children's cries;
And his tender mouth is wry with pain,
And terrible are His eyes.

The snare that has throttled the rabbit
Jerks to his dying strain;
Trapped by his rush-thatched dwelling,
The muskrat whimpers his pain;
And here the bird with the shot-smashed wing
Hidden three days has lain.

The Lord of the Little People
Wistfully sees His way,
Seeking in vain His children;
Fear and afraid are they
Of the mighty beast who has ravished the world
With his hunger to slay, slay, slay.

Lonely the fields at twilight;
Empty the darkling wood.
There, in the woodchuck's burrow,
Dear lies an orphaned brood.
Here, where the bob-whites nestered,
Are feathers and spots of blood.

The Lord of the Little People,
Who may divine what sting
His heart as He seeks in the twilight
The songs of His worshippers.
And hears but whimpers and squeals of pain
From creatures in plumes and furs?

The partridge rots in the woodland;
The wild duck drowns in the sea;
Beasts on the wide-flung trap lines
Perish in agony.
That the monkey-thing with the weasel's lust
May wallow in mastery.

The Lord of the Little People,
Who can his thoughts surmise?
Cattle and small, gray donkeys
Heard His first baby cries.
He knows, He knows when a sparrow falls
And terrible are His eyes.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

One of the important things in life is to know how to think. It is true that we all "think" but the fact remains that in many cases our "thinking" does not produce the results it should. The trouble is that many of us do not know how to think. We are taught that one means of keeping ourselves healthy is to breathe deeply. This means bringing the whole of our lungs into action. Not just a part of them but to expand them fully and to fill them with good fresh air.

Now, just as we use all of our lungs, through deep breathing as an aid to health, we should bring all our brain power into action when it comes to thinking. When we have a particularly knotty problem to think out we sometimes get tired and there doesn't seem to be anything else to do but to stop thinking and accept the conclusions we have arrived at.

But, instead of stopping, instead of giving up, if we went right on, we should bring all our brain matter, every matter as it is called into action. Deep thinking, the kind that produces results, would then begin and the chances are we would soon grasp the solution of the problem.

Just as deep breathing becomes a habit from continual practice, so would deep thinking become a habit if we followed out this method in a systematic way. The sure and certain way to become a deep thinker is to bring all our brain power into play, just as the professional runner brings all his lung power into action.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Anna Catherine Herr, Brooklyn—received the lovely book you sent me. And it is very interesting. I hope you have a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Pearl Rosenberg, Jewett City: I thank you very much for the book you sent me. I have read it and find it very interesting.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Describing Voluntown

Uncle Jed: Nestled among an agricultural district, in a sandy region, appears a little village through which glides a small stream furnishing waterpower for the four cotton mills. The town is bounded on the east by the Rhode Island state line, and on the south by North Stonington on the west by Griswold and on the north by Plainfield and Sterling. This town received its name, Voluntown, in former days, we have been told, by the propensity of its young brave loyal citizens to enter the struggle of its nation as volunteers.

Because of the inconvenience of transportation the population of the town is small, consisting of about 700 people. The farming lands have recently been purchased by Finnish people, while the village is occupied largely by French and Americans. The French are in many cases native born but their ancestors came from Canada.

About three quarters of a mile from the center is a little valley or lap of land with a swamp thickly populated with peep frogs reminding one of Lapland where the sleigh bells constantly jingle. From the swamp is a brook which conveys the water to Sheldon's Pond.

EMMA ISABELLE ROODE, Age 12.

The Bethlehem Water Works

Dear Uncle Jed: While visiting at Bethlehem, Penn., we went to see the Bethlehem Water Works. These water works have the distinction of being the first in the United States. They are situated on a high hill. There are two reservoirs in the works one higher than the other. The higher one is where the impure water is kept and the lower one is where the pure water is stored. The engines and machines in the works themselves are really wonderful. Imagine taking the dirty impure water from the Leigh river and so purifying it that the people of the city of Bethlehem might drink it.

The works are entirely in the hands of about five men. These men take care of all the machines and engines. They are always courteous and polite and as they make the grounds look like a beautiful park they naturally expect many visitors. These works are really a credit to the city.

An Enjoyable Party

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our Hallowe'en party. We had a gypsy girl and a ghost. I was the ghost. When they all got there we said our pieces, and put the stems on the pumpkin and guessed how many beans were in a jar. I said there were a hundred and sixty-two in the jar and I got a prize for I was the nearest one. Then we had some cake and cookies. We ducked for apples. Our parents came and the supervisor and his wife and little girls. We had our room lighted with jack-olanterns.

The Story of The Red Cross

Uncle Jed: The Red Cross of America was started by Clara Barton. While on a trip to Switzerland she heard of the Red Cross. When she came back to the United States she asked the president to help her organize a Red Cross society. Finally she succeeded in getting money and volunteers and started a small society. Ever since that day the Red Cross has been growing rapidly.

During peace as well as during war the Red Cross is working for the sick and poor.

During the Michigan forest fire, the Mississippi flood, the San Francisco earthquake and fire the Red Cross was fully appreciated for its great relief work.

In time of war the Red Cross is like a great mother. The nurses work amid falling shells and are as brave hearted as any of the soldiers picking up the wounded.

Other great helpers are the Red Cross dogs. A cloth with large Red Crosses on the sides is closely wrapped around his body. A small Red Cross kit is tied around his neck. He hunts around for a wounded and disabled soldier, who opens the kit and dresses the wound and sends some sign back with the dog.

The dog returns and leads the way to where the soldier lies. He is taken to the hospital.

Where does the Red Cross get money for supplies? From the people of America. When they enroll in the Red Cross society they pay a dollar and get a card which every patriotic person in the United States should have. Help the Red Cross by knitting for it, and be a member of the society.

Gathered Wood on Sunday

Dear Uncle Jed: Long ago there was a man walking in the forest gathering sticks. He knew it was wrong for that day was Sunday. He knew he had six days to gather sticks and must rest on the seventh day. So he was punished for his wrong doing. He was lifted to the sky. He then tried to enter the sun. But the sun cried "Get away." The sun said, "you have done wrong on my day." He then went to the moon and tapped on the door. Come right in replied the moon. Today is my day, Monday. You have been working. You belong to me. The man entered carrying a pack on his back. It was wood which he had gathered on Sunday.

How Cotton Grows

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write a story about cotton. I hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading it. A field of cotton is a beautiful sight, either when covered with yellow and purple blossoms, or with the white cotton. The cotton plant grows only in a warm climate, as for example, in our southern states. When the blossom dies it is followed by a pod containing a number of black seeds which lie in a bed of fine, soft cotton. When ripe, these pods break open, and the snow-white cotton bursts out in long white curls. Then begins a busy time. All hands, young and old are kept hard at work from daylight till dark picking the cotton. Afterward, the cotton is spread out to dry, and is then separated from the seeds. The seeds are not thrown away, for a valuable oil is pressed from them, and the mass that remains is used as food for cattle, which are very fond of it.

A Visit to New York

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my trip to New York. One day in vacation time my father took to New York. As I was in New York before, I was very anxious to get there. When we got there my father showed me many interesting places, among them the Woolworth building, which is 54 stories high. This is the largest building in the world. We then visited Prospect Park, where we saw many beautiful animals. At length we came to the elephant, who was very large and tall. He had his mouth open, while the people threw in bars of peanuts and other things. I even remember seeing a man throw in a newspaper. This made the elephant very angry and he stamped upon the ground and roared, which only made the people laugh. This was very comical.

Balsa

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to the Wide Awake circle for quite a while so I thought I would write and tell you about "balsa". Balsa wood is a tree that was scorned for years and was regarded as of no commercial value. It is now looked upon as one of nature's most valuable products. Not only is it two and a half times lighter than cork, but is as durable as spruce. It has been found to be ideal wood for aeroplane wings; it is rapidly being used in life-belt preservers and in many other useful purposes in place of cork.

The tree is a native of South America, but will grow anywhere in a temperate climate. It is a very rapid grower.

My Vacation

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you about my vacation last fall. We went to visit my uncle and aunt at North Woodstock, New Hampshire. They have over 400 chickens. I fed them every day with apples. I helped uncle catch the roosters. I had a great time catching and sending the cows into the pasture or they would eat everything in the garden. I'm hoping to go again some time.

About Ancient Peoples

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I'd write to you and tell you about the Greeks. The first messages were brought by people. These people had to walk a good ways to bring the message. They would write with stylus and quill pens and lead pencils. They would also write on skins of animals on brick, and on the back of walls.

The people wrote on paper which got its name from papyrus.

The Phoenicians made their alphabet from sound writing. The Roman's alphabet was somewhat like ours. The Babylonians made wedge shaped pictures and used them for letters.

The First Snow Storm

Dear Uncle Jed: The first snowstorm we had was on Saturday. After it stopped my father took my sled downstairs and he sent me to the store. I fell on a big stone but I didn't hurt myself. When I came back from the store I went sliding. There is a hill near my house. I have a speed-away. It goes very fast. I took my little sister with me. She is 2 years old. How she did like the snow! But when her feet got cold she went in the house and said "her shoes hurt her." My father laughed very much. I guess that is all I have to say about the snow storm.

I am in the fifth grade. I am eleven years old. I like to go to school very much. I sit with a nice girl. She doesn't whisper. She is very quiet. I guess this is all for this time.

Charity

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a little boy. His name was John but most of his friends called him Jack. His mother had to work very hard for a living. His father had been dead about four years. He was very kind and generous.

One day a lady asked him to go on an errand. He went and when he came back she gave him a dollar. He thanked her and went home to tell his mother about it. She told him he could spend it because he never had much money. While he was going to the store he was thinking what he would buy. As he turned around the corner he saw a poor man who was begging. He went up to the man and said, here is a dollar which I earned but when I saw you I though it would be better to give it to you. Then the man said, "Thank you and may God bless you for being so kind to a poor old man like me."

Then he went home very happy and told his mother all about it.

My Pet Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: My pet cat's name is Blackey. He is a pretty cat. He always catches rats. I like my pet cat. He always meets me. If he wants something to eat he comes and asks me for it. I give it to him.

Do you think he is a nice cat? My pet cat's color is yellow and white.

Experience of a Penny

Dear Uncle Jed: I was dug from the mines in Colorado, and sent to a mint in Washington and made into a penny. I was put into a package with other pennies and sent to Amerchant, who put me into a cash register. I did not stay there very long for I was given to a lady for change. She put me into her pocket but it had a hole in it. I fell into the gutter. A little boy found me and bought some candy. The store keeper, while he was walking home, gave me to a peanut man who was a very good saver. So he took me to the bank the next day. I remained there until the bank loaned me to a man who wished to buy a house. He soon paid me back with interest.

The Pilgrims

Dear Uncle Jed: Three hundred and four years ago the twenty first of this month the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, Massachusetts. It was a cold bitter day with no friends to greet them. Their first thought was to thank God for bringing them safely across the ocean. They next directed their efforts to building rude homes. The first winter was very severe and more than half the number died. To deceive the Indians the Pilgrims buried the dead at night, and planted corn over their graves. Yet when spring came they had no wish to return to England. Weak as they were in numbers, they were brave enough to face whatever danger might threaten their little settlement.

Our Farm

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about my farm. It has 113 acres. We have lived here for seven years. We have cultivated about 25 acres. We still had radishes for Thanksgiving which would surprise you.

The trees and plants that are planted are peaches, pears, currants, gooseberries, grapes, kale, strawberries, apples and cherries.

In the summer we put a stand in the lawn and sell different vegetables. Sept. 3, and Sept. 24, two accidents happened here.

JOSEPH ROSATI, Age 10.

Just a Minute

Dear Uncle Jed: Just a minute is one thing that children shouldn't learn to say. Sometimes when my mother calls me to make breakfast. I say, "Just a minute." But when I get there it is too late. She has done the work herself. I have had many happenings exactly like that. Once I had been reading an interesting story, and when my mother called, I would say, "Just a minute," and when I would go I would be too late for my practicing. I think this lesson is good, for it will warn people of the things that might happen when "Just a minute," pops out of their mouths.

Why Birds Help Our Country

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you why birds help our country. For instance the bluebird is a nice color bird and cheers us up when it sings.

The bluebird feeds on insects. When the birds eat the insects it helps our farmers and our country and also our trees.

The bluebirds nest is made of mud and also grass. They have four or five bluish eggs. These birds stay around the eastern part of the United States and Mexico. When Winter comes they leave the cold weather and go to the southern parts of the United States. How dull it seems when they leave us all.

The Origin of Silk

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written before and thought I would write again. This time I am going to tell the Wide Awakes about the origin of silk.

There are many stories told of how silk first came into use. The story of how the silkworm came to Japan is one of the best fairy stories of Asia. It happened long ago that there lived in far off India a little princess who had a stepmother that was very cruel. She whipped her and starved her and finally tied her up in the hollow trunk of a mulberry tree and threw her into the ocean. It was then that the girl's fairy godmother appeared. She kept away the winds and storms and watched over the little princess while her mulberry boat sailed away to Japan.

There the boat was swept far upon the shore and the little maiden stepped out. The sands drifted over the trunk of the mulberry tree and the rich earth of the mountain washed down upon it so that it took root and became a great tree. It grew blossoms and berries, and from its seed Japan had many groves and orchards of mulberries. The little princess was welcomed by the inhabitants and so kindly treated by them, that when about to die, she begged her fairy godmother to present some gift to the Japanese people which should always make them remember her coming. The godmother therefore turned her into a silkworm and taught her to eat mulberry leaves and to spin silk. In time she became a moth and laid hundreds of eggs from which were produced other silkworms and finally a great silk industry was carried on in Japan.

Lady Gray and the Nuts

Dear Uncle Jed: One summer Robert and his father and mother lived in a little house in the woods. One day they saw a squirrel running about in the trees. Robert put some nuts on the ground, and hid behind a tree. Soon the squirrel came and carried the nuts away. The next day he put the nuts nearer to the house. The squirrel came again and took them away. So it went in for some time. Each day Robert put the nuts nearer the house. The squirrel came and took them away. They named the Squirrel Lady Gray. One day Robert's mother sat down on the porch. She put some nuts on the floor and kept very still. Later Lady Gray came on the porch. She looked at Robert's mother and took a nut and ran off as fast as she could. Lady Gray became very gentle and one day she jumped upon Robert's shoulder and ate a nut. She also hunted for nuts in their pockets.

Saw a Patridge

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time that I have written to you. "The name of my story is hunting and hiking. I am going to tell you about quail and patridge. As I was walking in the woods one day a patridge came out of the leaves. And when I went to shoot it it went out of sight. After that we went out hiking.

Our Christmas Party

Dear Uncle Jed: December has come and the boys and girls of our school are planning for a Christmas tree, and Christmas exercises. We always enjoy Christmas exercises in our school. May I tell the Wide Awake boys and girls how we observed Christmas in our school last year?

One afternoon about a week before school closed, our teacher sent some of the big boys to get a Christmas tree. The teacher said that he has found that the more boys he sends after a tree the longer it takes to get it. They found a fine [illegible] which we set up in a corner of our school room. Sometimes we have to get along with a cedar tree but hemlock is better when we can get it.

Then each child wrote his name on a slip of paper. These slips were all mixed up and we drew names. It is lots of fun. Each of the children has to get a present for the child whose name he drew and put it on the tree.

Our teacher asked if we wished to

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Lost Clothespin

The Policeman Dog sat at his desk
His helmet on a tree
His hickory stick stood endwise up
Against the table leg.

His silver shield on his big blue coat
Shone in the 'lectric light
Like a great big star marked "23,"
Twinkling in the night.

All of a sudden, as he sat there, resting his chin on his paws, the telephone bell went:

'Tinkle, tinkle, tinkle, tink!
Quick as a flash, quick as a wink.

Up jumped the kind Policeman Dog and, taking down the receiver, placed it against his right ear.

"What's the matter?"

"What's the matter? I'm right here, Wipe away your frightened tear."

he shouted back, wagging his tail in a friendly manner,

"Oh dear, and oh dear!" answered a said little voice. "I've lost the clothespin I bought for Mother. What shall I do?"

"Find it, or buy another," replied the kind protector of law and order in Rabbitville. "I thought something dreadful had happened. Cheer up."

"I've looked here and there and everywhere but I can't find it," sorrowfully replied the little voice.

"Haven't you any money with you?" asked the kind Policeman Dog, with a grin, knowing only too well that little bunny boys can't keep money in their pockets long enough to wear a hole in the lining.

"I ate my last carrot cent a minute ago," sighed the little voice. "I was so hungry I couldn't wait till I reached home."

"Well, well," replied the Policeman Dog. "Let me think a minute or two. Wait another second. I've hit on a plan. Come on over and I'll take you home with me. I guess I can find a clothespin although it is wash day." Then, hanging up the receiver, he sat down again at his desk and looked up at a picture of a big hound that hung on the wall.

Pretty soon, not so very long, there came a tinpperty tap on the door.

And in the next story you shall hear
How that kind old bow wow wiped a tear
From the little rabbit's pinky nose
Before it drooped on his tippy toes.

WARRENVILLE

Saturday night, the 13th, the Storrs College Little Theatre Players gave a very fine concert at Knowlton Memorial. During the evening Rev. William J. Dunn presented two beautiful flags to the new hall. Allen B. Lincoln was master of ceremonies. The Ladies' Aid society had a table of fancy articles on sale, also cake and coffee. Dancing added to the pleasure of the evening.

John Vostinak is employed in New York this winter.

Mrs. H. A. Mathewson expects to leave for Hartford soon to spend the remainder of the winter.

Ed Buck and family have moved to Willimantic, where they will spend the winter.

On a very cold day last week a local man saw a bullfrog on the bank of the Warrenville river. He said he wasn't crying "jug-o'-rum," but he wasn't sure but some would be good for him, if such cold weather continued.

A new pump has been installed in the parsonage.

Clarence Buck is suffering from an attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Charles Brown picked a bouquet of pussy willows one day recently.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. H. A. Mathewson and Gladys Bebbington entertained the Ladies' Aid society at the town hall. Two quilts were tied, after which a hot supper of 'scalloped oysters, sphagetti and potatoes, with cake and coffee, was served.

A very interesting business deal was put through the first of the week when O. D. Baker sold out his business to Paul and George Whitehouse, who took immediate possession. Mr. Baker expects to leave soon for California.

The whist held Thursday evening at the rectory of St. Agnes' chapel under the auspices of the Altar society, was well attended. It was the final whist till after the holidays. The prizes were won by Miss Margaret McCarthy and Mrs. John Hoffman, Angelo Gada and Charles R. Tubbs. Following the playing, there were popular piano selections. The men had a smoker and later refreshments were served.

The community Christmas tree has been set up on Liberty Green. The tree was cut and donated by Charles D. Weeks and was set up free of charge by employes of the Lyme Electric Power company. The tree is to be lighted by various colored bulbs furnished by the Lyme Power Co., which has consented to give the electricity through the courtesy of Supt. Joseph T. Sherlock. The tree will be lighted at sun-down, December 25th and remain lighted every evening until Jan. 1st. Addresses will be made by F. A. Beckwith and George P. Hill. The children of the Niantic public school and the Sunday school classes of the Baptist church will sing Christmas carols. This community Christmas tree is the second of the kind held in Niantic in many years.

Ladies Rebekah lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F., is to meet this (Monday) evening. Following the meeting refreshments will be served.

Rev. Michael Golob of Bridgeport assisted Father Edwin A. Flynn Sunday with the services at St. Mathias' church in Flanders. Father Flynn said mass at the usual time, 9 o'clock, and Rev. Father Golob was in charge of the special service at 7.30 in the evening.

After the mass Sunday morning at St. Agnes' chapel in the village the members of the Altar society held a meeting to make plans for the Sunday School Christmas party. The party for the children will be held Wednesday afternoon at the rectory.

Miss Effie S. Haynes was in New London Wednesday afternoon.

NEW LONDON MAN PAYS A FINE FOR AN ASSAULT AT MONTVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 21.—Paddy Hubbard, 168 Crystal avenue, was arrested Saturday morning by Sergt. Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen John Sullivan and Augustus Ray, charged with assault upon Frank George, an employe of Lawrence hospital. He was later turned over to the custody of State Police Officer Henry Albright, Groton barracks, and given a hearing before Justice of the Peace William Smiddy at Montville, who imposed a fine of $5 and costs.

Hubbard and George were among six young men who went from New London to a dance in Uncasville Friday night. On the return trip George was attacked and dealt several blows upon the head with a revolver butt by Hubbard and then thrown from the machine. Patrolman Dennis Murphy driving from Norwich to New London, came upon George bewildered in the road near Bolles' Hill and brought the young man to the New London police station, where he related the story of his assault. Sergeant Murphy and Patrolmen Sullivan and Ray went to Main street, corner of Williams street, where they intercepted the automobile in which George had been a passenger. When the five occupants were lined up at the police station George identified Hubbard as his assailant. He was made a prisoner until his arraignment before Justice Smiddy Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Harry W. Asheraft of Westerly, Mrs. May Tyler and Miss Arlene Tyler, Niantic; Mrs. Ruth Williams, Montauk avenue; Miss Viola Sistare, Montauk avenue; Mrs. John Murphy and infant son, Pacific street; Mrs. Alex Olsen, Poquonoc Bridge; Miss Ruth McNeil, Main street, and James Davis, Bailey road, Holden, Mass., patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

An automobile owned and driven by Joseph F. Caulfield, manager of the Plant-Cadden company, Bank street and a machine owned and operated by Lieut. R. H. Barnes, stationed at the submarine base, were in collision Saturday afternoon, corner of Lincoln and Jefferson avenues. Barnes' car was overturned but the owner escaped injury. Both machines were damaged.

Mrs. Irene Johnson, 207 Main street, complained to the police late Saturday afternoon that $25 which she had entrusted to a small boy had been stolen. Mrs. Johnson declared that she left the money with the boy to be delivered to her landlady when the latter called for the rent, but that during the temporary absence of Mrs. Johnson two men appeared at the place, and when she returned the child did not have the money, nor could he account for its being missing. The police are investigating the complaint.

Mrs. Nathan Lubow, 37 Perry stre has lodged complaint with the police because of a collie owned by Arthur C. Adams, 33 Perry street, having attacked her and her child, the animal damaging her clothing and that of the child. The matter has been turned over to Dog Warden Sweezy for investigation.

Several children Saturday afternoon complained to the police because of the acts of a youth residing on New street. Later Sergt. Samuel Hick ordered the youth complained against to appear Monday in the juvenile court.

Patrolman John Foley, Main street, was unable to perform duty Saturday night as a result of a severe cold.

The will of William E. Patterson, former well known contractor and at one time employed by the city as building inspector, whose sudden death occurred a fortnight ago, when he suffered a heart attack at the Methodist Episcopal church and expired before medical aid could be summoned, was admitted to probate at a hearing for that purpose Saturday morning. The will was drawn Sept. 17, 1919, and was witnessed by Fitch D. Crandall, Arthur H. Shurts and George C. Morgan.

The will provides that the just debts and funeral expenses be paid by the executors and also provides that the executors cause a stone or monument to be erected upon the burial lot of the testator at an expense not to exceed $300.

The instrument bequeaths to testator's widow, Georgianna Patterson, the use, income and improvement of the house and lot and all the furnishings at 10 Adelaide street, for and during her natural life, Mrs. Patterson to maintain the said property and keep it in good condition. At the decease of Mrs. Patterson the property is to become a part of the rest and residue of the estate, and it is directed that the same shall be equally divided between the testator's five children, Arthur H. Patterson, Daniel Cleveland Patterson, Emma E. Patterson, Maud L. Patterson and Grace A. Patterson. The testator bequeaths the sum of $200 to each of his grandchildren, Pauline Mather, Daniel Barker, Jean Barker and Ruth and Cornelia Patterson. The testator's son, Arthur H. Patterson, and the testator's son-in-law, Walter Larker, East Lyme, are appointed executors, without bonds.

Walter S. Calvert, proprietor of a store in the Plant building, State street, has lodged complaint with the police that a tricycle was stolen from his place of business Friday night.

Leander C. Wilson, 74, died late Friday night at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Maxson, 16 Jefferson avenue, after a lingering illness. Besides Mrs. Maxson, Mr. Wilson is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Carl R. Perkins, Mrs. W. R. Scoffel and Mrs. C. S. Weber, all of New London; a son, Leander C. Wilson, Jr., and three brothers, Wesley Wilson, Danielson, Frank Wilson, Chaplin, and Joseph Wilson, California, besides several grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mr. Wilson was employed when he first came to New London, about 50 years ago, at the former stable of West & Smith, then located in the rear of the Cronin building, State street. He later went to Niantic to reside, but a short time ago returned to New London and made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Maxson.

The welfare department of the Learned Mission is preparing the old building on North Bank street, so long used by Smith & Grace as a plumber's shop, for the housing of unfortunates. The building was recently purchased by Mr. Narcus and the mission has leased the second floor and will make a lodging place of it for the wayfarers who come and go like the days. The place will be fitted with berths and beds and these will be rented or provided free for those who need them. The mission will have vacated its present quarters on North Bank street and have gone to the former Sebastian Lawrence house on Main street soon after the new year comes in. There another branch of the work will be carried on.

The cold weather of Saturday and Sunday sent a large number of automobiles in to the garages to stay till spring. The temperature, 7 above, was the lowest of the winter. The fruit dealers, who have displayed their stock outside their stores, also were obliged to put oranges, etc., inside Saturday night, as the weather was cold enough to freeze them.

Abram Taylor, who said he hailed from Virginny, was fined $5 for intoxication Saturday, by Judge Prince, in the police court. Abram said he came here on a vessel but got stranded and had to seek lodgings at the police station. He said everyone was kind to him, but he monkeyed with moonshine booze and he got into trouble. After he had applied at the police station several nights for lodging and such had been given to him, he appeared Friday night with a "load" he couldn't carry. The police helped him to get along with it and in the morning he was presented in court. Abram pleaded guilty, but said, "If you will excuse me this time I will never offend again. I wants to get away!" He said he had a wife and five children in Virginia. "Will you go back there if you have a chance to?" was the question propounded to him. "You bet your life" was Abram's response. The execution was suspended and he was told to get out of town at once.

Henry Healy was drunk Friday night and was vulger to girls he met on the street, he didn't remember about his arrest, but he was sure he was not intoxicated. That sort of story didn't go with the court. The judge fined him $5. Henry declared that he "jist wet his tu two drinks. "What was it?" the court asked. "They called it moonshine," was Healy's reply. That was enough and the judgment stood.

Miss Lucille Kehr, nurse at Bellevue hospital, New York, has arrived at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kehr, 317 Ocean avenue, to remain over the holidays.

Mrs. Henry G. Keeney is confined to her home 117 Blackhall street suffering from a severe attack of bronchitis.

An automobile owned and operated by Michael J. Flanagan, 317 Connecticut avenue, and a machine owned and driven by a man named Howe, of Norwich, were in collision Saturday morning on Broad street, near Hempstead street. Neither auto of the was damaged of much consequence.

Frederick F. Hall, city marshal, of Bath, Maine, has communicated with the New London police requesting information as to whether Mrs. Carrie McCann, of Bath, and Sophie Johnson, 19, also of Bath, are in this city. Marshal Hall stated that the two women disappeared from their respective homes recently and are believed to be consorting here with a sailor attached to the destroyer Cassin, of the navy's city fleet. Marshal Hall requests that the Johnson woman be ordered to return to her home, if she were located in this city.

Mrs. Hannah Walsh, 68, widow of John J. Walsh, died Saturday at the residence of Frank T. Cream, 317 Jefferson avenue, after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Walsh, who moved to New London several months ago, formerly resided in Branford. She is survived by two nephews, Charles and Timothy McCarthy, Branford.

A report is expected to be made in the city council Monday evening in the case of Miss Lisa Beckwith, who has given notice of a suit at law unless terms are made for the extension of Colman street some years ago.

Sergt. Nelson Smith late this afternoon recovered a portfolio that was stolen from the automobile of A. G. Gunahl, 470 Belmont avenue, Springfield, Mass., stolen by Joseph J. Barry and Thomas DeVoe, 11 and 21 Huntington street, respectively, about ten days ago while the car was parked on Meridian street. The car was recovered several days after it was stolen and Barry is now serving a jail sentence. The portfolio was found in DeVoe's room. It was declared to have been destroyed by burning at the time of the arrest of Barry and DeVoe.

Abraham Tayler, colored, who was in the police court Friday on a charge of intoxication, and received a suspended jail sentence upon his promise to leave the city, was arrested Saturday night on North Bank street by Patrolman Augustus Ray, charged with intoxication and vagrancy.

Patrolman Ernest Opperman, in making his rounds at Ocean Beach late this afternoon, discovered the entrance to the cottage at 149 Bentley avenue unlocked. The cottage, which is owned by a man named Schwartz, residing in Norwich, was made secure.

Newton Lanphere, an old offender, was arrested Saturday night by Sergt. Samuel Hick, charged with intoxication. He is being held a prisoner at the police station pending being given a hearing in the police court Monday morning.

CHINESE IN TERROR, AGAIN FEARING TONG

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 21.—Continued watch of Chinese laundries and the Chinese tea and coffee house, Golden street, is being maintained tonight as a result of the fear of Chinese residents that members of the Hip Sing Tong society will visit this city and make an attempt upon the lives of Chinamen who are members of On Ling tong. All the laundries were closed after 6 o'clock and a majority of the Chinese merchants were gathered at the Golden street tea and coffee house.

The police were advised Saturday by the New Haven authorities that an automobile containing five or six Chinamen had been observed in Branford and that the occupants of the car, a Packard or Hudson touring car, had inquired the highway to New London. The police speed automobile, with Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and David Nagle, were rushed to Saybrook to head off the Chinese, but the celestials did not appear in Saybrook.

PITTSBURGH EXPRESS RAMS FREIGHT TRAIN AT MIDWAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 21.—While traveling at a rate of about 40 miles an hour, the Pittsburgh express which left New London at 1:40 o'clock this morning for Boston crashed through a freight train at Midway. The 300 passengers of the express escaped injury, except for bruises. Several cars of the freight train were derailed and the engine and locomotive of the express were derailed. Following the crash, the ambulance of the Lawrence hospital was summoned, but as none of the passengers or members of the train crews were injured the services of the ambulance was not needed.

The express, in charge of Engineer Winslow, scheduled to leave here at 6:20 o'clock, was an hour and a half late. In passing through Midway yard about 3:50 o'clock a freight train, being backed across the main track, was crashed through, resulting in several cars of the freight train and the engine and locomotive of the express and the baggage car being derailed. Wreckers were assigned to clearing up the wreckage from Midway and from Providence and it was not until this afternoon that the tracks were cleared and the roadbed put in condition for travel.

Responsibility for the crash is placed upon Engineer Winslow, for it is claimed that he ran past his signals.

BRITISH RUM SCHOONER HAD $100,000 CARGO

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 21.—The rum-masted British schooner, J. Duffy, Captain Arthand Payzant and a crew of seven British subjects, was seized in Long Island Sound Saturday morning by the Destroyer Downes, of the navy's dry fleet stationed at this port. With the capture of the schooner, the richest cargo of booze yet seized aboard a rum boat, in local waters was made, for the Duffy carried 1,025 cases of champagne; 1,650 cases of rye whiskey, 100 cases of gin, 100 cases of wine and 150 cases of rum. The cargo of the schooner, it is estimated is worth approximately $100,000 at bootlegger prices would bring a price close to $250,000. The crew of the schooner were before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson of Norwich at the customs house Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and were held for hearing.

The Duffy, which had been observed lying close to the rum supply fleet off Block Island nearly a fortnight ago, was sighted low in the water off Fernald lighthouse Saturday morning by the crew of the Downes. The destroyer was headed for the Duffy, which was proceeding westerly, presumably for New York. After overtaking the Duffy, members of the crew of the Dones boarded the schooner and, assured the cargo being secured, the rum-runner was taken in tow and brought to New London harbor.

POLICE GET LIQUOR IN RAID ON HILL STREET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 21.—Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolmen William Graham and Dennis Murphy, together with State Police Officer Fred Caron and Bernard W. Kenerson, Groton barracks, Saturday night raided the residence of John Duzlonski, a Hill street. Evidence that liquor was being dispensed there was obtained and Duzlonski was taken into custody. He furnished a surety on his bond of $500 for his appearance in the police court Monday morning.

The officers were provided with a search warrant issued by Judge Victor Prince and upon information obtained by the state police. Other places were visited on the evening of the raid, but the law was obtained. The places visited included a garage on Shaply street where it was believed liquor was stored, a dwelling on Main street and another on Shaw street where it was reported booze was being sold.

COLCHESTER MAN IS EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

Representative Edward L. Kelly of Colchester, a practicing lawyer of Bridgeport and former state commander of the American Legion, has been appointed executive secretary to Colonel Hiram Bingham, as governor-elect. He will also serve as Colonel J. H. Trumbull in that capacity when the latter succeeds to the governorship January 8 upon the resignation of Colonel Bingham to qualify as United States senator.

Frank D. Reed of 37 Oxford street Hartford was reappointed executive clerk. Both appointments have the approval of Colonel Trumbull, who will become governor the day after Colonel Bingham is inaugurated the eighteenth governor that Mr. Reed will have served under and Colonel Trumbull as 20th. He has been for the governor's office 4½ consecutive years.

The horses of Chile are of the Arab strain and very high spirited.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Dec. 21.—Stock and commodity markets displayed a buoyant tone this week with a market expansion in public interest.

Speculation in stocks received considerable simulus from the lowering of call money rates after the mid-month requirements had been met and Secretary Mellon's reported indorsement of the rise in stock values. The industrial average was elevated to the highest level since the peaks of the post-war boom in 1919 and the railroad average to the highest figure in seven years.

Spectacular advances of 4 to 10 points were a daily occurrence in the week's trading. Bear traders succeeded in uncovering a few weak spots, but they were driven to cover in such issues as American Can, Baldwin, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Worthington Pump and Savage Arms.

Brisk advances took place in the grain markets, wheat, corn and rye all touching new high figures for the year. Stee , zinc, copper and lead prices also d eloped a rising tendency.

Chief interest in the investment market centered in the prompt oversubscription of the Belgian and Greek governmental

Good Will and Good Cheer Go Together

Good cheer and good will go together. Swift & Company puts its good will into acts of service, which extend from year's end to year's end, and are not confined to holiday seasons.

City homes that had to depend upon the country cousin for holiday fowl, and country homes that had to shoot wild game to make a feast for the assembled family clan—both now draw upon Swift & Company's vast supplies of delicious fine-flavored roast beef and steaks and

Premium Milk-Fed Chickens

Premium Hams

The system of the old days was good—for those times—but today's method is infinitely better. With the increase in number of homes throughout the land, only a big organization, such as Swift & Company, can assemble and distribute enough fine holiday meats to make good cheer for everyone.

Ideals are of no avail unless translated into action. Swift & Company's ideals of service go into practice every day.

NUMBER FIVE

His later life. There never was one among men who was so truly business. In us humanity is blurred and marred by so much that is weak and low and base and not human at all but He who was the truly man of all men was all His life a stranger among men. "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not." He yearned for companionship. The very first act of His public life was to draw to His side a little company of friends who were His companions ever after. He was at home at the wedding feast and in the home of Simon the Pharisee and at the table of Levi the Publican.

The difficulty with us today is just what it was when Christ trod this earth; and the reason why He means so little to many of us is that there is no room for Him in our lives.

His home today is the inn of the soul, the secret room of the personal life. "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God."

The heart is the house our Redeemer seeks. That wondrous Christ is standing today at some heart, pleading for entrance. Is it yours?

JESUS' GIFT SUM

TOTAL OF HIS LIFE

The gift Jesus made is in reality the sum total of His life, said Rev. Edward C. Dunbar in his Christmas sermon at the Sunday morning service at the First Baptist church. His text was II Cor. 8: 9, "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus, that, though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might become rich."

The special Christmas music given by the choir was from the Christmas cantata, The Holy Nativity, by Wildermere. Choir—Mrs. Louis Wheeler Miss Bernice Willey, William Douglas, George Hollingsworth. Organist—Miss Dorothea Tucker.

In his sermon Rev. Mr. Dunbar took for his subject The Gift Jesus Made. In part he said:

"This is one of the texts in the New Testament which is a sermon in itself. Its message sends our thoughts back to the Great Life. Over us comes a sense of humility and debt. It catches for us the reflection of the true purpose of Christmas. We give that others may receive, that they may be richer. Perhaps not rich as the world measures riches, but richer because of the associations connected with the gift. The text strongly suggests the pre-existence of Jesus, but our purpose is not with the speculative side of Jesus this morning. Christmas is fact and our religion is a religion of fact.

We see Jesus' earthly poverty manifested in at least two ways. We are ever conscious of the fact that Jesus had no wealth. Even the familiar story of His birth carries the suggestion of poverty. Tradition tells us that Jesus remained home after Joseph died to care for the rest of His brethren. This may be the reason why the Master did not begin His actual ministry earlier in His life. He seemed to recognize what His earthly task was even at the age of 12. At the cross He gave His mother into the hands of His cousin John to care for. An indication of His poverty. Even at His death, the body was removed from the cross of agony and placed in a borrowed tomb.

There is no question but that Jesus felt the poverty of friendship than that of material wealth. Jesus was a leader. As is often the case with a leader, He had many followers but no friendships. His disciples could not understand Him. James and John were seeking seats on His right and left, what they conceived as position of honor. Peter's advice hinted of the evil one. Judas saw with the passing days little gain for him, so sold his Lord for a bargain price. His own sought to kill him. Capernaum rejected his spiritual leadership, therefore rejected him. Jerusalem, the place where prophets said the Messiah would set up his kingdom, crucified him.

Yet because of his poverty of friendships and of wealth we are rich. Had he power and money his forgiveness of enemies would have been condescention, his helping the poor would have been mere philanthropy. Because he had neither, when he said love enemies, turn the other cheek, feed the poor, visit those in prison his message meant more. The gift Jesus made is in reality the sum total of His life. One commentator describes this rich gift as consisting of reconciliation, justification, illumination, sanctification, peace, joy, certainty of eternal life. The whole sum of spiritual and heavenly gifts make up the gift Jesus made. We have a religion of joy. He gave to us the certainty of eternal life. He revealed God to man in a new and helpful manner. The great gift of Jesus makes us conscious of God's friendship for man and man's for God. At Christmas we like to be remembered with gifts of friendships. Because of Jesus' gift we remember that "God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten Son."

MIDNIGHT CHRISTMAS MASS FOR ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

To signalize the coming of the Holy Year at Rome, when hundreds of thousands of devout pilgrims will visit the Eternal City for the jubilee prayers and services, the bishop of the diocese of Hartford, Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan has granted pastors of the Roman Catholic churches of the state the privilege of celebrating midnight mass on Christmas Day. For that reason the usual mass at 5.30 on Christmas morning will be omitted at St. Patrick's church. Instead, the hours of service will be, directly after midnight, then at 7.30, 9 and 10.30 o'clock. The first and last will be high masses, that at midnight solemn high, the three priests of the parish participating in the jubilee service. Mr. Farrell, the organist, has arranged special music for the chorus choir and soloists. It will be permissible to give holy communion at this mass.

The last midnight mass celebrated in this church was on Jan. 1, 1900, to signalize the opening of a new century. At that memorial service the church was crowded to the doors. The nearly a quarter of a century since that date has been one of success for this parish, as regards increasing numbers, wealth and spiritual and material influence. The magnificent parish property has been consecrated to the service of God entirely free from debt, while the church revenues have nearly doubled.

Yesterday, the fourth Sunday in Advent, the rector, Rev. M. H. May, read the customary low mass at 7.30, the preacher being the junior assistant, Rev. John J. Reilly. The epistle read in all the masses throughout the Catholic world was I Corinthians, iv, 1-5 and the gospel Luke III 1-6. Father Reilly chose from the gospel the warning of John the Baptist, "the baptism of penance for the remission of sins," urging his hearers not to copy the example of the world, which commercializes Christmas. Rather, he admonished, spiritualize the day, prepare for its coming as did John, by prayer, penance, sacrifice. Few noted the birth of Christ, deaf to the warning of the prophet, "Rejoice and be glad, O, Sion; for great is He Who is in the midst of thee." The preacher exhorted the great congregation to make this re-birth of the Saviour differ from the first—to prepare their hearts by the cleansing of penance to receive Him in the Sacrament of His Love, holy communion, following confession, in order that the whole parish may be worthy to be to the Christ-Child another and a welcoming Bethlehem, on Christmas morning.

Father May, assisted by Rev. Myles P. Galvin administered communion to a great number later, the communicants including the members of the Rosary society. Next Sunday will be the general Communion Sunday for the Holy Name society.

The Rt. Rev. Patrick R. Heffron, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Winona, Minn., today celebrates his fortieth anniversary in the priesthood.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the death of Dwight L. Moody, the famous evangelist, will be observed today by students of Northfield seminary, which he founded.

This will be a momentous day for Presbyterians in Canada, when a vote is to be taken by many of the churches to decide whether the Presbyterians shall remain separate or be merged with other denominations.

Rear Admiral Josiah S. McKean, late in command of the Thirteenth Naval district, today will assume command of the United States scouting fleet, with the rank of vice admiral.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

The pre-holiday program that you'll see at the Broadway theatre, starting today is "sure-fire" in every respect.

Joe and Art Hemby, those versatile boys, will open the Keith vaudeville program with a fast routine of songs, comedy patter, and eccentric dancing.

Joe & Agnes Reilly follow with real songs and musical comedy that is sure to entertain.

In a Dog's Life, LaCosta and Rowe have a novelty skit that is sure to keep anyone in spasms of laughter.

Blanche & Jimmie Creighton present an act called Midtown Vaudeville. This act stands out as one that is really funny, genuinely entertaining and wholesome.

Winton Bros. in On Time, an astounding routine of athletic feats are their offering.

Merton of the Movies, a novel by Harry Leon Wilson, and later a highly successful stage play, has at last reached the screen via Paramount. Its local premiere took place last night at the Broadway theatre where it will remain for the next three days.

Glenn Hunter, who created the title role on the stage, is also the star of the picture. He is Merton to the life! His awkwardness, his crude naturalness and his terrific sincerity are typical of the average, small-town, movie-struck boy. Viola Dana has the featured feminine role, and her sympathetic interpretation of Flips, the girl who makes Merton a star against his will, proves her the ideal choice for that part.

Breed Theater

Chuckles, giggles and hilarious laughs succeeded each other at the Breed Theater yesterday when Along Came Ruth, Viola Dana's latest Metro picture opened for a three day run.

This was the only possible reaction for an audience to Filmdom's peppiest comedienne in an amusing story of a small town. Viola Dana as Ruth Ambrose, the girl who woke up the sleepiest town in Maine, is simply irresistible; the supporting cast of the picture is excellent, among the players being Tully Marshall, Raymond McKee, Walter Hiers, DeWitt Jennings, Gale Henry and Victor Potel.

Winifred Dunn adapted this Henry W. Savage stage production which was written by Holman Day, and Eddie Cline directed the picture. The cameraman was John Arnold.

The Pathe news and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

JAMES WILBUR ARRESTED FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

James Wilbur, colored, 34, of West Main street, was arrested Saturday night by Police Sergeant Thomas Murphy, Officer William Sharvan and Officer John Donovan on a charge of violation of the liquor law through sale. The arrest was made at the Bon Ton club where it is said the sale of the liquor took place. In default of bonds Wilbur was locked up. He will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning.

TRYON WHITFORD HELD FOR STRIIKNG MAN

Tryon Whitford, colored, 26, was arrested Saturday night by Officer John Donovan, on the West Side on a breach of the peace charge. It is alleged that Whitford struck Francis McCarthy. He will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning.

ENTERTAINED OVER 1,000 CHILDREN AT KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HOME

In spite of the extreme cold weather Sunday over 1000 children of all creeds and nationality gathered at the Knights of Columbus home on Broadway to attend the Christmas Tree Party arranged by members of Mercier Assembly, Ladies of Columbus and White Cross Council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus.

The children began to arrive early in the afternoon and before 3 o'clock several hundred had reached the grounds. The committee in charge immediately welcomed them and the home was thrown open to the children and their parents. The hospitable act was greatly appreciated by the parents and children.

At 4:30 o'clock the party was officially opened by the Italian American Band, which, under the leadership of Prof. Pasquale Pucca, played American. The next number was a cornet solo, O'Come All Ye Faithful, cleverly rendered by Master Harold Cicolini, young cornetist with the band.

At this time the girls of the Junior Choirs of St. Mary's and St. Patrick's churches appeared and marching around the brilliantly lighted tree, sang Adeste Fidelis, accompaniment for this number as well as all other hymns being furnished by the band. Grouping themselves about the tree where they were joined by the children, the choirs sang Holy Night, See Amid the Winter's Snow and Oh Little Town of Bethlehem. The song service closed when Henry LaFontaine, who directed the choirs, asked all to join in the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

At this time Santa Claus appeared to the children and invited them to pass through the Knights of Columbus home, there to receive the gifts he had awaiting them. In this manner the children quickly received boxes of candy, and, after a greeting from Santa, departed for their homes.

Plans had been made to care for 1500 children but owing to the cold there were several hundred boxes left. These will be distributed Christmas day to shut-in children in various parts of the city, at the same time the children are provided with toys, clothing or other articles that they might be in need of Santa's bringing them.

The committees in charge of the Christmas tree party were as follows:

M. Frank Leonard, chairman; Miss Sadie H. Kilroy, secretary; Walter G. Casey, treasurer; Mrs. Dennis Hayes, in charge of the Christmas Day distribution; Louis J. Combies, in charge of the tree; Francis T. Diggins, musical program and the following members of the joint committees; Mercier Assembly, Miss Sadie H. Kilroy, chairman, Mrs. Dennis J. Hayes, Miss Jane McIntyre, Miss Eleanor Donovan, Miss Mary Brennan, Miss Geraldine Enos, Miss Helen Twomey, Miss Anna Kelly, Miss Mary Sweeney, Mrs. J. Murphy, Mrs. E. Sweeney, Miss Eleanor Fitzgerald, Miss Anna Whelan, Mary Donovan and Mrs. M. Sweeney.

CHILDREN APPRECIATE CANDY FROM TANNEY CORPORATION

Several days ago the Tanney Corporation, Franklin square, spread Christmas cheer among the children at the New London County Home, by presenting them attractive boxes of candy. Since then the manager of the store has received thirty letters of appreciation from the children. Two of the letters follow:

Tanney Corporation,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sirs: I thank you for the bag of candy you gave us Tuesday. We think it was very kind of you to give us such a good treat. All of the scholars are writing you to tell you how happy you have made us. I wish you a very merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Tuesday we had a very nice time in the city. On arriving home we were very tired but happy. I now will close with thankfulness.

Cordially your,
GEORGE BOLTON.

Tanney Corporation,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sirs: I thank you for the candy you gave us Tuesday. When I was going home I stumbled and spilled my candy. I didn't spill my chocolates or chocolate bar because there wasn't any to spill. I had eaten them. I hope you will have a merry Christmas and hope the new year will be bright and happy.

Yours truly,
ADELLA GOLUSKI.

WILL START TRADING COVE PUMP TODAY

The pumping of water from Trading Cove brook into the city mains will be started today (Monday). Orders permitting the utilization of the Trading Cove brook water have been received by John J. Corkery, superintendent of the water department. Walter J. Scott, assistant sanitary engineer of the state board, made a final inspection of the watershed at Stony Brook last week, and a letter signed by Dr. Stanley Osborn, state commissioner of health, received Saturday morning, stated that everything had been found satisfactory at the watershed and there was no reason why pumping should not begin at once. The court order permitting the use of the water has also been received. J. Fred Jackson, sanitary engineer of the state board of health, under whose direction Mr. Scott made his inspection, also has sent his approval.

The new pump has a capacity of 2,000,000 gallons a day, which is half the amount used daily in Norwich. At present there is about 35 days' supply of water in the local reservoirs.

The installation of the new pump has been completed and it was run in a test about 15 minutes Friday.

DIVISION NO. 54 A. O. H. HOLDS SUCCESSFUL WHIST

Ten tables were in play Friday evening in A. O. H. hall on Main street, at the benefit whist held under the auspices of Division No. 54, A. O. H. Ladies prizes were awarded as follows: First, Mrs. Foley, towels; 2nd, Miss Gay, string of beads; 3rd, Mrs. Bruette, creamer; consolation, Mrs. Margaret Day. Gentlemen's prizes, first, Mr. Clish, box of cigars; 2nd, Edward Nevins, silk socks; 3rd, John Donahue, belt; consolation, Mr. Sherman.

The committee in charge of the whist comprised Mr. McGill, chairman, Mrs. James Moore, Miss Katherine Connell, Mrs. McCarthy, Miss Bridget Dewire and Miss Eva Hyde.

FUND OF $500 FOR NORWICH FREE ACADEMY

At the Friday session of school at the Norwich Free Academy announcement was made of the founding of a fund of $500 by James F. Wilbur, now deceased. The income of this fund is to be awarded annually for proficiency in senior class mathematics.

MAY CHANGE DATE OF COUNTY FAIR

The board of directors of the New London County Agricultural society held a special meeting Friday afternoon at the office of Secretary Edwin V. Ross on Broadway, when matters pertaining to the fair for 1925 were discussed.

Poultrymen, cattlemen and other exhibitors expressed an opinion that the fair should be held at a date later than has been the custom for many years past, and it was voted that an investigation be made into the dates of other fairs in the state, that a date might be selected that would not be objectionable to exhibitors.

Plans were also talked over for the erection of a permanent building for farm machinery, to be ready for 1925.

Plans were also made to use the dining hall for the flower exhibitors and to move the hay barn nearer the stables.

A recommendation of the secretary that a decorated automobile parade be held on the track during the fair was accepted, prizes to be given to owners of the best decorated floats, no entrance fee to be charged other than entrance to the grounds. A beautiful girl contest was spoken of, and prize winning stock is to be paraded in front of the grandstand. The state board of health is to be asked to take charge of the better baby show, the society to make awards.

SURPRISE GIFTS FOR N. B. C. SALES AGENT

Friday was a day of delightful surprises for C. W. Nay, sales agent for the Norwich district of the National Biscuit company. At noon when he returned to the office he found the office force, directed by Miss Mary Driscoll, stenographer, had decorated the desks and walls in seasonable colors.

The second surprise came during the usual Friday afternoon meeting of the salesmen. Mr. Nay had received letters from A. G. Bixle, general sales manager of the company, and from E. L. Bliss, district sales manager, in which the Norwich force, with all other forces of the company in various cities, received a Christmas greeting, and an expression of appreciation for their work during the past year which had been the most successful sales year experienced by the company. After he had read these he expressed his appreciation of the work of the local force and at the close of his remarks, John Hubbard, cashier, on behalf of the force, presented him a silk umbrella and a fountain pen.

The gifts were unexpected but Mr. Nay thanked the donors and expressed a hope that the friendly spirit in the office might continue through the months and years to come.

ESCAPED PATIENT FOUND LOITERING ABOUT STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 21.—Sam Kurko, patient at the state hospital, Norwich, who made his escape from the institution two months ago was found loitering about the Union station Saturday afternoon by Special Agent Montgomery of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and was turned over to Patrolman John Clifford. The latter officer escorted Kurko to the police station, where he was later taken in charge by two guards from the institution.

Kent, street school teachers, Agnes M. McCloud, Mary T. Good[illegible], Margaret Coughlin, Hazel Banfield; Mr. and Mrs. C. Eugene Saunders, Union Sunday School Association of Laurel Hill.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE AT LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Practically every seat was taken in the large gymnasium at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, when a series of well known poems were illustrated by moving pictures. Previous to the showing of the pictures several hymns were sung. Hugh Kinder rendered sweetly O Come All Ye Faithful. General Secretary Hill offered prayer and there was responsive reading. The first poem was The Old Oaken Bucket, and during the showing Mr. Kinder sang two verses of the poem and the audience joined in the chorus. The second poem was that of James Whitcomb Riley, The Days We Love, and this was exceedingly impressive, and carried its lessons home to the audience. The third poem shown was The Village Blacksmith, and during the picture Secretary Hill read several verses of this wonderful production.

The poem Home, Sweet Home, is probably the one of the series that gets nearest to our hearts. One of the lessons it teaches is that our childhood days are probably the happiest days; you boys and girls ought to remember this. Our homes are what they are, if they are happy, not because of the furniture, though it be of the finest design; not because of the splendid architecture of the house, no, no, the home is happy because of the love that runs from heart to heart; the children should see to it that they contribute all possible harmony to the home life, for some day there will be the vacant chair when mother and father are gone, and we parents should be sure that we do all we can to make the children happy, before, perchance, there are vacant chairs because of the taking away of the young folks of the home.

Our country will be what it ought to be if our homes are homes of love and purity; let us see to it that we make them so. In this glad season, when we are thinking of the Christ of Christmas, let us all do all we can to spread warm tender love around us, and let us each do his and her best to count for the most possible in the home life. The poem was unusual in its photography and in its adaptation to the great poem that it represented. In fact, all four of the poems were such as to impress lasting lessons upon the hearts of those who were present.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED TO FANNING AVENUE

Saturday at 12.30 p. m. the fire department responded to a telephone call for a supposed chimney fire at No. 5 Fanning avenue, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald. The firemen found that hot soot had heated a stovepipe red hot. The soot was removed from the pipe. There was no damage.

Torrey Pine Vanishing

The torrey pine is restricted to the southern California coast near San Diego and the Santa Barbara Islands, says Nature Magazine. So rare is this species that municipal park has been created to protect the few remaining specimens, thus assuring them a slightly longer lease of life.

Three Aged Clocks

Three clocks aggregating 800 years of age are on exhibition at Pittsfield. The oldest clock is the property of Fred Jones. It is a Columbus clock, has but one hand and the face is marked for the hour, quarter hour and half hour. The year 1492 is the date on the box of the timepiece, which is made entirely of wood. Another of the three clocks is owned by Mr. Beaumont and was made by Bartholomew in 1812 at Bristol, Conn. It is also of wood and keeps excellent time. The third belongs to Charles S. Taylor. The clock is an English one, made of brass composition, and is about 200 years old. It is also a dependable timekeeper.

Sugar by the Ton

Chief among industries is that which gives us sugar. There was a time when sugar was a luxury. In the old colonial days it cost 75 cents a pound, says Nature Magazine. Large scale production, however, has brought the commodity within the reach of everybody, and it is now a staple article of our diet. The United States consumes about 5,000,000 long tons of sugar a year.

Electric Hatching

Mrs. Sparrow built her nest in the wire basket under an electric light at the Visalia, Calif., railroad station, laid her eggs, then hied forth to whatever pleasure she preferred—leaving heat of the electric light to finish what in olden days would have been her matronly duty. Eventually the little sparrows came forth, the father fed the birds and the mother came home—once in a while.

POETRY

CHRIST BORN SOULS.

"Christ in you, the hope of glory."

The Christ Child's Birthday's eve nigh,
Not as on Bethlehem's holy night
When Angels winged across the sky
And shepherds marveled at their flight—
Hearing them sing in rapture-e sweet:
"Peace be to all men of good-will,
Glory to God, a Saviour's born
Yet to be King"—then all was still!

But cradled now in hearts He lies
Where peace and good-will reign and sleep,
Thrilled by soft strains of glad surprise
That Christ a home in them should keep.
But their New Lives, made pure with love,
Reveal each temple where He dwells,
No Angels needed from above,
For Souls Renewed the secret tells.

The Christ Babe that in manger lay
When Magi bowed and worshipped round,
By words and cross revealed the way
Which by faith followed—Life is found:
Given in the bosom room for Him
His Home of Love there will He make,
And Bethlehem's Babe will be one's Friend
Till for the soul Heaven's Dawn shall break.

—Rev. George G. Phipps.

CHRISTMAS LULLABY.

Across the sky the Christmas winds are blowing
. . . . Little son, little son;
Through the dark night the Christmas stars are glowing
. . . . . One by one, one by one;
Sweetly sleep and gently rest
Snug within your crib's warm nest;
May your dreams by angel-blessed,
. . . . Little son of mine.

A Star in Bethlehem's sky white watch was keeping,
. . . . Shining low, shining low,
Above a lonely manger where the Holy Child lay sleeping,
. . . . Long ago, long ago.
. . . . . .

Tonight the stars of promise rise,
Little son with dream-drowsed eyes,
May you grow fair, strong and wise
Like that Child Divine.

—Agnes Choate Wonson, in Boston Globe.

GERMANY SENDS NOTE TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Desires an Exceptional Position as a Member of the League Because of Her Lack of Armed Strength—In League Circles the German Note is Regarded as Linking the General Problem of Inter-Allied Control—The Note Also Opens Up the Whole Problem of German Armaments

Geneva, Dec. 22 (By the A. P.)—Opening up the whole problem of German armaments, Germany has sent a note to the league of nations touching the question of Germany joining the league.

In the note, the Berlin government declares its view that if international conflicts arise Germany should remain absolutely free under the league covenant to determine how far she would take an active part in such conflicts.

The text of the note, which is published by the league secretariat tonight, shows that Germany desires an exceptional position as a member of the league because of her lack of armed strength, though she denies any intention of asking for special privileges. Germany maintains that if she is obliged to participate in all of the league military sanctions she would be compelled to waive her rights to neutrality—"the last defense of a disarmed people."

The reaction in league circles to the German note, which the Berlin government also transmitted to all the governments represented in the council, is that it will be certain to necessitate lengthy negotiations with the powers and presumably delay the date when Germany will formally apply for admission to the league—if she ever does. It inevitably links the league question with the general problem of inter-allied control and further investigations of German armaments which may be carried on by the league, the nature of which the council now is endeavoring to define.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the foreign minister, himself penned the note given out tonight, which forms the second chapter of the negotiations featured when Germany despatched her first communication on the same subject direct to all the leaders having seats in the council.

Dr. Stresemann began by saying that the German government is of the opinion that political developments during the past year have rendered it possible for Germany to join the league. He then gave an outline of the first note to the powers and explained that its object was to ascertain their attitude with regard to Germany becoming a member of the league council and also with reference to Germany's participation in the sanctions provided for by Article 16 of the covenant.

The foreign minister remarked that the replies received justified the conclusion that Germany's wish to have a seat in the council was being favorably considered, but that the replies concerning the operation of Article 16 of the covenant had not yet led to a satisfactory conclusion. Germany was desirous of finding a way out of the difficulties in which, on account of her peculiar territorial situation, she might become involved by the application of this article.

Dr. Stresemann declared in the note that Germany's apprehensions seemed to be not sufficiently appreciated by the powers; hence Germany had no other alternative than to submit the problem to the league itself in the hope that the league would arrange immediately for adjudication of the subject.

The German position is outlined in the note, which says that Article 16, regulating the procedure to be adopted against a covenent-breaking state in the event of violation of peace, binds the league members to economic and military measures such as in general have heretofore implied a state of war. States participating in such measures must expect to be treated as belligerents by the state affected, and the success of the sanctions might be jeopardized when they were directed against countries having at their disposal, "as is still the case," an unlimited and powerful war equipment.

It is argued by Dr. Stresemann that nearly all the league members run a certain risk. He insists, however, that the risk becomes unbearable in the case of a country like Germany, "which is centrally situated and completely disarmed." He then draws a comparison between the German military situation and those of her neighbors, including France, although he does not specifically designate that country.

Germany, with more than sixty million inhabitants and a frontier of nearly 3,500 miles and an extensive coastline, he pointed out, has an army of only 100,000 effectives, all told. He pictures Germany as a country where universal compulsory military service has been abolished, with no reserves in training, and maintains that, quite apart from their numerical inferiority, the German troops cannot in any way be compared with the armies of other countries, because they possess no heavy artillery, no aircraft and no tanks. The fortresses on the western front have been razed and the few fortresses elsewhere he considers wholly antiquated.

In the west, Dr. Stresemann declares, more than 20,000 square miles of German territory have been demilitarised, though solely to the advantage of Germany's neighbors. There are no state munition factories, and the capacity of the existing factories—"the number and special nature of which have been accurately determined"—merely suffices to satisfy current peacetime demands.

"The strength of the navy," continues the note, "is far below the armament limits fixed in the Washington agreement of Feb. 6, 1922. On the other hand, apart from their navies, the armaments possibilities of other European nations are entirely unlimited, and their output of modern war material is subject to no restriction. Some states adjoining Germany possess, even according to their peacetime status, 5,000 tanks, 1,500 military airplanes and 340 batteries of heavy artillery.

"All these states have at their disposal large reserves of material in the event of war. One such neighboring state—a state with fewer than eight million inhabitants—has a standing army of eighty thousand men; another, with fewer than fourteen million inhabitants, has a standing army of over 150,000 men. A third, with fewer than thirty million inhabitants, has a standing army of 275,000, and a fourth, with fewer than forty million inhabitants, has a standing army of over 700,000. All these armies are based on a system of universal compulsory military service, which in the event of war insures the utilization of the entire strength of the nation."

The note declares that for these reasons Germany is quite impotent from a military standpoint in the midst of a heavily armed Europe, and continued: "Should the measures provided for in Article 16 lead to hostilities Germany is incapable of effectively protecting her territory against military invasion; she would be completely dependent upon the members of the league for military protection, without there existing any power to compel these members to afford that protection. In a majority of conceivable cases Germany would be, so to speak, predestined as the scene of European league wars. Even if the covenent-breaking state should not be an immediate neighbor of Germany, it is to be feared that unfavorable developments in military operations might carry the war into her unprotected territory.

"Even assuming loyal fulfillment of their obligations under the covenent, one must bear in mind that the league's non-German troops would never defend German soil with the same devotion they would show in the case of their own country being involved; that German troops, in view of their small numbers and lack of all modern means of warfare, could play only an insignificant part in such wars needs no further proof.

"All this is a necessary consequence of the fact that the entire organization of the league of nations, as a whole is hardly compatible with the military preponderance of individual states, whether they are members of the league or not."

17 AIR MAIL PILOTS HAVE LOST LIVES IN SERVICE

Omaha, Dec. 22.—While Charles Gilbert was the first airmail pilot to lose his life since the inauguration of the transcontinental night flying service July 1, 1924, experimental stages of the air mail service have cost the lives of 17 pilots. The first fatal accident occurred at Cleveland, May 35, 1919, when Frank McCusker jumped from his plane 200 feet in the air.

Other fatalities as shown in the records of Carl F. Egge, general superintendent of the transcontinental service at Omaha follows:

C. W. Lamborn, killed when he lost control of his machine over Bellefonte, Pa., July 19, 1919.

Lyman W. Doty, plane crashed into tree at Catonsville, Md., October 14, 1919.

J. P. Charleton, poor landing between New York and Washington, Oct. 35, 1919.

C. S. Stoner, flying in fog between Cleveland and Chicago, March 10, 1920. Plane crashed into tree

H. C. Sherlock hit a smokestock at Newark, N. J., March 30, 1920. Caused by poor visibility.

Max Miller, killed when plane caught fire over Cleveland, Sept. 1, 1920.

W. H. Stevens, plane caught fire between Chicago and Cleveland, September 14, 1920.

Brian McMullen, crashed in fog between Omaha and Chicago, October 15, 1920.

J. P. Woodward, landed in snowstorm between Salt Lake City and Cheyenne, November 6, 1920.

W. E. Lewis, engine failed over Elko, Nevada, February 22, 1921.

J. T. Christiansen, killed making emergency landing near Cleveland, April 29, 1921.

E. G. Lenhardt, landed in fog at Meadville, Pa., February 27, 1921.

H. C. Thompson, at Liberty Center, Ohio, September 7, 1923, poor landing.

H. C. Brown, forced landing at Castalia, Ohio, December 6, 1923.

21,000 WIRE POLES WERE BLOWN DOWN IN ILLINOIS

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Telephone and telegraph companies and railroads in the middlewest tonight began taking toll of the damage to their properties from the cold wave and subsequent sleet and snow storms of last week, and at the same time were making preparations for the renewal of heavy snows throughout the upper half of the Mississippi valley.

Communications and transportation services continued to improve today as the temperature rose. The weather bureau predicted that the temperature would continue to moderate throughout the central section of the country. A minimum of 18 degrees above was forecast for the Chicago area tonight.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company, first of the communication companies to make a definite estimate of damages wrought during the week, said that a $1,000,000 loss had been suffered because of the storms. More than 21,000 poles were blown down throughout the company's territory.

MOUNT LASSEN AGAIN HAS BECOME ERUPTIVE

Westwood, Cal., Dec. 22.—Mount Lassen, the only active volcano in continental United States, began an eruption of smoke and gases at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. Residents of Westwood declare it the largest eruption of the mountain since 1915.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Laborite Johnson Elected.

Dundee, Scotland, Dec. 22.—S. Johnson, laborite, today was elected to parliament over the liberal candidate, E. D. Simon. Johnson received 22,973 votes and Simon 10,234. The by-election was rendered necessary by the recent death of Edmund Dene Morel, the labor member. Today's contest was a straight fight between the laborites and the liberals.

60,000 HOMELESS AND 300,000 UNEMPLOYED IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 22.—New York city has 60,000 homeless and 300,000 unemployed, it was said today at the Bowery Y. M. C. A., one of the many agencies that minister to the unfortunates of the lower East Side.

Association officials said that the number of men aided by their organization during the last two months was double that of the same period last year, and that relief agencies had been unable to car for all requests.

Congregational church authorities today gave permission to Urbain J. Ledoux—"Mr. Zero"—to continue to use the Camp Memorial church as a shelter for homeless men, 250 of whom found refuge in the building last night. "Mr. Zero" named several other churches to which he said he would lead detachments of his flock. The men, he asserted, were in most instances skilled workers honestly seeking employment.

The men who occupied the Congregationalist church last night maintained perfect order and left a detachment this morning to clean the place after the majority had departed early to look for work.

"Mr. Zero" said that next Sunday afternoon he would lead a group of men to St. Mark's-on-the-Bouerie, who would offer to do a "candle dance" as a compensation for a night's lodging. "Candles," Mr. Zero explained, were railroad laborers engaged in shoveling who had a "peculiar movement all their own."

MOTOR TRUCK DRIVER FINED FOR VIOLATION OF LAW

Greenwich, Dec. 22.—Michael Regan, of Long Island City, who was arrested on October 12 on a charge of driving a motor truck and trailer, the length of which was in violation of the law, was fined $50 and costs by Judge James R. Mead today. It also was charged that the lamp or lantern on the rear of the machine was not lighted. Regan testified that he had delivered a load of structural steel to Holyoke, Mass., and was returning. This, according to his attorney, was permissable under the law. Prosecuting Attorney Henry B. White differed with him, contending that the steel was not on the truck at the time of the accident.

A demurrer to the complaint was overruled and an appeal was taken to the common pleas court in Bridgeport.

Regan was involved in an accident on the night of his automobile driven by [illegible] phy, of Stamford, crashed into the rear of the trailer. Murphy claimed he was blinded by the headlight of an approaching car and did not see the pole which went through the windshield of the automobile. Miss Gertrude Daly and Miss Alice Daly and Samuel Roberts, of Stamford were in the Murphy machine and received cuts and bruises.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

A senate committee heard arguments on the proposed Boulder Canyon dam.

The department of agriculture began its campaign against the poultry pest.

J. E. Hoover was appointed director of the justice departments' investigation bureau.

Secretary Wilbur and Rear Admiral Moffett, outlined aviation needs to a house committee.

A. W. Hall, of Pennsylvania was appointed director of the bureau of engraving and printing.

Official phases of the inauguration of President Coolidge March 4, were agreed upon at a White House conference.

Ambassador Jusserand told an audience that France, after a breathing spell, would begin paying her war debt to the United States.

President Coolidge, it was made known, is recognizing in patronage matters the reading out of the republican party of insurgents who opposed his election.

It was learned that the Washington government will engage in no controversy on the subject of gun elevation until congress makes known its attitude on the question of appropriating funds.

ANTHRACITE STRIKERS DISOBEY UNION OFFICER

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 22.—Hopes for a break in the strike of 12,000 mine workers of the Pennsylvania and Hillside Coal and Iron company, were given a setback today when the striking miners at the Underwood colliery at Olyphant refused District President R. Cappellini's request to return to work.

The district president addressed the men at a meeting in the Olyphant Labor Temple. He told the men that they could get no adjustments of their troubles while they were idle and asked that they take a vote to return to work.

Tony Panne, leader of the strikers, appeared on the platform following Mr. Cappelini and urged the men to disregard the district president's appeal. A declaration by the chairman of the meeting, "the men will continue to strike," was taken up throughout the hall and acted as an expression of the sentiment of the striker. No vote was taken.

Hoover Makes Light Of Communist Peril

French Premier Requests Press Correspondents to Announce False News Was Being Spread in Paris.

Paris, Dec. 22 (By the A. P.)—Premier Herriot, who has been ill for a number of days, received the Paris representatives of the foreign press this evening for the purpose of discussing the recent rumors regarding communist uprisings. He requested the correspondents to send out the following statement:

"I had the pleasure the day before yesterday of receiving your confreres of the French press and I took advantage of the opportunity to give them some explanations concerning the supposed communist peril that has been reported as menacing our country. False news was being spread in Paris, and I asked myself whether, with the facilities for easy press communications, some of these false reports miht not have crossed the frontier. Not that I questioned the good faith of the foreign correspondents, but often an exaggerated rumor may present a situation in a false light.

"That is why I apply to you, who are sincere friends of France, and ask you not to allow to be created abroad an idea that France is at grips with great social difficulties and menaced with imminent and grave troubles. You who live our life, you know better than anyone else there is nothing to it. Since the end of hostilities, France has not ceased to work to heal her wounds. She lives in absolute calm. She has not known, she shall not know, any violence.

"Assuredly, there exists a communist party in our country as in many other countries, but it is far from increasing its forces. It sees them decrease. It has only a few representatives in parliament. The communists run up against the robust good sense of our rural districts and the clearsightedness of our laboring population. That party is no more active today than formerly. It tried to mobilize its forces, however, resulting in bringing out this year less than half the number that responded last year.

"I told your French colleagues that the government would be able to repress, with the greatest energy, any attempt that might be made to disturb the peace. But I have a firm conviction that such a thing will not happen. Say to your fellow citizens that France is working in absolute tranquility. Those who allowed themselves to be impressed by purely imaginary peril were very few in number. You are daily witnesses of the efforts of our country to reconstitute itself in peace. That you know, is the firm resolution of our democracy.

"Don't allow to be propagated false news meant to mislead. Help us to destroy these false reports, not only in the interest of our country but in the interest of truth. You know that I am working for general pacification, it is a work that interests all the nations of the world. I ask you to give that work your hearty co-operation."

BARDO PROTESTS MOTOR TRANSPORT LICENSING

Hartford, Dec. 22.—Deprecating the disregard of fundamentals underlying transportation shown in the licensing of motor bus lines, and asserting that transportation cannot be a success without a regulated monopoly, C. L. Bardo, general manager of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, appeared today before the public utilities commission at the capitol speaking in particular against the establishment of a motor bus line between Waterbury and Hartford, and against motor transport licensing in general.

Advancing the position of the New Haven road which has already abandoned 51 miles of passenger service and has under consideration the abandonment of 260 additional miles, entirely in some instances, General Manager Bardo said that with the granting of more motor bus licenses, the $400,000 000 investment in the New Haven road made by a public, which had confidence in the organization to afford transportation facilities, would begin to be seriously jeopardized.

"We have reached the point," Mr. Bardo said, "when some one must decide in the matter of protection to existing franchises. Executive officers can do nothing. If our hands were not tied, there are many things we might do as for the New Haven road we are not going into the highway service."

COUNSEL FOR M'COY ARGUE SUICIDE THEORY

Los Angeles, Dec. 22. — Smuggled jewels, the actions of her divorced husband, Albert A. Mors, and a troubled conscience over her relations, with Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist, now on trial for her alleged murder, caused Mrs. Teeresa W. Mors to commit suicide, according to declarations before a jury here late today by H. L. Geisler, defense attorney.

The contentions of the attorney sustained the defendant's story of the woman's death as told on the witness stand last Friday.

Before the death of Mrs. Mors, several thousand dollars worth of jewelry branded as smuggled goods was placed under seal by federal authorities, the attorney pointed out; her former husband had threatened her life and she brooded over her relations with Kid McCoy, with whom she lived.

With this triangular foundation for a suicide motive, Geisler fought back at the prosecution's statement earlier in the day that McCoy killed Mrs. Mors "because her attitude toward him changed and he saw his meal ticket slipping away."

Mors, the divorced husband of the dead woman, sitting in court, was aroused to protest when Geisler reviewed testimony indicating that he had fought his former wife, been arrested for safe burglary at the Mors antique shop and had threatened to kill Mrs. Mors.

"Why didn't you call me to the stand?" Mors demanded. A bailiff silenced him.

Fines on bootleggers in the United States district court in New Haven the past twelve months total $7,870, as compared with about $12,000 last year.

P. O. Dep't. Ruling on Cross Word Puzzles

Publications Offering Prizes in Order of Return of Solution Are Prohibited From Mails.

Washington, Dec. 22—The post office department ruled today that the offering of prizes by newspapers and other publications for solution of cross word puzzles in the order such solutions are received violates the postal laws. The practice, it was held, prohibits such publication from being circulated in the mails.

Notification was sent by the department to the postmaster at Richmond, Va., that a newspaper there offering prizes under such conditions should be deprived of the mailing privileges. Postal officials pointed out that the element of chance enters into such an award of prizes and thereby places publication of such contests under the ban laid down in section 482 of the postal law and regulations.

Under the section newspapers or other publications of any kind, circulars and pamphlets, containing advertisements of lotteries, gift enterprises or similar plans offering prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lot or chance, or lists of the prizes awarded in pursuance of such schemes, and all other matter relating to them, are declared to be unmailable.

PATRONAGE DENIED THE INSURGENT REPUBLICANS

Washington, Dec. 22.—President Coolidge through dispensation of patronage is recognizing the action of the republican conference in reading out of the party Senators Lafollette, Wisconsin, Ladd and Frazier of North Dakota, and Brookhart of Iowa, because of their allegiance in the recent campaign to the La Follette cause.

The president never has expressed publicly his views with reference to the action of the senate republicans, but it was made known today at the White House that he is prepared to take notice of this action when it comes to making appointments in North Dakota and Iowa. He already has refused to recognize in Wisconsin patronage matters the ten republican house members from that state who aligned themselves under the La Follette banner.

Senator Brookhart's advice on Iowa appointments never has been asked to any great extent, both Senators Harding and Coolidge having confined their requests for recommendations to Senator Cummins and the republican house members. Senators Ladd and Frazier, particularly the former, were, however, consulted President Harding and also by Mr. Coolidge prior to the November election.

North Dakota patronage recommendations will be in the hands of Representative Burtness and Representative-elect Hall, both of whom supported the Coolidge ticket in the campaign, and National Committeeman Garnett. It is probable that L. B. Hanna who was the Coolidge preconvention campaign manager in that state, also will be consulted. Representative Sinclair of the Third North Dakota district, however, will be classed as one of those who forfeited their title to administration recognition through active connection with the La Follette campaign.

ARREST DIRECTOR OF LAW ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE

Hackensack, N. J., Dec. 22.—Edward O. Gentert, Bergen county director of the New Jersey Law Enforcement League, with offices in this city, was arrested today by detectives from the office of County Prosecutor A. C. Hart on charges of conspiracy and extortion. He was committed to the Hackensack jail in default of $10,000 bail.

Gantert's arrest followed that of Frank Glantz, of Bergenfield, an operator in Gantert's employ, on a charge of threatening to expose George Armstrong for an alleged sale of liquor unless Armstrong should pay him $300. Armstrong reported the threat to the police, who told him to take $300 in bills and leave it at the place designated by Glantz.

Detectives stationed themselves where they could watch Glantz, and when he started to pocket the bills they arrested him. The prisoner told his captors he had demanded the money at the instigation of Gantert.

200 ALBANIANS WOUNDED AND DEAD IN BATTLES

New York, Dec. 22.—Anti-government forces in Albania lost 200 wounded and dead in engagements which took place yesterday on the Mati front, said a cablegram from the Albanian government received at the consulate here today.

"The Scutari front is tranquil, with Scutari in our hands," said the message. "In Kossovo prefecture our counter offensive continues with great success. The invading bands have occupied only a small portion of the Luma district.

"On the Mati front violent combats took place yesterday and the invaders lost 200 wounded and dead.

"Concentrations of Albanian troops on the Mati front are continuing orderly. The appeal of the government for a general mobilization is being met by the reservists with great enthusiasm."

AMARAL FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Providence, R. I., Dec. 23.—Anthony J. Amaral was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury which deliberated two hours and thirty-eight minutes this afternoon to reach its verdict. Foreman Albert C. Manchester announced the verdict in a clear, ringing voice before a crowded courtroom at 6.33 this evening.

Once during the early part of the day the man who for three weeks has defiantly and at times nonchalantly maintained his innocence of the kidnapping, assault and slaying of 9 year old Clementine Cosmo of East Providence last spring, broke down and wept as Attorney Walter I. Sundlun, chief counsel for the defense, addressed his plea to the jury.

When the foreman of the jury announced the result of its deliberations, however, the defendant received it stoically.

BINGHAM WARNS OF DANGER IN CENTRALIZING THE GOV'T

At the 119th Annual Dinner of the New England Society of New York Senator-Elect Bingham Called For a Return to Citizenry of the Individuality and Self-Reliance of the Pilgrims and the Puritans—Warned That Too Many of Our Highly Educated Citizens Stand Aloof From Politics—Asserted That All Should Accept the Full Responsibility of Citizenship — Bishop Manning Warned Against Government Paternalism.

New York, Dec. 22.—Distinguished citizens of the country were urged not to stand aloof from politics by Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham of Connecticut at the 119th annual dinner of the New England Society of New York at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight. Mr. Bingham, a former professor at Yale university, was elected governor last November and subsequently United States senator.

Mr. Bingham also warned of the dangers of a too highly centralized government and called for a return to a citizenry of the individuality and self-reliance of the Pilgrims and the Puritans.

Other speakers were Governor Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts and Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal diocese of New York.

Too many of our highly educated citizens stand entirely aloof from politics except at some emergency of unusual interest," Mr. Bingham said. "A bank seldom calls to its board of directors a man who has had no experience with finance and no training in the handling of property. A railroad seldom calls to its management a distinguished citizen who has never given time or thought to the study of railroad problems. A football coach never calls an athlete to take part in a game, no matter how greatly he may be, no matter how strong he may be, no matter how greatly he can excel in other branches of sport, provided he has had no training in the game of football. Seldom, if ever, does a football coach ask advice, during the progress of a game, from the university chess champion or the most distinguished scholar on the university faculty.

"And yet," he continued, "there are many people who express pained surprise that political leaders in the course of an active campaign do not turn for advice to the most distinguished citizens of the community, irrespective of the fact that they have never made a practice of attending caucuses or party councils.

"We cannot expect our government," Mr. Bingham said, "to work or our people to enjoy the blessings or freedom unless they are willing to accept fully the responsibilities of citizenship. A citizen without responsibility ceases to be a citizen and becomes a subject."

Governor Cox said that although New England is called reactionary, it is not.

"The New England spirit is against government by impulse," he declared. "Just as we New Englanders believe that we cannot make a success of life unless impulses be weighed, unless there be a consistent plan, so we believe that a successful government

New York, Dec. 22.—Distinguished cannot be maintained if stability be sacrificed to untested action.

"All this makes people look at New England as reactionary, it is not. We have more progressive laws than most commonwealths."

Governor Cox also pointed out that the two judges of the United States supreme court who are best known as liberals are both sons of Massachusetts.

Speaking of New England's industry of president-making, Governor Cox said it had taken two New England states to give the country, "as Calvin Coolidge, "the finished product."

"He is a good New England constitutionalist," Governor Cox continued. "Used to frugality and knowing "the short and simple annals' of those of unendowed with wealth, he seeks the good of those who toil. Being a trained legal thinker, he respects the rights of those who are not poor. Above all, his administration will be sustained by selfseeking."

Governor Cox quoted from a speech made before the society forty years ago by the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and in a tribute to him, said: "But right or wrong in the problems he confronted, he bore the lion's mark and it is fitting that today of all days we should remember him as one of New England's greatest sons."

Bishop Manning said that those who believed New England was becoming a "back number" must have recently had a "great awakening," adding that the entire country is "happy to have in the White House a man who represents the New England spirit, the New England caution and hard sense, but also the New England courage and the New England conscience."

He pointed out that while, rightly, there has been a reaction from the sterner views of life held by the early New Englanders, there was danger in the reaction going too far in the direction of a weak sentimentalism which "confuses the distinction between good and evil, which talks of the laws of God as though they were conventions, which wants to put governmental paternalism in the place of individual responsibility and initiative, and which seems to think we can end war and crime by abolishing our army, navy and police."

"There are three great characteristics of our New England fathers and mothers that we need to emphasize in our life today," Bishop Manning said, enumerating that they "believed in duty and individual responsibility;" "they were men and women of clear principles and convictions;" and they were "men and women of faith."

"That was the real secret of their morals," the bishop said. "Back of all and behind all, was their real belief in God."

CHANCE FOR BANK EMPLOYES TO BECOME STOCKHOLDERS

New York, Dec. 22.—More than 8,000 employes of the National City bank and its affiliated institutions scattered over all parts of the world, will be offered an opportunity to become stockholders in the country's largest commercial banking institution under a plan announced today by President Charles E. Mitchell.

In lieu of the usual Christmas bonus the bank will offer members of its staff the right to purchase for $200 each shares which have a current market value of about $410. A savings plan feature is embodied in the terms, which call for monthly payments to be deducted from salaries over periods of two to four years.

Subscriptions will be accepted on the basis of yearly salaries, employes receiving up to $2,000 a year being permitted to buy one share and those receiving $6,000 or over being alloted six shares. Junior officers, irrespective of salary, will be allowed to purchase 10 shares.

The National City bank, so far as is known, is the first large financial institution to adopt such a plan.

BOARD OF INQUIRY IN BROOKLYN NAVY YARD

New York, Dec. 22.—Acting upon orders of Secretary of Navy Wilbur, a board of inquiry met behind closed doors in the navy yard, Brooklyn, today to fix responsibility for the recent "leak" at the naval war college, Newport, concerning the nation's naval programme.

It was reported on good authority that Captain Hugo Osterhaus, son of Rear Admiral Osterhaus, retired, and Captain Robert I. Berry would be called before the board.

The information causing the investigation was in extracts of letters, supposedly from officers at the war college, given to newspapers by Mr. William B Shearer, who has announced that he accepted sole responsibility for the publication of the. They aroused agitation over the scrapping of the battleship Washington under the naval limita on treaty.

In other letters, it is alleged, information concerning the war game at Newport was disclosed which, in the opinion of Secretary Wilbur, should have been treated as confidential.

WOULD CURB SALE OF REVOLVERS IN BOSTON

Boston, Dec. 22.—Following a long series of crimes in metropolitan Boston which in the past few months have included the shooting and wounding of three police officers, murders, burglaries and hold-ups, the Suffolk county grand jury, in a report today, declares that it is imperative to curb and restrict the sale of revolvers and urged federal ban on firearms.

DEATH OF AIR MAIL PILOT DUE TO PARACHUTE FAILURE

Chicago, Dec. 22 (By the A. P.)—Trusting his life to a few yards of silk composing his parachute after his airplane failed to function in a blinding snowstorm, Clarence Gilbert, air mail pilot, last night leaped into space in the clouds over the little town of Kaneville, Ill., and lost his gamble with death.

His body, with strands of the parachute which failed to operate still attached to his belt, was found near Kaneville today shortly after farmers had found his wrecked plane with its burden of mail following a 15-hour hunt along the air mail route.

His death marked the first fatal accident to that little band of transcontinental birdmen who for six months have been winging their way across a continent in good weather and bad, maintaining schedules almost to the fraction of a minute with their cargoes of mail.

Gilbert, who entered the air mail service last August, left here last night shortly after 7 o'clock to wink his way through a snowstorm in near-zero weather. He was guided only by the blazing beacon and signal lights that mark the path of the air mail carriers on the night route to Omaha.

UNEMPLOYED RIOTING IN THE CITY OF VIENNA

Vienna, Dec. 22 (By the A. P.)—Five thousand mounted and foot police patrolled the streets from early this morning until late tonight to prevent rioting by the unemployed, aggregating 20 per cent. of all branches of organized labor. They had passed a resolution which declared if doles were not increased in time for them to make Christmas purchases they would spoil the fun of everyone else. Police President Shober therefore forbade all demonstrations.

Nevertheless, bands of unemployed repeatedly tried to march upon the city hall this morning to hold meetings. Attempts to break through the police corden proved a failure, and many of them were ridden down by the mounted police. Fifteen leaders of the demonstrations were arrested.

As further attempts at rowdyism are feared, a portion of the police force will remain on duty throughout the night, and during the next three days the city will be heavily patrolled.

The government has voted ten million kronen for immediate distribution among the most needy families.

EGYPTIAN CABINET DISSOLVES PARLIAMENT

Cairo, Dec. 22 (By the A. P.)—The cabinet definitely decided this evening to dissolve parliament. King Fuad's decree to that effect will be published tomorrow. The elections, it is understood, will be held within sixty days from the date of the decree, and the new parliament will meet ten days after the elections.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1191
Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

The mail business, incoming and outgoing is booming and in the opinion of Postmaster Walter R. King, surpasses in volume that of any year in the history of the local office. The force has had to be increased materially to meet the rush and two extra large trucks have been put in commission. All substitutes have been called in and two of these are replacing Dennis F. Haggerty, parcel post carrier who was severely burned in a denatured alcohol explosion and James Twomey, who sprained his ankle Saturday while making his deliveries.

The dropping of the mercury has caused the thin layers of ice on the ponds and streams hereabouts to start to thicken and in most cases the ice now measures from four to eight inches. The making of ice is being watched with interest at the Eaton and Pumping Station ponds, Ayers and Ives' coves on the Willimantic river and other smaller ponds where the city crop is harvested.

Light snow fell here Monday and although it served to make the approach of Christmas more realistic to the sentimental it came as a source of nuisance to automobile drivers. The fall of snow was too light to make tire chains practicable and yet became quite slippery after being pu[t] down by traffic.

The large Christmas tree set in Lincoln square by the decorating committee of the Community Christmas celebration was being measured up by electricians Monday preparatory to being equipped with a beautiful array of colored lights and tinsel. The line of smaller Christmas trees placed on both sides of streets in the business section of the town were the source of much approving comment from shoppers Monday. The amusement committee met under the chairmanship of Valentine L. Murphy at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, on Monday evening and completed arrangements for the entertainment to be given to the children at the state armory on Pleasant street, Christmas afternoon.

Missing—a barrel of choice Vermont turkeys, lost or stolen between Bolton and Willimantic Saturday afternoon. The barrel was from a Hartford wholesale grocery firm and was loaded onto a truck to be delivered to a market in this city, but when the driver looked in the vehicle to make the delivery the barrel was gone. He found no trace of it until on his way back to Hartford when he found the barrel on one side of the road but not the turkeys thelatter having been taken away. Monday morning the driver reported the apparent theft to the local police but unless some clue turns up to show that the theft was made here it will be up to the constables and sheriffs of the towns of Andover, Columbia and Bolton to locate the gobblers before they finally disappear on Christmas day.

Chief James J. Tighe of the fire department has again broadcasted his usual advice to householders to beware of candles lighted on Christmas trees, near draperies or other inflammable articles during the holiday season. He has asked all to co-operate with the department lest they make Christmas a day of fear, instead of a pleasant holiday.

The case of Henri Berube of Pleasant street, charged with intoxication was heard in the police court Monday morning. The accused pleaded guilty, was fined $10 and costs was imposed by Prosecuting Judge Curtis Dean, who warned him that if he fell from grace within twenty-four hours things would be harder for him. Berube, who was in on a similar charge Saturday morning announced that he was through with the stuff and was going back to the wood chopping job where he is employed.

Beginning Sunday night and lasting until Monday evening of next week local Hebrews are observing Chanukah, the Feast of Lights, an eight day festival dating back to the successful revolt of the people of Israel against the Syrian King Antiochus Epiphanes, who attempted to set up Greek gods for the Jews.

The Dramatic club of Windham High school presented as its annual play, on Monday evening, before a capacity audience at the school auditorium "Honor Bright," a three act comedy under the efficient direction of Katherine Wheeler, of the faculty. The cast: Mrs. Barrington, Avis Thompson; Richard Barrington, Philip Dodge; Rev. William Carpon, Mason Gaudreau; Pot Marvel, a chorus girl from the Snap-It-Up company, Frances Crane; Watts, the butler, Burt Squires; Annie, the maid, Gertrude Dondero; Maggie, the cook, Mary Pickett; Foster, the gardener, James Abernethy; Michael, the chauffeur, Thomas Meikle; Simpson, deputy sheriff, Lester Bolton; Jones, another deputy sheriff, Clarence Redmond The story centers about the mistaken identity of Honor Bright, a canvassing agent for a book company for Pot Marvel, the chorus girl engaged to Richard Barrington. The error was made by the latter's aunt and uncle.

The announcement that a midnight mass is to be celebrated at St. Joseph's church brings delight to faithful church-goers. Incidentally next Christmas eve closes the diamond anniversary of the first Roman Catholic mass celebrated in Willimantic and the golden anniversary of the dedication of St. Joseph's church. 1925 has been proclaimed by the Pope a holy year in the Roman Catholic church.

Bearers at the funeral of Lewis Shippe held Sunday afternoon were Byron Medbury, Louis Wilson, John Chesler, George Whitford, Frank and William Shippee.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Martin and son, Luther Martin, a student at Worcester Polytechnic Institute leave today (Tuesday) for Florida. Luther Martin goes to Atlanta, Ga., to attend a convention as a delegate from his college fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Mr. and Mrs. Martin will make a lengthy stay in the south.

Noted Here and There.

Leroy A. Dissinger, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., leaves tonight (Wednesday) for Johnstown, Pa., to spend the Christmas holidays at his home there. During his visit he will play with several basketball fives of which he was formerly a member.

Among local people who were in Fall River, Mass., over the week end to attend the ordination to the priesthood of Rev. Francis J. Gilligan, son of the late Daniel Gilligan, formerly of Willimantic, were Misses Margaret and Lorette Farwell of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Rose, who have been at Pleasure Beach, Winterford, will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Lincoln.

Brae Rafferty, of Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia, and Robert Rafferty, senior at the University of Maine, are spending the holiday recess with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Rafferty.

Other students to arrive home from colleges for vacation are: Wallace Frater of Syracuse university; Harold Staebner and Christopher C. Case, Jr., from M. I. T.; Ralph W. Carpenter, Brown university; Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, Boston Art school; and Miss Myrtle Hawkins, Gordon college, Boston.

Miss Doris Bradway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bradway, a teacher in Wheeler school, North Stonington, has arrived home for the holiday recess.

Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs Thomas J. Donovan were Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Stanton of Norwich.

Richard L. Wiggins has returned home after several weeks of treatment at St Joseph's hospital.

Representatives of three of the four towns already belonging to the Dramatic circuit, and some prospective members, met Professor Seckerson of the English department of the Connecticut Agricultural college, and head of the Little Theatre movement of rural Connecticut, at a meeting Friday afternoon in the directors' room of Willimantic Trust company. The purpose of the meeting was the discussion and organization of the circuit, for which a constitution and by-laws were drawn up and acted upon. The towns eligible for membership are to be limited to those within a distance of 15 miles from Willimantic. The Andover Dramatic club, which has already a membership of over 60, is reported working on a three-act play, as well as a group of one-act ones. Columbia and Hebron, which are also organized, are preparing for work in the circuit as soon as possible. It was suggested that a certain per cent. of the profits made on each performance given during the season be set aside toward a prize fund to be awarded at the end of the year to the town credited with the best piece of work. As the annual meeting is to be held in September in the future, another meeting, with three representatives from each town, is to be held in January.

Midnight mass will be sung in St. Mary's church, South Coventry, Christmas, with special music in charge of Miss Cecelia Day. Rev. Father William H. Kennedy, the pastor, will celebrate the mass. There will also be services at Eagleville at 8.30 on Christmas morning and again at South Coventry at 10.45.

Special Christmas exercises will be held in the Natchaug school this (Tuesday) afternoon preparatory to closing for the holidays. The kindergarten will have a Christmas party, with program by the children, a visit from St. Nicholas, and gifts, under the direction of Miss Getchell and Miss Howie; grades 1 and 2 (together), a Christmas program arranged by Miss Moriarty and Mrs. MacFarland; grades 3 and 4, exercises, recitations and songs, arranged by Miss O'Neill, Miss Branch, Miss Larkin and Miss Collins; grades 6 and 7, songs, stories and a little play, under the direction of Miss Day. Miss Caswell, Miss Willet and Miss Gibson; and grades 7 and 8 will give Percival Wilde's Enchanted Christmas Tree, directed by Miss Jacobs, Miss Mary Allen, Miss Eleanor Rose and Miss Martha White.

The model school will have first grade and kindergarten exercises this (Tuesday) morning, low grade in the afternoon and a union program at the Normal school for the upper grade children together.

Midnight mass will be celebrated at St. Mary's church Wednesday night, for the first time since 1900. Christmas Day there will be three masses.

Wednesday evening, the Baptist church exercises and tree will be held.

This (Tuesday) evening the Christmas celebration is at the Congregational church.

Real Christmas temperature with the first real snowstorm Monday made people step lively; but everyone agrees that it is good, healthy weather.

The December meeting of the men's class of the M. E. church was held at the home of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Carter, Friday evening, it being the night of the annual election the following officers were the choice: President, Robert W. Robertson; vice president, David Carter; secretary, George M. Thornton; treasurer, Irving M. Thornton.

Activities of the coming winter were mapped out for both class and church. The financial report of the treasurer for the term was very good, showing the class to be in a good, growing condition. After business was finished the meeting was turned over to the toastmaster, who offered the following for discussion: Resolved, Should the United States Enter the League of Nations? Leaders of the debate were Rev. J. W. Payne, R. W. Robertson for the affirmative; L. D. Howe, A. C. Burdick for the negative. After a spirited and fiery debate, the question was put to the class which side had won, it was voted a tie. One new name was voted in. The next meeting will be held at the home of the president, R. W. Robertson. At the close a standing vote of thanks was given the host and hostess, and there was singing of the class song.

The funeral of Mrs. Albert Dusrey was held from her home on North Main street Monday morning. Solemn requiem mass was sung at St. Mary's church with Rev. J. J. Tyler, celebrant, Rev. Ludovic Paradis of Voluntown, deacon, and Rev. J. J. McCabe sub deacon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were relatives. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

GALES FERRY

At morning worship, the Sunday before Christmas, in the Methodist Episcopal church, as one entered the vestibule, a hedge of cedar trees from six to eight feet hight, filled the space, between the entrance doors to the auditorium. In the auditorium, the chancel rail, and choir rail, at the right, were wound with laurel interspersed with branches of red berries. At the left of the chancel was a high screen of cedar trees and in the rear of the altar, at either side a large pine tree, with a laurel wreath in the arch high over all. Branches of laurel were in the windows, and evergreen with red berries formed the pedestals. The effect with the electric lights on was beautiful. Rev. George Smith Brown, spoke to the children at this service, telling the story of The Choir Boy in a Cathedral in Europe, being one of the faces in Da Vinci painting of the Lord's Supper. The offertory was Teach Me O Lord, sung by women's voices. Rev. Mr. Brown's text was Matthew 5.41, Love Your Enemies—and he reviewed the principles in regard to War.

The Notices included the community Christmas tree at the club house Monday morning, the singing of carols the night before Christmas around the village and immediate vicinity in which all have been invited to join by the Village Improvement Association. The Christmas celebration and tree for the Sunday school, to be held, at the church Friday evening at 7 oclock when it has been announced by radio that Santa Claus will be there.

Nelson Parker, chairman of the Christmas decorations was ably assisted by R. Irving Hurlbutt, J. Edmund Norman and Alton Chapman, in the transportation of the cedar and pine trees, with laurel, which were gifts from the property of nearby parishioners and of C. E. Colver of the submarine base.

The men ably carried out this plan for the decorating of the church.

At the Sunday school session at noon the opening program was given by the primary department under the direction of their superintendent, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, and included singing, Away in a Manger, by the beginners, followed by their little prayer, and the marching of the department to Onward Christian Soldiers. Miss Jennie G. Perkins, was at the organ.

Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt was leader of the Epworth league, Christmas carol service and the topic was The Constant Question on Sunday evening, The men's chorus sang, My Jesus I Love Thee. Rev. Mr. Brown spoke on The Coming of Christ, or What Difference Does It Make that Christ is Come?

The grammar school, Miss Evelyn E. Whipple, teacher, and the primary department taught by Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, at her home in the place, held their Christmas exercises, together at the school house on Friday afternoon, with a combined program. Both schools closed that afternoon for a Christmas vacation of one week.

Rev. and Mrs. George Smith Brown with their young son James, will leave today (Tuesday) to join a family reunion at the home of Rev. Mr. Brown's father, David Brown, in Winsted over Christmas.

Miss Sarah T. Latimer returned Friday from a ten days' visit in Hartford.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt has been named Marjorie Elizabeth.

Miss May Smith of New London is spending her school vacation of two week with her sister, Eleanor Smith, who has been spending some time with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Latham E. Smith and family at New London.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Colver of the Submarine Base, attended the funeral of Capt. James Lennen in Norwich Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Marie Sorenson returned last week from a visit in Boston to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Andrew P. Miller.

Mors. Sorenson's grandson, Robert Miller of Boston, radio operator on S. S. Thomas P. Beal, sailed last week for the Pacific coast, by way of the Panama canal.

Miss Newman of New York is spending the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davison in the Stoddard district.

NORWICH TOWN

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning, the text of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's Christmas sermon was Matthew 5:9. "Blessed Are the Peacemakers."

A special program of music was arranged by Organist Herbert L. Yerrington. Miss Bernice Underwood, soprano, sang as an offertory solo, In Old Judea, by Adam Geibel. The three anthems given by a chorus of mixed voices included, The Dawn of Peace, Miles; There Were Shepherds, Judson; and Awake, For Thy King Has Come, Judson. The church was decorated with evergreen, laurel and red berries. Arranged around the church on the face of the gallery were ten evergreen wreaths. The electric fixtures on either side of the church were twined with laurel and a large laurel wreath was conspicuous in front of the pulpit. On each side of the pulpit were two large boxes of laurel and cedar boughs intermingled with red berries.

The artistic decorations were in charge of the flower committee of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society, Miss Doris Browning, chairman; Miss Helen Avery, George Hyde, Miss Louise Avery and Miss Ethel Whaley.

A short business meeting was held at the close of the morning service. The Christian Endeavor service was omitted in the evening, so that members and others might be enabled to attend the Candle Light Vespers at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist.

The mid week prayer service of the Congregational church scheduled for Thursday evening is to be omitted this week.

There is to be a meeting of the standing committee of this church, this (Tuesday) evening at the parsonage on Elm avenue.

The Sunday school of the First Congregational church is to hold its Christmas exercises with a specially arranged programme, Friday evening in the chapel at seven o'clock.

The Christmas Story in Poetry and Song, Luke 2:8-16, was the topic at the Young People's Christian Endeavor service of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday evening, when Mrs. Richard Carter was the assigned leader.

At the Methodist church Christmas night the Christmas entertainment of the Sunday school will be held with a special programme and distribution of gifts.

CITATION IN COMPLAINT OF "UNFAIR COMPETITION"

Washington, Dec. 22—The New York Twine Mills Company, Inc., of New York City, was cited by the Federal Trade Commission today in a "unfair competition" complaint. The citation says that the company is engaged in buying twine, string and other cordage which it sells to retailers and customers throughout the country.

The complaint alleges that the respondent's use of the word "mills" in its corporate name on business stationary and other trade literature has a tendency to mislead and deceive the trade and the consuming public into the erroneous belief that the company owns or operates the mills in which the products it sells are manufactured and that persons buying goods are thereby saved middlemen profits. The company has thirty days in which to answer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

A Useful Calendar

Harold S. Burt, whose insurance office is at 120 Laurel Hill avenue, is distributing a very handsome and useful calendar, ornamented by a picture of "A Little Gray Home in the West."

Broadway Theater

A real holiday week program of B. F. Keith vaudeville and Paramount pictures released a capacity audience at the Broadway theater yesterday.

Joe and Art Hunby, the versatile boys, opened the program with a fast and clever routine of song, comedy and eccentric dancing.

Joe and Agnes Reilly followed, making a hit with their skit called A Boy, a Girl and a Harp. The comedy, music and songs are highly satisfactory.

La Costa and Bonawe in A Dog's Life kept the fast pace going with a combination of songs, comedy and novelty.

Two dogs are the novelty and the whole act is a clever combination of entertaining values.

The Creightons, in Muldown Vaudeville are great. Their rube numbers received a great ovation and the comedy will drive away the blues.

The Winton Bros. in Our Time, close the program with an acrobatic novelty that is interminaled with comedy and succeeded in holding everyone in their seats until the very last stunt.

The final showings of the James Cruze Paramount production, Merton of the Movies, starring Glenn Hunter with Viola Dana featured in the cast which was shown for the first time at the Broadway theater last Sunday, will take place there tomorrow afternoon and evening. The picture is a screen version of the stage success of the same name by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly. Harry Leon Wilson wrote the novel which also appeared as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post.

Breed Theater

Be it ever so broke, but brave—that's the position the heroine of a picture is sure to find most appealing to her audiences—and that's exactly the way Viola Dana starts off in her latest Metro picture, Along Came Ruth, which is the feature at the Breed theater today.

Miss Dana needs only a clever story punctuated with amusing situations and she's off—to the delight of everyone who sees her. "Along Came Ruth is just that kind of a story, and the tiny Metro star proves she's as attractive when she's pathetic as when she's funny and vice versa. Vivacious Miss Dana has one of her best roles in that of the girl who woke up the sleepiest town in Maine and her engaging personality makes it easy to understand why the whole town worshipped her.

Tully Marshall, who made such tremendous hits in The Covered Wagon and The Hunchback of Notre Dame, plays the part of the Duke of the Sunshine Company, who grows to hate Ruth the more she does for him. It is said to be the most hilarious role of his career.

The Pathe News, Hodge-Podge and a Stan comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Palace Theater

During the making of the film version of Mr. Wright's latest and most popular novel, The Mine With the Iron Door, which Principal Pictures Corporation has scheduled as the most attraction for next Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Palace theater, the famous novelist spent every afternoon on location where nearly all the scenes in the picture were made in the mountains back of Oracle, near Tucson, Arizona.

An inspection of Mr. Wright's workshop gives a quick insight into the reasons for this author's wide popularity and his great appeal to the public at large. The place radiates the breath of the out-of-doors. The walls, the furnishings, and even the ceilings, are in a beautiful restful green. Yet, despite all the beauty everywhere, the room is arranged for the greatest efficiency, indicative of the writer's penchant for orderliness.

Chelsea Bank Christmas Club.

In opening its Christmas club for 1925, the Chelsea Savings bank makes an announcement of special interest to those who follow the thrifty plan of accumulating weekly through club memberships a sum that will stand them in good stead for next Christmas season. Following the lines of community service the bank has voted to pay an increased rate of interest to Christmas club members. This will be double what has been paid before and make an interest return paid to Christmas club members equal to what most savings banks pay on regular deposits. This liberal policy will be most gratifying to patrons of the successful Christmas clubs conducted by the bank.

EMBARGO ON FOWL IS TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN PENN

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 22.—Shipment of live poultry from any points outside of Pennsylvania into the state, except by special permit is prohibited, effective December 24, under a quarantine order issued tonight by the state department of agriculture, as a result of the fowl plague, prevalent in several states.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The full force of the Christmas rush is now upon the postal force of the Danielson office. This rush has been late in getting under way, but it was hitting its stride Monday. Today and tomorrow will be the most trying days of the year for all concerned with the handling of the mail, for there will be tons of it, both incoming and outgoing. It is a matter of accommodation to the public that the postoffice will be open tonight (Tuesday) and Wednesday night until 8 o'clock.

Functioning with the regularity that has characterized it for some time past, the town court had another grist of cases to consider Monday morning. Amis Farahat of Mechanic street was fined for violation of the liquor laws. Four frequenters of his place when a raid was made there Saturday night were charged with intoxication. One of these, Samuel Bohabar, pleaded not guilty to the charge, saying he never drank intoxicants in his life, later changed his plea to guilty and then, on evidence of those who knew him that he is not a drinker but did not understand court procedure, the case was nolled. The court had one personal tax case Monday morning. The money due was collected, also the usual costs.

Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, at North Foster, there was a prayer service for Miss Anna A. Hill, 19, who died at the Rhode Island hospital in Providence. Prayer was by Rev. George Watts and scripture reading by Mrs. J. H. Nelson, in the Finnish language. A choir of Finnish people from the neighborhood sang in their native language Shall We Meet Beyond the River? At the North Foster church at 1.30 the funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Watts, assisted by Mr. Nelson. Children from the neighborhood school sang at this service, their hymns being When He Makes Up His Jewels and Jesus Loves Me. The choir of Finnish voices sang Nearer, My God, to Thee. Burial was in the North Foster cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Watts, assisted by Mrs. Nelson. The bearers were Walter Hammond, William and Newton Perkins and Frank Pfefer. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

A steaming radiator, obscuring vision through the windshield, was held accountable for an accident in which a horse driven by Thomas Gorman of the Allen Hill section of Brooklyn suffered a broken leg when the vehicle it was drawing was struck by a machine owned at the Jabez Brown farm in Brooklyn. The accident happened in the town of Brooklyn, on the hill known as The Ledges.

There will be much seeking around today by a small group of Danielson people imbued with the spirit of Christmas in that degree which wants to find someone who in their misfortune now look upon the holiday as a period of joy. There may be families where there will be no toys for Christmas if these good people do not learn about them, and there may be other families in such poor circumstances that a bountiful dinner would bring them joy. There is a chance for happiness for all of these if the would-be Santa Clauses can find them out.

If company counts for anything, those who are at the county jail at Brooklyn will not be lonesome on the holiday. On a recent day there were 65 inmates of the institution, a number of them bound-over prisoners awaiting trial at the January term of the superior court. It is difficult to forecast just how many will actually spend the holiday at the institution, for prisoners come and go, as life itself. However, the prospect is for a big family at the jail on the holiday, and it will not be a cheerless one, for there is always a special dinner and some other reminders of Peace On Earth, Good Will to Men.

There may be some value in a warning to people hereabouts to beware of holiday hooch. Some of the wood or denatured alcohol concoctions are as apt to make their appearance here as in the many other places where they are causing misery and death. About every raid in this territory reveals that alleged whiskies are about in quantities. These beverages are commonly known as "splits," having an alcohol base. There's the rub. There is no guarantee that the alcohol is not of the ultra-poisonous varieties the lethal kind that brings the undertaker instead of the physician. The dispensers of these splits are not chemists and they are not particularly concerned as to the nature of the alcohol base. One sure way to avoid getting in a death trap is to avoid alleged whiskies. Going blind or dying doesn't make a merry Christmas for anyone.

Well, on the other hand, there is a delightful day ahead for hundreds of people. If the measure of buying now going on here is indicative of what good friends are going to do for one another on Christmas, there will be many delighted individuals and many very happy homes in Danielson on the holiday. For thousands these are days of planning for the joy of others. Much will be realized by the investors in Christmas cheer. Gifts will range from the cheering card to the luxurious automobiles. This promises to be a season of generous giving and of giving of things that are practical. With employment general here, and prospects excellent for a prosperous winter, Danielson has a real flare of the holiday spirit. What happy exclamations it will bring on Christmas morning!

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Comiskey and Miss Nellie Sullivan of Hartford will be holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy.

Santa teased a bit Monday as to setting the stage for a white Christmas, with all that promises for those who are to have sleds or skiis for the holiday, but he stopped the storm before he made a good job of it.

Rev. Edward J. Shelley, M. S., formerly a curate of St. James' parish, has remembered local friends with Christmas cards.

Christmas tree exercises of the Westfield Congregational Sunday school are to be held on the afternoon of Christmas.

Holiday dinners for the needy of Danielson will be distributed tomorrow. It is not too late to contribute to the fund for this purpose. Contributions may be left at various business places about the borough.

Quinebaug lake, where a large part of the borough's ice supply is obtained each winter, was frozen over Monday, but there is only about three inches of ice there at the present time.

A well child conference is scheduled to be held at the town hall this (Tuesday) afternoon.

Miss Eunice Pike and Miss Emily Pike, college students, are spending the holiday season with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Pike.

In observance of St. Thomas' day there will be a service at St. Alban's church this (Tuesday) morning.

A minimum temperature of 5 above zero was registered in Danielson Monday morning, but the cold wave receded thereafter and the mercury had ascended to 30 degrees by early afternoon.

"Say it with dollars" is the slogan that appears to be enjoying the most popularity this week.

Tonight and tomorrow night you will find the postoffice open until 9 p. m. to attend to your mailing wants.

St. James' parochial school will close for the holiday recess Wednesday afternoon.

Business places in Danielson will be open this (Tuesday) evening and Wednesday evening to accommodate the Christmas shoppers.

The Christmas club memberships in Danielson are giving promise of being larger than ever so there should be possibly as much as $125,000 in these funds here at Christmas time in 1925.

On Saturday of this week at the home of Mrs. Susan E. Logee of Providence Miss Emily C. Logee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Logee of this place, will become the bride of Raymond I. Francisco of Santa Rosa, Calif.

The Alumni will have a team largely made up of college students when it plays basketball here against the Service battery team the coming week end.

The majority of the men who have gift buying to do had not started out on their buying campaigns up to Monday. But they will be busy today and tomorrow.

From Winnsboro, N. C., friends here have received Christmas cards from Mr. and Mrs. Gordon A. Johnstone, formerly of this place.

William McDermott, who has been in the west for several months, is spending the Christmas season at his home here.

At Danielson Baptist church Sunday there were special Christmas services at 10.45 a. m., there was worship and sermon with special Christmas music. The subject of the sermon was "Following the Star." The Church School met at the noon hour, with classes for all ages. Young men invited to attend the Dynamo Class.

At 7 p. m. the Christmas pageant, "When the Chimes Rang," was given. There was special music by the male quartet and vested choir. The children of the primary department also sang at this service.

All pleas to the contrary, the raids on young pine and hemlock growths in this territory reached their height Sunday, when people from miles around came to cut Christmas trees off other people's land. There was little secrecy about the raiding, as many a tree was cut down in sight of a state highway, dragged out and put on a wagon or a car and taken away. And this in view of the fact that such trees can be legitimately had for such a small amount of money that it does not seem within reason that a person would stoop to steal one.

John Weaver, Sr., was reported Sunday as seriously ill at his home in the town of Brooklyn.

As a result of a raid on Mechanic street Saturday, there will be a number of appearances in the town court today, (Monday).

The postoffice was open until 8 o'clock (Saturday) evening for the accommodation of those mailing Christmas packages.

A Well Baby conference is to be held at the town hall building Tuesday afternoon. The town court had a day off Friday from the prosecution of personal tax cases, but there are many more such cases to be considered.

When the Windham County Voiture met in American Legion hall, Sunday afternoon officers were elected.

Rev. F. T. Ledwith, M. S., was a visitor at St. James' rectory Friday.

Henry C. LaBlanc of Fall River spent the week end with friends in Danielson.

Community Christmas tree exercises are to be held at the Community house in South Killingly Christmas eve.

Theodore Reeves and Arthur Williams, students at Connecticut Agricultural college, are at their homes here for the holiday recess.

Excavations are practically completed for the cellar of the Longo block and masons are at work putting in the foundation walls. It is intended that work on this structure shall continue right through the winter months, excepting at such times as unusual storms may hold up the work for a time. It is hoped that the foundations will be ready in January and that the brick work can then begin. The building will be the largest business structure erected here in several years.

PUTNAM

Charles N. Devine, 51, was found dead shortly before eleven o'clock Sunday night in the clubroom of the Central Fire Station. Sergeant Laird of the police force went into the room at that hour and saw a man lying on a couch. Getting no response to his greeting he tried to awaken him. He realized that the man, whom he then recognized as Mr. Devine, was unconscious or dead. A physician was summoned but it was then too late. The cause of death is believed to be acute indigestion. Mr. Devine had not been well for the past three weeks, due to a severe cold and stomach trouble but he had been at his place of business every day. Sunday morning, when he left his home on Fremont street he told his mother and sister that he was going to a turkey dinner in the country and probably would not return until late. When he got back to Putnam in the evening he complained of not feeling well and evidently went up to the firemen's clubroom and lay down. Just how long he was there or when he became acutely ill is not known.

Mr. Devine was born in Putnam in 1893. He attended Putnam High school but gave up his studies in the third year of the term to enter the employ of Chandler & Morse, hardware dealers. In 1916 he went with the Putnam Hardware and Mill Supply Corp., as assistant to Manager Charles E. Dean. Later when Mr. Dean's time was largely taken up by his needle manufacturing business, Mr. Devine had charge of the store. He married in 1916 Miss Margaret Duffy. One son, Charles, Jr., now six years of age, was born to them. When the boy was but four months old Mrs. Devine died. His mother and three sisters, Mrs. W. C. Richards, Misses Alice and Florence Devine survive him. A brother, William E. Devine died in 1919, during the influenza epidemic. Mr. Devine was prominent in fraternal societies having been a member of the Masonic, Elks and Odd Fellow lodges.

If the Public Utilities commission grants a certificate to the Farnum Stage Line, of Worcester, to operate motor buses from Providence to Springfield by way of Woodstock, Putnam and Quinebaug, as asked for in a hearing held here last week, the New Haven railroad will try to block the project by court procedure. In the bills of complaint filed by the railroad at Providence Saturday is one against the Farnum company which if allowed will not only prevent the buses from taking on or discharging passengers in Connecticut, as asked for, but will stop the running of the buses between Providence and Springfield, and between Providence and Southbridge.

In the hearing at Putnam a large delegation of Woodstock people, headed by Senator Clarence H. Child and Representative-elect Bert H. Johnson appeared to urge the granting of the certificate. Woodstock has neither railroad nor trolley communication with neighboring towns and its residents naturally favor a regular means of transportation.

Representative-elect Samuel Rich, of Putnam, also spoke for the applicants, declaring that he believed Putnam, and certainly the northern belt of the county that is not reached by railroad or trolley, would benefit by the operation of the buses. Thirty citizens of Woodstock and about the same number from Putnam stood up to be counted as favoring the granting of the certificate.

Officials and attorneys of the railroad and the Connecticut company opposed the application, advancing the same arguments urged in the complaints filed at Providence. They allege that if the buses are allowed to run it will mean a cessation of railroad facilities. The petitioners claim that the buses are under no regulation, that the machines are not bonded and not inspected, that no one has control over the fares or over the routes, and that they should not be allowed to continue unregulated.

If the certificate should be granted by the Utilities Commission, that would mean regulation, but, according to A. P. Russell, vice president of the New Haven, in elaborating on the complaint, the road will fight further operation of the bus lines from divers angles. Mr. Russell said that the New Haven had decided to act "after mature deliberation, dealing with all features of unfair bus competition." He added:

"As a citizen of New England, the New Haven recognizes that the interest of the traveling public in the proper solution of the transit problem is paramount. Unless public rights are protected present regulated and controlled service is bound to be curtailed, possibly to be restored only after a dangerous experiment has overloaded the highways and proved that anything sort of well organized, regulated transportation to New England is destined to utter failure.

"The New Haven cannot longer stand by and see its property jeopardized by this sort of competition. The railroad and street railways have been authorized to provide transportation for the people of New England. Under that authority the railroads have made an enormous investment.

"There may be room for a third transportation agency in New England, but not in the field covered by the railroad and street railways. The New Haven management feels that any new form of transportation should be adapted to the use of those existing organizations. Acting upon that principle, it will leave no stone unturned to eliminate unfair and unwarranted competition.

"It is not proposed to extend present lines. If the New Haven finds it necessary to modify present methods, or revise existing service, any change will be confined to the territory now served. In deciding to fight against a needless duplication of service the New Haven recognizes it must go along with the public needs. That is all it has in mind. It is here to render service. It has a great investment to protect and a solemn trust to discharge. The management thinks its duty cannot be met by going out of business.

"Our faces are toward the future. We shall no longer calmly submit to unfair and unregulated competition. No 'dog in the manger' policy will suffice. We do not now, and shall never, object merely for the sake of objecting. We are making this effort in the interest of the public, as well as in our own interest.

"The New Haven believes the people of New England have come to feel that it stands for success under intelligent, progressive management justification for that belief lies in the decision now reached. New England demands and is entitled to receive and the New Haven, recognizing that demand, is prepared to serve the public within its territorial limitations."

There may be much merit in what Mr. Russell says, but there are some of his statements that will be very vigorously disputed by the people of the northwestern belt of the county that has no railroad service not to speak of other communities which are served by it. In asking for a state certificate the bus lines would make themselves subject to inspection of valuation and control issues upon which he seems to put great weight. All citizens hope he means that "the New Haven recognizes that the interest of the traveling public in the proper solution of the transit problem is paramount."

A New Year's eve party is to be held in the Putnam lodge of Elks' rooms Wednesday night, December 31st for members of the lodge only. The festivities will start at nine o'clock with a supper. After the supper an entertainment will be given, including several high class acts of vaudeville.

The Nativity Play was given in Pomfret hall Sunday evening for the twelfth consecutive year. Because of the intense cold there was not as large an audience as usual but every seat in the hall was taken.

When the sacred play was first given by the Pomfret Neighborhood association, the parts were taken by Pomfret people, most of them by the same people as in 1912. On its fifth anniversary, 1917, articles were published in many papers, describing the play and its solemnity, and commenting on the closeness of its relation to the old mystery plays. This effect comes as the result of the earnestness with which every player enters into the portrayal of his part.

The evening opens with carol singing, when the story of the nativity is read. Then all lights are extinguished, 'Silent Night, Holy Night," is sung in the darkened room, and the curtain rises.

Those filling the different parts are: Angel Gabriel, Esther Gustafson; Mary, Elizabeth Ransom; Joseph, C. L. Ransom; Shepherds, Norman Ash, Allen Averill, Raymond Danielson, Herman Danielson, Norman Ash; Wise Men, Frank Chandler, Leonard Watson, Warren Averill; Heralds, Gilbert Danielson, William Emlott; attendants, Irving Emlott, Edward and Robert Arnold, the Angelic Host, Ella Gustafson, Eleanor Bennett, Mona Converse, Marion Watson, Gladys Peterson, Mildred Hattin, Doris Barrett, Barbara Ransom. Organist, Annie Ash.

The Christmas programme at the Congregational church Sunday evening was heard by an audience that filled the church. Because of weather conditions the organ and piano recital by Kenneth Sharpe and Mrs. Katherine Lown had to be omitted. The other numbers were as follows: March of the Magi, Harker; Song Without Words, piano and organ, Nicholl; Fantasia on Old Christmas Carols, Faulkes; Organ Prelude, invocation, Christmas Scripture, hymn, The First Noel, 132; reading, The Other Wise Man, Van Dyke, Miss Rose Walsh; cantata, The Adoration, Nevin; chorus, O Come, All Ye Faithful; baritone solo, and chorus, Behold, a Virgin Shall Conceive, Mr. Wheaton; chorus, for women's voices with solo, In Reverent Awe and Solemn State, Miss Ellis; chorus, for men's voices, Then Sweeping Through the Arch of Night; chorus, Softly and Startlingly, tenor and soprano solos, And Lo, the Angels of the Lord, Mr. Jenkins, Mrs. Robinson; chorus, Glory to God in the Highest; alto solo and quartet, Hushed at Length the Gracious Song, Mrs. Wheaton; chorus, Amen! Lord We Bless Thee.

St. Philip's church programme for Christmas follows: 8 a. m. corporate communion of the parish; prelude, Shout the Glad Tidings; Processional, Silent Night; Kyrie, Barnby; Creed, Offertory, Ave Maria, Gounod, violin, Mrs. C. L. Torrey; Adoration Hymn, Adeste Fidelis; Gloria in Excelsis, Stainer; Seven-Fold Amen, Stainer; Recessional, Angels From the Realms of Glory; 10.45 celebration of holy communion and address, Sunday, December 28, Holy Innocents, 7 p. m. festival, even song and carols.

WEST LYNN MAN FINDS ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER

Is Equally Effective for a Severe Cough and Cold or a Fresh Cold.

He says: Last winter I had a bad attack of the grippe, accompanied by a heavy cold on the lungs with a hard rasping cough that racked my whole body. My lungs were sore and seemed to be filled up and my doctor said I was threatened with pneumonia. I had been confined to the house for two weeks and was still a sick man when I was advised by Dave Perry to take Allen's Lung Healer. He said it would surely fix me up, and it did.

After taking a few doses I could feel my lungs loosening up, the soreness disappeared and the cough began to mend, and inside of a week I was back at my work. Before the second bottle was gone the cough was entirely cured. When I catch cold now, I don't wait till I am sick, but take the Lung Healer, and it breaks it up in short order.

THE COMING LEGISLATURE.

During the next two weeks there will be much preparation in anticipation of the opening of the general assembly of 1925. The situation which resulted in the nomination and election of Governor-elect Bingham for United States senator means that while he will be inaugurated as governor, there being no other course to pursue in order that he may resign that office, he will hold the position of state chief executive but a very short time.

By provision of the law the resignation of Governor Bingham will mean the stepping into that office of Lieutenant Governor John H. Trumbull of Plainville, and the identification once more of a famous name with the leadership of the state. Highly qualified in all particulars in man who is destined to guide the affairs of the state for the next two years. Fitted by recognized qualifications for the administration of state government, Lieutenant Governor-elect Trumbull has also had years of valuable legislative experience during which he fully demonstrated his keen insight into the matter of state finance. He has shown himself to be a sound and practical business man and legislator, and Connecticut is fortunate that it placed him in the position to step into the governor's chair under conditions which developed following his nomination.

His advancement to gubernatorial duties following the resignation of Governor-elect Bingham has developed a desire on the part of several senators in the 1925 senate to become president of that body, the position which is filled by the lieutenant governor. If Senator-elect J. Edwin Brainerd of Branford has the lead as claimed for that honor the senate will be assured of an active and fair leader and one with previous legislative experience. But whether the honor falls to him or to Senators Platt or Pierson, who are understood to be candidates, there is no question but what a man of ability will be the acting lieutenant governor.

THE DUTY OF CONGRESS.

As a rule the short sessions of congress are not featured by great accomplishments. This is particularly true if there is but a narrow margin of control and if recalcitrant elements are out to block legislation if they cannot have their own way.

The present congress has receased over the holidays. It hasn't as yet broken any records but it has gotten down to business with a view to accomplishing something much more seriously than was evidenced in the previous session. The short session permits of just about time enough in which to put through the necessary appropriation bills. Under all circumstances it takes time for proper consideration, and this is particularly true when there is faced the necessity of pruning out what is not needed and what under the present need of economy can be gotten along without. Adherence to the budget is the task of congress at the present time. It is called for by the president and his appeal certainly has the endorsement of the nation. Congress needs no better understanding of that than the recent election result. Its duty under the circumstances is therefore clear.

President Coolidge told congress much that needs to be done. He told it of needs which he did not expect would be met at this time. Time will probably not permit the taking up of certain matters which are sure to develop a controversy, or which if carried out would mean a reversal of previous action by this congress.

There is in fact enough for this congress to do if it does its duty, without going into the enactment of legislation which will face the next congress. There will be two months in which to put through the supply bills and that should be ample if there is proper use made of the time. It is a time for this congress to do all it can to regain the confidence of the nation. It cannot overcome the mistakes of the past but it can show that it knows better than to repeat those for which it has been properly chastised.

SAFEGUARDING OIL.

Oil is a matter which has been under discussion for a considerable period of time in one form or another. The country has been told of the exhaustion of the supply within a generation and there have been scandals which have aroused the entire country probably much more than any possible shortage. Oil, however, is certain to maintain a place of importance and whatever is done for the purpose of ending the waste and conserving the supply must be regarded as timely.

Thus the action of President Coolidge in appointing four members of his cabinet to act with the petroleum industry for the purpose of conserving the oil resources of the country indicates a well directed effort. It is to be hoped that the result will be all that is contemplated. It should at least furnish an insight into the situation, the waste and the competition that is none too well understood at the present time.

The oil supply of this country is of no small importance. Efforts at protection of the nation's reserve have had results. Even in the oil scandal it was apparent that even though oil lands are held in reserve it does not necessarily mean that the oil supply in those lands is not being drawn off by the oil wells which are operating nearby, and only recently this very point has been brought to attention in the recommendation to open other territory to prevent this very thing happening.

There is no danger that there will be any too much information gained in regard to our oil resources or any too much effort put forth in behalf of safeguarding the supply and use of oil. The president has wisely recognized the need of action before it is too late. With a thorough understanding of the fact that there is a limit to the resources, that oil is of vital concern to the nation and that there is too much waste good results are to be expected from the course which is being followed.

GUARD AGAINST FIRES.

It is always excellent advice that is offered at this season of the year for the prevention of fires.

There is more danger than is generally appreciated in the Christmas decorations, the placing of candles on the trees and lighting them, and the entrance into the jollifications without regard for the consequences that accompany carelessness.

There is nothing more desolate and undesirable than a home which has been burned out because of the failure to observe the necessary precautions to prevent fires. Much of the flimsy stuff that is used for decorations is like tinder when it comes in contact with a flame. Christmas trees go up with a flash if they get the right encouragement, and it is invariably the case that where destruction follows a bit of carelessness it is due to the failure to give proper forethought to the fire hazard and the lack of the necessary steps in behalf of prevention.

Warnings are issued with this very thought in mind. They are placed before the public with the idea of developing sufficient thought upon the matter of fire prevention to avoid fires and losses of life and property. It is through giving heed to the recommendations and the observance of the safety requirements that distressing conditions at such a time of year can be prevented.

Care is one of the greatest preventive measures that can be employed. It has an impressive record even though it cannot be pictured in dollars and cents. It would be still greater if there were only displayed the willingness to adopt and practice it.

MEETING RESPONSIBILITY.

When Attorney General Stone was named for that place in the president's cabinet it was believed that a man had been picked who could be relied upon to see that there was a proper administration of the federal laws, that there would be no soft pedaling and that leniency and unjustifiable conduct or methods would not be tolerated.

It is a position of grave responsibility and one in which the country places its confidence for the administration of justice.

Whatever may have been the conditions previous to the assumption of the duties by the present incumbent, it has been evident for a long time that a complete change of policy was in effect, that a housecleaning was gradually taking place and that more thoroughly were the responsibilities of the office being met.

This cannot fail to receive attention in connection with the change that is being made in officials in control at Atlanta penitentiary. Indications are that it is also taking place in different sections where changes are being made in district attorneys whose methods have been shown to be out of harmony with the department and its views concerning law enforcement.

Attorney General Stone faced no small job. He has gone about it without the flourish of trumpets, but he is surely making a good impression upon the country through the insistence upon the enforcement of the law as it exists regardless of what the law may be, and in insisting that unfit subordinates must give way to others upon whom the department and the country can rely for the service that is expected.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A little over two weeks and we'll have the general assembly with us.

Interest in the thermometer always develops as the cold weather increases.

Cold snaps create plenty of interest in radiators, whether they are steam or automobile.

Probably no further claim will be made this year that Indian summer has not passed.

The real question isn't so much, Is there a Santa Claus? as it is, Are you going to be one?

It is getting to the point now where it is well to do your shopping as early in the day as possible.

There's much satisfaction in having a cold wave appear according to schedule. It's over all the sooner.

The man on the corner says: It doesn't take long to find out that the top side of the ice is the slipperiest.

Instead of trying to figure out how to handle a flaming Christmas tree it is far better to prevent it from getting afire.

The discomforts of shopping during the remaining two days must be accepted as the penalty of delayed ideas or procrastination.

The shakeup taking place at the Atlanta prison seems to be thorough, but the prisoners involved are only those who have been escaping the penalties they were sentenced to.

A Chicago swindler who admits not a cent of his $2,000,000 was honestly earned, has been sentenced to prison for so short a term that he can be paroled in seven months. What will the public do then?

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—There is a move on to make Congressman John Q. Tilson of Connecticut floor leader if Nick Longworth is successful in winning the speakership. Every one agrees that Tilson is the best equipped man for the position and the only thing that may cause his defeat, should he run for the office, is the fact that he hails from New England. The old jealousy of the west towards that section of the country ran high when Lodge was floor leader of the senate and Gillett speaker of the house, to say nothing of having Coolidge in the white house and Weeks at the head of the war department. The death of Lodge and the retirement of Gillett from the house to take a seat in the senate may prove an assistance in securing the floor leadership of the house to Tilson. Moreover it is pretty well understood that Secretary of War Weeks does not care to remain in the cabinet through another full term, so the field would not be so well covered by New England as is now the case.

Tilson of New Haven is logical, well informed, experienced, and has the complete confidence of the house regardless of party or factional strife. He is a leader on the ways and means committee, and would hold his place there if elected floor leader; he was ordinance expert on the military affairs committee through the war; he served in both the Spanish and Mexican border war troubles. He never loses his temper when presiding or carrying out a party or personal plan, his tall figure and voice that needs no megaphone or amplifier, makes him a commanding figure in the house, and nothing but prejudice against giving the place to New England will keep Tilson from the floor leadership, if he desires to assume the heavy responsibility the office carries. Tilson is not a candidate nor does he seek the position, but in addition to talk of making him floor leader, there is a move on by his friends to make him the speaker in case there is a deadlock between Longworth and Madden, the two candidates now in the running.

Traffic conditions are the chief topic here outside of politics. The highway conference that met this week gave impetus to a safety first movement, and may help out some, but the dangers encountered by the "foot-passengers" as some one recently called them, is extreme. It has been said that the question of the day is not tariff or wheat, but where to park and where to jump.

Washington's streets are unusually broad some reaching 100 and more feet in width, to cross them with automobiles and street cars rushing along at full tilt has become a hazard that cannot be overestimated. There is also a scarcity of parking space and it is not uncommon to see the roofs of high office buildings utilized for storing or parking cars. A move is on foot to condemn some of the slum alley buildings and convert the space so gained into public parking space.

If that is done, as a bill now before congress provides, then it will kill two birds with one stone, for it will not only relieve parking congestion but will eliminate the unsanitary conditions that exist in some of the negro settlements in down town alleys.

"Where to park and where to jump" suggests another comment heard this week. When two ladies not over slender passed down the street dressed in the latest straight up and down fashion, someone remarked "In the older days a woman looked like an hour glass; now she looks like grandfather's clock."

Many people have wondered why the old cart wheel silver dollar was brought back into circulation. T'was a move for economy. Expenses could be trimmed down a bit in that way, as it costs the government 1.7 cents to make a dollar bill while the cost of minting a silver dollar is but one cent. Uncle Sam is supposed to have scratched his head thoughtfully and said to himself "seven-tenths of a penny is almost a penny—I'll be penny wise and not pound foolish" and then gave orders to mint the old dollar at full speed. It is officially estimated that what seems to be an infinites in saving will in fact save the tax payers fully $1,000,000 a year.

Nothing better shows what a good mixer Mrs. Coolidge is, than the luncheon given in her honor this week by the wives of senators who live in one of the big apartment houses up at the fashionable West End. It happens that democrats predominate in the house, and the list of hostesses included Mrs. Tasker Oddie, Mrs. Henry W. Keyes, and Mrs. Frank Gooding, wives of republican senators, while the democratic ladies outnumbered them by listing Mrs. John B. Kendrick, Mrs. Adrius Jones, Mrs. George Harris, Mrs. Atlee Pomerene, wives of democratic senators together with the widow of the late Senator Ollie James, democrat. The states represented were Wyoming, Nevada, New Hampshire, Idaho, Ohio, Georgia and Kentucky.

Mrs. Coolidge has never made any discrimination in her friendships along partisan lines, and is likely to select the wife of daughter of the president's most bitter political enemy, when it comes to pouring tea at the white house, or chumming in the gallery in the days when as wife of the vice president Mrs. Coolidge frequented the senate and listened to debates. Custom precludes the president's wife from attending congressional sessions, except on rare occasions.

Sixty members of the Yale Glee and Banjo club came to Washington Friday and gave their annual concert here that evening. On their arrival Friday they were entertained at luncheon at the Racquet club with the Washington Yale club as hosts. Later in the day Senator and Mrs. Wadsworth of New York had them out to the exclusive country club at Grasslands, for a tea dance.

Dancing is the vogue here just now, and an innovation has been made in this extremely cosmopolitan city of introducing dinner and tea dances on Sunday at one or two of the popular restaurants.

For a long time members of the diplomatic corps, accustomed to what is called a Continental Sunday have given small dances at their homes but so far as your correspondent can ascertain Sunday dancing in public places like restaurants or hotels has not come about till this winter. How it will be received remains to be seen.

President and Mrs. Coolidge will pass a quiet holiday period at the white house. Their son John will be home from college and their only guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stearns of Boston, who really constitute a part of the Coolidge family, so close and affectionate are the relations one family bears to the other. The Christmas at the white house will be tinged with sadness, no matter how calm and brave both the president and Mrs. Coolidge have been over the death of their beloved son. A choir from one of the churches will sing carols on the white house steps in the early evening, as has been the custom, but otherwise there will be no special feature to mark the holiday. The president and Mrs. Coolidge will observe all formal official duties this winter, but will continue a year of mourning, so far as their personal affairs go.

Senator Bingham has always proved him a good friend to Latin America. The air service will also find a friend in him for he was an aviator pilot during the war. Colonel Bingham was a lecturer on South America some years ago, having spent much time there and in other republics south of the equator.

Veterans of the 26th division residing in Washington have organized a chapter of the Yankee division to be known as Josie Command Chaumont as its official, but will be commonly called the Yankee Division Club of Washington. It will be the purpose of the club to commemorize the achievements of the division and promote fraternity and helpfulness among all members of the division and their families. It will also aid in the settlement of government affairs between veterans and the government, if difficulties arise. Gen. Edwards was elected honorary president with Representative Carrol Reece, president; Representative Connery of Massachusets, first vice president.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

A Stop at the Police Dog's House

If ever I should lose my way
In Rabbit Land or Paraguay,
I wouldn't for a minute wait,
However early or how late.
But quickly on the telephone
I'd call up in an anxious tone
The Kind Policeman Dog, for he
Would help me in perplexity.

Gracious me, little reader, that last work is a long one, almost too big for our dictionary, don't you think? Well, it means a twisted state of mind.

"Oh dear," sighed the little bunny boy as the kind Policeman Dog folded the handkerchief with which he had just wiped the little rabbit's teary nose, "how did I ever lose the clothespin I brought for Mother. Why, I remember perfectly slipping it in my pocket. Yes I do, sure as ever."

"Never mind. We'll find another at my house," answered the nice old dog. Come with me. I'm going home for dinner," and, taking the little bunny boy by the paw, he led him out and locked the door. Then hiding the big key under the mat, he pulled down tight his helmet hat. Gracious me my typewriter is rhyming again. So it is. Perhaps, it's because it is wearing a new ribbon today!

"Why didn't you hop back to the Three-In-One-Cent Store to buy another?" asked the old dog, looking down at his little bunny friend as he hopped along in his khaki suit.

"I told you why over the 'phone, didn't I?" answered the little rabbit.

"Yes, yes, so you did," laughed the forgetful old bow wow. "You'd eaten your last carrot cent and couldn't buy another clothespin."

"That's right. But you'll help me, won't you?" asked the anxious little bunny.

"Guess we'll find a spare clothespin at home," answered the bow wow Policeman Dog, opening the gate in front of his neat kennel house, for it had taken them only a few minutes to arrive there as the Police Station was only maybe a hop and a skip and a jump or two up the street.

Opening the door, he showed the bunny boy into the kitchen where Mrs. Policeman Dog was setting the dinner table. Playing in one corner were her two little bow wows, who, on seeing their daddy gave a bark of delight, and then looked silently at the little rabbit.

"Come over and say howdy," said the big policeman dog. "Little Jack Rabbit has come to dinner. By the way, mama," turning to Mrs. Dog, "have you a spare clothespin? My little friend has lost the one he bought for Lady Love, his pretty bunny mother."

"Sure I have," answered the kind lady dog, patting the bunny boy's ear. "But first sit down at the table."

And in the next story you shall hear
More of our little rabbit.
And how he tried hard every day
To mend a careless habit.

MANAGING DAVE

Dave is an old dear. Don't let anybody tell Mrs. Dave that he isn't. And yet, there are times—! For instance, why should a husband assume that he has been divinely appointed to defend the acts of everybody outside his own household? Mightn't a wife be right sometimes?

Of course a cupful of sugar—even a rounding cupful of very good sugar—is no great thing for man and wife to quarrel over. But it was this way: The first time Mrs. Bradley came in for the cup of sugar and said she was just out and didn't want to buy until the Saturday sale, Mrs. Dave ladled out a heaping cupful of her own sparkling fine white sugar without saying a word to Dave about it. And the first time and the second time that Mrs. Bradley brought back a cup of grayish sugar with lumps and specks in it, not one word was said to Dave. But the third time Mrs Dave had an inspiration. Instead of throwing the queer-looking sugar away why not save it and give it back to Mrs. Bradley when she came again?

"Sure," said the counsel for the defense when she told him her plan that night. "A good idea if you want to remind a neighbor that she is poorer than you are."

"But this wouldn't. Giving her our high-grade sugar might do that, but my way makes it look as if we bought the same kind. Really, Dave, I wish I'd showed you that sugar before I threw it out. I didn't suppose there was such a thing on the market."

"You've got imagination! I don't doubt her sugar's as good as ours."

"In that case it couldn't be unkind to give it back."

"At least," he persisted, "she thinks it's as good or she wouldn't offer it in exchange."

"If she does she'll never know the difference and we'll both be happy."

"For my part," Dave veered off, "I think it's a very creditable thing for a woman to watch the sales and try to cut down expenses. Why don't you be a real neighbor to Mrs. Bradley and let her teach you some of her economies?"

"For Pete's sake!" Mrs. Dave exploded indignantly.

For seven days after this, while Dave was forgetting the above conversation, Mrs. Dave was thinking it over. She decided that what Dave needed was managing. On Friday Mrs. Bradley came for the sugar. She got it. On Saturday she returned her own grade. On Sunday morning that grade was served to Dave in a small silver bowl.

"What's the matter with this sugar?" he asked innocently.

"Is anything?"

"Look at it. Something's been spilled into it."

"Oh, no dear! It's perfectly good. It's what Mrs. Bradley brought back last night."

Dave gave her one glare. Then he ate his breakfast without sweetening.

That was the beginning of silent week in Dave's home. Every morning the gray sugar was at his place and every morning it was ignored. On Friday Mrs. Bradley came for the chronic dole. She was given the good sugar. The other was utilized for Dave's breakfast. It was not until Saturday evening that Mrs. Dave began to feel ashamed and decided to forgive Dave next morning.

In the small hours of the night she was wakened by a stealthy sound. Dave was not in bed. She could hear him groping his way down the dark hall, and slipping silently into her dressing gown she followed. There was a dim light in the kitchen. From the dark passage she could see Dave in pajamas, greasing the floor with elaborate caution. He had the silver bowl in his hand. He reached the sink.

"Dave!" cried a voice, and Dave jumped clear of the floor. "You are throwing away perfectly good sugar!"

He dumped the contents of the sugar bowl into the sink, turned the faucet on it, and then peered into the dark passage. "That little joke is threadbare," he said as loftily as surprise and pajamas would permit.

But Mrs. Dave came into sight in the doorway, shaking with laughter. "You blessed old—goop!" she shrieked. "I changed that sugar myself last night!"—Chicago News.

Archbold, Country Store Helper

John D. Archbold had to go to work at an early age, had to acquire his education after working hours, and found it necessary to leave home when young to seek his fortune.

Born in little Leesburg, Ohio, where his father was a minister, he spent his early years inself-denials. When the father died, leaving the family in poor circumstances, the boy had to help. Soon afterward he left school to become handy boy in a general store at Salem, Ohio, where his hours were long and his pay $1.50 a week.

Anxious to complete his education he offered, when 13 years old, to light the fires and do chores about the village school in exchange for instruction in Latin at night. For four years he worked, studied, helped the family and by severe self-denial saved $100.

In his effort to learn he read newspapers and the stories of the Pennsylvania oil strikes quickened his ambition. At 16 he gave up his job, now paying $5 a week, and started for the oil fields. Arriving in Titusville, then the center of the oil boom, he finally found work as clerk in the office of William H. Abbott, dealer in oil.

Small for his age, smiling and enthusiastic, he soon learned the business. At 19 he became a partner in the firm. A year later he went to New York as sales representative and he had to fight his way for orders in the then highly speculative field. Two years later he married.

Continuing his success, he became chief owner and president of the Acme Oil Company. His activities attracted the attention of John D. Rockefeller and at 27 he became director of the Standard Oil Company when the Acme company joined the larger organization.

Elected vice president soon afterward he helped to develop the company. When the government dissolved the corporation Archbold, at 63, became president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, serving until his death. His fortune was valued at $100,000,000, a goodly part of which he left to charity and educational institutions.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Habit and Tradition

Custom, habit and tradition are responsible for many forms of waste. This applies with particular force to the building industry, in which seasonal idleness is responsible for a tremendous economic waste.

Happily, effective efforts are now being made to straighten out the curve of construction activities. There was more building in the United States last winter than at any similar period in the history of the country. Not only was the volume greater, but the percentage of total seasonal winter building was sufficient to indicate a radical innovation within the industry.

Preliminary figures now available indicate that throughout the country building activities this winter are proceeding on a scale in keeping with the prosperous period a year ago.

The benefits of stabilized building activities reach all lines of business. When construction slows up every line of trade and industry is injured. When building work goes ahead actively, all business is helped. The building industry acts as a balance wheel for the nation's business.

Investigation has shown that the time-honored failing off in building work during the winter months has been due almost entirely to custom and tradition. What is needed more than anything else in order to eliminate seasonal fluctuations is public co-operation. Wherever possible those who are in a position to influence building activities should do what they can to stimulate winter operations.

The elimination of the winter building lag down is a splendid example of public thrift. The effect is helpful to every interest of the nation and all its citizens.—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

They Both Lost.

It is an old story that appears in various disguises from time to time, but it undergoes frequent repetitions there is reason for believing. This is the latest version:

A fellow with the inclination to borrow had previously obtained a loan from one easy to get it from. Recently he approached him again and asked for $10 for a few days. Pulling a large "roll" from his pocket the lender handed him a $5.

"Why, I asked for $10. This is only $5," the borrower said.

"That's all right. Let it go at that. You figure you lost $5 and I figure I lost $5."

There was no more conversation.

Her First Thought.

Recently a teacher prevailed on the head of a local institution to take a group of children through. As they were going from one point of interest to another, the gilide in true guide fashion told them about the things he thought they should know in connection with the trip.

He felt he had carried it off well and had really given them something to remember. Wishing to see how they had learned their lesson he asked one bright appearing girl:

"Now, little girl, what did you get out of this visit?"

"I got out of English today," she promptly replied.

HEAVIEST CHRISTMAS MAIL IN HISTORY OF LOCAL POST OFFICE

If everyone in the United States does not receive a Christmas present this year, members of the post office department will feel certain that their work has been in vain. All day and for some of the employes in the local office, nearly all night, Monday, was spent in sorting thousands of letters, Christmas cards and bundles of all sizes and shapes, and it was not until after 10.30 o'clock that the Norwich postoffice began to assume an appearance anywhere near normal. The incoming and outgoing mails during the day passed the peak of any previous year, men in the employ of the postoffice for many years saying that the rush of business Monday passed that of the usual swamp of the day before Christmas.

Probably 1500 sacks of mail were received and sent out from the office during the day, the heaviest part of the outgoing mail being at night. People at the New Haven depot Monday night saw three truck loads of sacks, 150 mail bags filled to the top. An hour before this 120 sacks of mail had been taken to the Central Vermont station and return trips to the post office showed almost as heavy a load for the mail trucks.

Several of the boxes in the business section were filled to capacity and packages were piled onto them by dozens to await collection and it was necessary to make extra trips to keep up with the mail. Probably the number of people at the post office Monday equalled the number usually accommodated in a week of ordinary times for the package windows and carriers' window had a steady business from the time the windows were opened until they were closed nearly an hour later than usual.

The floor within the post office was literally covered with bundles, all to be sorted and placed in sacks before quitting time for the night force and the thousands of letters and cards were stocked on tables, in racks and filled several baskets to overflowing.

Downstairs the bundles for local delivery covered the basement floor even after a day of steady outgoing mail. Three truckloads of city bundles, a truck load for the West Side, one to Lamb's hill section, two to Greeneville and another to Preston served only to clear space for as many more parcels for delivery today, Tuesday.

It was evident that people were making more of this Christmas than of any Christmas for several years back. A glance at the work ahead of the men at the postoffice indicates it will be almost impossible to get out the Christmas mail on time.

Postmaster Casper K. Bailey said during the evening that the day was the heaviest in the history of the local office but that every effort possible would be made to have parcels delivered by Christmas day.

DRIVERS WARNED FOR NOT BLANKETING HORSES

The snow which fell Monday was just heavy enough to cause trouble to both horses and automobiles. Humane Agent F. H. Wyatt was on duty on the West Side with the results that nine drivers were warned about having their horses woorly shod and 11 spoken to for not blanketing their horses in the cold or stormy weather.

Washington square was one of the very bad spots, several automobiles turning completely around while trying to turn into Main street from Washington street and a number of people slipped and fell while trying to cross on foot. One driver with a large load of hay had to be stopped from trying to go down the Water street hill, and advised to reach Greeneville by going up Washington and over Broad street.

As soon as the storm had ceased the condition of the streets was reported to the city street department by Agent Wyatt and they immediately sent out their large trucks well manned to sand the more important hills.

The Connecticut Humane society wishes to take this opportunity to notify drivers that careless neglect of horses in bad weather will not be tolerated in this state.

WARNING AGAINST FIRES FROM OVERHEATED STOVES

The sudden cold snap has prompted a warning by Chief Howard L. Stanton of the local fire department against the breaking out of fires from overheated stovepipes and chimneys. This is the season of the year when furnaces and stove fires are pushed to the limit, and care should be taken not to allow drafts to remain open unless they are watched. The thawing out of frozen water pipes is also a common cause of fires at this time of the year. Some people are in the habit of using gasoline torches for this purpose. Extreme care should be exercised when using gasoline touches.

WILBUR DRAWS FOUR MONTHS IN JAIL

In the city court Monday morning James Wilbur, colored, of West Main street was given a sentence of four months in jail, and costs, when he pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor laws. Wilbur was in court on a similar charge a short time ago and paid a fine of $200 and costs and served 10 days in jail.

Tryon Whitford, charged with breach of the peace was sentenced to 60 days in jail after pleading guilty. He had been found guilty on the same charge in April and served 30 days in jail.

Patrick; spray roses and carnations, Mr. and Mrs. John Zurner; spray roses and lilies, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wholleben; large spray carnations, William Wholleben and Miss Margaret Wholleben; spray, snapdragons, Mrs. Fletcher; bouquet of violets, Mrs. Otto F. Ernst.

Yantic Artist's Work.

Miss Elizabeth Kempton, who has caused much favorable comment in art circles on account of the unique batik tapestries she has been making during the past year on cottons and silks, recently placed a large silk batik wall panel in the home of Mrs. Sutphin of Brooklyn, N. Y. It was especially designed for the space and to harmonize with the decorators' color scheme for the room.

LEFT BULK OF ESTATE TO LOCAL INSTITUTIONS

Admitted to probate in the Norwich probate court Monday by Judge Nelson J. Ayling, the will of James Lennen, late of 40 Boswell avenue, shows that the bulk of the estate will go to local institutions. The value of the estate is said to be about $600,000. Bequests to individuals total $60,000 and amounts named in the bequests to public institutions total $220,000. The remainder of the estate is to be divided between the Norwich Free Academy and the William W. Backus hospital, to be added to the trust funds created in the will.

The executors, George E. Parsons of this city and Jesse H. Wilcox of Stonington, presented the will for probate last Friday, and Monday morning at 10 o'clock was the time set for the hearing. The will was admitted to probate at the hearing. George E. Parsons, one of the executors, requested that Charles R. Butts, president of the Norwich Savings society, and Frank Hempstead, secretary and treasurer of the Chelsea Savings bank, be named as appraisers, and this was done. The executors qualified under a bond of $50,000.

The bequests in the will are as follows:

I, James Lennen of Norwich, county of New London and state of Connecticut, do make this my last will and testament:

First—I direct that my just debts and funeral expenses be paid by my executors, hereinafter named.

Second—I give, and bequeath to my wife, Helen F. Lennen, the entire contents of the house where we now reside, known as 40 Boswell avenue, in said Norwich, and the sum of Thirty Thousand Dollars, I make this provision for my wife that it shall be in lieu of her statutory share of my estate.

Third—I give and bequeath to Jesse Henry Wilcox of Stonington, in said state, the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars.

Fourth—I give and bequeath to Walter Franklin Grinnell of Tiverton, R. I., the sum of Five Thousand Dollars.

Fifth—I give and bequeath to Mercie Grinnell of said Tiverton, the sum of Five Thousand Dollars.

Sixth—I know that I have certain living relatives and in making this will I fully understand that they are my heirs-at-law and the natural objects of my bounty; I have made the bequests contained in paragraphs three, four and five of this will as an expression of my appreciation of the long friendship of those legatees for me and their many kindnesses to me; in considering the way in which I shall dispose of the remainder of my estate I have been guided by the desire to dispose of it in such manner as would cause it to render as great and beneficial a service as possible to the community in general and more particularly to the people of the city and town of Norwich, in which I have made my home for many years, therefore, after a long and careful consideration of the subject, I have decided to dispose of it in accordance with the provisions of the following paragraphs or bequests.

Seventh—I give to "The Central Baptist Church of Norwich" the sum of Twenty-five Thousand Dollars, in trust, the some to form a fund to be held and known as the "James Lennen fund" and the income therefrom to be used for the general purposes of said church.

Eighth—I give to "The Norwich Free Academy" the sum of Forty Thousand Dollars in trust, to be known as the "James Lennen fund" and the income to be used for the general purposes of said institution.

Ninth—I give to the William W. Backus hospital the sum of thirty thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the hospital.

Tenth—I give to the Union Baptist church, Mystic, the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the church.

Eleventh—I give to the United Workers of Norwich fifty thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of that department, of said corporation known and called The Sheltering Arms.

Twelfth—I give to the Eliza Huntington Memorial home the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the home.

Thirteenth—I give to the Johnson home the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the home.

Fourteenth—I give to the Otis library the sum of twenty thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the purchase and repair of books and for repairs and maintenance of the building occupied by the said library.

Fifteenth—If there be any remainder of my property I bequeath such remainder to the Norwich Free Academy and the William W. Backus hospital, in trust and equal shares, the share of each to be added to the James Lennen funds created in the eighth and ninth paragraphs.

EAGLES TURN TABLES ON JIBBOOM CLUB

Norwich Aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., met defeat at the hands of the Jibboom club's pinochle team in New London recently by the score of 54,430 to 49,615. The high scores for the evening were made by R. Krohn (Eagles team), 7,520, and E. Sprague (Jibboom team), 7,335.

Monday evening the Eagles turned the tables when they met the Jibboom club in the Eagles' rooms on Shetucket street. The total scores for the evening were Eagles 57,230; Jibboom club 50,600. The high scores: A. Hastedt (Eagles), 7,920; E. Sprague (Jibboom club), 7,760. The total scores to date: Jibboom club, 255,820; Eagles club, 268,590. The final game of the series will be played in New London.

STONINGTON

At the rectory of Christ Episcopal church on Elm street, Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, Miss Ida M. Thompson of Stonington became the bride of J. Ernest Young of 51 Summer street, Westerly.

At 7 a. m. the thermometer registered 9 above zero.

Plans for the formation of a chamber of commerce which will function for the benefit of the entire town of Stonington are under way. The projectors claim that in such a move an institution will result which will be of material assistance to the whole town. The advantages which Stonington has to offer are seldom advertised and as a result there is a great loss in those things which bring in business. There has been in Stonington a board of trade, but in late years it has done little to build up business.

At the meeting of Ruth chapter held recently, there was an initiation of a class of candidates. Mrs. Francis T. Broughton, first matron of the chapter, presented Mrs. Charlotte J. Tuite, the retiring matron, a past matron's jewel. Theodore Dewhurst presented Paul Rutzel, the retiring patron, a past patron's jewel. Miss Mary E. Shalling, presented Mrs. Lucy Rutzel a bouquet of pink roses in appreciation of her services as organist. Mrs. Charlotte P. Tuite presented Mrs. Annie E. Myers a cut-glass dish in acknowledgment of her splendid work as installing officer. Mrs. Mary Jane Platt, matron for the coming year, presented, in behalf of the chapter, Mrs. C. J. Tuite, a beautiful floor lamp. Afterwards a Christmas tree party was held.

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia T. Sheffield were held at her home in Water street Friday afternoon and were largely attended. The Rev. Henry M. Thompson, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot at Elm Grove cemetery. The bearers were Joseph F. Joseph, Thomas R. Mathison, Capt. Edward P. Clark and Harry F. Chesebro. The floral tributes were beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Gantz have left for Miami, Florida, where they will spend the winter.

The death of Darius D. Burtch, 71, occurred Friday, following a brief illness. He was born in Stonington, the son of George E. and Mary Esther Holmes Burtch and lived his entire life in Stonington. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at local undertaking parlors. Rev. Dwight C. Stone, pastor of the Second Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot at Stonington cemetery at the convenience of the Burtch family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Miller have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Jean Miller to George Jackson, of Westerly.

Capt. F. J. Raymond of the Latimer reef light station, is spending a leave with relatives in Bridgeport.

H. B. Barnes and family of New York are spending the holiday season at their summer home north of the borough.

Dr. and Mrs. C. Mallory Williams are spending the holiday season at their home at Wadwanuck Park.

Postmaster Frank D. Stanton has announced that the post office will close at 11 a. m., Christmas, for the day. One delivery only will be made by the carriers and no delivery will be made on the R. F. D. route.

Pupils of Calvary church Sunday school have sent two Christmas boxes full of gifts to St. Paul's school at Covington, Va.

Prayer meetings of the First Baptist and Second Congregational churches are to be held as usual on Wednesday evening.

VISCOUNT D'EZA TO DEMAND APOLOGY OR SATISFACTION

Paris, Dec. 22 (By the A. P.)—Viscount D'Eza, former Spanish minister of war, has arrived in Paris for the expressed purpose of obtaining an apology or satisfaction from Vincente Blanco Ibanez, the author, for what the statesman considers an insulting reference regarding him in the latter's manifesto against King Alfonso and the military directorate. The manifesto is entitled "Alfonso Unmasked."

The viscount's present plans, it is said, are to publish an article in Le Figaro calling upon Ibanez to make a retraction. In the event the author declines to do so, the viscount's friends say he is prepared to seek out Ibanez in his retreat at Mentone and publicly challenge him to a duel. The portion of the manifesto to which the former minister of war particularly objects, states:

"A letter is alleged to have been written by King Alfonso to General Silvestre, commanding the troops in Morocco, saying: 'Do as I tell you. Don't mind the minister of war. He is an imbecile.'"

The author then explains in pamphlet that Viscount D'Eza, who was minister of war at the time, did not see the king for months as he did not wish to be forced to salute him.

Ibanez's attacks on King Alfonso and other public personages is said to have stirred up much resentment in Spain. It is expected that the writer will find himself the recipient of many challenges to the field of honor. One of these has already been sent by Benigno Varela, editor of the Madrid royalist newspaper, La Monarquia, who announced his intention of coming to France to "pull Ibanez' ears."

As the Spanish directorate is understood to be anxious to prevent anyone creating incidents in France it is thought that Editor Varela probably will be refused passports, as was the case when General Aguilera and General Aizpuru, both former heads of the Spanish war ministry, attempted to visit France for the same reason. Both Aguilera and Aizpuru were severely taken to task in the Ibanez pamphlet.

TURKEYS AT EXORBITANT PRICE IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 22.—Live turkeys were being sold in some markets here today at 60 cents a pound wholesale, which would make the retail price 70 to 75 cents a pound according to word received in the health department.

Poultry dealers, it was charged were taking advantage of the efforts to run live chickens from the middle west to raise the price on turkeys.

Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, health commissioner, said the health department could not control the price of poultry; that it was out of his jurisdiction to make any charges against dealers who would profiteer as a result of the chicken embargo.

NEW IDEAS ON TEACHERS' EVERYDAY PROBLEMS

To present new ideas on some of the everyday but difficult problems of grade teachers is the purpose of the Teachers' Association of the State Normal Schools of New Jersey in their plan to issue a series of 10 leaflets in 1924-25. These leaflets, for the most part, are prepared by the faculty of the Montclair State Normal School. Each number covers one topic and gives complete outline of suggestions for carrying out the project.

NEW BRITAIN WATCHMAN INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

New Britain, Dec. 22.—John Tyne, night watchman of the New Britain Machine company, was struck and injured by an automobile driven by Arnold Hall late this afternoon. He sustained a compound fracture of the left leg. According to Mr. Hall, Mr. Tyne stepped from the curb just as the automobile was starting.

68 CASES OF SCARLET FEVER REPORTED IN NEW BRITAIN

New Britain, Dec. 22.—Dr. Richard W. Fallen, superintendent of health, announced today that there are 68 cases of scarlet fever in New Britain, but that most of the cases are mild ones. He said the prevalence of the disease is due to the fact that parents fail to report symptoms of the disease to the board of health.

HEAVIEST CHRISTMAS MAIL IN HISTORY OF LOCAL POST OFFICE

If everyone in the United States does not receive a Christmas present this year, members of the post office department will feel certain that their work has been in vain. All day and for some of the employes in the local office, nearly all night, Monday, was spent in sorting thousands of letters, Christmas cards and bundles of all sizes and shapes, and it was not until after 10.30 o'clock that the Norwich postoffice began to assume an appearance anywhere near normal. The incoming and outgoing mails during the day passed the peak of any previous year, men in the employ of the postoffice for many years saying that the rush of business Monday passed that of the usual swamp of the day before Christmas.

Probably 1500 sacks of mail were received and sent out from the office during the day, the heaviest part of the outgoing mail being at night. People at the New Haven depot Monday night saw three truck loads of sacks, 150 mail bags filled to the top. An hour before this 120 sacks of mail had been taken to the Central Vermont station and return trips to the post office showed almost as heavy a load for the mail trucks.

Several of the boxes in the business section were filled to capacity and packages were piled onto them by dozens to await collection and it was necessary to make extra trips to keep up with the mail. Probably the number of people at the post office Monday equalled the number usually accommodated in a week of ordinary times for the package windows and carriers' window had a steady business from the time the windows were opened until they were closed nearly an hour later than usual.

The floor within the post office was literally covered with bundles, all to be sorted and placed in sacks before quitting time for the night force and the thousands of letters and cards were stocked on tables, in racks and filled several baskets to overflowing.

Downstairs the bundles for local delivery covered the basement floor even after a day of steady outgoing mail. Three truckloads of city bundles, a truck load for the West Side, one to Lamb's hill section, two to Greeneville and another to Preston served only to clear space for as many more parcels for delivery today, Tuesday.

It was evident that people were making more of this Christmas than of any Christmas for several years back. A glance at the work ahead of the men at the postoffice indicates it will be almost impossible to get out the Christmas mail on time.

Postmaster Casper K. Bailey said during the evening that the day was the heaviest in the history of the local office but that every effort possible would be made to have parcels delivered by Christmas day.

DRIVERS WARNED FOR NOT BLANKETING HORSES

The snow which fell Monday was just heavy enough to cause trouble to both horses and automobiles. Humane Agent F. H. Wyatt was on duty on the West Side with the results that nine drivers were warned about having their horses woorly shod and 11 spoken to for not blanketing their horses in the cold or stormy weather.

Washington square was one of the very bad spots, several automobiles turning completely around while trying to turn into Main street from Washington street and a number of people slipped and fell while trying to cross on foot. One driver with a large load of hay had to be stopped from trying to go down the Water street hill, and advised to reach Greeneville by going up Washington and over Broad street.

As soon as the storm had ceased the condition of the streets was reported to the city street department by Agent Wyant and they immediately sent out their large trucks well manned to sand the more important hills.

The Connecticut Humane society wishes to take this opportunity to notify drivers that careless neglect of horses in bad weather will not be tolerated in this state.

WARNING AGAINST FIRES FROM OVERHEATED STOVES

The sudden cold snap has prompted a warning by Chief Howard L. Stanton of the local fire department against the breaking out of fires from overheated stovepipes and chimneys. This is the season of the year when furnaces and stove fires are pushed to the limit, and care should be taken not to allow drafts to remain open unless they are watched. The thawing out of frozen water pipes is also a common cause of fires at this time of the year. Some people are in the habit of using gasilone torches for this purpose. Extreme care should be exercised when using gasoline touches.

WILBUR DRAWS FOUR MONTHS IN JAIL

In the city court Monday morning James Wilbur, colored, of West Main street was given a sentence of four months in jail, and costs, when he pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor laws. Wilbur was in court on a similar charge a short time ago and paid a fine of $200 and costs and served 10 days in jail.

Tryon Whitford, charged with breach of the peace was sentenced to 60 days in jail after pleading guilty. He had been found guilty on the same charge in April and served 30 days in jail.

Ernst.

Yantic Artist's Work.

Miss Elizabeth Kempton, who has caused much favorable comment in art circles on account of the unique batik tapestries she has been making during the past year on cottons and silks, recently placed a large silk batik wall panel in the home of Mrs. Sutphin of Brooklyn, N. Y. It was especially designed for the space and to harmonize with the decorators' color scheme for the room.

Miss Kempton is spending the holidays in Yantic with her parents Mr. and Mrs. William Kempton.

LEFT BULK OF ESTATE TO LOCAL INSTITUTIONS

Admitted to probate in the Norwich probate court Monday by Judge Nelson J. Ayling, the will of James Lennen, late of 40 Boswell avenue, shows that the bulk of the estate will go to local institutions. The value of the estate is said to be about $600,000. Bequests to individuals total $60,000 and amounts named in the bequests to public institutions total $220,000. The remainder of the estate is to be divided between the Norwich Free Academy and the William W. Backus hospital, to be added to the trust funds created in the will.

The executors, George E. Parsons of this city and Jesse H. Wilcox of Stonington, presented the will for probate last Friday, and Monday morning at 10 o'clock was the time set for the hearing. The will was admitted to probate at the hearing. George E. Parsons, one of the executors, requested that Charles R. Butts, president of the Norwich Savings society, and Frank Hempstead, secretary and treasurer of the Chelsea Savings bank, be named as appraisers, and this was done. The executors qualified under a bond of $50,000.

The bequests in the will are as follows:

I, James Lennen of Norwich, county of New London and state of Connecticut, do make this my last will and testament:

First—I direct that my just debts and funeral expenses be paid by my executors, hereinafter named.

Second—I give, and bequeath to my wife, Helen F. Lennen, the entire contents of the house where we now reside, known as 40 Boswell avenue, in said Norwich, and the sum of Thirty Thousand Dollars, I make this provision for my wife that it shall be in lieu of her statutory share of my estate.

Third—I give and bequeath to Jesse Henry Wilcox of Stonington, in said state, the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars.

Fourth—I give and bequeath to Walter Franklin Grinnell of Tiverton, R. I., the sum of Five Thousand Dollars.

Fifth—I give and bequeath to Mercie Grinnell of said Tiverton, the sum of Five Thousand Dollars.

Sixth—I know that I have certain living relatives and in making this will I fully understand that they are my heirs-at-law and the natural objects of my bounty; I have made the bequests contained in paragraphs three, four and five of this will as an expression of my appreciation of the long friendship of those legatees for me and their many kindnesses to me; in considering the way in which I shall dispose of the remainder of my estate I have been guided by the desire to dispose of it in such manner as would cause it to render as great and beneficial a service as possible to the community in general and more particularly to the people of the city and town of Norwich, in which I have made my home for many years, therefore, after a long and careful consideration of the subject, I have decided to dispose of it in accordance with the provisions of the following paragraphs or bequests.

Seventh—I give to "The Central Baptist Church of Norwich" the sum of Twenty-five Thousand Dollars, in trust, the same to form a fund to be held and known as the "James Lennen fund" and the income therefrom to be used for the general purposes of said church.

Eighth—I give to "The Norwich Free Academy" the sum of Forty Thousand Dollars in trust, to be known as the "James Lennen fund" and the income to be used for the general purposes of said institution.

Ninth—I give to the William W. Backus hospital the sum of thirty thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the hospital.

Tenth—I give to the Union Baptist church, Mystic, the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the church.

Eleventh—I give to the United Workers of Norwich fifty thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of that department, of said corporation known and called The Sheltering Arms.

Twelfth—I give to the Eliza Huntington Memorial home the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the home.

Thirteenth—I give to the Johnson home the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the general purposes of the home.

Fourteenth—I give to the Otis library the sum of twenty thousand dollars, to be known as the James Lennen fund, the income to be used for the purchase and repair of books and for repairs and maintenance of the building occupied by the said library.

Fifteenth—If there be any remainder of my property I bequeath such remainder to the Norwich Free Academy and the William W. Backus hospital, in trust and equal shares, the share of each to be added to the James Lennen funds created in the eighth and ninth paragraphs.

VISCOUNT D'EZA TO DEMAND APOLOGY OR SATISFACTION

Paris, Dec. 22 (By the A. P.)—Viscount D'Eza, former Spanish minister of war, has arrived in Paris for the expressed purpose of obtaining an apology or satisfaction from Vincente Blanco Ibanez, the author, for what the statesman considers an insulting reference regarding him in the writer's manifesto against King Alfonso and the military directorate. The manifesto is entitled "Alfonso Unmasked."

The viscount's present plans, it is said, are to publish an article in Le Figaro calling upon Ibanez to make a retraction. In the event the author declines to do so, the viscount's friends say he is prepared to seek out Ibanez in his retreat at Mentone and publicly challenge him to a duel. The portion of the manifesto to which the former minister of war particularly objects, states:

"A letter is alleged to have been written by King Alfonso to General Silvestre, commanding the troops in Morocco, saying: 'Do as I tell you. Don't mind the minister of war. He is an imbecile.'"

The author then explains in pamphlet that Viscount D'Eza, who was minister of war at the time, did not see the king for months as he did not wish to be forced to salute him.

Ibanez's attacks on King Alfonso and other public personages is said to have stirred up much resentment in Spain. It is expected that the writer will find himself the recipient of many challenges to the field of honor. One of these has already been sent by Benigno Varela editor of the Madrid royalist newspapers, La Monarquia, who announced his intention of coming to France to "pull Ibanez's ears."

As the Spanish directorate is understood to be anxious to prevent anyone creating incidents in France it is thought that Editor Varela probably will be refused passports, as was the case when General Aguilera and General Aizpuru, both former heads of the Spanish war ministry, attempted to visit France for the same reason. Both Aguilera and Aizpuru were severely taken to task in the Ibanez pamphlet.

STONINGTON

At the rectory of Christ Episcopal church on Elm street, Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, Miss Ida M. Thompson of Stonington became the bride of J. Ernest Young of 51 Summer street, Westerly.

At 7 a. m. the thermometer registered 9 above zero.

Plans for the formation of a chamber of commerce which will function for the benefit of the entire town of Stonington are under way. The projectors claim that in such a move an institution will result which will be of material assistance to the whole town. The advantages which Stonington has to offer are seldom advertised and as a result there is a great loss in those things which bring in business. There has been in Stonington a board of trade, but in late years it has done little to build up business.

At the meeting of Ruth chapter held recently, there was an initiation of a class of candidates. Mrs. Francis T. Broughton, first matron of the chapter, presented Mrs. Charlotte J. Tuite, the retiring matron, a past matron's jewel. Theodore Dewhurst presented Paul Rutzel, the retiring patron, a past patron's jewel. Miss Mary E. Shalling, presented Mrs. Lucy Rutzel a bouquet of pink roses in appreciation of her services as organist. Mrs. Charlotte P. Tuite presented Mrs. Annie E. Myers a cut-glass dish in acknowledgment of her splendid work as installing officer. Mrs. Mary Jane Platt, matron for the coming year, presented, in behalf of the chapter, Mrs. C. J. Tuite, a beautiful floor lamp. Afterwards a Christmas tree party was held.

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia T. Sheffield were held at her home in Water street Friday afternoon and were largely attended. The Rev. Henry M. Thompson, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot at Elm Grove cemetery. The bearers were Joseph F. Joseph, Thomas R. Mathison, Capt. Edward P. Clark and Harry F. Chesebro. The floral tributes were beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Gantz have left for Miami, Florida, where they will spend the winter.

The death of Darius D. Burtch, 71, occurred Friday, following a brief illness. He was born in Stonington, the son of George E. and Mary Esther Holmes Burtch and lived his entire life in Stonington. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at local undertaking parlors. Rev. Dwight C. Stone, pastor of the Second Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot at Stonington cemetery at the convenience of the Burtch family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Miller have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Jean Miller to George Jackson, of Westerly.

Capt. F. J. Raymond of the Latimer reef light station, is spending a leave with relatives in Bridgeport.

H. B. Barnes and family of New York are spending the holiday season at their summer home north of the borough.

Dr. and Mrs. C. Mallory Williams are spending the holiday season at their home at Wadawanuck Park.

Postmaster Frank D. Stanton has announced that the post office will close at 11 a. m., Christmas, for the day. One delivery only will be made by the carriers and no delivery will be made on the R. F. D. route.

Pupils of Calvary church Sunday school have sent two Christmas boxes full of gifts to St. Paul's school at Covington, Va.

Prayer meetings of the First Baptist and Second Congregational churches are to be held as usual on Wednesday evening.

NEW IDEAS ON TEACHERS' EVERYDAY PROBLEMS

To present new ideas on some of the everyday but difficult problems of grade teachers is the purpose of the Teachers' Association of the State Normal Schools of New Jersey in their plan to issue a series of 10 leaflets in 1924-25. These leaflets, for the most part, are prepared by the faculty of the Montclair State Normal School. Each number covers one topic and offers complete outline of suggestions, for carrying out the project.

TURKEYS AT EXORBITANT PRICE IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 22.—Live turkeys were being sold in some markets here today at 60 cents a pound wholesale, which would make the retail price 70 to 75 cents a pound, according to word received at the health department.

Poultry dealers, it was charged, were taking advantage of the recent go on live chickens from the middle west to raise the price on turkeys.

Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, health commissioner, said the health department could not control the price of poultry; that it was out of his jurisdiction to make any charges against dealers who would profiteer as a result of the chicken embargo.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

NEGRO BOXERS COMING TO THE FRONT AFTER A LAPSE OF NEARLY NINE YEARS

New York, Dec. 22.—(By the A. P.)—After a nine year lapse, the negro comes again to take a leading place in American pugilism.

In the early part of the century white men engaged in terrific battles with three Joes, a Jack and a Sam, the Joes were Gans, Wolcott and Jeanette the Jack was Johnson, and the Sam was one of the sturdiest of the lot, Langford.

With Jess Willard's victory over Johnson, then heavyweight champion, after 26 rounds in a Havana ring on April 15, 1915, the white race was avenged and in invisible but nevertheless unmistakable sign was tacked on the heavyweight throne. "They shall not pass," it read.

That day nine years ago saw the end of the "white hopes." They no longer were necessary, for the giant Kansan remained in office for a four year term, during which Johnson mentioned return battles but failed to obtain one, and then in 1919 it was Jack Dempsey, coming out of the west, who scaled the man mountain in three rounds at Toledo. Johnson uttered more challenges but he ignored, and Dempsey, the all-conquering, clung to the title, but he has failed to meet a negro.

Some of the most interesting pages of sporting history have been written around the fistic engagements of negro and white. Johnson and Jeffries fought at Reno on July 4, 1910, Johnson and Burns in Sydney, Australia, December 26, 1908, and Johnson and Willard in Havana. Joe Gans met Battling Nelson, at Goldfield September 3, 1906, and Gans fought Britt on October 31, 1904.

From present indications the white champions soon must meet another galaxy of negroes in the ring. Harry Wills, who pursued Dempsey for several years, has conquered the only man who knocked the champion from the ring, Luis Angel Firpo, and, in the opinion of those at the ringside the burly New York man accomplished his victory with ease, powerful, heady and by all means a boxer, Wills is heralded as the logical contender although he may have to meet Tom Gibbons of St. Paul, first. Gibbons stood off Dempsey for fifteen rounds at Shelby.

And in the middleweight division there has come a figure that threatens to make the battles end of that class similar to that which maintained in the days of Stanley Ketchel, considered the last great champion of the division. Tiger Flowers, an Atlanta negro, overcame the former champion, Johnny Wilson, in three rounds in Madison Square Garden this winter, and he has declared his intention of drawing Harry Greb into a match for the title.

Kid Norfolk of Baltimore, has been eliminated from the list of contenders only recently.

Mixed bouts are becoming popular in the east, for two more have been arranged for the next few days, Paul Berlenbach, erstwhile knockout kind, meeting Larry Estrides at the garden Friday night, and Tiger Flowers facing Phil Lohman of Toledo, on New Year's afternoon.

EVERY STUDENT TO PLAY FOOTBALL IS RECOMMENDED

Medford, Mass., Dec. 22.—A program of collegiate football in which every man in college physically able would play the game in intramural competition until about Nov. 10, after which the best 20 players would be selected and coached as the college team to meet other teams similarly chosen in intercollegiate plays, was advanced today by President John A. Cousens of Tufts College as a desirable change over present conditions. Similar arrangements in other varsity sports were recommended. The present "undue influence of graduates in what should be purely undergraduate activities" would be minimized, and the coach would be a bone fide professor of physical education. Independent of the question of adoption of this suggested change in the general scheme, President Cousens predicted that the professional coach will disappear from college athletics.

The college head said that there was no doubt that colleges gained by benefits from football and other sports in addition to the physical training involved to members of the squads. By no other means could so keen a community interest be aroused throughout a college in the early months of the college year as by football, he thought. The suggested changes, he said, were advanced with the thought of extending these benefits.

POOL CHAMPION IS GRANTED A DIVORCE

Philadelphia, Dec. 22. — Edward Ralph Greenleaf, professional pocket billiard champion today was granted a divorce from his wife Beatrice Greenleaf, on the ground of cruel and barbarous treatment.

Testimony given before the master who recommended the divorce to the common pleas court, was to the effect that the wife had committed numerous assaults on her husband, sometimes striking him with bor flats and at other times using a billiard cue, with the result that his arms were bruised so as to interfere with his work.

The master reported that Greenleaf had given his wife no cause for such treatment, according to her own admissions, and he always gave her all his earnings, amounting to about $15,000, so that when he needed money he had to ask her for it.

The pair were married in 1920 in Watervliet, N. Y., where Mrs. Greenleaf had lived with her mother.

SIKI FINED 50 BUCKS FOR CREATING TROUBLE

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 22.—Battling Siki, Senegalese pugilist, was fined $50 in Police court this afternoon as a sequel to his appearance last night at a restaurant which caters to an exclusive white trade and his alleged insistence for service. Charges against Siki's wife and her brother, Beverly Werner, a Memphis negro were dismissed when it was shown that they had no part in the incident.

Siki indicated that his appearance at the restaurant was due to lack of knowledge of Memphis locations and restaurants.

PENN BASEBALL SLATE CALLS FOR 28 GAMES

Philadelphia, Dec. 22.—The University of Pennsylvania baseball schedule for next spring, made public today, contains 28 games and provides for trips to the south and to New England after opening the season here on April 4 with Drexel institute. The team will leave for the south. PENN PLAYER UNABLE TO GO TO COAST

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 22.—Theodore H. Fairchild, a member of the University of Pennsylvania football team, who was striken with appendicitis yesterday, probably will be unable to accompany the team to the Pacific coast to play the University of California, on New Year's Day, his physician declared tonight. While Fairchild's condition was not regarded as serious, the physician declared, he would not be able to decide until tomorrow whether Fairchild could make the trip with safety.

HUB WELL REPRESENTED AT FINNISH-AM. GAMES

New York, Dec. 22.—Boston will send the largest visiting delegation to the Finnish-American Athletic club's track and field meet in Madison Square Garden January 6. The athletes will be handled be Jack Ryder, coach of Boston College and the Boston Athletic association.

Lloyd Hahn, who will face the Finnish marvel, Paavo Nurmi, heads the list, which includes such capable performers from the college as Clarence Flahive, intercollegiate indoor high jump champion; Cavanaugh and McKillop, of the world's record two-mile relay team; J. J. S. Bivan, a sprinter, and Jack Dillon and "Babe" Daley relay men.

The B. A. A. will be represented by Hahn, Jake Driscoll, former national intercollegiate quarter-mile champion, and Ray Robertson, a member of the American Olympic team. Leo Larrivee of Holy Cross will carry Massachusetts colors in the "Nurmi mile."

Wesleyan Tennis Schedule.

Middletown, Dec. 22.—The Wesleyan tennis schedule announced today provides for five matches away from home and eight home games. Six new teams appear on this year's schedule, Dartmouth, Trinity, Tufts, Middlebury, New York University and West Point. The schedule follows:

April 29, Yale at New Haven; 30, Dartmouth at Middletown; May 1, Haverford at Middletown; 2, Trinity at Hartford; 8, Bowdoin at Middletown; 9, Tufts at Middletown; 11, Amherst at Middletown; 13, Springfield at Middletown; 15, Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Middletown; 21, Middlebury at Middletown; 22 New York University at New York; 23, West Point at West Point; 30, Williams at Williamstown.

Volleyball League Banquet.

The final games of the Y. M. C. A. business men's volleyball league were played at the Y yesterday afternoon, when A. Bilven's Beavs proved too fast for the rest of the teams, and succeeded in tying for first place with A. Finlayson's Cubs, who have set a fast pace in the league. The tie will be played off next Monday afternoon, which is the next meeting of the B. M. class. The standing:

ROPER WILL REMAIN AT PRINCETON ANOTHER YEAR

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 22.—W. W. (Bill) Roper, head coach of the Princeton football team, will remain at his post for another year, according to announcement today by Dr. C. W. Kennedy, chairman of the board of athletic control.

A year ago Roper announced that at the end of the 1924 season the pressure of professional interests would compel him to withdraw from coaching, but recently he was asked by the board of control to reconsider. Today he announced his willingness to remain another year and his appointment was formally voted.

Roper's record as head coach at Princeton since the war is best shown in the following results of games among the "Big Three" Universities, Princeton Harvard and Yale.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE AT NORWICH TOWN

The Community Christmas tree, set up last week on the Norwich Town green, preparatory to the celebration which is to take place Thursday evening (Christmas night), is all equipped with its electrical appliances, the wiring and arranging of the different colored bulbs being done by Walter Durr, under the direction of Clyde M. Beebe, chairman of the committee on lighting. The lights are to be turned on for the first time Christmas eve, and the tree will be lighted every evening after, for a week or more.

This celebration, under the auspices of the Norwich Rural association, is to begin at 7.30. There will be cornetists and a nucleus chorus to lead the community singing of familiar Christmas carols. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott is in charge of the music and singing.

In addition to the brilliantly lighted tree, many of the homes in Norwich Town will follow out the old English custom of illuminating with candles in the windows on Christmas eve.

WALKER TO START TRAINING FOR M'TIGUE

Newark, N. J., Dec. 22.—Mickey Walker, World's welterweight champion, will start training tomorrow for his 12-round match with Mike McTigue, World's light heavyweight champion, in the Newark Armory January 1. He will train at Rumson, N. J.

Promoters of the match announced that Jack Rappaport of New York and Bobby Barrett, Philadelphia lightweight, will meet in a 10-round semi-final. Harry Martone of Jersey and Charlie Arthure of Yonkers have also been matched for a ten rounder.

TO WEAR SUIT TO MATCH TENNIS COURTS

London, Dec. 23.—The growing use of hard tennis courts in this country is responsible for a decided change in the color of flannels worn by men players. Instead of white or cream some are adopting a pinkish color to harmonize with the reddish courts. Others have ordered greenish tint of flannel for use when playing on green hard courts.

Several north-country manufacturing firms are making such tinted flannels in fairly large quantities.

Army-Navy Seconds vs. Plainfield Buddies

The Army and Navy Seconds of Taftville will play the fast Plainfield Buddies in the preliminary to the Army and Navy and Kingstown game. The A.-N. seconds will lineup as follows: Gauthier and St. Germaine, forwards; Eddie Murphy, center; Enos Eccleston and Bus Murphy, guards; Bureile, sub. Any team wishing games write Red Burelle, Taftville, Ct. Box 131.

Putting on Finishing Touches

Los Angeles, Dec. 22.—Entering into the last two days of practice for their Christmas day contest with the University of Missouri, the University of Southern California football players today planned to put the finishing touches on their bag of tricks.

There will be another light workout tomorrow, but it will not amount to much more than a limbering up party.

The team will leave the city Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning and not be back until just before the game.

HOLIDAY CHEER FOR FORMER SERVICE MEN

On Saturday afternoon the relief committee, of the R. E. Hourigan Post, 584, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Chairman Moumblow, Comrades Kane, Lesseman, King and Brayman, visited the state hospital and the tuberculosis sanatorium. They distributed Christmas cheer consisting of fruit, candy, smokes, magazines and necessities to the ex-service men, who are located at these institutions.

SPORTING NOTES

The Philadelphia Skating Club, the first in the United States, was founded just 75 years ago.

The first billiard table made in New York state was constructed by B. I. Staats at Buffalo in 1825.

In four years the University of Chicago football team has lost only two games out of 18 played.

The first skating tournament for the world's championship was held in St. Petersburg in 1896 and was won by Gilbert Fuchs of Munich.

Present indications are that Dave Bancroft of the Boston Braves will have the distinction of being the only playing manager in the National league next season.

Eddie Collins, the new manager of the Chicago White Sox, started his professional baseball career in 1906, after having distinguished himself on the Columbia University nine.

Many amateur golfers have taken up the Scotch game of curling as a winter pastime and it is a common thing now for golf clubs in the northern states to have curling ponds.

Soccer, now listed among the most universally played games in the world, had its first real introduction in the United States just forty years ago, when the American Football Association was organized at Newark, N. J.

The national bicycle roller championships, according to present plans, will be held in conjunction with the eleventh national motorcycle, bicycle and accessory show, which is to be conducted in New York City during the second week of February.

George Paris, holder of the American roller skating championship, will participate in the meet for the world's title at Madison Square Garden on February 27. Almost every nation will be represented in the race. The champions of the various countries will compete and the winner will be recognized as the world's champion. The race will be skated over a two-mile course.

A close friend has revealed that Man o' War, favorite of the late August Belmont, was sold because the Major refused to let his interest in horses take time from his duties to the government in time of war. The great colt never raced in the colors of his breeder, but never a word of regret came from the noted sportsman, although he followed the career of his beloved horse to the end.

The Los Angeles Tennis club has built one of its new championship courts of concrete, consisting of two slabs, with the dividing line immediately under the net. The court is 120 feet long and 60 feet wide, with runways at sides and ends.

Brooklyn, a team which kept the Giants wading through hot water to the end of the National league season this year, expects "Rube" Ehrhardt, a pitcher from Florida, to fill the regular position made vacant by the sale of "Dutch" Ruether to the Washington Senators. Ehrhardt exhibited an experienced delivery in his few starts in 1924, but his speed is negligent and he depends upon a slow curve.

Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, of Brooklyn, world bantamweight champion by his victory over Abe Goldstein Friday night, is ready to meet all comers, according to his manager, and will give the former title-holder an early opportunity to redeem the crown. Martin earned about $5,000 for his victory while Goldstein received nearly $12,000.

Youth has called upon age to retain a championship. Stanley Harris of Washington, youngest of major league baseball managers, has fortified his pitching corps with two veteran lefthanders and now has four, the quartet consisting of Vean Gregg, "Dutch" Ruether, Tom Zachary and George Mogridge. With Walter Johnson in the list for next season, the youngsters will find pitching opportunities few.

Bobby Cruickshank, New Jersey golf professional now teaming with Johnny Farrell in Florida, expects to return to the "old sod" for the first time next year and participate in the European tournaments. Cruickshank has been in America for several years.

CHRISTMAS REACTION IN THE STOCK MARKET

New York, Dec. 22, (By the A. P.)—The traditional Christmas reaction, or the belated selling of stocks to provide funds for the purchase of holiday gifts, occurred in today's market, being accelerated by extensive short selling by professional traders, taking advantage of the higher call money rates. Extreme losses ran from one to 11 points but these were generally cancelled or materially reduced during a last hour rally.

The main upward movement of prices today entered upon its eighth consecutive week. Despite the large number of net declines scattered through the industrial list, the average of twenty leading industrial stocks today established the highest level since 1919. This was due largely to a spectacular advance of nine points in General Electric, which touched a record top of 296 1-2 in anticipation of an early splitup of the stock.

New 1924 high prices were established in the early trading by nearly a score stocks, including the Pan-American issues, New York Air Brake, American Locomotive, Mav Department Stores, National Department Stores, National Department Stores, Park & Tilford, The American Power issues and Atlantic Coast line. Manhattan Shirt and Punta Alegre Sugar broke to the lowest price of the year.

An orchestra of 25 pieces, a parent-teacher association, a girl reserve and "Hi-Y" are among the extra curricular activities in a 70-pupil high school at Haddam, Kans.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

With the close of 1924 a little over a week away there is every indication that a new building record will be set in Norwich. This holds true of the town as well as the city. Contractors report that they have been kept busy practically all the year and there have been times during the latter part of the year that skilled labor such as masons and plasterers have been so much in demand that it has been difficult to secure them at times. At the state hospital where two new ward buildings have been erected by the H. Wales Lines Co. of Meriden there has been an urgent demand for plasterers and the wages paid to this skilled labor has been approximately $11 per day.

In the town there has been a notable amount of building, largely residences that have been erected just outside the city limits. In the East Great Plain section there has been a large increase in the building line and several frame houses have been built and one large brick house. In the Norwich Town section of the town there has also been an increase in building, especially on the old Canterbury turnpike where several new houses, one costing close to $25,000, have been erected.

In the city proper there has been a noticeable increase in the number of new dwelling houses erected. On Greene avenue four new houses are in the process of erection and several others in this general locality have also been built. A number of new houses have been erected in Thamesville, several on Boswell avenue and some in Preston and on the West Side.

There have been several large projects in the business center. These include the new building on Franklin square for Peter Sellas the Pasnik Garage on Shetucket street, the new home of the Merchants bank on Main street, the remodeling of the Mohican store, the new front to the Brooklyn Outfitters building, several new brick garages on North Main street and much smaller work on local business.

During the past week there were several applications for building permits filed with Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for smaller buildings.

New London

Ground has been broken at 399 Bank street by Thomas F. Moran, 192 Montauk avenue, for a frame dwelling. The proposed house will be 24x45 feet, arranged for two five room flats. It will have steam heat and other conveniences. The cost will be about $6000.

Announcement has been made of extensive changes proposed to be made to the building at 38-44 North Bank street, owned by Morris Lubchansky, which, it is understood, will be sold to H. Marcus, one of the tenants. After taking over the property, Mr. Marcus will remodel the second and third floors, making them suitable for lodging rooms. There will be about fifty such rooms. The building is of bright construction.

The city council has authorized the board of school visitors to secure plans and estimates for the proposed school building at the corner of Williams and Mercer streets, at a cost not to exceed $150,000. P. LeRoy Harwood, of the Mariners Savings Bank, is chairman of the board of school visitors.

The excavating has been started for a frame dwelling on Ledyard street. From the owner's plans, the house will be 26x42 feet, arranged for two five-room flats. Fireplaces, sunporches, steam heat and other conveniences will be provided.

Building Permits

Joseph Jingo, frame garage, Bayonet street, $200.

Victor Gaska, frame garage, Eastern avenue, $200.

C. H. Kenyon, stone and cement garage, Ledyard street $500.

Clara Lathrop, frame garage, 550 Ocean avenue, $400.

H. L. Crows, business building, corner Golden and Greene streets, $35,000.

George H. McLachlin, frame garage, 129 Ocean avenue $400.

Number of permits issued for the week, 7; estimated cost of buildings, $36,900.

Groton

The New London Ship and Engine Co., Groton, in connection with their contract to build two submarines for the Peruvian government, has the contract for the construction of several buildings which will constitute a submarine base in Peru. The project includes a railroad siding, an administration building, officers' quarters, crews quarters, utility buildings, power house, etc. The construction will be largely of frame or steel, with stucco exteriors and Spanish tile roofs. Plans for the proposed buildings are now being prepared.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

There were 13 sales of real estate in Norwich during the past week as compared to 8 sales for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $123,600 and $44,330.

In New London during the past week the real estate sales numbered 8 as compared to 4 for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $13,675 and $22,275.

Building Construction

One of the most interesting features of the November survey of building activities by S. W. Straus & Co., was the comparison between activities in the larger cities and the country as a hole. During 1922 1923 and early in 1924, about half of the building in the country was in the larger centers of population. For several months past the bit cities have not been holding this ratio of activities, but during November they resumed their old speed. The total of the 25 leading cities on a basis of permits issued was $152,970,467, of 60 per cent, of the total of the 354 cities and towns reported in the survey. Among these 25 cities, 17 showed substantial gains over last November. Reports of permits issued and plans filed throughout the country, indicated that operations will be sustained about on a par with last year. Prospective building activities in New York, however, showed a pronounced falling off last month.

Building Operations

Building permits for the week in the larger [illegible] 224 permits issued for new buildings to cost $2,148,086, and in the week 1922, 168 permits were issued and the cost of the proposed new work amounted to $456,436.

SIX DAYLIGHT ROBBERIES IN CHICAGO YESTERDAY

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Chicago hold-up men seemed determined today to make a merry Christmas for themselves with the theft of more than $133,000 worth of furs, jewels shoes and clothes in a series of six daylight robberies committed after what police called a quiet night.

Furs valued at $ 00,000 were taken from the shop of Nathan Tolteibaum by robbers who tunneled their way into the store through a maze of interlacing alarm wires.

In the other robberies $19,437 worth of jewels was taken from two stores, $725 worth of shoes from two shoe stores and $5,000 worth of clothes from a cloak shop.

Any city or town in Georgia may dedicate and set aside apart for use as playgrounds, recreation centers, or other recreation purposes any lands or building owned by the municipality not in use for some other necessary purpose, according to the laws of Georgia, 1924.

$2.50 Per Day

WESTERLY

The twenty-third fire alarm for 1924 was responded to Monday afternoon by Pawcatuck fire department when the P. S. Barber was called out shortly before 2 o'clock by whistle alarm from Box 54, corner of Morgan and West Broad street. The hose company found the roof of the cottage of Samuel H. Bliven, 9 Morgan street, on fire. A strong wind was causing a rapid spread of the blaze in spite of the snow which was falling. The chemicals were used to advantage and the firemen soon had the flames under control. As the house is unoccupied, Mr. Bliven having left Pawcatuck to visit his son in Tennessee, the cause of the fire is unknown, as there was no fire in the stove or furnace in the house. A hole of considerable size was burned or broken through the roof before the fire was extinguished, doing damage of some $25.

A Christmas party was held Monday evening at the rooms of the Westerly Red Cross and Visiting Nurse association, on High street, when the nurses were the hostesses to a party of friends numbering fifteen to twenty. Besides a Christmas entertainment a bountiful repast was served those in attendance. Among those present were Misses Carr, Brightman, Dower Kosischke, Crowley, Pendleton, Moore, Malnatti, Emily and Emma German, Seidel and Mrs. B. J. Christy, Mrs. Henry Barnes, Mrs. Celena Galli, Mrs. Herbert Greenman.

John Bogan, a Westerly paving cutter was injured on Elm street, Saturday evening about 7 o'clock as he was crossing the street near the Episcopal church when he was struck by the auto truck of the Lamb fish market. Besides shock and bruises Mr. Bogan received a cut on his head which required five stitches to close, when he was treated by Dr. Charles Crandall after the accident.

H. J. Thompson, a member of the licensed pilots' association of New Orleans, La., his wife and daughter are expected in Westerly today (Tuesday) to be the guest of Mr. Thompson's father, Alexander C. Thompson, for the Christmas holidays.

HOXIE HOUSE PROPRIETOR AND 12 FREQUENTERS FINED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., Dec. 22. — Before Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck in a special session of Stonington town court, Monday morning, in the town court room, Stonington borough, were presented on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna, of Pawcatuck, the proprietor and twelve frequenters of an alleged gambling place, the Hoxie house, in Mystic. Five others who were gathered in at the time failed to make their appearance in court. The raid was made by Sergeant Gorgas and State Policemen Caron, Albright, Kennerson and Watson, all of Groton barracks. The proprietor, James Service, was found guilty of keeping a place resorted to for gaming, and after his plea of guilty, was fined by Judge Wilcox $50 and costs of $18, amounting to $68, which he paid and was discharged, having been held under bonds of $200 before the session of the court. The other fifteen men were fined $5 and costs of $12.95 each, amounting to $17.95 which they paid after pleading and being found guilty, having been held in bonds of $25 each. The $25 bonds of the five men not reporting were declared forfeited and instruction was given the police officers to apprehend the missing men and bring them into court at the earliest opportunity.

The men found guilty as frequenters of a gaming place were Charles Williams, 25, of Groton; Dominick DePalo, 27, of Groton; Samuel Peri, of Mystic, Fred Wright of Old Mystic, Leet Campo of Mystic, Samuel Robinson of Old Mystic, Charles Sebastian of Old Mystic, Ripley Parks, Joseph Jones, James Smith, George Gray and Harry Wiersch all of Mystic.

Those who did not appear in court were Joseph Miller of Providence, John Delasmere, Edward Boyd, of Groton, Arthur Sebastian and Fred Sebastian.

Christopher Ledwith of Stonington acted as court officer.

The case of Vincent Squidarito, a Stonington young man, 18, was called, the charge being the operation Oct-ober 18th of an automobile which was in an accident when the operator was unlicensed and no licensed operator was in the car. The young man's father was appointed his guardian and a plea of guilty being entered he was fined $10 and costs, which were paid.

LITTLE GIRL KILLED BY NEW HAVEN TROLLEY CAR

New Haven, Dec. 22.—Just after seeing Santa Claus in one of the stores while on a shopping trip with her mother this afternoon, Ernestina Spadoni, 3 1-2 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Severino Spadoni, darted from the side of her mother as they were about to cross Congress avenue, near Lafayette street, and was killed almost instantly, by a westbound Washington avenue trolley car. The car was operated by Motorman Morris McBride, and Ernest Klenke was the conductor.

The little girl was struck by the car and thrown on to the track, the left wheels on the front truck severing her head from the body. The mother, who witnessed the tragedy, became hysterical and was taken from the scene by a patrolman.

Coroner Eli Mix will conduct an investigation tomorrow morning.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Discussions of the Wilmot proviso in congress, in 1849 drew forth bitter remarks from southern and northern congressmen, during the course of which it was pointed out that several southern states stood ready to vote that the Union be dissolved."

Other items taken at part from the columns of The Courier of 75 years ago are as follows:

Tuesday, December 18, 1849—The receipts of the Norwich & Worcester road show a favorable result and a gain on last year. The earnings for November were as follows: through travel, $1351.38; local travel, $6978.41; freight, $10,116.85; mail etc., $988.41; total, $19,431.25. The income in 1848 totalled $16,162.91. The increase was in local business and mainly on freight. Express in 1849, $3,269.24, equal to 20 per cent.

Advices from Santa Fe to the 30th of October, state that a party of 36 California emigrants had recently been killed by Indians near the copper mines.

The spirit and temper of the southern members of congress was shown recently in a spirited debate when southern members argued for the passage of a resolution "that this Union be dissolved." This statement brought out the answer that the north would vote not to dissolve the Union. Mr. Colcock, who was leading the debate said, "Thus the south would show to the gentlemen and to the north that we are in earnest. South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi are all ready to vote for it. (A voice: "And Virginia") Yes, and Virginia; and what was once a South Carolina abstraction is now a solemn truth. This discussion followed talk on the Wilmot proviso.

No speaker for the house of representatives has been elected at this date, several motions to appoint committees being laid on the table. The last vote was Winthrop 77 and Boyd 87, scattered votes not counted.

Thursday, December 20, 1849—According to the Connecticut Register soon to be issued from the press, the following are the rates of taxation in the several cities in the state: Bridgeport, 14 per cent; New Haven, 11 per cent; Hartford, 10 per cent; Norwich, 8 per cent; New London, 7 per cent; Middletown, 1 1-2 per cent.

The cost of the Merchant's Exchange building in Wall street, New York, was $1,952,946.33; income $43,000. There is talk that the building may be wanted by the government for a customs house in place of the present building, which will be required for a mint.

Friends of temperance held a meeting last evening in the town hall. William A. Buckingham, Esq., was called to the chair and Rev. Mr. Blake opened the meeting with prayer. Mayor Buckingham and many prominent business men of the city are making every effort to rid the city of the power of the traffic in intoxicating liquors and it is hoped that the whole community will be arousned to prompt and efficient action.

Work on the Brooklyn dry dock is being completed at a fast rate-workmen being employed day and night. Some of the stone masons are now receiving $5 a day. When this vast basin is completed in January 1850 it will present the most stupendous enterprise of its kind in the country, and, when completed, will surpass anything of a similar character in the world.

Saturday, December 22, 1849—Hundreds of negroes are now flocking to Cass county, Michigan, where they have well tilled farms and fine homes. Fifty Negroes recently manumitted by a wealthy planter of Virginia arrived there recently and a happier band of people could not exist.

The Phenix Foundry company began business on Bath street yesterday, having purchased the stock and patterns of the recent proprietor. William S. Cooley is to give his complete attention to the pattern shop and moulding room. The proprietors of the company are Jedediah Spalding, Noah L. Cole and William S. Cooley, with Charles Tracy, treasurer.

Notice of the annual meeting of the Norwich and Preston Bridge company has been published in the Courier by Robert Huntington, clerk.

Danger in traveling to California and living in that state has become of interest to many people contemplating such a move and insurance companies report the taking out of many policies by emigrants to that state.

Currier & Company have advertised 1500 brown broadcloth overcoats at prices from $5 to $15; 400 frock and dress coats made of English, French and German cloths, at $6 to $12 and 350 vests of various patterns at 50 cents to $1.50.

L. W. Rogers, dentist of 106 Main street advertises that he will guarantee to remove teeth without pain, by use of the method recently discovered.

Mrs. John H. Brinton, socially prominent and a descendent of a long line of colonial ancestors, died at her home in Philadelphia.

ARGUMENTS OPENED IN THE M'COY MURDER TRIAL

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 22. — Kid McCoy, ex-prize fighter on trial for the murder of Mrs. Theresa W. Mors, "doesn't know what love is any more than he knows what constitutes a gentleman," Deputy District Attorney Charles Fricke declared as he opened the prosecution's final statements today.

"McCoy has the effrontery to declare on the witness stand that he loved Mrs. Mors," said Attorney Fricke. "The motive for the killing of Mrs. Mors was the outgrowth of the improper relations of the pair," the prosecutor added. "McCoy was broke, looking for a meal ticket, and he wormed himself into the good graces of the woman who owned an exclusive antique shop, she, on her part, was foolishly infatuated with the man who formerly had been a shining light of the ring."

CLEMENCY FOR PRISONER BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, Dec. 22.—Extension of executive clemency as a Christmas gift by the president was limited this year to one person, John Rohrer, of San Jose, Cal., whose life sentence was commuted to 20 years. Rohrer thus becomes eligible for parole upon immediate application.

Roher, a prisoner at Leavenworth, has served nine years for the murder of a Chinese soldier while he was a member of the legation guard at Shanghai just prior to the World war.

Department of justice records show that Rohrer with a companion deserted from the legation guard, stole a horse, and started toward the interior of China. They were pursued by Chinese policemen, and mistaking them for bandits, Rohrer testified at his trial in the consular court, he opened fire and killed one of them. He has deserted, he explained, with the intention of making his way across China to get into active fighting with the allies.

The prisoner's record at Leavenworth was described by the warden as incomparably better than any other, and the department believes that he has received adequate punishment for a crime committed by an irresponsible youth. With the commutation making it possible for him to apply immediately for parole, indications are that the judge of the consular court who pronounced the life sentence will give his consent.

PLEDGES REPAYMENT OF DEBT BY FRANCE

Washington, Dec. 22—Jules J. Jesserand, the retiring French ambassador, told an audience here today that France after a moratorium for a "breathing spell" could and would begin repayment of her war debt to the United States. He made it plain, however, that France expected preferential treatment as compared with terms granted by the United States to other war debtor nations because he said France suffered the greatest loss in life and blood, the greatest in fortune, comparatively, and, finally "because France was the battlefield."

LIEUT. LESLIE C. ARNOLD, AIRMAN, TO BE HONORED BY NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 23.—Lieut. Leslie C. Arnold, of the United States air service, one of the four men who made the flight around the world, was for some time a resident of New London. He spent much of his boyhood days and his early youth in this city where he resided with his mother. He has now obtained a leave of absence from the service during the period of December 24 to January 1st, and will visit his former home and acquaintances of other years in this city. The chamber of commerce has become cognizant of the fact and desires to honor Lieut. Arnold when he comes here, and to present him some memorial that shall express the pride of this city in the young man who has made such a remarkable journey as that which carried him and his companions around the world. Lieut. Arnold is to be here Tuesday, Dec. 30th, and the council voted this evening to officially recognize the visit by extending a greeting to Lieut. Arnold at a public place, that all may be enabled to meet and greet him. The city will cooperate with the chamber of commerce in extending to him the freedom of the city and pre- [illegible] with some token of the city where he was a former resident. A public auditorium will be provided for a welcome that will be official and that will demonstrate to Lieut. Arnold the pride the city entertains in his remarkable accomplishment. The mayor and the city manager have been appointed a committee to arrange for the city the form of reception that shall be accorded Lieut. Arnold.

It was announced at the meeting of the city council this evening that the municipal Christmas tree exercises will take place at candle light at the Mercer building at State and Meridian street Christmas eve. There will be a program of singing by the children of the public schools.

An ordinance reorganizing the sewer and water departments and making changes that are deemed needed in rules and regulations was presented at the meeting of the council this evening and referred to the committee on public works. The changes in the rules are in relation to plumbing inspection and plumbing rules, and the turning on and off of water and a request for notification by officials of nearby towns whenever contagious or infectious diseases are discovered there. The ordinance was of 13 typewritten pages and 65 sections, so it was not read, except as to proposed changes.

Railroad men hereabouts are wondering what there is about Saturday nights that brings disaster to trains and to workers about them. On the last three Saturdays there have been one fatal and two very serious accidents. Richard Wolfe, engineer, was killed under a train at Midway on the night of Saturday, the 6th inst. On the next Saturday, the 13th, Howard Wortelh, freight brakeman was run over and lost his right arm by amputation later at Lawrence hospital. Last Saturday night the Pittsburgh express crashed into a freight train that was preparing to pull out of Midway. Fortunately there was no one killed. Is there a hoodoo about railroad operation on Saturdays? railroad men are asking.

Dr. John N. Dimon, formerly of New London, now a resident at Thames View, Waterford, seemed destined to keep before the eyes of the public. Dr. Dimon will be presented before Judge Victor Prince tomorrow morning on a charge of intoxication. The physician was taken into custody this evening at the corner of State and Bank streets by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman David Nagle when he was rolling among Christmas shoppers in a helpless state.

Oscar Hill, white, was arrested this evening by Patrolmen George Laboda and Edward Daniels, charged with intoxication by Nettie Miller, colored residing on Potter street. Hill went to the home of the Miller woman where he demanded admission and when it was refused him he smashed two windows and damaged a door. Hill then left and proceeded to John street where he was located and locked up by the officers.

State Police Officers Fred Carson and Bernard Kenerson, Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman William Graham raided the house 226 Shaw street, occupied by Vircillo Battelli and family upon information that liquor was being dispensed at the place. The officers were armed with a search warrant issued by Judge Victor Prince and their search resulted in a considerable quantity of liquor being found, among which were four gallon containers of whiskey, three quarts of whiskey, two jugs of wine, two bottles of beer and a gallon of home-made gin. These were seized as evidence. Battelli was not at home but his wife was and the latter wanted to claim ownership of the liquor, probably because her husband has before been convicted of violation of the liquor law, having received a $200 fine and a 30 days' jail sentence about a year ago. Patrolman Graham was kept on duty at the house, remaining there until Battelli returned home about 5 o'clock, when he was taken into custody. He was held in bonds of $1,000 for trial in the police court tomorrow morning. Antonio Menghi becoming surety on the bond.

Natalie Demers, of Pearl street, Max Swector, Truman street; Mrs. Lyman Pond and infant daughter, Niantic; Morris Lieberman, Bank street, and Mrs. William Worobiner, Bank street, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today.

The case of Emilio Sousel, New London, arrested several days ago, charged with reckless driving, was continued a week when Sousel was before Judge C. Tyler Lanphere in the Groton town court, this forenoon.

James DeCardina, Ledyard avenue, Groton, charged with cutting down evergreen trees from private property, had his case nolled as the complainant did not appear in court and it was disclosed that the cutting of the trees had not occurred on private property.

Edgar Thibeault of Benham road, Groton, charged with operating an automobile without displaying a taillight, was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $11.77. Thibeault was arrested Saturday night by state police.

The case of George Hunt, Center, Groton, charged with breach of the peace, was continued two weeks. Hunt is accused of creating a disturbance at his home, where he smashed several windows.

Joseph McFee, 55, of Thames street, Groton, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital and his condition is serious, as a result of an alleged fight, which occurred at the McFee home, Saturday night or early Sunday morning. George Whitney is being held in bonds of $1,000 pending the outcome of McFee's injuries.

The state police received a complaint early Sunday morning that a fight had taken place at McFee's place. When Officers Wood and Bodnick arrived at the house, Whitney was there and declared that he had been assaulted by McFee, after the latter had sold Whitney drinks. McFee was arrested and locked up and a raid was then made upon the McFee premises. A still, barrel of mash and nine quarts of liquor were seized. Following McFee being locked up he complained of feeling ill and a physician who was summoned ordered McFee removed to the hospital, as he was suffering from a protusion of the intestine as a result of an incision for hernia having broken down during the alleged fight. Whitney was also taken into custody as McFee's condition was considered serious.

Nicholas Haddad, proprietor of a men's furnishing store, 129 Main street, complained to the police this morning that the store was burglarized Sunday night and plunder including three and one-half yards of suiting, three or four pairs of trousers, three or four silk shirts, eight dress shirts, six necktie, one pair of gloves and two pairs of suspenders were stolen. Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the case but his investigation revealed that none of the entrances of windows bore evidence of having been forced. One of the windows was smashed, a hole about six or eight inches in circumference existing but apparently not large enough to permit the plunder being removed by that means.

Abram Taylor, colored, was sent to jail for a stay of ten days and he was ordered to work out the costs of his trial. Taylor was in the court Saturday when he was allowed time to get out of town. He went across the river where he had been at work, got the money due him and then proceeded to get drunk. He did so. That brought the jail term to him.

Newton Lanphere was charged with intoxication. He was kept away from the court during a period of five months on account of that and record as entered with previous performances. The court suspended sentence.

John Buserski was found to be running a sort of booze joint at 8 Hill street. The police called there with search warrant because they had abundant evidence that John was selling liquor contrary to law. They found a couple of quarts of the weakest sort of moonshine and confiscated it. A woman who was in the apartment endeavoring to dump out what was in the bottle she had, but she was not successful. John pleaded guilty when he was arraigned because he saw there was nothing to be accomplished by denying the charge. He did tell the officers that he used the moonshine to bathe his injured arm but that story was unbelievable, and he owned up that he was selling the stuff at $1 a half pint. His plea brought a fine of $200 on him. He was sentenced to jail for 30 days, too, but the court relented and suspended that part of the penalty. So the accused escaped by the payment of the fine and costs.

A deed transferring the residence on Thames street, owned by the estate of Charles Hebbard, to William and Gladys Wainright was received for record at the office of the city clerk today.

Michael Ananenko, of Howard street; Mrs. Thomas E. Troland, of Ocean ave[illegible]; Miss Loretta Reavey, Colemar[illegible]; Arthur Rowland, Thames [illegible]; Mrs. William Clark, Old Lyme; Henry Maynard and infant son [illegible] street; Miss Caroline Stoddard, Jefferson avenue; Mrs. William Hobart, Stonington; Mrs. Bernard Ramus, Waterford; Mrs. William Appleby, Niantic, and Miss Josephine Ronagna, Niantic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Carl Hoof, 68, car inspector for the New York New Haven & Hartford railroad thirty years, most of which time Mr. Hoof was employed at the union station, died Sunday night at his residence, 106 Brickhill street, after an illness lasting many months. He was a native of Germany and is survived by four sons, Carl and George Hoof, this city; Emil Hoof, of Hartford, and William Hoof, Lawrence, Mass., and by two daughters, Mrs. F. M. Shipman, Hartford, and Miss Teresa Hoof, this city. Mr. Hoof was a member of Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows and Herwegh lodge, O. D. H. S.

Mrs. M. Harriet Freeman, about 80, wife of Ernest Freeman, died Sunday night at her former residence, 15 West street. Mrs. Freeman was born in Middletown.

The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Walsh, widow of John Walsh, whose death occurred at the residence of Frank Green, 217 Jefferson avenue, last Friday, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's church, Branford, in which place Mrs. Walsh formerly resided. Requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Fr. McCarthy. Burial was in Branford.

Misses Paula Lipton, Ruth Goddard, Virginia Jurczyk, Grace Manion, Mary Murphy, Gladys Ronan and Gladys Seswick, nurses at Joseph Lawrence Training school, have been notified that they have passed the examinations as provided by the state board of examiners for nurses.

Horace Stanley, employed as a dish washer at the Star restaurant, State street, was taken into custody this afternoon by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman George Perkins, charged with theft. He was locked up to await trial in the police court tomorrow morning.

Stanley went to the post office about 1 o'clock where a long line of men and women awaited opportunity to reach the stamp windows to mail Christmas packages. Among the women in the line was Mrs. W. Howard, 45 Lewis street, who held her purse in her hand. Watching his opportunity Stanley edged to the side of the woman, suddenly seized the purse and started to make his escape. Mrs. Howard made an outcry [illegible] the line grabbed Stanley and forced the pocketbook from his grip. Stanley then ran from the building and to State street. When in front of the municipal building, Stanley became wedged in a maze of automobiles and with his shoes loose, not being laced, one of them fell off. As he returned to pick up his shoe Sergeant Cavanaugh, who was approaching the post office and Patrolman Perkins, who was off duty, and who had been attracted to the office by the act of Stanley, seized the thief and placed him under arrest. Stanley is a stranger in New London, having been in the city but a few weeks and claims to reside in Boston.

Officials of the state of Virginia have requested Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, this state, to recognize markers of Virginia registration as legal after the close of the present year. Commissioner Stoeckel today notified the New London police that the request had been granted.

Phi Alma Mu Sigma dance, one of the biggest social events of the year to take place in New London will be held Christmas night in the ball room of the Mohican hotel. Phi Alpha Mu Sigma fraternity will be the hosts to their many friends and fraternity brothers. The ball room will be most attractively decorated.

It is expected that a large delegation fro mNorwich will attend. Though 300 invitations have been issued a great many friends of the Frat. have failed to receive bids to the dance because of being at school when invitations were issued. They will be admitted to the ball room without the usual formality of bids. Among the organizations that have signified their intention to attend the dance are Kappa Alpha Nu Sigma Frat., Theta Sigma Frat., Zeta Om ga Delta Frat., all of New London and Phi Alpha Mu Sigma Frat of Norwich.

ESCAPING GAS FUMES KILL JOHN FRANCIS NEARY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 22.—John Francis Neary, about 60, was found dead in bed at the rooming house of Mrs. John Fahey, 50 Blinman street, this forenoon, having been asphyxiated while he slept. Death was accidental, however, as was determined by an investigation conducted by Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman immediately following the finding of the body.

Neary had been ailing for some time and Sunday remained in bed the entire day. During the evening Mrs. Fahey went to Neary's room and found him asleep, but with the room stifling because of the continued use of the heater which was burning. Mrs. Fahey opened the flow of gas to the shut off and closed the door. During the night Neary awoke and attempted to light the gas again, but he failed to succeed, often the connection of the rubber tap on the wall prior to turning on the gas, with the result that the match dropped to the floor and allowed the flow of gas to enter the room which he slumbered. Then fumes gradually filled the room and slowly asphyxiated the sleeper. About 10 o'clock this morning Mrs. Fahey detected the odor of gas and going to Neary's room she found the gas still entering the room and the lodger dead in bed.

ANYBODY IN THE WOODPILE IN GODDARD LOT SALE?

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 22.—There seems to be an anxiety for the purchase of the lot at the corner of Main and Douglass st sets in this city that it may be used for a children's playground—such an anxiety indeed that there is suspicion that interested parties are urging the purchase. Two petitions were presented to the city council this evening from women's societies urging the purchase. Three other such petitions have been heretofore presented from similar organizations. Now it is said that the price of the property has advanced to $45,000. Perhaps the council will ascertain the assessed value of the property at once, that the value of the land for purposes of taxation may be revised. It is understood that the property was offered at one time for $20,000 and that no one could be found who would pay that price for it that it might be made use of for a public parking place, where it would be expected to earn enough to pay the interest on the purchase price. The Goddard heirs would have been astonished, no doubt, had they ever supposed that such a price would be obtained for the property even where there was a substantial house on the land. It was owned by the late George Goddard and later by James Goddard, and they never attempted to dispose of it at any such figures as $45,000. But the council has not yet seriously considered the purchase of the land for the price set upon it. It is possible that the council never will seek it at any such price.

COLCHESTER FARMER CLAIMED LAME OLD HORSE HAD A CORN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 22.—Jake Berman, a Colchester farmer, paid the penalty of driving a horse incapacitated for use, when Walter H. Phelps, an agent of the state's department of prevention cruelty to animals, saw him with a horse that was very lame. Berman was warned last September not to use the horse in the condition he was in, so when he was found driving the horse Saturday he was apprehended. He represented that the horse was all right when he started from Colchester, 20 miles away, with him, but that when he reached New London, a corn the horse had been ailing with caused him to limp. It was in this limping condition that the humane society official came upon Berman. Berman said he had the horse treated by a blacksmith, who renewed shoes on the animal, but that the trouble was not immediately remedied. He said he bought the horse for $40 and traded another animal he was the owner of for him. Then he kept the horse in idleness because the animal was too fiery. He used him Saturday for the first time of late. The police court imposed a fine of $10 on Berman. This he paid, with costs.

TAKING CENSUS OF ALL CHINESE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Dec. 22.—A census of all Chinese resident in this city was ordered today by Director of Public Safety Butler, who announced it would be the initial step in curbing warfare between rival Chinese tongs.

CONSTIPATION OVERCOME

The use of Foley Cathartic Tablets will bring speedy relief from constipation if taken promptly. They are purely vegetable and act on the liver. Mr. John D. McComb, Lucas Co. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, Dec. 23—Stock prices opened firm today, reacted sharply when the call money rate renewed at 3 per cent., and then advanced to 4 and made irregular recovery in the late trading when violent bullish demonstrations took place in a few high-priced specialties. The average of twenty leading industrial stocks rose to the highest level since 1919, due largely to the nine point jump in General Electric, which established a record top at 288 1-2. The day's sales totalled slightly above one and one half million shares.

The advance in call money was due to the extensive calling of loans by banks as a result of the $15,000,000 deficit in reserve shown in the weekly clearing house statement last Saturday. It was estimated in some quarters that the total amount of loans called was close to $30,000,000, the heavy holiday demand for funds being another factor. The day's news was largely favorable. It included the inauguration of dividends on Texas and Pacific Railroad preferred stock at the annual rate of $5; the stiffening of zinc, copper and pig iron prices; the prompt oversubscription of two stock offerings and and the publication of additional favorable November railroad earnings statement.

United States Steel common closed [illegible] at 118 1-8 and Studebaker 2 at 45 1-2. American Can fluctuated within a range of three points, closing 1 1-8 lower at 156 7-8. Baldwin showed a net gain of about a point at 131 5-8 after having sold as low as 128 1-2.

Brokers reported that much of the selling of standard industrials in the middle of the day represented the conversion of paper profits into cash in order to purchase Christmas presents. Net losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded by a large variety of issues, including American Sugar Refining, American Woolen, Dupont, Maxwell Motors A and B, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron, Worthington Pump, Continental Can, Crucible Steel, Gimbel Brothers, Goodrich, Gulf States Steel, Jordan Motors, Ludlum Steel, May Department Stores, National Enameling, Replogle Steel, Savage Arms, Stewart Warner, United States Distributing and Westinghouse Air Brake.

The sharpest breaks took place in the Commercial Solvents issues, each of which dropped about 10 1-2 points and then rallied slightly. Other weak spots included American Express, Commercial Investment Trust preferred, Manhattan Shirt and United Railways and Investment, off 3 to 5 1-2 points.

Rails also moved irregularly lower although excellent buying was noted in Norfolk and Western, which advanced more than two points to 121. Baltimore and Ohio, Reading, Delaware and Hudson, Gulf, Mobile and Northern, Illinois Central, "Nickel Plate", St. Louis Southwestern and a few others were off 1 to 3 points on the day.

Independent strength was shown by American Car and Foundry which advanced five points and Iron Products, which soared 13 points to 98.

Time money and commercial paper rates held firm with business in moderate volume.

Except for moderate reactions in the Norwegian and Danish rates, which reflected the readjustment of speculative positions, foreign exchanges held steady with trading quiet. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.70 5-8 and French francs around 5.38 1-2 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, Dec. 20—Pre-holiday influences retarded trading in the bond market today and prices fluctuated irregularly. Profit-taking, inspired partly by the firmness of the money situation, caused recessions of one to 3 1-2 points in numerous railroad, public utility and industrial liens.

Norfolk and Western convertible 6s, which followed a rise in the road's stock, were about the only firm spot in the railroad list. Realizing sales were scattered among high-grade and speculative issues, resulting in losses of a point or more in New York Central Consolidated 4s, Northern Pacific refunding 6s, Seaboard Adjustment 5s, Frisco Income 6s and Chicago and Terre Haute Income 5s.

Price movements in other parts of the list were uneven with changes influenced by special considerations. Maxwell Motor 7s reacted following a drop in the company's shares and numerous other issues were unsettled by the early hesitation in the stock market. Gains of 1 to 3 1-2 points in Magna Copper 7s, Brooklyn Union Gas 7s of 1932 and American Agricultural Chemical 7 1-2s were counteracted by similar losses in Federal Light & Traction 7s, Wilson First 6s and Bethlehem Steel 6s.

New financing was well absorbed. Bankers reported prompt subscription of $40,000,000 issue of Andes Copper Mining Company 7 per cent. debentures and several smaller stock and bonds offerings.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Sharp setbacks in the price of wheat today resulted from heavy selling that was done under the leadership of a house which recently has been conspicuously on the buying side of the market. It was contended that advances of late had been too rapid, and that a reaction was overdue. Wheat closed unsettled 2 1-8-3 7-8c net lower, May 1.73 to 1.72 1-8 and July 1.47 1-2 to 1.47 5-8, with corn 1-2-1 1-8c down, oats 1-2-3-8c to 7-8c off, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 25c decline.

Nearly five cents in some cases was clipped from wheat values today, the most decided cut for a long while, much of the selling which forced prices down appeared to be based on the fact that the general upward trend of the market had lasted six months, and that the advance in that time had totalled about 60 cents a bushel. Slowness of immediate export demand was also a bearish influence, and so likewise was preholiday slackening of activity on the part of non-professional traders.

With the visible supply both of corn and oats showing a good sized increase, each of the two cereals were weakened, despite much corn purchasing to undo spreads between wheat and corn.

Provisions tended downward, sympathising with grain.

CURB MARKET

New York, Dec. 22—Reactionary tendencies prevailed in today's curb market although independent strong spots were noted in several sections of the list.

Oils were mixed. Cities Service, Eureka Pipe and Southern Pipe Line advanced 1 to 3 points and Southwestern Pennsylvania Pipe Line jumped 9 while losses of 1 to 3 1-2 points were recorded by Galena Signal, Prairie Oil and Gas and South Penna. Some of the selling was inspired by increased estimates of the production in the New Wortham Field in Texas. Radio shares gave a fairly good exhibition of group strength, Hazeltine advancing nearly 3 points to a record high at 45 1-2, closing slightly below that figure, and Dubilier closed a point higher at 65.

Public Utilities were hard hit, losses of 1 1-2 to 4 points being recorded by American Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction, American Power and Light, Commonwealth Power and East Penn. Elec ric. National Power and Light was active and strong.

Trading in the new Frank G. Shattuck stock was active following the announcement that the public offering had been largely oversubscribed. The stock sold as high as 32 3-4 as against the offering price of $27.50.

Establishment of a new high record by Wenden Copper was the only feature of the mining group.

CHECK FOR $50,000 FIGURES IN TRIAL OF W. J. CORCORAN

Boston, Dec. 22.—A check for $50,000, drawn to the order of William J Corcoran while he was district attorney of Middlesex county and admittedly cashed by him, and a release by Scott Paul of Methuen, to Victor A. Searles, wealthy artist, of all claims against Searles for alienation of Mrs. Paul's affections in consideration of the payment of $50,000 figured in the exhibits today at the trial of Corcoran and others on charges of of conspiring to extort that amount of money from Searles. The case is the most recent outgrowth of the activities of a blackmail ring that mulcted many thousands of dollars from New England men four years ago. Mrs. Paul was one of the confessed lures.

Paul, the husband, testified today that he was paid $5,000 to sign a blank release in connection with the divorce proceedings against his wife that Michael Lyons, one of the defendants, volunteered to bring for him, and in which Corcoran was so active. Paul said he knew only that the money came from "a rich man." He received it from Kane in the office of Corcoran, he testified.

When District Attorney O'Brien produced a photostatic copy of Paul's release to Searles for $50,000, Paul said he recognized his signature, but thought he signed a different paper with a blank release.

SECOND WEEK OF NEW YORK TRANSPORTATION PROBE

New York, Dec. 23.—Events crowded each other in New York's transit affairs today which marked the opening of the second week of the transportation investigation by Supreme Court Justice McAvoy by order of Governor Smith. The day's high lights were:

Appropriation of $19,000,000 by the city board of estimate and apportionment for subway construction.

Appointment of a city investigating commission to recommend subway relief measures.

Announcement that Mayor John F. Hylan will testify in the transit investigation hearing Wednesday, the day before Christmas.

Continued defense of the Hylan administration's transit course by city Transportation Commissioner John H. Delaney before the transit inquiry.

Announcement by Gerhard M. Dahl, president of the board of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company, that he would quit his banking and brokerage job to devote all of his time to transit.

The subway corporation, totalling more than half the entire sum previously appropriated for transit purposes by the Hylan administration, will provide $10 000,000 toward construction of a municipally-owned and operated line in the Washington Heights district, and $9,000,000 for the completion of the Brooklyn end of the long-disputed Fourteenth street east subway.

After passing the $19,000,000 appropriation, the board of estimate organized its own transit inquiry. The city's attorney's last week withdrew from the existing inquiry, declaring that they could do nothing for the city after Justice McAvoy had ruled no attorney but Henry L. Sherman, who represents him, would be permitted to examine or cross-examine witnesses.

The city's investigators will be Arthur S. Tuttle, chief engineer of the board of transportation; Police Commissioner Enright, Corporation Counsel Nicholson, Commissioner William W. Mills of the department of plant and structure, and borough engineers.

The advanced war prices as an excuse for the city's failure to go ahead with contracted subway work, whereupon Clarence Shearn, attorney for the transit commission, announced that he wished to call to Justice McAvoy's attention that "the war was over in 1918."

"I resent that," Commissioner Delaney said tersely. "I do not want my testimony interrupted by facetious remarks by the transit commission's lawyer."

PREFERENCE SYSTEM ON OCEAN LINERS ABANDONED

New York, Dec. 22.—Leading trans-Atlantic passenger line operators today abolished the preference system whereby socially or professionally prominent people have been able to ride the ocean in first class accommodations upon payment of steerage rates of fare.

The action was taken by the trans-Atlantic passenger conference, representing the United States line, the United American, North German-Lloyd, Cunard, White Star and French lines.

Officials said that "preference" passengers had come to comprise upward of 50 per cent. of all first class traffic.

A RELIABLE COUGH REMEDY

Why experiment with unknown remedies for that cough or cold when you can secure Foley's Honey and Tar Compound? It is a safe and reliable remedy for the relief of coughs, colds, hoarseness. Equally beneficial for young and old. Mrs. Anna Cornell, Bridgeton, N. J., states: "I bought Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for my cold and find it great." Insist upon the genuine. Refuse substitutes. Lee & Osgood.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of
SAMUEL JAMES AUSTIN.
Dec. 23, 1918.

Where the faded flower shall freshen,
Freshen never more to fade;
Where the shaded sky shall brighten,
Brighten never more to shade;
Where the moon shall wake in gladness
And the noon the joy prolong;
Where the daylight dies in gladness
Mild the burst of holy song;
We shall meet on yonder shore
With the loved ones gone before.

VIVIAN P. WHEELER.
Dec. 23, 1924.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to our neighbors and friends our sincere thanks for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of Mrs. Christina Vogtman; also for the beautiful flowers sent to the funeral.

Her Children:
GEORGE VOGTMAN,
MRS. SIMON MARTIN,
ANNIE VOGTMAN.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skinner extend their hearty thanks to the good citizens of Plainfield and Central Village for the support given them following the disastrous fire.

Sincerely,
MR. AND MRS. FRANK SKINNER.
Plainfield, Conn., Dec. 22, 1924.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our gratitude for the many expressions of sympathy extended to us following the death of our beloved wife and mother, Ellen A. Burdick; also to thank all those who were so kind as to send flowers to the funeral. The memory of those loving acts will always be cherished by us.

HIGH SCHOOL MAY REPLACE THE LUDLOW STREET JAIL

New York, Dec. 22.—Ludlow street jail, the far-famed gathering place of the "Allmony club," may soon give way to a high school building, Mayor Hylan indicated to a delegation of East Side schoolgirls.

Alimony dodgers are becoming so rare in New York that the "clubhouse" is no longer a necessity, and those still in the prison may easily be accommodated in other places of incarceration, it was said.

This isn't such a bad world after all. Just think what might happen that never does.

TAFTVILLE

An attractive program of Christmas music, arranged by the organist and choir director, Miss Nellie Howie, was given at the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church. The organ numbers included Adoration and the Christmas Postlude, and the hymns were Adestes Fidelis and The Babe of Bethlehem. In the anthem, Hark, the Hosts of Heaven Are Singing (Schnecker) the soloist was Miss Mildred Kloss, and in the anthem, Silent, the Night in Judea (Gounod) the soloist was Miss Dorothy Wood, Thomas Grimshaw — the offertory solo, In Old Judea (Gelbel).

The reading of the prophecy of Isaiah, "Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and his name shall be called Immanuel," which being interpreted means God with us, Rev. Mr. Crowe said, "It is a story of interest and a story of love—the best story that human ears ever heard, or the human hearts ever understood. Old religions were in their way, a quest of God, and even then there was a whisper of the Father Heart. God had spoken, and in that truth we were included. God was speaking as the human could understand, for one must be educated in the things of God. The home of God is in the heart of man: Out of this grows every impulse of sympathy and love. God has spoken in these days: we have beheld His glory. Our Lord walked the world as a man. God is with every loving soul who comes to Him by faith. God is always Emmanuel to those who love Him sincerely. Through the Christmas spirit He comes down to men and walk with us. He comes to every one and to those who need Him. The temple is the human soul."

Christmas decorations included a profusion of hemlock, laurel, white birch and bayberries, arranged across the entire front of the church. Behind the pulpit, the walls were completely hidden by a mass of green. Huge jardinieres of white chrysanthemum were placed on the chancel rail. Electric light chandeliers were covered with feathery hemlock, while branches of this evergreen in each corner, and arranged about the organ. Poinsettas ornamented the organ desk. Beautiful carnations and roses, in memory of Jane Violet Mayor, a former member of the church school, were beside the pulpit. The decorating was done by the Knights of King Arthur.

The choir included Miss Bertha Monty, Miss Sadie Newton, Miss Nyra A. Yerrington, Miss Flossie M. Meyer, Miss Dorothy Wood and Miss Mildred Kloss, sopranos; Miss Dorothy Campbell, Miss Ethel Holland, Miss Nancy Brown and Mrs. William McNally, contraltos; Harold E. Linderson, tenor; Thomas Grimshaw and John W. Brierley, bassos.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree of Goodyear have been week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree of North Third avenue.

Miss Roberta Crowe of South Manchester is spending the Christmas recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crowe of South A. street.

George W. Meyer of Lisbon and William Kendall of Norwich were in New Bedford Sunday, visiting friends.

The Sacred Heart school is closed for the annual Christmas recess. The Wequonnoc school is to close Wednesday.

Miss Doris Palmer of Bridgeport is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Edwin G. Crowdis of North Third avenue.

The annual service of the Taftville Congregational church school is to be held at the church tonight (Tuesday) at 7:30. There is to be the pageant of The Nativity, with appropriate hymns and carols by the junior choir. Following the service, those present will go to the vestry where gifts will be distributed around the Christmas tree. Miss Gertrude M. Young is the chairman of the committee in charge of the program.

Miss Jeanne Desjardin has resigned her position with the Ponemah company.

The Community sewing class met Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

QUICK WORK SAVES CHELSEA FILE WORKS FROM DESTRUCTION

Quick work on the part of Frederick A. Alter of No. 153 Sachem street and William J. McBurney of No. 22 Lafayette street with a prompt response by the fire department saved the Chelsea File Works, off Sherman street, from destruction by fire about 10 o'clock Monday night. Mr. Alter who keeps his automobile in a building on Yantic street owned by the Falls Cotton Company, was on his way home from the garage when he saw the flames in the rear part of the file works as he was walking up Yantic street.

Box 316, Lafayette and Sherman streets, was pulled and Mr. Alter hurried to the home of William McBurney, bookkeeper of the file works, and notified him of the fire. He and Mr. Alter hurriedly went down the street to the file works and quickly had a stream on the blaze from a small hose line in the plant. This served to keep the flames in check until the arrival of the fire apparatus and the blaze was squelched with a chemical line. The damage to the building is small.

Just how the fire started is not known. It originated in the grinding room and heavy timbers and boards were badly charred. The building is owned by George Butts of Sachem Terrace who operates the plant. Mr. Butts said the fire will not interfere materially with the operating of the plant. About twenty men are employed there.

[illegible] TO [illegible] SALVATION ARMY FUND

Commandant Wilbur of the Salvation Army is very grateful to the Norwich public for their kind and generous response to his appeal for funds for providing a Christmas dinner to the needy poor. Contributions are coming in daily and many unfortunates will be given some measure of Christmas cheer.

The commandant tells a touching story of a little girl who on Saturday came over to him while standing near his kettle and, looking up to him, asked: "Mister, why do people put money in this kettle?" To which he answered: "Why, my child, the people put money into this kettle in order that we should be able to buy food for the needy poor of our city and make them happy, for Christmas." The little girl's eyes filled with tears and she said: "I am coming to ask my daddy to give me some money to put in the kettle. I want to help the hungry poor." About half an hour later the same little girl came up panting to him and said: "I asked my daddy and he gave me 50 cents", and throwing the coin into the kettle her face lighted up with childish glee and happy satisfaction. Asking the child where she lived, she answered "Greeneville." She had been running all this time to bring the coin to the pot.

The commandant is in the hopes that many belated contributions will yet come in from busy people who send their donations to the Christmas dinner fund of the Salvation Army at the last moment.

Chickens, meat, vegetables and fruit may be left at No. 10 Cliff street, the Salvation Army headquarters.

Commandant Wilbur requests that the poor who need help to leave their names at the army headquarters not later than Tuesday evening. These names will be kept strictly confidential.

NOYES COMPANY PUTS THROUGH HOTEL SALE

The Hotel Netherland, Fifth avenue, and 59th street, Manhattan, built about 30 years ago by the estate of William Waldorf Astor, was purchased by Frederick Brown, real estate operator, for about $6,000,000. The Charles F. Noyes company negotiated the deal. Mr. Brown paid all cash for the property.

The hotel, which is 17 stories high, will be remodeled into stores and apartments. The property occupies a plot fronting 100 feet on Fifth avenue, and 125 feet on 59th street. It is directly across from the Hotel Savoy, which is to be demolished soon to make way for a larger hotel structure. At present the Hotel Netherland is operated by Manger Brothers, who hold a lease on the hotel which terminates in June, 1925, after which the building will be closed and turned over to contractors for extensive alterations.

TO HOLD CAROL SERVICE AT CHRIST CHURCH TONIGHT

At Christ Episcopal church this (Tuesday) evening a Christmas carol service will be held with the following programme:

Part 1—Processional—Adeste Fideles; 1, The Shepherds; 2, Carol of Flowers; 3, Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin; 4, Joyous Christmas Song; 5, O Little Town of Bethlehem, (choir and congregation.); interlude—Prelude and Fugue in A Minor, Back.

Part 2—Children's Carol; 2, Blessed Mary Mother Mild; 3, Cradle Song; 4, Noel Nouvelet; 5, Infant So Gentle; Recessional—Hark the Herald Angel; Silent Night; Arthur E. Hall, organist.

Sent Body to Waterbury.

The body of Margaret McCoy, who died in this city Saturday, was taken in charge by Hourigan Brothers and was sent to Waterbury during the afternoon. Burial is to be in that city.

APPEAL FOR DONATIONS TO MASONIC HOME

A very generous response has been made thus far to the appeal for funds for the annual distribution of Christmas gifts to the members of the Masonic home in Wallingford on Christmas eve. However, more donations are needed and H. Wales Lines has sent out three letters, one to each Masonic and Eastern Star body in the state and their auxiliaries, and the two temples of the Mystic Shrine, one to cigar manufacturers and dealers and one to Masonic brothers and Eastern Star sisters who, it is thought, will be pleased to contribute to this Christmas fund.

The annual distribution of gifts this year will occur at 7.30 o'clock Christmas eve, Dec. 24, in the auditorium, with Superintendent Hallock as master of ceremonies.

Christmas eve, 1923, each member of the home received a check for $15, and on Jan. 21, 1924, another check of $5 was given to each, making a total distribution of $20 per member. The number of members of the home Christmas eve a year ago was 228 and this year the number will be approximately 270.

One of the letters sent out by Mr. Lines follows:

Our Masonic home at Wallingford, Conn., is doing a good work and each true Mason desires that its usefulness be increased and that its members, our good brothers and sisters, may find it a home indeed. At Christmas the number of its members, including men, women and children, will probably be 270.

Christmas is near and with it to our homes come the Christmas greetings and gifts. Is it not a duty, and will it not be a pleasure to gladden the hearts of these, our good brothers and sisters, with some token of our interest and love? It is suggested, for this purpose, that each Masonic organization and Eastern Star chapter in Connecticut, which can afford to do so, send to Brother Andrew J. Hallock, superintendent, either cash amounting to one dollar for each hundred of its membership, or such other suitable gifts as it would prefer to make. The entire amount of your gifts will be distributed according to the judgment of F. A. Verplank, president, A. J. Hallock, superintendent, and the undersigned.

It is also suggested that each Masonic lodge or Eastern Star chapter, which is now represented by a member in the Masonic home, send to that brother or sister some useful gift, marked with his or her name, and further, that Christmas letters or cards be sent to the brothers and sisters by old-time acquaintances and friends in time to reach the Masonic home before Christmas day, and thus pleasantly remind them that they are not forgotten by you.

The generous response by the Masonic lodges and Eastern Star chapters of the state and by friends of our home made the 1923 Christmas a joyful day there, and an interesting account appears in the 35th annual report of the Masonic Charity Foundation.

It is intended that a newspaper, containing a report of Christmas observance at the home, shall be mailed to each contributing organization Dec. 26, and it is hoped this will be found interesting and read aloud in the next meeting of such organization.

Fraternally yours,
H. WALES LINES.

P. S.: Please make checks, etc., payable to the order of A. J. Hallock, treasurer, Masonic Home Christmas Fund.

DAVIDSON TAKES CASE TO COMMON PLEAS

A writ of error to the common pleas court has been taken by Abe Davidson, lessee of the Broadway theatre and defendant in a summary process suit brought by Sylvester Z. Poli of New Haven, in whose favor a verdict was given by a jury recently in the justice's court with John D. Hall, justice of the peace, presiding. The writ is returnable before the common pleas court on the first Tuesday in January.

TALK ON BEGINNINGS OF NEW ENGLAND

The subject of the address delivered Monday during the noon hour at the Richmond radiator plant by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts was the Beginning of New England. The speaking was under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

It was explained to the men that the subject was selected because Dec. 21 is generally known as Forefathers' Day. From both the religious and the political standpoint this day is an important landmark in our American history. On Dec. 21, 1620, the Pilgrim Fathers landed on Plymouth Rock and that day marks the beginning of our real civilization Democracy in state and church is the great foundation fact of our national existence.

The speaker expressed his firm belief that the Pilgrim Fathers were guided just as unerringly to the settlement of New England as Abraham was to the land of Canaan. The Almighty spoke just as truly to William Brewster as He did to Moses, and the hardships and trials of the Children of Israel were not one whit harder than those of the later children of God.

A full explanation was given of the political and religious atmosphere that made Puritanism a matter of necessity; also the persecutions that followed resistance to the Act of Uniformity. The tyranny of Elizabeth and James the First was responsible for the self-imposed exile in Holland from 1608-20.

Holland proved to be a congenial soil for the development of their religious ideas. In this Dutch republic they were free to worship as they chose. But it was not their home. They were English to the core. They loved the manners and customs of their native land. The Dutch language was also a barrier, but most of all they wanted a land for their children which would be theirs.

Thus they were led to select the new continent of America, and after much consultation and many delays, they finally set sail from England, Sept. 6, 1620. After 64 days of much suffering they dropped anchor in what is now Provincetown harbor. Here they drew that wonder state paper known as the Mayflower Pact that has a place by the side of the Declaration of Independence. One month later they landed on Plymouth Rock, Dec. 21, 1620, and that was the birthday of our distinctive American life.

MAKES APPEAL FOR BETTER TRADE RELATIONS

Better trade relations in South America were urged in a communication received here Monday by Judge John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the Norwich chamber of commerce, from Eugene J. Roesch of St. Louis, who is organizing the Pan American Good Will association in the interest of harmonious and solid business conditions. Governors of the United States, mayors of our principal cities and influential business men are invited to co-operate in organizing a delegation to sail from New York on February 5th, 1925, on a special study tour of South America. Among the places to be visited are Havana, Panama Canal, Peru, Bolivia, Lake Titicaca, Chile, Argentine, Uruguay, Brazil and the West Indies, according to the present program.

The following quotations from Mr. Roesch's communication explain his purpose and plan.

"The purpose of the trip is to provide for some of our leading business men and women the opportunity to make a sympathetic study at first hand of political, social, economic conditions and the business opportunities to be found in South America. Also to afford the North American visitors the privilege of interpreting our own country and extending a message of good will to our South American friends.

"The party will receive the courtesies of the leaders and civic bodies of the various cities and each guest will be afforded ever facility for acquiring any special information or contacts that might be helpful to his own community, or that might aid him commercially or industrially.

"Arrangements will be made for publication in our newspapers and in the South American newspapers of the experiences, impressions and progress of the party, also of any helpful suggestions and views that may result from the tour. Still and moving pictures of interesting subjects here and there on the tour and in connection with the party will be made.

"America's greatest opportunity is right at her own door in South America. Will she neglect it until it is too late? European governments are sending shiploads of their people this winter on missions of trade and good will to Latin America. It is not too much to say that the key to progressive human progress generally can be found in a united policy of farsighted liberal action for world betterment on the part of the sisterhood of the American republics. It is only when business men, leaders and writers of the United States become personally acquainted with some of their fellows in Latin America that the progressive aims of their respective governments can be realized.

"Our aim is not so much to cover ground or territory, but to get as well acquainted as possible with the people themselves, to strengthen cordial relations, to understand them, their education, social an dbusiness customs, in short to learn what their objectives and needs are, and to find out how they can serve us and we can serve them in matters of trade.

"The cultural values of South America's modern cosmopolitan capitals that lead the world in charm and beauty—the historical associations—the grand natural beauties of her rivers—her mountains—valleys, lakes and plains—the trade, industrial and commercial opportunities—the pleasing associations and cordial welcomes, the glorious climate all combine to make this tour to South America an experience that will be remembered with pleasure by every participant.

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES AT THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH

The Christmas exercises of the Sunday school of the Third Baptist church were held on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The church was very prettily decorated with Christmas greens and wreaths and a very interesting programme was given. A special offering was taken which will be given to the Near East Fund and on the coming Friday night the school will enjoy their annual Christmas tree festival when it is hoped Santa Claus will be present. The programme which was in charge of Mrs. Herbert Peckham and Hrs. Henry Sebastian was as follows:

Hymn, It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, school; Scripture reading, Luke 2:8-20, pastor; prayer, pastor; selection, Under the Quiet Stars, choir; The Christmas Message, five girls; The Legend of the Christ Child, Elinor Howard; song, The Snowbirds, primary department; Star Verses from the Bible, five boys; Everywhere Christmas Tonight, Mary Jane Quinley; duet, The Message of Christmas, Doris Lund, Minnie Quinley; exercise, Little Lights, three primary children; the Star of the East, Mabel Quinley; recitation, I'll Try and Try, Russell Furbush; solo, Dear Little Star, Winifred Havdon; The Way to be Happy, Margaret Burdick; exercise, Christmas People, four primary children; solo, The Fir Trees are Waving, Mabel Quinley; Spreading the Light, five girls; Christmas Gifts, Woodrow Sebastian; song, Evergreen Garlands, county home girls; announcements; offering for Near East Relief; hymn, While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night, school; benediction, pastor.

Large Tree Decorated

People passing by Hayes Pullman lunch have remarked favorably on the Christmas decorations on the large tree in the rear of the car, which Mr. Hayes has had decorated with over a hundred varied colored electric lights. The many colored lights make a most attractive appearance every evening.

Assistant Instructors at Bates College

Among the students who have positions as assistant instructors for the years at Bates college are Byron F. Wilcox, '26, Putnam and Helen M. Lovelace, '25, also of Putnam.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE IS REELECTED FOR 1925

Included in the business transacted at the recent meeting of the New London County Agricultural society was the reelection of the 1924 executive committee to succeed itself with the addition of John H. Curry of Yantic to succeed the late George Kahn. The committee will be Geo. G. Grant, George G. Avery, Charles D. Greenman, Simon Brewster, Griswold M. Morgan, Gilbert S. Raymond, Albert J. Bailey, Lyman L. Chapman, Edward N. O'Brien, Joseph A. Clark, J. Laurence Raymond, John Curry, Edwin W. Ross and President Bushnell, executive officer. President Charles Bushnell was elected superintendent of grounds.

Those in attendance at the meeting were President Bushnell, L. L. Chapman, Clark Woodmansee, Gilbert Morgan, George Avery, G. L. Raymond, Casper Bailey, C. D. Greenman, A. J. Bailey, F. E. Fitch, Edward O'Brien, W. A. Gordon, H. W. Schriver, James E. Lathrop, F. B. Ames and Secretary Ross.

The board also voted to recommend to the society, the elimination of all life memberships in the future except the $1.25 class and this matter will be voted on at the next annual meeting in December, 1925.

Surprise Birthday Party

A party of 50 young friends pleasantly surprised Miss Vera Watters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Watters, 32 Clinton avenue, Friday evening in honor of her 17th birthday. The house was decorated in December colors of red and green. Miss Watters received many beautiful gifts including a pretty cake with 17 candles. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Watters and games and dancing were enjoyed. The party broke up at a late hour.

POETRY

THE FIRST SNOW.

You're not a bit excited
When you go to bed at night;
Then you wake up in the morning,
And the world's all white.

With a wild whoop of joy,
You tumble out of bed,
And dash up to the attic
For your old blue sled.

You find it tucked away
In a corner by the stairs,
With the old baby carriage
And some broken-down chairs.

The rope may be knotted,
And the runners red with rust,
But you work on that sled—
You just know you must!

Then out upon the hill
With its blanket of snow,
Down upon the [illegible]
And away you go!

THE MAGIC RING.

Alone I'm sitting in my room;
The glad day glides within.
My walls with books and pictures bloom
And all the heart to win.
Within, without—I love it all,
Yet—I'm not here today.
My soul obeys another thrall
Whose home is far away—

Ay, far away, and far away,
And long, and long ago,
Where olden scenes are wistful-gay,
And sweeter bird songs flow.
'Tis for a fairy's wand I yearn
To make of life a ring,
And me, a child that might return
To childhood's fairer spring.

HEARING ON MAIL RATES TO CARE FOR SALARY RAISES

Increases Explained and Recommended by Postmaster General New Before Joint Senate and House Committee—Chief Fight Will Be Made by Publishers Against Proposed $10,000,000 Increase in Rates on Newspapers and Periodicals—Administration Leaders in Congress Believe They Have Sufficient Votes to Sustain President Coolidge in Provision For Salary Increases.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Mail rate increases recommended by Postmaster General New to take care of salary raises for postal employes were explained and defended by Mr. New and other officials of the post office department today before a joint senate and house committee at the opening of hearings on the administration measure embodying the two classes of advances.

With the chief fight centering on the suggested $10,000,000 increase in the rates on newspapers and periodicals, representatives of publishers' organizations and individual publications were on hand in considerable number, but they will not be heard until later in the week.

The American newspaper Publishers' association through John Stewart Bryan of Richmond, Va., its vice president, presented a written protest that the time allowed to publishers to study the post office department's cost ascertainment report, was too short, but Chairman Moses announced that the sub-committee was acting under direction of the full committee to present a report as speedily as might be after the Christmas recess of congress.

It is the present purpose to report the administration bill favorably before the senate takes up, on January 5, the president's veto of the salary raise bill passed at the last session. Confident that they have sufficient votes in the senate to sustain the president, administration leaders now are bending their efforts towards having the vetoed measure referred to a committee or g[illegible] the administration bill substitut[illegible] for it.

Democratic leaders, however, are planning to force an outright test in the senate on the veto issue. Administration leaders are doubtful whether they can muster a majority of the senate against acting on the veto. The president has exerted his personal influence against overriding his veto and he is disposed to stand behind the measure to increase the mail rates to meet the advance for the postal employes.

The president also is disposed to support the cost ascertainment report on which the rate increases are based. Postmaster General New told the joint committee today that he believed this report to be accurate and was prepared to defend it against attacks which already have been made on it by the Newspaper Publishers' association.

Mr. New declared the rate increases recommended by him were "in accordance with the equities and in fairness to the users of the several classes of the mail." He said the post office department had not sought to raise anybody's rates; that the present situation had been forced by congress in raising the salaries of employes.

Joseph Stewart, executive assistant to the postmaster general, read a long prepared statement, explaining in great detail each of the proposed mail rate advances. He disclosed that under the new law, packages under eight ounces would be excluded from the parcel post and fall into the third class mail division with a flat rate of six cents up to the maximum weight for any place in the country.

Mr. Stewart conceded that the proposed rate of 1 1-2 cents on postal cards would work a hardship on persons desiring to use only a single card, since the carriage rate in such cases would be two cents, but asserted that the great bulk of postcards were bought in quantity by firms, lodges and organizations, and that the increase was justified since this kind of the first class mail alone fails to pay its way.

With respect to the increases in second class mail, both Mr. New and Mr. Stewart contended that the advance was as reasonable as could be worked out. The postmaster general said it would be inconsistent to increase all other classes and not the second class, which he described as the heaviest loser for the department, the loss being $74,000,000 as against a proposed increase of $10,000,000.

The advance proposed so far as newspapers is concerned applies only to advertising sections. Periodicals also would pay an advance rate on the reading matter sections, estimated to yield $762,000. As a result of the increase on the advertising portions, Mr. Stewart estimated that daily newspapers would pay an additional $4,720,044, and weekly newspapers an additional $624,919, annually. The advance for magazines and other periodicals on their advertising portions would be $3,168,218.

BANDITS ESCAPE IN WILD FLIGHT FROM STATE POLICE

Danbury, Dec. 23.—Following what was declared to be the wildest chase in the history of Fairfield county, two bandits, who are believed to have committed robberies in Westport last night, were still at large tonight, having broken through and out-motored cordons of Connecticut state police and New York state troopers.

Following their discovery near Westport late last night soon after an attempted robbery was reported there, the bandits dashed madly toward the New York state line and New York city, forcing their car up to 75 miles an hour over the icy roads. A Connecticut police car, reported by the operator to have been driven at the rate of 60 miles an hour, was soon left behind by the bandits. The bandit machine was chased for 50 miles before it was abandoned.

The car answering the description of that used by the Westport bandits was first sighted by Sergeant John Reilly and Policeman Leo Carroll of the Ridgefield barracks, about seven miles south of here. After chasing the machine to Danbury, the state policemen lost sight of it in this city, but again picked up the trail east of here after the bandit machine had crossed the state line in the direction of Brewster, N. Y.

State troopers of Brewster were unable to check the wild flight of the bandits as they dashed through that place, and a warning was sent by telephone to the troopers at White Plains. The bandit machine was sighted there a sohrt time later and was chased into a little used road, where it was abandoned. At that point, according to the police, there was but one man in the machine. Earlier in the chase it was said that two men occupied the machine, and the officials have no idea where the second man dropped off.

After abandoning the machine, the one bandit is believed to have taken to the woods in the direction of Ossining and it was believed during the day that he was surrounded. No word of his capture had been received here tonight, however, and it is believed that he worked his way out and headed toward New York city.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS TO THE POPE BY CARDINALS

Rome, Dec. 23 (By the A. P.).—The reception of the cardinals today by Pope Pius in roder that they might present their usual Christmas greetings to him was unusually solemn, because it coincided with the opening tomorrow of the holy door and the commencement of Jubilee year.

The feature of the reception was the address of Pope Pius. In it the pope emphasized the necessity for true peace, especially at the present time when the Christmastide joined with holy year.

"We hope the words 'Glory to God and on earth peace, good will toward men,' will emoe true," said the pontiff. "May this holy year bring peace to them and peace to the heart and peace to the will; to the mind, to give mankind thorough knowledge of their rights and duties, together with a larger vision of truth; to the heart, so that men may forevermore love each other as brothers, both individually and between the classes of the peoples; to the will, because therewith man can put into practice the necessary means to reach peace."

The latter part of the pope's speech laid emphasis on the meaning of holy year, which he said would be a year of "purification, elevation, sanctification, redemptions and remission, thus becoming the dawn of that holy peace which we wish should reign in the kingdom of Christ."

COOLIDGE TO APPOINT A NEW SEC'Y OF AGRICULTURE

Washington, Dec. 23.—President Coolidge in making the one cabinet change he now contemplates—the selection of a new secretary of agriculture—hopes to make his choice before March 4 so the prospective appointee may serve for a time as assistant secretary under the retiring department head, Howard M. Gore, of West Virginia.

With this unique experiment in cabinet making in mind, Mr. Coolidge has decided not to fill for the present the vacancy in the agricultural department resulting from the election two months ago of Mr. Gore from assistant secretary to cabinet rank. Service for a time as assistant secretary, Mr. Coolidge believes, would be valuable training for the man chosen to succeed Mr. Gore, who will be compelled to retire March 4, to assume the West Virginia governorship.

Consideration is being given by the president to a dozen or more suggestions for the agriculture secretaryship but he has made no decision. Meanwhile, indications have increased that no other cabinet changes are in prospect when Mr. Coolidge begins the term of office to which he was elected last November.

SIX DEFENDANTS FREED IN SEARLES EXTORTION CASE

Boston, Dec. 23.—The government today discontinued the charges against two of the six defendants who are on trial for alleged extortion of $50,000 from Victor A. Searles, an artist, who has been shown by testimony to have drawn a check for that amount that was cashed by William J. Corcoran former district attorney of Middlesex county, the principal defendant.

The prosecution then rested its case and Corcoran announced that he would offer no evidence.

Those against whom the charges were dropped [illegible] were J. Warren Kane and Michael J. Lyons, alleged to have been in the employ of the blackmail ring that forced payments amounting to thousands of dollars from wealthy men compromised by women lures of the gang. Whatever Kane and Lyons did was on the orders from Corcoran, the district attorney said.

Searles was a witness today testifying to the party in a South End apartment in which he was surprised with Blanche Paul and Eleanor Barnes, two of the women used by the gang. He said that he went there with Captain Arthur Austin, whom he employed as a body guard, he said, for a bite of lunch and a few drinks, when four men representing themselves as detectives entered and one of them told him to see Corcoran about getting the matter fixed up.

AUTHOR IBANEZ MAKES STATEMENT ABOUT DUELS

Mentone, France, Dec. 23 (By the A. P.).—"Alfonso and Primo De Rivera, whom I have attacked in my writings, are the only two men I will fight in a duel."

Vicente Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish author, made this declaration to The Associated Press today when informed of the numerous challenges emanating from Spain from various personages mentioned in his book who are desirous of seeking satisfaction by arms.

"I need not fight all these people to prove my courage," Ibanez continued. "I have already fought nine duels, either with pistols or swords, and two of my opponents were seriously wounded, one of them being at the point of death for several days."

The writer remarked that he had received no official challenges, either directly or through third parties officially appointed by General Aguilera, General Aizpuru, Viscount D'Ezan, former minister of war, or Benigmo Varela, editor of the Madrid royalist newspaper La Monarquia, all of whom have expressed their intention of seeking a duel with Ibanez or meeting him in some kind of physical encounter.

"I am not acquainted with Senor Varela," continued Ibanez. "I know the others slightly. Refusal to fight them is not due to a feeling that they are unworthy of my steel. But I have struck at the heads with my writings and am prepared to strike at them with weapons on the field of honor."

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Congress was in recess.

A senate committee began hearings on the postal rate bill.

Hearings on the Boulder Canyon Dam bill were concluded by the senate reclamation committee

The shipping board voted a degree of separation for the board and the Emergency Fleet corporation.

President Coolidge completed a statement announcing his decision on the sugar tariff, but the nature of it was not disclosed.

Appointment of a new secretary of agriculture is expected to be made before March 4, so that he may serve for a time as assistant secretary.

Complete official election returns gave President Coolidge 15,718,789 votes, John W. Davis 8,378,962, and Robert M. La Follette 4,822,319.

Investigation by the justice department into charges that a senate committee employe accepted money to influence legislation disclosed that no law was violated.

It was made known that President Coolidge feels the American government can take no notice of Ambassador Jessurand's speech suggesting a moratorium for payment of the French debt.

TYPHOID ASCRIBED TO DIET OF SHELLFISH

New York, Dec. 23.—From a diagnosis by exclusion it has been definitely determined that the excessive number of typhoid cases in New York city is due to the consumption of shell fish from contaminated waters, Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, health commissioner, said today.

He said that the disease thus far was confined largely to the wealthier class of automobile owners. They were "floaters" he said, who frequently motored out of town, and therefore frequently ate at places outside the supervision of the metropolitan health department.

The number of cases under treatment and observation in greater New York today approaches 600. Twenty-nine new ones were reported, as compared with six yesterday and nine on Sunday.

TO RADIO NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS FROM ABROAD

New York, Dec. 23.—Radio broadcasting station WOR has received fifteen acceptances from consuls general to broadcast New York's greetings to their nationals in this country and abroad on the evening of December 31, it was said tonight. In addition, many cablegrams from abroad, expressing interest in the program have been received at the station.

Officials of WOR said that President Coolidge had been asked to send a letter to the assembled consuls general, and that reports from the White House indicated such a message might be forthcoming. The broadcasting will start at 4.30 o'clock and will continue until 11.

Jackson's Second Attempting at Suicide

Stated After First Attempt That Investment in Oil Stock Led to the Deed.

Boston, Dec. 23.—Caleb S. Jackson, former vice president and treasurer of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, who attempted suicide early today, disclosed in a statement at the hospital where he was taken after he had severed several veins in his arms that he invested $43,000 of the funds of the Eastern Mutual Insurance Company, a subsidiary of the railway company, in an oil company in Arkansas. He said that he had also put $16,000 of his own money in the company, which he refused to name.

Jackson's suicide attempt was made at his Boston apartment and following the announcement made yesterday by officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway that he had resigned as treasurer and that as treasurer of the insurance company which handled the workmen's compensation business of the parent concern, he had made "certain dispositions of funds belonging to the mutu[illegible] aggregating $48,000, which were beyond the scope of his authority and in the opinion of the trustees a distinct breach of his fiduciary relationship." Physicians at the hospital said that Jackson probably would recover.

"I am the only one to blame," he said, in his statement. "There is no one but myself responsible for the investments. I invested the money with complete confidence in the success of the oil company. It failed to live up to my expectations.

"Eventually I think the wells in Arkansas will make a substantial profit and as a matter of fact the oil is now running in some quantity and the company is making shipment. Again I say there is no one to blame but myself. It is only natural for the trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway not to have quite the confidence in this oil company that I have. No one would know the name of the company. It is an incorporated concern and has only a trade name."

He explained his action by adding that it was "one of those sudden impulses" he said that he had attempted to take his life because of illness.

After the official notice of Jackson's resignation was published yesterday, he locked himself in his apartment, it became known. Early today his landlady, alarmed by sounds in the apartment, summoned police aid and it was found that Jackson had attempted suicide by cutting his arms with a razor. He left a note addressed to a sister-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Dresser, who occupied another suite in the building. The note which said that he "must pay the penalty," mentioned Mrs. Alice Burritt of New York but not Jackson's wife said to reside at East Washington, N. H.

An investigation of the affairs of the Eastern Mutual Insurance Company, by Wesley E. Monk, state insurance commissionetr, is in process and will probably be completed Friday, it was said. The commissioner said that the investments made by Jackson had been disclosed during the terminal inspection of the account of the company, recently. From preliminary reports received, he said, the affairs of the insurance company were "a mess."

Officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway said there would be no loss to that company, the two corporations being distinct except that the mutual is a subsidiary of the Street Railway co[illegible]pany.

"We have chec[illegible] up the securities of the Eastern [illegible]achusetts Street Railway Company and our investigations so far have disclosed that they are intact," Fred Cummings, vice president of the ecompany, said. "The investigation has been quite thorough and our opinion is that the securities will be found to be intact. The accounts of the two companies are separate."

Robert B. Stearns, vice president and general manager of the company, has been acting as treasurer since Jackson's resignation.

JACKSON MADE SECOND ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

Boston, Dec. 2—Caleb S. Jackson, vice president and treasurer of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway until his resignation yesterday, made a second attempt at suicide late this afternoon at the hospital to which he was rushed after his first attempt early tis morning. Company officials in announcing his resignation yesterday said that he had made certain disposition of funds of a subsidiary insurance company, amounting to $48,000 which were beyond the scope of his authority.

His nurse found that he had torn away the bandages binding the veins in his arms which he cut with arazor in his first attempt. Although he lost much blood physicians tonight said that he will recover. Jackson was later removed to another hospital and a policeman stationed at his bedside to guard against further attempts to end his life.

It was learned tonight that Jackson had been separated for some time from his wife, now residing in Hillsboro, N. H., and that he had brought suit for divorce against her.

YALE ART STUDENT WINS THE LLOYD WARREN PRIZE

New Haven, Dec. 23.—The Yale School of Fine Arts announced tonight that one of its students, Maude Phelps Hutchins of New Haven, has won first place and the special Lloyd Warren prize for extraordinary promise in the sculpture competition at Beaux Arts Institute of Design, New York city. The subject was a monumental figure symbolizing "disarmament." Two other Yale students, George Snowden, of Bridgeport and Avard Fairbanks, of Eugene, Oregon, received mention.

BURGLARS NOW VALUE LIQUOR ABOVE LOOT

Westerly, R. I., Dec. 23.—Numerous breaks into summer cottages at beaches in this vicinity without robberies has puzzled the police here, and the opinion is held that the miscreants were searching for liquor and not for loot. Many cottages are owned by persons living elsewhere in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey. The "Breakers" owned by Mrs. Francis B. Allen, of Hartford, was entered today but nothing was missed. The cottages are at Pleasant View, Watch Hill and along Watch Hill road.

Four Deaths in Naval Ambulance Seaplane

Plane Was Swamped at Hampton Roads Naval Air Training Station.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 23.—Three navy men and a civilian met death here today when a naval ambulance seaplane returning from off the North Carolina coast with a hospital patient was swamped at the Hampton Roads naval air station landing.

The dead are: E. M. Keyser and A. S. Mainwaring, chief petty officers; P. S. Gavin, a hospital apprentice, and Crlah B. William, Jr., of Buxton, N. C. Williams was being brought to a Norfolk hospital for treatment for pneumonia.

U. B. Williams, St., father of the civilian victim of the wreck, and a retired naval enlistment man; Lieutenant W. B. Gwin, pilot, and a radio operator and a mechanic escaped. The wreck was attributed to a hole in the bow of the plane, which allowed the water to rush into the forward part when it glided into the water. Two of the navy men were struck by the propellers and killed. The other victims were drowned. The bodies of the four men were recovered.

A motor boat which was waiting at a pier to assist in landing the sick man and the crew, sped to the scene of the accident and rescued the four men who managed to dive clear of the propellers.

Manwaring and Keyser lived in Norfolk. Givin's home was in Schenectady, N. Y.

An official inquiry to determine the cause of the accident will be made. Captain H. C. Cooke, commanding officer of the Hampton Roads naval air station, said it appeared "that there must have been a hole in the bow. When the plane landed, it did a nose dive and water rushed in through the bow, swamping it."

Only the forward part of the ship was submerged.

REACTION IN PRICES IN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

New York, Dec. 23.—Pre-holiday influences, coupled with a rise in the call money rate to five per cent. and a series of contrasting dividend announcements, dominated today's stock market. Perceptibly slowing up activity and forcing a reaction in prices. Total sales, which barely exceeded 1,100,000 shares, were the lowest of any full day's trading session since the election.

Unexpected dividend changes, including the resumption of payments by the Anaconda Copper Mining company and the omission of dividends by the Pittsburgh Coal company, contributed to a number of erratic fluctuations. Anaconda responded to the announcement with an upturn of two points to a new peak price for the year at 44 1-2, while the coal company stock fell back two points.

Speculation disappointment over the failure of American Can directors to authorize a larger distribution than a $2 extra dividend was reflected in a 4 point break in the stock. New York, Ontario and Western advanced a point on the resumption of dividends, a development which also led to renewed buying of New Haven, which controls the road.

Failure of General Electric company directors to authorize an expected split-up in the stock caused a break of about 3 points in the issue from its record high of 298 3-8, the closing quotations representing a net loss of almost six points. West Penn Power broke 11 5-8 points and recessions of one to 3 points took place in a number of active railroad stocks.

HENRY FORD BUYS OLD CONCORD STAGE COACH

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 23.—The old Concord stage coach which was placed in service between Middlesex and Waitsfield, Vt., some 75 years ago and which, according to tales still told, has figured in exciting holdups, has been sold to Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer, and will be shipped to Dearborn, Mich., in the near future. Announcement of the sale was made today by Charles A. Smith of Montpelier who, for seven years has owned the relic.

The conveyance was built to carry 16 passengers with seats inside and on top. The body is hung on leather thorough braces. Until about ten years ago the old coach was used for regular trips up the Mad River valley. It was built in Concord, N. H.

After it came into the possession of Mr. Smith, he described the relic to Mr. Ford who today ordered the coach delivered in Dearborn at the earliest possible date and requested that a history of the coach be prepared and forwarded to him.

GERMAN NOTABLES ARE TO MAKE PILGRIMAGE TO ROME

Berlin, Dec. 23.—Chancellor Mark and Cardinals Faulhaber of Munich and Schulte of Cologne are among the prominent German Catholics who have expressed their intention of making a pilgrimage to Rome during Holy Year. Arrangments were perfected today between the Catholic central committee headquarters at Wurzburg and the Italian authorities to prove for weekly special trains to arrive in Rome on Wednesdays, and also for the reservation of 800 beds nightly for the use of German pilgrims.

The first special train, with about 400 pilgrims aboard, left Germany Dec. 19, to transport pilgrims to the formal opening of the sacred portal at St. Peter's tomorrow. A German weekly special train will be arranged.

FIRE LOSS $8500,000 to $1,000,000 AT SCHUYLERVILLE, N. Y.

Schuylerville, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Fire today destroyed the plant and stock of the Standard Wallpaper company in this city, causing a loss estimated at btween $500,000 and $1,000,000. The fire department, augmented by aid from nearby cities and villages, prevented spread of the flames to the newly erected building of the Standard Pigment Company, an associate concern.

The fire was apparently caused by a spark frfom an electric wire or machine igniting acid used in manufacture. An hour and a half later the brick walls collapsed and flames rose high from the burning stock.

CHARGE MURDER ATTEMPT IN POISON CANDY CASE

Warrant Issued at Olean, N. Y., Charges Mrs. Hilma Ensminger of Columbia, Mass., With the Crime—Poison Candy Nearly Caused the Death of Miss Harriet Mosier of Olean, Who is Still in a Critical Condition—Candy Was Shipped to George E. Ensminger, Who is With His Grandmother in Olean.

Olean, N. Y., Dec. 23.—A warrant was issued here today charging attempted murder first degree in the poison candy case which nearly caused the death of Miss Harriet Mosier, who is still in a critical condition.

The warrant charges Mrs. Hilma Ensminger of Columbia, Miss., with the crime and Police Chief John C. Dempsey tonight wired the sheriff of Marion county, Mississippi, asking him to make the arrest.

The warrant was issued by Judge D. W. Keating on information furnished by the police and County Prosecutor Laidlaw.

Hilma Ensminger is the second wife of George E. Ensminger, a professional golfer. Ensminger's first wife, Marjorie, from whom he was divorced last June, lived at the Mosier home with her 6-year-old son to whom the poisoned candy was sent in a Christmas package.

Ensminger, according to relatives here, returned to Olean last Christmas, after he had been absent for several months and at that time tried to bring about a reconciliation with his wife, asking her to leave the city with him. She refused and word was received last June of Ensminger's divorce and re-marriage. His second bride was Mrs. Hilma Barnes Freeman. Ensminger has been contributing to the support of his first wife and son, relatives said.

No attempt was made to hide the source of the package of Christmas things, including the alleged poison candy. The wrapper bore the name of Mr. and Mrs. Ensminger and inside the candy box was a note which read: "Merry Christmas and Love. Would have sent more candy, but it did not harden. Will send more tomorrow."

Both the candy and a fig, according to the city bacteriologist, contained a small particles of a poison tablet which, apparently had been shaved into small pieces and imbedded into the candy after it began to harden.

The authorities refuse to disclose the evidence they are said to possess indicating a deliberate attempt to poison the Ensminger boy and possibly his mother.

DECLARES SHE KNOWS THE CANDY WAS NOT POISONED

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 23.—Emphatic denial that the candy contained in the box from which Harriet Mosier of Olean, N. Y., is said to have eaten, contained poison, was made public today by Mrs. George E. Ensminger, of Columbia, Miss., who assisted in preparing the candy.

"The candy was home made and shipped to George E. Ensminger, Jr., who is with his grandmother," said Mrs. Ensminger. "There must be some mistake because I know the candy was not poisoned."

She stated that the cook had helped her to prepare the candy and "that while there was some poison in the kitchen, she was positive that none of it could have gotten into the candy."

Efforts were being made to reach Ensminger, who is said to be in Gulfport.

HYLAN TO BE QUIZZED ON TRANSPORT SITUATION

New York, Dec. 23.—Mayor John F. Hylan will be asked why New York's transit situation is in such a tangled state when he appears tomorrow as a witness before Supreme Court Justice McAvoy, appointed by Governor Smith to make an investigation of the greater city's transportation system.

Henry L. Sherman, special counsel representing Justice McAvoy, today completed clearing the way for the mayor's appearance. It was understood that Mr. Sherman would question the mayor concerning the charges filed by him and the city board of estimate against the state transit commission.

John H. Delaney, former state transit construction commissioner and now city transportation commissioner, occupied the stand again today. His testimony ranged from technical details of rapid transit to defenses of the city administration's transit policies and, at times, verbal fencing with his questioner, Mr. Sherman.

When asked by Mr. Sherman to testify concerning the board of estimate's charged against the transit commissioners, Mr. Delaney requested that he be asked no questions concerning this phase of the controversy, stating that he was desirous of "staying out of any situation that would make me a prosecutor."

However, he answered one of the charges with the statement that the entire engineering staff of the transit commission had been taken over by the board of transportation, of which he is a chairman.

WOULD EXTERMINATE RATS AS HEALTH PRECAUTION

Washington, Dec. 23. — Senator Shortridge of California today asked the public health service for assistance in attempts to exterminate rats as a precaution against disease in Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda, Cal.

The senator acted upon telegraphic requests from Public Health Commissioner Bolton at Oakland, who stated that the county of Alameda, in which the three cities are situated, desired to wipe out the rodents. As Senator Shortridge understands the situation, there is no present cause for alarm, and the Alameda authorities are merely taking a precautionary measure.

Assistant Surgeon General White, who has charge of this class of work, said tonight that evidence of bubonic plague among rats had been found in Oakland, "with traces elsewhere," and that while these were not very extensive, effective means of extermination, based on past experience, would be taken.

RETICENCE MAINTAINED IN NEW JERSEY LIQUOR SCANDAL

Washington, Dec. 23.—Attorney General Stone declared after a lengthy conference today with United States Attorney Wilne and Assistant United States Attorney Van Riper, of New Jersey, that his investigation of affairs in their office was continuing but he was unwilling at this time to disclose the progress made.

None of the participants in the conference, which included Senator Edge of New Jersey, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebradt, assistant United States attorney general, would give a hint as to what had taken place in the meeting of nearly two hours.

There was the suggestion, about which Mr. Stone would say nothing, that a conclusion in the case had been put off, because of the forthcoming holidays.

NOVELIST JAMES LANE ALLEN IN HOSPITAL

New York, Dec. 23.—James Lane Allen, novelist, is a patient at the Roosevelt hospital here, his condition, according to his physician, Dr. Rolfe Floyd, being "neither good nor bad."

Mr. Allen, according to Dr. Floyd, has not been in good health for a month and has been at the hospital for the last four days.

COOLIDGE PLURALITY WAS THE LARGEST EVER GIVEN PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE

Washington, Dec. 23 (By the A. P.) —President Coolidge polled more votes in the November election than his two principal competitors combined, and had a popular plurality of 7,339,827—the largest ever given a presidential candidate.

Complete official returns show the vote for Mr. Coolidge was 15,718,789, compared to 8,378,962 for John W. Davis, and 4,822,3199 for Robert M. La Follette. The total popular vote for the three leading candidates was 28,920,070. In 1920, for all candidates it was 26,711,183.

Despite the record-breaking plurality for Coolidge which was 334,984 more than that given Warren G. Harding four years ago, the Coolidge total was 453,411 less than of Harding, due to the presence in the field of a third powerful ticket. Harding's total was 16,162,200.

Davis received a smaller vote by 768,391 than did James M. Cox, in 1920. The total for Cox was 9,147,353.

La Follette's vote exceeded by 686,299 the 4,126,020 given Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, when he headed a third ticket, but La Follette's strength was so distributed as to make a negligible showing in the electoral college whereas in the 1912 electoral vote Roosevelt ranked second to Woodrow Wilson and far ahead of William H. Taft.

In 12 states La Follette polled more votes than Davis, and in New York was given more votes than in his home state of Wisconsin—the only state credited to him in the electoral college.

Analysis of the returns shows that Coolidge received 54.4 per cent of the total vote of the three leading candidates. Davis had 29.0 per cent and La Follette 16.6 per cent.

FULL MILITARY HONORS AT FUNERAL OF W. J. SULLIVAN

New Haven, Dec. 23.—The body of Warrant Officer William J. Sullivan, whose death occurred at the naval hospital in Philadelphia Saturday from injuries received at the time of the explosion on the U. S. S. Trenton, where he was stationed, arrived in this city today accompanied by an escort of 37 men and officers. The funeral will be held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Sullivan at 8.30 o'clock tomorrow morning and later at St. Brendan's church where a solemn requiem high mass will be celebrated. Full military honors will be accorded him.

Warrant Officer Sullivan was born in Danbury August 18, 1894, but most of his youth was spent in this city. He enlisted in the navy at the age of 16 and played a prominent part in athletics during the naval career.

ANDERSON SILENT WHEN INFORMED OF WARRANTS

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 23.—William H. Anderson refused to make any public comment when he was informed today that warrants had been received at Sing Sing prison for his re-arrest when he is paroled tomorrow morning after serving nine months of a 1 to 2 year term for third degree forgery.

The wife of the former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York was reported ill at the Yonkers home to which Anderson had expected to return immediately after his parole.

"DRY" AGENT ASHER WAS ACQUITTED BY JURY

Philadelphia, Dec. 23.—James L. Asher, prohibition agent, known as the "Lone Wolf" was acquitted by a jury in the federal district court tonight of charges of second degree murder and manslaughter in connection with the death of Peter Yancaurskas, a saloon keeper. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty after deliberating about five hours.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1191
Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

Shoppers looking about them along the business section of the city, Tuesday, declared rightly that "it was just like on a Saturday afternoon," with surging crowds, busy clerks, bundles and heavy street traffic. The last minute rush is on here and among those hustling around are many who are breaking solemn promises that they would not bother buying Christmas gifts this year. The majority of the stores about town were doing a land-office business Tuesday and it is evident that sales will double today (Wednesday) Business houses are adorned in all the glory of Christmas decorations. As for Main street proper the big tree at Lincoln square is a constant source of attraction, especially when lighted at night when, gay with colorful electric bulbs, it illuminates the entire square. Most all of the smaller trees along the thoroughfare have been decorated by merchants and others and packages attached to the limbs bear original gift suggestions to some of the popular men about town.

Given here is the entertainment program planned by the committee of the Christmas community celebration headed by Valentine L. Murphy for Christmas afternoon at the state armory. Children between the ages of five and fifteen, inclusive, will be admitted to the armory after 3.15 o'clock. The program will start at 3.15 and continue for one hour. St. Joseph's Boy Scouts' band will furnish music and the feature number will be a group dancing by children under the direction of Miss Emma L'Heureux. The program: 3.30-3.45, arrangement of group games; 3.45-4.15, group games; (a) girls and boys 5 to 8 (b), girls 9 to 11; (c) boys, 8 to 11; under the direction of Natchaug school teachers; (d) boys, 12 to 15, under the direction of the boy scouts; 4.15-5.15, entertainment; 5.15-5.30, tree exercises; 5.30, refreshments and exit.

The distributions of Christmas gifts of good things to eat, clothing and toys to needy families will be made from the chamber of commerce rooms by the distribution committee, starting at 9 o'clock this (Wednesday) evening, to continue until 11 o'clock. Five of the committee will impersonate Santa Claus.

It was learned Tuesday from the headquarters here of the Salvation Army that the Christmas kettles set up on the street with the request that they be kept boiling have only been sizzling to date. Although the Army is grateful for the unselfishness of many, the fall in contributions comes as a disappointment, as considerable more money is needed to carry on the plans of the Army for its charity work at Christmas and to reserve funds for relief work through the long winter months. The donations have been sufficient so that the needy children invited to the tree celebration will be given all that they have been led to expect, but it is not likely on Christmas that these young officers need help, unless the pot is kept boiling the Salvation workers will be unable to give assistance this winter.

With the amount set at $500 for a community Christmas fund conducted here under the chairmanship of H. J. Bullard, popular subscription to date amount of $394 had been received from 3 to 3.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Taking the average receipts per hour during eight hours Tuesday as a standard the committee remains optimistic that the quota will have been realized about mid-afternoon today (Wednesday.)

Eighteen thousand letters, an aver-age of one to every man, woman and child in Willimantic, were delivered by carriers of the local post office on their morning trips Tuesday. This figure gives some idea of the immense amount of mail matters being handled by the office at this time.

Superintendent Andrew C. Roux of the Rossie Velvet company plant here made a strong denial Tuesday of rumors circulated here that the local plants of the company would close down from December 24 to January 5 The two plants will close this (Wednesday) evening but will open next Monday and will follow the same schedule for New Year's.

The falling of Christmas and New Year's day on Thursdays has necessitated the making of changes in to-day schedules of Inspector Henry Reinhold of applicants for motor vehicle driver's licenses and Archibald W. Buchanan, agent for the state board of education. Agent Buchanan will hold his weekly session at the town building this (Wednesday) forenoon, also on Wednesday, December 31. Inspector Heinold will be at the town building Friday, December 26 and January 2.

The weekly meeting of Willimantic Rotary club, held Tuesday noon, was filled with only routine business being transacted. President Harry W. Smith was in charge. Albert B. Smith, was chosen delegate from the local club to a district conference on boys' work to be held in New Haven Jan. 12.

Joseph Tubridy of Fordham uni-versity, and Lloyd Wilcox of Worcester Tech arrived at their respective homes here for the holidays Tuesday.

One hundred and fifty Christmas stockings have been filled and will be sent to the children of the Windham County Temporary Home, at Putnam, by the girls in the sewing class of Miss Lesmox and the domestic science classes of Miss Barker at the William High school.

The sixty-five inmates of Brooklyn jail will be provided a special Christmas dinner by Assistant Jailer Walter Tripp.

A Christmas tree entertainment was held for the children in the brilliantly-decorated Sunday school room of the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening. The following programme was given by the children of the Primary department under direction of Mrs. E. B. Freeman: Greeting, by Chas. Green; recitations, Poor Santa, Grace Cross; Early Rising, Paul Stimson; a prayer song by all the children, Father, We Thank Thee; recitations, Goodwill, Richard Spellman; Share and Serve, Audrey Tripp; Mother Goose Up to Date, Hollis Lewis; song and chorus, Christmas Bells; pantomime by two fairies, Ruth and Dorothy Shedd. The second part of the programme was given by the Intermediate department under the direction of Miss Ethel Simonds and consisted of carols by all the children, the Christmas Story, told by Alice Clough, prayer by Rev. Stanley Muirhead, pastor; recitation by John Osterhoudt; Christmas Tree Farm, a duet by the little Misses Drummond, Holy Night; a recitation by Doris Bill, a solo by Esther Muirhead; a recitation, The Precious Manfer, Helen Woodward; duet, John and Raymond Osterhoudt; recitation, Norman Williams; and a recitation in costume, What Santa Claus Thinks, by Eugene Lewis.

Christmas was observed Tuesday afternoon before school closed in all the rooms of the model school. Christmas trees, parties, and programmes were held in Miss Oats' room, Miss Haire's, Miss Lewis', and Miss Lord's room, a little red house had been erected of crepe paper and lath, filled with gifts and standing in a grove of Christmas trees. Miss Davison's children exchanged gifts, played games and had their own programme. The two sixth grades attended a pageant, adapted from the play, "Bethlehem," given by the children in Miss Reese's room and showing the modern interpretation of the Christmas spirit and its development from the Adoration of the Magi.

In Miss Buchanan's, Miss Robeson's and Miss Quinn's rooms, baskets for certain needy families were filled by the children and carried by them to their destination after recess in the morning. The family adopted by Miss Buchanan's children consisted of a mother and three small children, one only a few months old, and whose father after being gassed in the World war was in a tuberculosis hospital. The children brought both money and provisions, filled two large baskets with provisions and bought and selected all kinds of clothing which they delivered wrapped and hanging on a real Christmas tree. The contents of the basket included fruit, nuts, vegetables, frosted cakes, cup cakes and pies they had made themselves and a great many other things. Miss Quinn's children sent their family two bushel baskets filled with provisions, Miss Quinn herself was presented a five dollar gold piece from the pupils in her room.

The Christmas programme given by the children of the kindergarten at the Natchaug school Monday morning included a speech of welcome by Lois Hall, a song by all the children, duet by Michael Donnahey and Ernest John, recitation, Eleanor Sears, a folk dance by fourteen children, "Clap, Clap, Bow!" recitation by Thomas Haney, Phyllis Bernet, Eugene Bergerson and Alma Hickey, and the minuet by all the children. Parents and friends attended the exercises.

A Community tree and Christmas party was given Tuesday evening in the Windham Center school under the direction of the principal, Mrs. Moseley. The programme given by the school children included a cornet solo by Margaret Gehrig, carols, "The First Noel," "Away in a Manger," and "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," accompanied by Miss Helen Hopkins. A recitation of welcome was given by a group of primary children. A song, "Christmas Dolly" by first grade children, Marjorie Wallen, Mildred Olson and Sophia Phillips. A song, "Santa Claus" followed, by children from the first through the fourth grades, and "We Three Kings of Orient Are" by grades five to eight. A play, "The Dolls Take a Hand," was given by fourteen children from different rooms and a motion song, "Santa Claus." Distribution of oranges and candy by the Community club. There was a large attendance.

Among the out-of-town visitors in Willimantic Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porter, Mrs. Robert Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Robinson and son, Mrs. Lucius Robinson and Miss Dorothy Witter, of Columbia, Mrs. Sherwood Miner and Mrs. Sherwood Griffin of Hebron, Mrs. Paul Cox of Boston, Miss Mildred Rathbone and Norman Rathbone, of Ansonia.

Following carol singing by the nor-mal school girls, Monday evening, a play, "Why the Chimes Rang," was given by the girls in the normal school building, under the direction of Miss Lucy Murdock, of the history department. The cast was very well chosen and handled with extreme delicacy and realism the situation, which deals with the spirit of self-sacrifice and reward. The play has to do with a chime of bells hung in a church tower such a long time ago no one has ever heard them ring. It is rumored that they will speak only when the best gift in the world is placed on the altar at their font in the church. In a land of selfish and calculating people, each one hopes to be the giver of the gift, but no sign is given from the music until a little lame boy creeps up to the altar with a coin sent by his brother, who gave up his chance to hear the bells ring to save a dying beggar. The hush that fell at the final curtain was too deep to be broken by applause. It is considered one of the best pieces of dramatic work ever given at the school.

Mrs. Mary J. Boglisch of Hanks Hill, Mansfield, will be the guest today (Wednesday) of Mrs. Charles Wheeler.

Among the young people home for the holidays is Ralph Carpenter, Jr., from M. I. T., Boston, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. E. Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Blake and family of New York are guests in Windham of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wheeler.

Rev. and Mrs. Arthur S. Wheelock will be guests on Christmas of Mrs. Charles Sanderson, in Andover, Mass.

There will be Christmas carol sing-ing at the Card Memorial Home and under the windows of other shut-in people this (Wednesday) evening by a group of young people from the Congregational church, under the direction of Mrs. C. C. Helmold. The group will sing on Christmas day at the county farm.

FLOYD GRANT, OF LEBANON, INJURED WHILE CHOPPING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Dec. 23.—Floyd Grant, 26, a resident of the Goshen road, Lebanon, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital this city suffering from a painful cut received early Tuesday afternoon while he and two companions were engaged in chopping logs on the Erickson farm, located on the old Baltic road near Bailey's ravine, in the town of Franklin. It was not determined just how the accident happened but Mr. Grant appeared to blame it to his own negligence. The cut was on the lower part of the abdomen near the base of the spine and was three inches deep, requiring several stitches to close. Dr. F. E. Guild of Windham was summoned and he rendered first aid treatment. Grant was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. It was stated at the institution that unless infection set in it is expected that Mr. Grant's recovery will be speedy.

CLARENCE STONE FALLS FROM ROOF AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Willimantic, Dec. 23. — Clarence Stone, 20, of 103 Lawrence street, Hartford, an employe of the C. G. Bostwich Construction company, was severely injured, shortly after three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when he fell from the roof of a two story building, under construction at the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital, at Mansfield Depot. When completed the building will be used as a nurses' home. Stone was engaged in laying on the roofing when he lost his footing. The roof is high-pitched and he fell through the air at such momentum that he cleared the staging work placed along the eaves and landed some twenty feet away from the base of the structure. He sustained a fractured leg, severe cuts about the body and possibly internal injuries. Dr. H. B. Ballou, physician at the institution, administered first aid treatment, while awaiting the arrival of St. Joseph's hospital ambulance, which was operated by James J. Lee and arrived in record time, to bring the injured man to the hospital on. Stone is unmarried.

MANSFIELD CENTER

A Christmas service was held at the church Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Jones preaching from the subject, Christmas Message. A musical program was rendered by a choir of eleven voices. The decorations were of Christmas greens.

Echo grange had a Christmas program and tree at the church this Tuesday evening. Rev. Mrs. Jones is in charge of the program.

The Sunday school and community Christmas celebration is to be held at the church Wednesday evening beginning at 7.30 o'clock. The children will give a program under the direction of Mrs. M. E. Walker and there will be a Christmas tree.

A number of new books have been received at the library this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Wyman are to spend Christmas in Toledo, Ohio with their daughter, Mrs. Willis Homer and family.

Among young people at home for the holidays are Alan Eaton of Brown University, Mervyn Little of Wesleyan and Miss Blanche Davoli of the New York School of Physical Training.

COLCHESTER

Walter B. Lombard of Hartford has been the guest of his mother on Norwich avenue.

Mrs. George H. Chapman and Thatcher Shepard of New London were recent guests of their aunt, Mrs. Sarah J. Bingham.

William Gurgenvan was a visitor in New Britain Saturday.

The domestic science class at Bacon Academy, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Marion L. Morris, instructor of home economics, held a Christmas party the past week. The domestic science room was effectively decorated. The science class treated the junior science class to a spread of sandwiches, cake, and sweetmeats. Christmas gifts were exchanged. Numerous games and stunts completed the programme. Several of the girls received little porcelain gifts which were a decided novelty. The school closed Friday for the holidays.

Patrick Connors of Hartford was a guest of Fred J. Hudson over Sunday.

Bacon Academy opened its basketball season Saturday night defeating the Hartford High second team 20 to 5. The local team had a fine defense and shot 9 baskets. M. Broder was high scorer. The play was rough. Half time found the Baconians in the lead 11 to 4. The lineup was as follows: Bacon Academy: J. Broder rf, Schedroff lf, R. Fedus lf, Singer lf, M. Broder c, S. London rg, Levine rg, Minsk rg. Hartford Second: Giraidis rf, Guerriero lf, Smith lf, I. Friedman lf, Cole c, Schmitz c, A. Friedman lg, Schloesburg rg, Dragat rg. Samuel Slavkin referee.

William McDonald and George N. Lyman were visitors in Middletown Friday.

Irving Jones of Lebanon was a week end caller in town.

COLUMBIA

The Christmas celebration of the Center school was held in the chapel on the grade Friday afternoon, the room being filled by relatives and friends of the children. A very enjoyable entertainment was presented under the direction of the teacher, Miss Marion Holmes. Each pupil gave either a recitation, sang or took part in an exercise.

A Christmas tree had been prettily decorated and held a dainty gift for each pupil, also a gift from each of the 23 pupils for Miss Holmes.

At the close of the exercises Frederick Birtsch acting as Santa Claus distributed the gifts, candy and oranges. Miss Holmes held quite a reception receiving the congratulations of the visitors displaying the many beautiful gifts she had received.

Miss Beatrice Collins engaged in kindergarten work in Bridgeport, is at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Hubert P. Collins on Chestnut Hill, spending the Christmas holidays.

Christmas services were held in Columbia Congregational church Sunday. The church had been decorated with evergreens, and a handsomely decorated tree had been erected in front of the church by the choir gallery. Christmas hymns were sung during the service, and at the offertory Mrs. Edith Isham sang very effectively, The Birthday of a King. The pastor Rev. C. C. Haun preached an able sermon on the birth of Christ.

A masquerade ball, being the final dance of the season given by Bert Green at Utley's hall, was held Saturday evening. The dance was a great success and the attendance so large that the hall was crowded.

William Collins who has been ill for several days with pleurisy is thought to be improving.

The Sunday school of the Congregational church held it's Christmas festival Sunday evening and considering the severity of the weather it was well attended.

An orchestra by Prof. A. E. Lyman played several carols and conducted selections accompanied by Mrs. Fred A. Abell. The school sang, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Rice, who had charge of the celebration. Miss Lila Seeley sang, very beautifully the carol, Holy Night and Rev. Charles Haun, the pastor, gave an interesting address. After the services, gifts, candy and oranges were distributed to the smaller children, and every one in the church received an orange and a box of candy. The offering was for missions, to be designated by the giver.

CAROLINA

On Christmas day two masses are to be said at St. Mary's church, one at 7:30 and the other at 10:30. The crib will be put in place Christmas eve and will remain until the end of January.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Centenary of the birth of Jesse F. Tapley, the New Englander who invented the ruling-machine now in general use by printers.

President Coolidge will press a button this evening that will illuminate a mammoth community Christmas tree which has been put up in the vicinity of the White House.

William Anderson, former New York state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, is to be released today from Sing Sing prison, where he has served a term for alleged forgery.

Christmas eve in Paris will be given over to scenes of revelry such as Paris herself never witnesses on any other night of the year, while to the Parisian Christmas day itself will be a day of dull decorum.

In every family in Sweden Christmas eve will be observed with the exchange of gifts, and in every household will be enjoyed the most significant holiday meal—dried fish which has been especially prepared and "grot," which is rice cooked in milk.

In Spain and in the Spanish-American countries the streets will resound on Christmas eve with the strum of guitars and mandolins, and every home will be serenaded. At midnight the entire populace will attend church for a special mass.

In Poland the superstitious peasants believe that what they do on Christmas eve they will do the year around and therefore they are sure to conduct themselves this evening with that prospect in view.

Throughout a large part of Europe it is a belief of the superstitious that on Christmas eve the cattle have the power to talk together, and after the feast the maidens go quietly to the barn and in the manner that the cattle low they puzzle out their chances of matrimony.

"Holy Year" in the Roman Catholic church begins at midnight tonight and will continue for twelve months. This is due to an edict made in 1470, which declared every twenty-fifth year a jubilee. At midnight tonight Pope Pius, with gold hammer and trowel, will formally usher in the great celebration by opening the hold door of St. Peter's.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

A new Laurette Taylor is depicted in One Night in Rome, the Metro-Goldwyn film version of her stage success which heads the double feature bill at the Breed today and Thursday.

For the first time Miss Taylor is shown on the screen only in beautiful gowns and for the first time in her brief motion picture career she is shown in an emotional role.

In Peg O' My Heart Miss Taylor was the gay littlelrish philosopher, in rags through half of the story. It was the same in Happiness.

As the Duchess Mareno in One Night in Rome, Miss Taylor appears as a beautiful young member of Italian nobility, colorful and emotional, wearing a dozen gorgeous gowns instead of a few cheap cotton ones. It is a film version of the successful play by J. Huntley Manners.

Hold Your Breath a five part feature comedy is offered for the second feature.

Hold Your Breath, the big Al Christie feature comedy with Dorothy Devore, Walter Hiers and Tully Marshall, has a line-up of characterizations that includes blackface, German, Irish, Hebrew, English and American comedy impersonations. The story is by Frank Roland Conklin Scott Sidney directed.

The all-star comedy cast of Hold Your Breath is headed by Dorothy Devore, who is called upon to display her talents in many dangerous situations. She proves to be courageous and manges to inject large quantities of humor role while she dangles from hazardous heights and risks her fair neck in a hundred different ways.

The latest Fox news completes the bill.

Broadway Theatre.

The management has arranged for the Christmas holiday a bevy of big time stars in the B. F. Keith vaudeville programme that will be presented at the Broadway theatre starting tomorrow.

Richard Talmadge, whose stunts have gained him a unique position on the screen, is the star of a thrilling new picture, the first of a series of Carlos productions for F. O. B., which comes to the Broadway theatre Thursday. "American Manners" is the title of this photodrama, which is replete with action revolving around the activities of a smuggling ring which is using ships of Dan Thomas, merchant prince, to evade the law. How young Roy Thomas (Richard Talmage) foils this band, clears his father of suspicion in connection with the smuggling, and wins the hand of the girl of his heart, forms a fast-action drama which will have an audience holding onto the arms of the seats. Mr. Talmadge is supported by an exceptional cast including Helen Lynch, Lee Shumway, Mark Fenton, Pat Harmon, Arthur Melette and William Turner.

Educational News Weekly will be the short subject on this excellent programme.

Palace Theater

In these days of artificialities and make believe it is seldom that the theater-goer may be quite certain that scenes passing before him on the motion picture screen are actually those set down by nature, and not cleverly contrived by the genius of the property man.

But in the case of The Mine With the Iron Door, Sol Lesser's film version of Harold Bell Wright's new and popular novel produced for Principal pictures corporation and scheduled as the chief feature for next Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Palace theater, there is no room for doubt as to the actuality of the scenes and settings. Every word of the story was written by Mr. Wright in the desert mountains of Arizona, near Tucson, and every scene in the feature photoplay was made on the exact spot described by the novelist.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

When Santa Claus dumps his last load of parcels at the postoffice tomorrow (Thursday) morning and says "There's the end of it" the words will sound as sweet to the exhausted postal workers as though from on high they heard the glorious Come All Ye Faithful.

For be it known that the force at the Danielson postoffice is now engaged in a mail handling campaign that tops anything ever experienced in this town. It was 5 o'clock Tuesday morning when tired clerks cleaned up the mail that had deluged them on the previous day and at closing time Tuesday night they were looking forward to working until early risers are up this morning. This is what it means to be in the postal service at Christmas time.

As illustrating what an avalanche of matter is coming through this year it may be mentioned that the town hall has temporarily been made an annex of the postoffice for the handling and assorting of parcel post. The big floor space was literally covered with packages Tuesday morning. They were assorted and distributed in aisles along the floor, each being designated for a given street, route or rural route. There were truck loads of matter there. Nothing like it is recalled in the history of the Danielson office. And this merely has to do with incoming packages and does not consider the incoming first class mail and cards, which are arriving by the thousand. Neither does it take any account of the outgoing business—business originating here. Postmaster E. H. Keach said Tuesday afternoon that the business transacted through the windows of the office this Christmas season will be the largest in the history of the office. As many as two or three clerks are constantly engaged in selling stamps.

The heat of the drive will end tonight, at what hour only a prophet can foretell. On Christmas day the office will close at 10 a. m. and will remain closed for the day, though the lobby will be open. There will be neither city nor rural deliveries on Christmas, this arrangement on order from the post office department.

Application for cards of admission had by Tuesday exhausted the available supply for the solemn high festival mass to be sung at midnight tonight (Christmas eve) at St. James' church. The cards were limited in number to the seating capacity of the church, so not many more than a fourth of the membership of the parish will attend the service, the first of the kind to be held here in more than a score of years. The seating capacity of St. James' church is about 500.

Mrs. Joseph Gareau, organist and choir director, will be in charge of the special musical program. The Messe de L' Oratoire, by L'Abbe Chedon, choirmaster at the Madeleine in Paris, will be sung, as follows: Kyrie, chorus choir; Gloria, chorus choir; Gratias agimus, soprano solo, Miss Lucille Caron; Credo, chorus choir; Et in Spiritum, baritone solo, Raymond Ballard; offertory, Mrs. Joseph Gareau, organist; Pastores (Melville) duet, Mrs. Eva Bodo, soprano, Miss Anna Gates, alto; Natus est, soprano solo, Miss Beatrice Maynard, alto solo, Miss Lucille Caron; Sanctus, chorus choir; Benedictus, tenor solo, Henry Wolsard; Agnus Dei, soprano solo, Mrs. Albert Bernier, trio, Mrs. Bernier, Henry Wolsard, tenor, and A. Bernier, bass.

The choir members are: Soprano, Mrs. Albert Bernier, Misses Margaret Sullivan, Eva Morin, A. Lavallee, Pauline Boulaine, Beatrice Maynard, Lorena Vincent, Liane Lemieux, Lucy Peters, Mrs. Katherine McCormack, Mrs. Arthur Boulais, Imelda Kelley; altos, Mrs. Eva Bodo, Miss Anna Gates, Miss Lucille Caron, Miss Elizabeth Grennon, Miss Leonie Grennon, Miss Jeanette Gareau; baritone, Raymond Ballard, Alphonse Meunier and A. Dragon; tenor, Henry Wolsard; bass A. Bernier, Joseph Gareau. The church auditory will be beautifully decorated and brilliantly illuminated.

Christmas morning at St. James' church the masses will be at 7.30, 9 and 10.30 o'clock. The 7.30 o'clock mass will be the children's mass with the following special program of festival music:

7.30 mass: St. James' school choir, sing the Merry Christmas Bells, by school; Noel! Noel! solo, Adrienne Chartier; chorus, school; A Royal Guest, solo and duet, Irene Regis and Beatrice Loiselle; chorus, school; En Cette Nelt, school; Adeste Fideles, school.

9 o'clock mass—Dialogue des Bergers, Miss Lavalle, Miss Eva Morin; chorus, choir; C' etait Minuet, solo, Miss Beatrice Menard, chorus, choir; Angel chorus, solo and duet, Miss Pauline Boulaine, Miss Lucille Caron, chorus, choir; Soft Starlight Shining, solo and duet, Mrs. J. Bruyea and Miss Lucile Caron.

At the 9 o'clock mass a chorus choir of young women will sing. The Chimes of Christmas Morning will feature the musical part of the service at this mass. This choir is made up of Mrs. Pearl Brodeur, Mrs. Arthur Boulais, Mrs. Lena Breayea, Miss Lucille Caron, Miss Elizabeth Grennon, Miss Leonie Grennon, Mrs. Henry Kelley, Miss Liane Lemieux, Mrs. A. Lavallee, Miss Pauline Methe, Miss Eva Morin, Miss Beatrice Maynard, Miss Lucy Peters, Miss Pauline Boulaine, Miss Leona Vincent. Mrs. Joseph Gareau is the organist and choir director. Sister M. Carmella is in charge of the children's choir.

Today (Wednesday) bringing, at its close, the end of the rush and crush of the Christmas season has been a very satisfactory one in Danielson from a business viewpoint, and possibly as satisfactory from many other angles. Merchants have found the buyers liberal in their expenditures. Since last Friday the burden of the Christmas shopping has been done. Monday and Tuesday were both very busy days for many of the stores in town. As on other nights of late the stores will remain open this evening.

Norman Reeves was engaged on Tuesday in recruiting players for the Alumni-Service battery basketball game to be played in the state armory Saturday evening. K. H. S. graduates who are basketball players and in condition to stand a few minutes of strenuous work at this pastime will be welcomed as recruits for the Alumni team by Mr. Reeves. He already has a list of eight or ten players, but it is anticipated that some of them will not be in strict training and that a number of substitutes will be required. So all the good players will help boost the traditions of the Alumni association if they report to Mr. Reeves during the week and signify their willingness to play. It should not be assumed from this that the Alumni is going to be a set-up for the Service battery. Such men as Longo, Reeves and Williams of the Connecticut Agricultural college will be in the game. Back of Yale, Blakesley of last year's fast team and other such sterling players. What the Alumni is after is an ample list of reserves.

Christmas exercises of the Pentecostal Sunday school are to be held Christmas afternoon at 5 o'clock. Following is the program: March by the children; singing, Follow the Star, by the school; prayer, Rev. A. E. Gallup; welcome, Dolly's Piece, Gertrude Miner; recitation, Christmas Bells, Walter Reynolds; recitation, O'er Bethlehem's Hills, Milly Jessup; exercise, The Christmas Wreath, seven children; recitation, Our Song, Marion Gallup; solo, Liberty song, Mary Doloff; recitation, The Very Best, Helen Reynolds; organ duet, Marion Gallup-Esther Ware; recitation, Like the Shepherd, Bernice Burton; solo, When Our Lord Was Born, Gertrude Miner; exercise, Pilgrim and Guide, Emerson Reynolds and Robert Malbourne; recitation, The Christmas Rule, Florence Gallup; singing by school, Starlight, over a manger; recitation, Christmas in Bethlehem, Ines Reynolds; recitation, Evangeline Rainville; Zuza and organ duet, Esther Ware and Gertrude Miner; exercise, The Ladder of Joy, by seven girls; solo, There Were Shepherds, Esther Ware; recitation, A Shepherd Lad, Louis Jessup; singing by school—Gates of Light; recitation, Alice Reynolds; organ solo, Esther Ware; recitations, A Living Christmas Tree, Olin Gallup; Happy Bells, Gertrude Miner; exercise, The Bells, five girls; duet, Jolly, Jolly Santa Claus, Dorothy Rainville and Gertrude Miner; recitation, A Surprise, Mary Doloff.

Mrs. Luca Pincine, 73, wife of Buseba Pincine, died Tuesday night at their home in Plainfield. Mrs. Pincine was a native of Canada, but had been a resident of this country for years. The family was resident in Woonscoket before coming to Plainfield a few years ago.

Tuesday was a day off for the town court. There were no personal tax cases, nor any other kind of cases. As to personal tax cases, it is but a lull in the long campaign of prosecutions. The court will be engaged with these cases again within a few days. There are at least 350 more such cases to be heard

PUTNAM

At the home of Mrs. Janet Sheppard on Senexet road at noon Saturday her daughter, Ruth Sheppard, was united in marriage with R. D. McAllister, supervisor of rural schools. The house was decorated with Christmas greens, which also formed an arch and bell under which the bridal party stood during the ceremony. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Ruth Robinson. A cousin of the bride, Miss Margaret Marah, played a violin obligato. Rev. David Hatch of Woonsocket, R. I., was the officiating clergyman. The bride was given in marriage by Dr. William Simmons of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Lakeville, Conn., who was a close friend of the late Dr. Sheppard.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with Florentine lace. She wore a veil with crown of lace and orange blossoms. Her flowers were bride roses and pinks. The maid of honor was Miss Anna McAllister, sister of the groom. She wore green satin, trimmed with gray maribou and carried a shower bouquet of carnations. The best man was Howard Hiller of Marion, Mass., a classmate of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held and refreshments were served by a caterer from Worcester, assisted by Mrs. John Clark and Mrs. Louise Child.

Mr. and Mrs. McAllister left for a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will occupy Mrs. Sheppard's home.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Maine, and for several years past has been supervisor of schools in Woodstock and adjoining towns. The bride was graduated from Woodstock Academy, class of 1920, and from Packer Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1922. She has also taken a musical course in the New England Conservatoryq. She received numerous gifts. Her present to the maid of honor was an amber necklace.

Postmaster Macdonald and his clerks and carriers have had to reverse their estimate that Christmas business was going to be light. Saturday noon it began to come with a rush and has been steadily increasing since then. At nine o'clock Monday morning the lobby of the office was crowded and lines were formed to the windows. Carriers worked until nine o'clock Monday and Tuesday nights to cover their routes. But there will be no overtime work on Christmas day. The office will be open from 6.30 a. m., to 11 p. m. Sorting of mail will begin at 6.30 and carriers will start on their routes early but will stop work and return to the office promptly at 11 o'clock. This is in compliance with the order that went into effect prior to Christmas, 1923. It will be the second time the mail carriers have eaten their Christmas dinners at noon, the hour that New England tradition fixes for the feast. There will be no rural deliveries.

The annual New Year's party of Putnam lodge of Elks promises to be of unusual interest. It will be held in the club rooms Wednesday evening, December 31. Supper will be served at 9. During and after the supper there will be a number of high class vaudeville acts.

Hibbard R. Norman and James L. Case of Norwich, with Sidney H. Miner of New London were named recently by Judge G. E. Hinman of the superior court appraisers in the petition of the Mystic Valley Water Co., to acquire real estate of Mathias and Emma Grisar of Stonington, which the power company wants for its reservoir property. The majority of the Mystic Valley Water Co. stock is supposed to be held in Putnam. For several years Judge L. H. Fuller was secretary of the company.

FIRST NATIONAL DEPOSITORS STILL WAIT FOR DIVIDEND

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Dec. 23.—October 21 Judge H. M. Geissler returned from Washington, D. C., and said that he had been authorized by Henry M. Dawes, comptroller of the currency, to make the announcement that a first dividend would be paid depositors of the First National bank of not less than 20 per cent. and probably 25 per cent. and that it would be paid before Christmas.

On December 5 he sent the following telegram in answer to an inquiry.

"Payment of a dividend to creditors of First National bank, Putnam, will be expedited as much as possible, and it is hoped may be made before Christmas."

Thursday will be Christmas. There has been no payment of a dividend and no announcement whatever concerning one from the office of the chamber of commerce, no explanation, no apology.

George M. Coffin, receiver of the bank, when asked concerning it Tuesday said that he was not authorized to give out any information whatever. Mr. Coffin has been helpful and considerate to creditors of the bank, and he is not held blamable but the depositors of the First National bank feel that they are not received courteous or fair treatment from the comptroller. He authorized Judge Geissler to make this announcement in his name, and on December 5 he practically reiterated it.

EKONK

Dr. Overlock of Putnam was called to see Walter Frink, last week and had him removed to St. Joseph's hospital in Providence, R. I. He was operated on for appendicitis Friday and was reported as very ill. His wife has been with him two days. Their children are staying with their aunt, Mrs. Annie Congdon. All are wishing him a speedy recovery.

The cold wave reached here Saturday night and Sunday was zero weather.

The roads are in a terrible condition, with deep ruts making fast driving impossible.

Schools closed Friday afternoon with an entertainment and Christmas tree with gifts for all. Many of the parents enjoyed the tree with the children.

Miss Kelly went to her home in New Haven for the Christmas vacation.

There has been quite a scare over scarlet fever cases. One teacher is quarantined at her boarding place in Sterling.

Several red foxes have been captured recently.

On account of sickness and bad weather Friday evening, the Round table meeting was postponed until after Christmas.

Mrs. Lillian Frink and assistants Mrs. Sager and Mrs. Apply of Canterbury installed the officers of Ekonk Grange Friday evening in a very pleasing manner. A bountiful supper was relished by all. A large class is soon to be taken in.

James Walker is confined to the house ill with a grip cold.

Mr. Floyd school supervisor visited the school recently.

A. W. Noone of Peterboro, N. H., was a recent visitor with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Gallup.

Mrs. Benjamin Colburn was ill last week.

Miss Helen Congdon, a student at Killingly High school is spending the Christmas recess with her parents.

Mrs. Hilliard, Mrs. Walker and Miss Ella Gardner were in Providence Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sayles spent Sunday with Mrs. Sayles' parents Mr. and Mrs. Marriott, in Oneco.

The children were pleased to see Monday's snow and are hoping for a white Christmas.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Louis Freeman was arrested by State Policeman Heinhold Saturday night after the automobile which he was operating on the Hollow road ran into a telephone pole. The automobile was considerably damaged but Freeman escaped injury. In the borough court Monday morning he pleaded guilty to the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Judge Heald imposed a fine of $100 and costs amounting in all to $116.06 which Freeman paid.

There was a large attendance at the Elks' minstrel in Warren Memorial town hall, Monday evening.

The senior class of Stafford High school has added about $530 to the Washington trip fund, as a result of the play given in Warren Memorial hall about 10 days ago. A large number of advertisements on the program helped swell the receipts.

YANTIC

The Norwich Gas and Electrical Company has finished setting poles on school house hill, for the electricity contracted for by the family of William Kempton. It will give the road three arc lights also, a very gratifying fact for the residents of the hill.

Millard Manning of Trinity College, Hartford, is spending the holidays with his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Manning.

Miss Katherine Curry of Willimantic Normal Training School is spending the holidays at her home here.

Mrs. Edward Wolff has returned to her home in Brooklyn after a brief stay in town.

Mrs. William Kempton who has been ill for the past month is improving.

Alton Kilroy, of Boston, is spending the holidays at his home on Main street.

Miss Nellie Kilroy who has been ill at the home of her brother, William Kilroy, is improving in health.

A Boston publishing house reports that since the start of the cross word puzzle craze, the usual output of 10,000 dictionaries a year has grown to a monthly production of that number.

PLAINFIELD

Midnight mass is to be celebrated at St. John's church directly after midnight tonight (Wednesday). Rev. Father R. P. Morrissey will celebrate the mass.

The stores of the village will be open until late this (Christmas) eve. The stores are prettily decorated with evergreen trees and holiday greens.

Plainfield has been covered with a few inches of snow, many of the children are jubilant of the fact as they hope to enjoy a white Christmas.

Prosperity seems to reign among the village folks as every house in the village has the joyous Christmas spirit about it. Wreaths and holly decorate the windows.

The Elks are endeavoring to have every child in the city happy on Christmas morn. As no one should be overlooked, any person who knows of any family that needs Christmas cheer is being asked to notify Allen Mopsik.

Misses Helen Peyerson, Mary Burke, Julia Lee, Marion Lee, Mrs. Daniel Connell were at a theater party in Norwich, Tuesday night.

Mrs. Allen Mopsik and family left on the morning train Tuesday for New York city where they will spend the Christmas holidays.

Miss Marion Chapman, high school teacher at Terryville, is home for the holidays.

The M. H. club met at the home of Mrs. Carl Matherson Monday evening. Games were played and favors were distributed. Twenty guests were present.

The Business Men's association of the United States is to hold a meeting in Moosup, Sunday afternoon, at the Keystone building.

Lawrence Burby of Washington, D. C., has arrived home to spend the Christmas holidays.

Miss Lillian Biegeron is now in the employ of the Hebert market.

The hall is very prettily decorated for the dance at the Community house this (Wednesday) evening.

SOUTH COVENTRY

Mr. and Mrs. George Coleman of Windham and F. W. Boynton of Branford were in town Friday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Julia Colman.

The public schools closed Friday for two weeks' vacation. Christmas exercises were held at which gifts, candy and oranges were presented each child.

Miss Alice Parker is suffering from a severe case of blood poisoning in her arm.

At a meeting of the Sunday school board held at the Congregational parsonage Friday night it was voted to omit the Sunday school session also postpone the Christmas tree exercises until New Years, providing no new cases of scarlet fever are reported.

Owing to the scarlet fever cases both in this town and South Willington the minstrel show under the auspices of the local Boy Scouts, which was to have been held December 18, was postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Brown of New Britain spent the week end with the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Higgins.

Mrs. Julia W. Colman for many years a resident here died at her home Wednesday, December 17th.

NORTH LYME

Mr. and Mrs. William Stark of Hartford spent the week end at J. W. Stark's.

Miss Charlotte Stark of New London is spending her vacation at her home here.

Mrs. G. H. Strong is recovering slowly from an injury to her hip caused by a fall.

Miss Jennie Stark is spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. O'Sullivan, of Warbertto, Pa.

Mrs. Cora Rogers, Mrs. H. Conway and children of Old Lyme visited Mrs. G. H. Strong Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Strong and Robert Strong were callers in Colhester the last of the week.

J. L. Raymond attended n auction in Plainfield last Wednesday.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Mrs. Julia Menear, of Poquonoc Bridge, has arrived at Maple house for the winter.

Rev. H. D. Baker is confined to his house with an attack of grip. Dr. E. R. Pike led the service on Sunday, the theme being Christmas. The choir sang an anthem and a vocal solo was given by Doris Lindeman.

The new furnaces have been installed in the church and although an extremely cold day Sunday, the room was very comfortable.

Misses Louise and Doris Lindeman are spending the holidays at their home. The former is located at Salmanca and the latter is attending the Normal school at Potsdam, N. Y.

At coming meeting of the Theft Detecting society to be held at the Community house next Tuesday, the Ladies' Aid society is to furnish the dinner.

TO INVESTIGATE LEGALITY OF RECENT BAKING MERGER

Washington, Dec. 23.—The department of justice has began an investigation into the legality of the recently completed baking merger involving properties capitalized at $15,000,000.

AtRtorney General Stone, discussing the merger today, declined to say how far the department had gone in its inquiry but declared full cognizance had been taken of the merger and that he will know shortly what the department's positions will be.

Half a dozen agents are gathering data for the attorney general and he has designated an attorney in the department to take charge as soons as the information is in hand.

COMMUNITY EXERCISES AT GARDNER LAKE CHURCH

The Gardner Lake Community Christmas exercises are to be held Friday evening at 6.30 o'clock at the Gardner Lake church. A Christmas programme was carried out by the people of the community last year and was a great success and it was decided to repeat the venture this year. There will be gifts for the children and candy will be distributed. Christmas carols will be sung, a choir from Norwich will render carols, and entertainment provided. The arrangements for the meeting are in charge of Mrs. Norman Boynton.

Our Christmas Wish

Of all the wishes we could make during this joyful Holiday season we could wish you nothing better than happiness for yourself and happiness in your home. We wish you, then, the joy of a happy home, and all the good things that go with it, in a setting that symbolizes the true Christmas spirit of Peace, Love and Harmony.

THE WASTAGE OF CITY WATER.

Now that arrangements have been perfected for the pumping of water from Trading Cove brook into the Stony Brook reservoir pipe line, Norwich will receive, if everything goes according to expectations, something like two millions gallons of water daily in addition to what can be drawn from the reservoirs.

That means that nearly one-half of our daily consumption can be drawn from Trading Cove brook, making in addition to the normal daily yield of 4,500,000 gallons from the watersheds almost the equivalent of the yield of Stony Brook watershed, or the combined Fairview and Meadow Brook watersheds.

Pumping is being resorted to to meet the emergency of low water. Abnormal conditions concerning the rainfall have depleted the reservoirs, but sight seems to be lost of the fact that if there had not been the great waste of something like a million gallons of water each day in Norwich the supply would be ample and the resort to pumping would not be forced at this time.

Just what the pumping cost, installation and operation, will amount to, has not been announced. It will probably cost $50,000 or more, or an expenditure which would not have been necessary had the wasting of water been stopped. The raising of the dam at Stony Brook is another expenditure which goes with the practice of wasting water.

With this outlay for raised dams and a pumping station, over $100,000, are we going to continue to waste water in the future as we have in the past? If we do we must anticipate many calls for large outlays with the attendant effect upon the tax rate.

In view of the manner in which other cities get along with a much less per capita consumption of water, the question naturally arises as to when Norwich is going to apply even such an effective means of stopping waste as the complete metering of the city.

Norwich is now from 40 to 50 per cent metered and it is impossible to overlook the fact that had about half of the sum which is now required for the Stony Brook dam and the pumping station been applied some time ago for the complete metering of the city one important step towards checking waste would have been taken.

PENALIZING THE BOLTERS.

Particular interest is being manifested at this time in the fact that some 40 postmasters have been named in Wisconsin upon endorsement of Senator Lenroot, a loyal republican, and without consulting Senator La Follette. It attracts attention because it serves notice anew that La Follette is not considered a member of the republican party, and because it unquestionably indicates that the policy that is being followed concerning the star of the third party movement will be followed when it comes to making appointments in other states where senators broke away from and worked against the republican party.

At the opening of this session of congress a group of La Follette senators was read out of the republican party. Even though it should have been a surprise to them there was no ground for it. They had charted the very course that invited such action.

La Follette was free in his denunciation of the republican party. He couldn't find anything good to say about it. He was equally bitter against the party's candidates and platform. He in fact read himself out of the party, and as the result no matter how he interpreted the election result he could not expect to be patted on the back and given a hearty welcome back into the fold.

And what is true of La Follette is true of his disciples among the republican members of congress. Whatever help they might have expected as members of the republican party was sacrificed when they joined the La Follette party. Just because they failed to land anywhere as the result of their jump overboard doesn't entitle them to their old rights, their old prestige and their old patronage that was derived from the republican party.

Those who bite the hand that feeds them cannot expect to receive much consideration when the next meal time comes around. The La Follette group will make the best impression if they accept their misfortune as the fate which was invited and swallow the medicine, bitter though it may be.

POISON LIQUOR.

While an increase is being noted at this time in the number who are dying from the use of poison liquor, it will be remembered that it was at the Christmas season that several places in the Connecticut valley were used as the points for disposing of just such beverages a few years ago.

There are those who are endeavoring to place the blame upon prohibition officials for the presence of poison in a certain amount of alcohol. There is no dodging the fact that alcohol which is released for certain purposes other than for use as a beverage or medicine is made unfit for drinking purposes. That is done intentionally and in accord with the requirements of the law. It is done and so marked for the purpose of preventing the use of such alcohol in other mixtures as a beverage. It is part of the means employed to prevent the alcohol withdrawn from the warehouses for industrial purposes being used as a beverage, and it is because of the refusal to accept the poison alcohol as such by those who put it on the market to be consumed that so many deaths quickly follow its use.

The blame of course rests with those who know they are utilizing poison alcohol. Even when they make efforts to remove the poison they are engaged in defying law and in encouraging others to buy something that is likely to put them in their grave.

It is interesting to note that while there are those who think those who are living up to the requirements of a well known law deserve to be denounced and charged with causing deaths from poison liquor, they do not consider that any responsibility rests upon the shoulders of those who deliberately set out to break the law for the financial gain that will accrue therefrom and who pay no attention to the act that their greed for gold is going to put others in their graves. While the fight against the bootleggers continues sight cannot be lost of the fact that even more responsible than they are those who prepare for distribution the poison liquor which has in the past and still is a real danger to those who make use of it.

HIGHWAY OR RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION?

The idea of having much of the present railroad freight service, where the haul is a comparatively short one done over the highways instead of on rails, as proposed by the Boston & Maine road naturally attracts attention from various angles.

There are the present highway problems of construction and maintenance. There are the bus safety and the bus problems, and when it comes to winter time there is the problem of getting through the snow and of keeping the highways cleared for traffic. These must all be considered in connection with any such radical change as the abandonment of a large part of a railroad system with the idea of providing the service over the highways.

Perhaps this contemplated move on the part of the railroads, following the favorite experience of certain systems, will mean that a different attitude will be felt toward the railroad service and the dependence that is placed upon it. In this connection the Springfield Republican points out that "The people expect the railroad to provide regular and adequate service, yet do nothing to protect that service or insure it remunerative patronage. Up the Connecticut valley, for instance, the railroad is obliged to operate trains for commuters, who travel at a reduced rate, yet the bus is allowed to carry full fare travelers who would help to make up the deficiency in passenger train revenue. Clearly, the public must do some clearer thinking about the economics of transportation."

TESTING ITALY.

Ever since Mussolini stepped into power in Italy his efforts in behalf of reorganization and stabilization has been watched with keen interest from all directions. He has had plenty of supporters at home and many sympathizers from abroad. He has displayed his patriotism by trying to do his best for Italy. He has reached that point which others in similar efforts are invariably called upon to face where he wants to know whether his work has been appreciated.

He hasn't undergone a change of mind, but he wants to know whether the people of Italy have. There are those who would say that he has lost prestige. Plenty could be found who deny it. Mussolini himself hasn't lost confidence but for the purpose of dealing with the opposition he is threatening to submit the whole question to a general election next spring. He has been through elections with flying colors, and he is apparently not afraid to try it again.

An election would mean a strengthening or a weakening of Mussolini's power. Perhaps the threat of a general election will be sufficient to allay the rumblings. Perhaps it will mean the rally of such support as to end all thought of such action.

Italy must give consideration to the effects of an election, the possible ousting of Mussolini and the return to conditions which preceded him and the wisdom of letting well enough alone. The benefits which Mussolini has produced cannot be lightly disregarded or too lowly valued.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Christmas always means a struggle, but it's worth it.

If the cold is to continue we have been provided with the material for a white Christmas.

This is the season of the year where the organization of Good Fellows invariably busily engaged in a good cause.

Avoid the combination of lighted candles and a Christmas tree unless you want the presence of the fire department.

Are you going to stand on the sidelines and watch or will it be necessary for you to get into the last day holiday rush?

Just a little bit of "the beautiful" indicates what exercise can be expected from the fellow back of the snow shovel later on.

It is only a matter of a few hours now before there can be a letup on that strain of being good for the purpose of influencing Santa.

While pumping water to meet the present emergency sight should not be lost of the fact that it has been made necessary by the unwarranted waste of the past.

There's a chance now to wear the clubfooted, buckle rattling galoshes. Wait until the deep snow, and sposh arrives and it will be necessary to get into sandals and pumps.

NOT SO GOOD

"Some persons yearn to bite chunks out of water glasses or hurl eggs in to electric fans," began the Hyde Park man, oblivious of the fact that his friend from Woodlawn was trying to read as the train sped cityward. "But as for myself, ever since I was a small boy I've been crazy to hang wall paper.

"In those days I had far more interest in the men who renovated our sitting room walls than in judges, ministers, parents and president. A bucket of their goosy paste was more fascinating than an ocean to gaze at and it seemed as though I would die happy if only I were allowed to slap a strip of wet paper on a wall and swoosh it down all nice and smooth with a big flat brush. As I grew old the desire got buried, along with my first love and dead dreams like that, but let me tell you, sleeping dogs are going to burst out and yelp their heads off if you don't watch out!

"Though I said nothing about it, I envied Imogene's ability to stay home and revel in watching the paperhangers who are doing our house, although she seemed strangely unappreciative of the rare chance—quite bored, in fact.

"When I got home early last Saturday I found the place deserted. The men had quit at noon, leaving their tools and a solitary strip of the new paper applied to the top of the staircase wall. They were working downward.

Something queer happened to me. Like a man in a trance, I reached out with one hand for the paste brush and a roll of paper with the other. My heart thumped, as well as carroled. At a mature age I now was about to realize one of those mad day dreams which torment most of us—I was going to stick on some paper, by gum, with nobody to stop me!

"I could visualize the admiring respect of the paperhangers when they should return Monday morning to find the staircase wall all beautifully done. 'Remarkable' they would say, and 'He certainly must have a gift for it!' What a loss to the world—or something like that. There was a strip all cut. Breathlessly I spread on some of the contents of the bucket left hanging on the cutting table and carted it over to its place on the wall.

"As fast as I smoothed it on it rolled off, looping up on itself. It was the limpest, most unsatisfactory paper I ever saw. After it had come off six times and was a wet, smeary mass I investigated the bucket and found I had put calcimine on the back instead of the paste glue.

"I tried another strip and by the time I had the paste nicely on to the bottom edge I found that the top was already dry. That made two strips to the bad. I crumpled this up and hurled it on to the floor where it stuck and later took off the varnish.

"I had on my fighting clothes by now, peeled of my coat—which was well dotted with paste, glue and calcimine—and went at it again. I found I had been using the dry smoothing brush to dip in the paste, so I changed to the correct one. I must have made some mistake in measurement, because when I got the next strip pasted and over to the wall it was a yard or so too long.

"If I let the extra length run up above it fell over and twined stickily around my head, and if I lowered it to the bottom it clung to my 53 socks. As soon as I felt the top was solid and lowered my attention to the bottom the darned strip fell right off and wrapped around my shoulders. Pulling at this loosened the bottom, which likewise attached itself to various portions of me.

"It was paper warranted to wear because it refused to separate. The more I struggled the more cocoon-like I became.

"Meanwhile I was adding up in my head one suit, $90; one shampoo, 60 cents; one pair of socks, $3; one pair of shoes, $12; one roll of paper, $1.50; one disposition, total loss.

"By this time I didn't care much what happened to me, and just then Imogene returned and unpeeled, unglued and straightened me up, spoiling the good work by a flow of tart anguage telling me what I already knew. It was most humilitating to find that after all these years I couldn't hang paper at all, and it looks so simple! And the men had to do the hall all over!"

"That's the way most dreams act when they come true," said the Woodlawn man sagely.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Ignacio Zuloaga, who has arrived in New York to paint a series of American historical pictures, is one of the most eminent of the modern painters of Spain. He started on his career as an artist at the age of 24, after having tried his hand as a dealer in antiques, an art appraiser, a bookkeeper and a bull fighter. His first big art success was with the painting Before the Bull Fight, which won the gold medal at the Barcelonia exhibition in 1898. Since that time he has painted more than 400 pictures. He had won fame in France, Italy and Germany before the people of his native Spain began to appreciate his genius. In the art museums and private galleries in New York, Boston and several other American cities there are some splendid examples of Zuloaga's work.

Tripp Worked Long Hours

While making his way up the ladder of success, Guy Eastman Tripp often thought that if only he could be chosen to fill the job just ahead of him his burdens and responsibilities practically would be over, but a succession of disillusionments revealed the truth to him.

Second of eight sons of a lawyer of tranquil Wells, Maine, he passed his early years pleasantly. Seven when his mother died, he was taken to live with his grandfather in Lyman. At ten he returned home, his father having remarried.

Attending the district general school he did odd jobs and in the summer before his graduation became clerk in Hatch's general store, which he opened early in the morning and closed after the last mail at the postoffice, housed in the store, had been distributed at night. All this he did for $3 a week.

By working at Hatch's during vacation he earned enough to pay his way for two years in South Berwick Academy. Then he took a position as clerk with the old Eastern Railroad at Salem, Mass. His pay was $6 a week and in order to live with it he boarded with relatives at Revere, making the 15-mile trip after a 5:30 o'clock breakfast and just before a 7:30 o'clock supper and carrying cold luncheons for his noonday meals.

After seven years with the railroad he joined the United Electric Securities Company, then the Thompson-Houston Company, working his way from the position of clerk to that of traveling auditor. By studying the work of the man just above him he prepared for advancement but found there was work and responsibility in connection with any position and that true happiness was not to be measured by salary or station of life.

Joining the Stone & Webster forces at 32, he became manager of their interests in the West and South. Called to New York to act as chairman of the committee to reorganize the Metropolitan street railway, then in the hands of a receiver, he devised the plan which straightened out the tangle.

And at 47 he was chosen chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, an office which he has held for 13 years.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Sparing a Clothespin

Now let me ponder, let me wink,
Give my brain a thinky think.

Oh, yes, I remember where we left off in the last story. Of course I do. The little rabbit was dining at the home of the kind Policeman Dog. His two small bow wows had just said howdy to the bunny boy and Mrs. Dog was placing the dinner on the table, nice clean bones and dog biscuits.

"What have you got for my little

"How I can hop home with a happy feeling in my heart" rabbit friend?" asked the kind Policeman Dog, with a friendly wag of his tail.

"Goodness me," exclaimed Mrs. Dog, "I'll run out to the garden for some carrots and lettuce," and out she went, coming back in a minute or three with her apron full of vegetables. After she had washed them under the pump over the iron sink in the corner, she placed them on a plate and set them before the little rabbit. Then they all began to eat. Goodness me, what a noise the dog family made munching the bones! But how could they help it. I should like to know? I guess they would have made none at all with a soup spoon.

By and by, when all the napkins were carefully folded, Mrs. Dog looked in a basket for a clothespin. But goodness me, again. The basket was empty! All the clothespins were out on the line holding up pajamas and handkerchiefs. Wasn't that too bad? Well, maybe. But it might have been worse, seeing it was Thursday,—washday in Rabbitville, if those clothespins had been laying idle in the basket.

"Maybe Billy Now Wows' little pink handkerchief is dry by this time," sighed Mrs. Dog. "I'll run out in the yard and investigate," a big word for a lady dog to pronounce; she might have said "find out" just as well and more simply.

"Here's your clothespin," she barked with a happy wiggle waggle of her tail, handing it to the little anxious bunny boy. "Run home to mother. Never keep her waiting, although I'd like to have you stay and play with my bow wows."

"Thank you three times and a half," laughed the little rabbit. "Now I can hop home with a happy feeling in my heart. Mother won't be disappointed," and, with a hop-te-idy he skip-toed out of the house and down the road toward the Shady Forest.

"Nice little bunny," said the kind Policeman Dog. "He was sad as sad could be at losing the clothespin. Glad we could give him one to take home to Lady Love. She's a dear little mother, but no dearer than you," he added, turning to Mrs. Dog. "And there are no finer bow wows in Rabbitville than my two," and placing his big helmet on his head, away he trotted back to the Police Station to answer hurry calls for help from the little furry and feathered coated people of the Shady Forest and the Sunny Meadow.

CHRISTMAS BITS

The Christmas card was first used in 1846.

Roast goose is one of the favored Christmas dishes of the Germans.

The English collection of Christmas carols was published in 1521.

Eels baked and rolled in laurel leaf are a favorite Christmas dish in Italy.

In old English Christmas carols, holly is the man's plant, and ivy the woman's.

There is a legend in Sweden that the Christmas tree sprang from the soil where two true lovers died, the candles standing "for remembrance."

The Christmas custom of "bringing in the boar's head" dates back to the Druid's whose deity, Freya, the goddess of peace and plenty, rode a golden boar.

Christmas in France is observed chiefly in a religious way, and the great revelry and feasting and exchange of presents are reserved for the New Year.

In the eastern countries—Armenia, Syria, Greece—lamb is the chief article of diet on Christmas. The whole carcass of a sheep is barbecued for the family meal, being stuffed with a mixture of boiled rice, pine seeds and raisins.

The little children of Italy do not have a Santa Claus. Instead La Befana, a kindly, homely old woman, comes, bringing them presents, the night before Epiphany, January 6, when the Wise Men brought their gifts to the baby Jesus.

The Yule log, which used to be laid across the broad hearth fires in olden time with much ceremony, was nearly always an ash log, because the legend avers that it was before an ash wood fire that the Holy Babe was first washed and dressed by his mother.

The first observance of Christmas, December 25, was sometime about the middle of the Fourth Century after Christ. Until that time the date of his nativity was not settled definitely, since the early Christians considered the observance of birthdays a pagan custom.

At the British Museum may be seen a time-stained parchment on which is written by monkish hand the first Christmas carol of which we have certain knowledge. It was penned in Norman-French in the thirteenth century, and is better fitted for a convivial gathering than for a religious service.

Parisians celebrated Christmas Eve with a joyful fete in the restaurants on the grand boulevard. All night the cafes are crowded with singing, gayly dressed people from all walks of life, even the poor clerk and the shabby artist from the Latin quarter managing somehow to save money for this annual good time.

When a man drops his coin at the races he can charge it up to running expenses.

Stories That Recall Others

Country Folks in the City

Grace, age eight, accompanied by her parents, left her home in the country to visit relatives in the city. The next morning, which was Sunday, her father, a conscientious churchgoer, announced his intention of attending the city church service. Instantly Grace was alert, for some reason this to her mind was a matter of deep concern. She looked him over and said:

"Brush your shoes, daddy."

He left the room to comply, after which she said:

"Going to Sunday school, daddy?"

"Yes."

"To church, too."

"Yes."

"Well, now," she continued with emphasis, 'don't act green."

If He Only Knew!

Adam was standing in his father's barnyard, gun in hand, late one afternoon watching a hunter and dogs chase a rabbit. The rabbit went in every direction always just ahead of his tormentors, when he suddenly ran over a wooded hill and around the corner of the barn.

Adam shot and quickly took possession of the rabbit and then watched the hunter and dogs search for the missing trail. Finally the man walked over toward the barn and called "Say, mister, would you sell me your rabbit? I've been hunting all day without getting a thing and I haven't the nerve to go back to the city without something."

Adam sold his rabbit without even telling the man it was the one he had been chasing for an hour.

Approximately 8,400 children a week were supplied with about 67,000 meals each week by the London County council, either free or for part payment, during the past year, and about 14,400 children were served 67,000 meals each week on payment of the full authorized charge.

POETRY

SANTA CLAUS AND THE MOUSE.

One Christmas Eve, when Santa Claus came to a certain house,
To fill the children's stockings (dear, he found a little mouse.
"A Merry Christmas, little friend," said
Santa, good and kind,
"The same to you, sir," said the mouse,
"I thought you wouldn't mind."
If I should stay awake tonight and watch you for a while."
"You're very welcome, little mouse," said
Santa, with a smile;
And then he filled the stockings up before the mouse could wink—
From toe to top, from top to toe, there wasn't left a chink.
"Now they won't hold another grain," said Santa Claus with pride.
A twinkle came in mouse's eyes, but humbly he replied:
"It's not polite to contradict—your pardon I implore—
But in the fullest stocking there I would put one thing more.
"Oh ho!" chuckled Santa. "Silly mouse!
don't I know how to pack?
My filling stockings all these years, I should have learned the knack."
And then he took the stocking down from where it hung on high
And said: "Now put in one thing more;
I give you leave to try."
The mouse chuckled to himself, and then he softly stole
Right to the stocking's crooked toe, and gnawed a little hole!
"Now, if you please, good Saint Claus,
I've put in one thing more;
For you will own that little hole was not in there before."
How Santa Claus did laugh and laugh!
and then he gaily spoke:
"Well, you shall have a Christmas chime for that nice little joke."

ADESTE FIDELES.

Oh come, all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant;
Oh come ye, oh come ye,
To Bath-le-hem;
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of angels.

CHORUS.
Oh come, let us adore Him,
Oh come, let us adore Him,
Oh come, let us adore Him,
Christ, the Lord.

Sing, choir of angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing, all ye citizens
Of heaven above;
Glory to God
In the highest.

SILENT NIGHT.

Silent night, holy night,
All is calm, all is bright.
Round yon Virgin Mother and Child.
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace!

Silent night, holy night,
Shepherds quake at the sight.
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia!
Christ, the Savior, is born!
Christ, the Savior, is born.

When Manila's great shipping terminal known as Pier 7 is completed, the Philippine capital will have one of the finest cargo and passenger terminals in the world. The new pier will be 1,200 feet long and will have latest equipment in electric power. Two vessels the size of the greatest liners can berth at once on each. The pier is of solid concrete construction and will involve an expenditure of $3,000,000.

Hay scow which from time immemorial has depended upon the horse-drawn carriage and the conventional trolley car for its transportation, will soon have its own motor buses. Eight omnibuses of the London type will will make their appearance soon, and it is the intention of the municipal authorities eventually to obtain sufficient additional vehicles to establish connection with suburban districts. This will do much, the officials say, to relieve the fearful congestion on trolley cars and trains, and will also encourage part of the population to move to the suburbs.

OBITUARY.

Thomas Francis Houlihan.

Thomas Francis Houlihan, a resident of the Greeneville section for many years, died Tuesday evening at 11 o'clock at his home at 414 Central avenue after an illness of about two years. Mr. Houlihan was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, where he obtained his education, and came to this country when he was 20 years old, locating in Norwich. On Jan. 21, 1898, he was married to Catherine Brennan in St. Patrick's church by the late Rev. Hugh Treanor. His wife survives him with three children, a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Smith, and two sons, Thomas Edward and John Joseph, all of this city. He also leaves a brother, Patrick J. Houlihan, of Halifax, and two sisters, Mrs. John Malcolm of this city and Mrs. Catherine Manning of Halifax.

He was prominent in fraternal circles, being a member of Court City of Norwich, No. 62, F. of A., Div. No. 2, A. O. H., Carpenters' union and the Holy Name society of St. Mary's church. He was a carpenter by trade.

Bishop Sweet Church.

Following an illness of three years, the life of Bishop Sweet Church, a former well known resident of Norwich, came to a close December 19th, at his home in Brunswick, Ga.

Mr. Church had not made his home in Norwich for many years, but will be remembered by many older people who will learn of his death with sorrow. In fraternal circles Mr. Church was a Mason, being raised in Somerset lodge No. 34, F. & A. M., of this city, on March 16, 1870, attaining the rank of 32nd degree Mason in 1872.

He is survived by his wife and one son, Sidney N. Church of Brunswick, Ga., four brothers, Charles Billings, of Crisfield, Md., Leonard P., Warren W., and Henry E. Church of Norwich; two sisters, Mrs. Jane E. Church of Hartford and Mrs. Evelyn D. McHattie of Springfield, Mass.

Antoine Paquette.

Antoine Paquette, retired contractor, died Monday evening at 9 o'clock at his home on Merchants avenue, Taftville, death coming after a lingering illness.

He was born in Canada, Dec. 28, 1847, the son of Antoine and Olive Boucher Paquette, and spent the early part of his life in Canada. When a young man he came to this country and for 53 years had been a prominent resident of Taftville. Mr. Paquette was a devout member of the Sacred Heart church, serving his church as trustee for 25 years. He also took an active part in various organizations of which he was a member, including Ponemah Council, No. 24, Knights of Columbus, St. Jean de Baptiste society, Holy Name society and Third St. Francis society.

Fifty-three years ago last April Mr. Paquette was united in marriage with Marie Marsan, the ceremony taking place in the old St. Mary's church in Greeneville, Rev. Father Mullen conducting the service. Mr. Paquette was a contractor by trade but had retired from business some years past.

A loving husband and father, ever willing to work for the betterment of the organizations of which he was a member, Mr. Paquette had made many friends who learned of his death with profound sorrow.

He is survived by his wife, three sons and three daughters: Rev. Charles P. Paquette of Meriden, Amos and Louis Paquette of Taftville, Miss Agnes M. of Taftville, Sister Mary Claire, of St. Mary's church, Willimantic, and Mrs. Joseph LeGrand of Taftville. There was also a sister, Malvina Paquette and grandchildren.

FUNERALS.

William H. Frink.

Funeral services for William H. Frink were held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from the home of the late Dwight E. Spicer of Scott Hill, relatives and friends attending from East Greenwich, R. I., and other places. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Speerli, pastor of the Fitchville Baptist church who also read the committal service at the grave in Scott Hill cemetery. The bearers were Charles Cole, Samuel Perkins, John Brown and William Hall.

Arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

Mrs. Henry Vogtmann

With a large attendance of relatives and friends from Providence, Norwich, Baltic and other cities, the funeral of Christiana Voit, widow of Henry Vogtmann, was held from her late home on Hunter road, Taftville, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. H. Hunzinger, pastor of the German Lutheran church. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where a committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Hunzinger. The bearers were George Martin of Providence and William Vogtmann grand children, George Voit of Providence, nephew and Paul Hartman. George G. Grant of Taftville was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Chauncey A. Fuller.

Funeral services for Chauncey A. Fuller were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his son, Morgan Fuller of Preston, relatives and friends attending. The many beautiful floral tributes were testimonials of the esteem in which the deceased was held by his many friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church who also read the committal service at the grave in Maplewood cemetery. During the service at the home, Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., sang two selections.

Arrangements were by Church & Allen.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The Auction Bridge club met this week on Monday with Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, of Bliss Place.

Mrs. Edward D. Fuller is to entertain a family dinner party Christmas day at her home on Broadway.

Mrs. Mary Larned Ely and Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Bond will spend Christmas with Mrs. Bond's daughter, Mrs. Carl Foster, at her home in Marblehead, Mass. Mrs. Ely's children, Grosvenor Ely, Jr., and Miss Larned Ely, are to spend New Year's with their mother in Boston, before returning to school.

WEST END COMMUNITY CLUB TO OPEN PUBLIC SKATING POND

Announcement was made Tuesday that arrangements have been completed by the West End Community association for the opening of a public skating pond on land near what is known as Backus Corner, East Great Plain. A public skating pond at that location will fill a long felt want in that section of the town.

It is expected that the flooding of the lot, etc., will be completed within a few days when the pond will be ready for use. Work on the preparations for flooding the land was started Tuesday and considerable headway was made. The expense of the proposition will be paid for by the association.

It was learned Tuesday evening that a number of the members of the association will hold a meeting in the immediate future to discuss the possibility of holding a skating carnival on the new pond New Year's day. William Ricker, Jr., is chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the proposed skating carnival to which the general public will be invited.

WOMAN SUES ALONZO MAIN FOR $650 DAMAGES

Suit has been brought against Alonzo Main of North Stonington for damages of $650 by Florence B. Brown of Ledyard. The action is a controversy over a right of way. An injunction is asked restraining the defendant from obstructing the right of way and a temporary injunction was granted by Judge George E. Hinman in the superior court Tuesday.

According to the complaint the plaintiff is the owner of two certain tracts of land situated in the town of Ledyard. The defendant has a right of way from the southerly end of Long Pond, so called, to the Norwich and Mystic highway and has the right to pass and re-pass over the same without hindrance or obstruction.

Since July 1, 1924, it is claimed, the defendant has obstructed the right of way by erecting two heavy sets of bars over and across the right of way and by felling trees across said right of way and has made said right of way so obstructed that it is impossible for plaintiff to use it for her lawful travel.

The plaintiff claims that as a result of the obstruction she severely strained her back, side and limbs so that they have become and are sore and painful and that she is now and will be for some time to come, disabled.

PROTEST SITE OF INTAKE PIPE AT TRADING COVE

Mayor Milo R. Waters has received a communication from G. Warren Davis and 112 others protesting the operation of the Trading Cove brook pumping station with the intake pipe at its present location and asking that a mass meeting be called to determine the question regarding the removal of the intake pipe farther up stream. The petition is as follows:

To Hon. M. R. Waters, Mayor of City of Norwich:

We, the undersigned citizens of Norwich, protest the operation of the Trading Cove brook pumping station, so-called, until the intake pipe of the said station has been placed as far upstream from its present location that water carrying possible contamination from West Plain cemetery and other water carrying pathogenic germs cannot enter the intake pipe. We petition that a mass meeting of the citizens be called to determine the question on the evening of Dec. 29, 1924.

Mayor Waters said that he has no authority to issue a warning for a mass meeting, but that if he received a petition calling for a special city meeting with twenty or more signatures on it he would of course issue a warning for the special city meeting requested.

SALVATION ARMY PLANS CHRISTMAS DINNERS FOR 300

The Salvation Army is planning to furnish chicken dinners for at least 300 people Christmas. These dinners will be arranged in about 60 family baskets, each basket being intended to provide dinner for a family of five persons. The baskets will be packed this (Wednesday) morning at the Salvation Army headquarters on Cliff street and will be distributed during the day. In each basket will be a chicken, potatoes, onions, turnips, celery, bread, butter, sugar, coffee, oranges, evaporated milk and animal crackers.

As this is the final day on which the contribution kettles will be found on the streets, Commandant E. W. Wilbur appeals to the general public to be generous in their contributions. The money is needed, he said, to take care of the expense of providing the 60 dinner baskets.

Commandant Wilbur said that anyone wishing to contribute articles of food for the baskets may do so by leaving them at the army headquarters on Cliff street. Toys for the Christmas tree festival to be held Friday evening at the army headquarters for the poor children of the city will also be welcome.

MAIL STILL POURING INTO LOCAL POSTOFFICE

During the past two days over 100,000 one and two cent stamps have been sold at the local postoffice. This in itself gives some indication of the magnitude of the business being handled this week by the employes at the postoffice. Since Monday packages, cards and letters have been received and despatched by the thousand. It is estimated that fully 2,000 sacks of Christmas mail were handled Monday and Tuesday.

It was late Tuesday night before the employes at the office completed their day's work. In spite of the heavy avalanche of mail that has been pouring into the office for the past two days, Postmaster Casper K. Bailey and his force of clerks and carriers have kept things moving. Several thousands of Christmas gift packages will be distributed by trucks on the first trip this (Wednesday) morning. The gift packages were all arranged according to routes in the basement of the postoffice before the tired clerks quit work late last night. Another record-breaking day is anticipated today.

EMPLOYED BOYS GUESTS AT PALACE THEATRE SHOW

The Employed Boys' Brotherhood held its regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening with supper. Following the supper the regular business was taken up and reports read. An invitation was received from the Palace theatre to attend the show Tuesday evening, as their guests. The brotherhood accepted the invitation and were very much pleased with the show.

WEDDING.

Discola—Carr

James Discola of 321 Main street, and Miss Mildred Carr of 41 Boswell avenue, were united in marriage Dec. 20, at North Stonington. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Noyes. Both the bride and groom are natives of Norwich.

The volcano Ometepe, situated on Ometepe island in Lake Nicaragua, is declared to be in eruption.

WEST PLAIN HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire which is supposed to have started from the electric wiring system just installed, destroyed the house at West Plain occupied by A. H. Beebe shortly before noon Tuesday. A telephone call for help was answered by Chief H. L. Stanton and two companies and the Yantic pumper also responded. With the arrival of the Yantic company Chief Stanton and the two local companies returned to their stations as the fire was out of the city limits.

The house was burned to the ground. It was a story and a half frame structure. Electricians had just completed wiring the house and the current had just been turned on for the first time. Soon afterwards a blaze was seen at one corner of the house and it is supposed that the fire must have started at the place where the electric wires entered the house. There was no water to be had in the vicinity, it being beyond Maplewood cemetery and the firemen could do nothing but play chemical on it and save the house next to it which was in danger.

The furniture on the first floor was saved as was some of the furniture on the second floor. The house was occupied by A. H. Beebe and family and owned by Mrs. Sarah Ella Willard.

The loss, about $5,000, is covered by insurance.

Below is the report of N. C. Pierce, superintendent of distribution of the Norwich gas and electric department, regarding the fire at A. H. Beebe's:

This was discovered afire about 11.30 a. m. and burned to the ground. Harry Cohn of 229 Laurel Hill avenue was wiring the house about 250 feet to the east and discovered this and sent in the alarm. Our line crew left about 11.15 a. m. and met the fire apparatus on West Main street near the fire station. The ground wire had not been installed and the main switch was open, the meter had not been set. Mr. Cohn says the fire was along the eaves above the place where our wires were attached, and fire was bursting from the inside. He went down stairs to open main switch. He found it open and no sign of fire there. This transformer was grounded and had been in service since Dec. 8 when Fred Gallup's service was run. This morning service was run to Garaweks. They had no trouble so there can be no question of high voltage. The firemen said there was a flash when they pulled wires off houle. This would be caused by service wires crossing due to insulation burning off. The transformer was a 1 1-2 K. W. and was fused lightly and fuses did not blow. Mr. Beebe thought that there might have been moisture in the conduit and that wires started to burn, but voltage was 110 volts, and each wire has 600 volt insulation. The firemen seemed to think that we had connected 2360 volts to house instead of 110. I cannot see how in 15 minutes much of a fire could be started by amount of electricity that would not blow fuse, 1 1-2 K. W., 4 K. W. at most.

START TRIAL OF WOOD CUTTING CASE

At a session of the superior court in this city Tuesday morning, Judge George E. Hinman on the bench, trial of the $1200 damage suit brought against Walter C. Tanner, Voluntown, by Thomas W. Corcoran, Voluntown, was started. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant cut trees from his property without his permission, but Mr. Tanner denies that the property on which he cut the trees was the property of Mr. Corcoran. The plaintiff further alleges. In the year 1921-22-23, the defendant without license from the plaintiff, cut, destroyed, and carried away 570 trees, which was the property of the plaintiff located on the easterly side of the highway in the town of Voluntown, leading from the Robbins tavern, so-called, to the line meeting the house. Of said trees, 24 were more than one foot in diameter, and 546 were less than one foot in diameter.

Following testimony by George E. Pitcher, civil engineer, in which the explained plans which he drew of the premises, the plaintiff was called to the stand.

Mr. Corcoran said that he had been on the farm for the past four years, doing mostly farming. Before that he was a professional baseball player with the Brooklyn Nationals, and later served as an umpire in the national pastime. Mr. Corcoran umpired on numerous occasions at the games held at the fairgrounds several years ago. He said that the cutting took place in the northwest corner of his property about 500 feet from the house. On various occasions he saw the defendant and his son driving by with loads of wood which he said came from this northwest corner of his land. He also saw them cutting the timber. Later the defendant used to cart the timber away in another direction so as to avoid coming before his house.

BRING SUIT TO COLLECT BALANCE ON NEW HOUSE

David Cohen of this city has been made the defendant in a $1,400 damage case brought against him by Arthur Bessette of Norwich and Elisha Preston of Lisbon, doing a partnership business under the name Preston & Bessette. The plaintiffs allege that on Aug. 7, 1924, the plaintiffs completed the construction of a house on land of the defendant in Norwich, for which the defendant agreed to pay to the plaintiffs $3,100. The defendant, David Cohen, has paid the plaintiffs, $1,070.62 on account of said contract, leaving a balance due upon the same of $1,439.38.

GRANTED DIVORCE ON GROUNDS OF DESERTION

On grounds of desertion Judge George E. Hinmon Tuesday granted Evelyn S. J. Woodmansee of Griswold a divorce from Albert Earle Woodmansee of Plainfield. She was allowed to resume her maiden name, Evelyn S. Johnson. The couple were married June 11, 1921 and desertion was alleged since July 19, 1921.

RESIGNS AS AGENT OF MILL AT BALTIC

The many Baltic and Norwich friends of Ray B. Murray for the past fourteen months agent of the Daniel Boone Worsted mill in Baltic, will regret to learn that he has resigned as agent of the mill.

Mr. Murray came to Baltic from Chicago in October, 1923, when the Boone company purchased the mill from M H. Donohue of Baltic, and he assumed his duties in November of the same year. Previous to coming to Baltic Mr. Murray had been in the general offices of the Boone company for five years in Chicago. During the World war he was with the United States government as a buyer out of Washington, D. C., for the Q. M. C., chemical warfare division.

He was also with the Northwestern Terra Cotta Cotton Co., a seven million dollar corporation, which since has been given over by the former owner to the employes.

When he left the Terra Cotta Co., he was purchasing agent. Mr. Murray presented his resignation as agent of the Daniel Boone Mills at the stockholders' meeting held in Chicago at the general offices on December 16, 1924.

During the time he was at the head of the Baltic mill he made numerous improvements. He built a new brick dyehouse, installed a new boiler and water system and added new machinery. He has been offered a responsible position with a well known manufacturer in Duluth, but has turned down this offer as he is going into business for himself in Chicago. Mr. Murray expects to leave Baltic this week, and a large circle of friends wish him success in his new field of endeavor. Mr. Murray is a member of the K. of C. of Baltic, and a member of the Lions club in Norwich. He was active in both of the societies.

AETNA WINS FROM LAWRENCE AND PALACE IN DOUBLE BOWLING BILL

The Aetna team of the Eastern Connecticut Bowling league won two matches Tuesday evening, one from the Palace Five and one from the Lawrence Five, beating each team two out of three games. The first match was rolled at the Palace alleys and was a postponed match from last week.

The second match was bowled at the Aetna alleys where a hard battle between the Norwich boys and the New London team took place. The Aetna team took the first string with comparative ease winning 506 to 486. The second match was just as easy for the Lawrence team. Holt with a double strike in his seventh and eighth boxes pulled his team out in front and Harry Campbell with his two spares kept it there.

The third string was anybody's right up to final two boxes. With the Aetna team leading by two pins when the two anchor men came to bat Campbell proceeded to pull a spare which put his team in the lead by three pins in the ninth box. Roy Fillmore came through with a thrilling finish, his team winning out by a three pin margin. Campbell in the tenth box got a poor break but Fillmore tore the pins apart for a pretty strike and then proceeded to add six pins to it for a victory. The final string although not high was closely contested and the hardest fought of the match. Fillmore had high single and high three. The scores:

FOHL PUTS THREE PITCHERS ON THE MARKET

Cleveland, Dec. 23. — Manager Lee Fohl of the Boston Red Sox, is ready to ask for waivers on Pitchers Quinn, Piercy and Murray, he declared here today, adding that few veterans will be in next year's lineup.

"I thought I could finish in the first division with a flock of stars whose brilliance was becoming bedimmed," Fohl said. "No such mistake will be made next year. We are going to build up a new team instead of patching one that is not worth patching."

Pitchers Ehmke and Ferguson; Catcher Picinich, Second Baseman Wambsganss and Outfielder Flagstead will represent the veterans. Although Joe Harris batted .301, Fohl plans to start the season with Todt at first base. Prothro, acquired from Washington at third, and Cross, farmed out by Boston to San Antonio last year, and Rogge, a veteran association recruit, will be tried at short.

The outfield will be the same as that which finished the season—Williams, Texas recruit, Flagstead and Boone, with Bache, a righthander from Dallas, and Collins as utility men:

Heving will assist Pinich behind the bat, with Stokes, a graduate of the Mobile club, as their understudy.

Sharing the pitching staff with Ehmke and Ferguson are Fullerton, Ross, Ruffing, Kallio, Lucey, Wingfield, Wiltsie and Kiefer. All are right handers except Wiltsie and Ross.

MALONEY WINS FROM MONTGOMERY ON FOUL

Boston, Dec. 23.—Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, was awarded a decision on a foul over Sully Montgomery of Fort Worth, Texas, former Center College football star, when Maloney was knocked down early in the third round of a scheduled 10 round bout here tonight.

Maloney, who had been leading Montgomery by a comfortable margin by reason of a left jab and effective infighting, was floored after a minute of the third round had elapsed. Referee Johnny Brassil, after beginning to count, consulted Boxing Commissioner Eugene Buckley at the ringside and announced that Maloney had been awarded the bout on a foul. Maloney weighed 197 1-2 and Montgomery 201 1-2.

Tom Kirby of Boston, former national amateur heavyweight champion, won from Rocky Stone, also of Boston, when the latter refused to return to the ring, claiming a foul at the beginning of the sixth of what was to have been an eight round bout.

Wolf Larsen, Boston light heavyweight, knocked out Jack Hankinson of England in the third round of a scheduled eight round preliminary. Al Mello of Lowell, welterweight member of the last American Olympic boxing team, was awarded a close decision over Shaver O'Brien of Boston at the end of an eight round bout.

LITTLE SPORTING ACTIVITY IN NEW LONDON THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 23.—Christmas week has brought about a lull in all branches of sports locally. Even the school puzzle teams have quit for a two week period, beginning with Monday of this week. Chapman Technical High, Bulkeley High and the Submarine Base have called a truce to allow the players to enjoy the holidays in a free manner.

Chapman Tech will continue its basketball practice throughout the week with the exception of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The following week will see Chapman Tech engaged in several first and second team conflicts with a game coming with Deep River on January 2. This game really opens the basketball activities in High School circles with Bulkeley following soon after, a game pending with Plainfield High.

The Submarine Base will begin its season with the ushering of the new year, and will oppose the Cycle Five of Westerly in its initial appearance. Practice has been going on steadily during the past month since the termination of the football schedule. However there will be a lull in the practice sessions to allow the various players who are expected to be fixtures on the basketball team a chance to complete their furlough, which covers in most cases a trip home over the holidays. The resumption of practice will be made on January 2.

GIBBONS' CHALLENGE TO TUNNEY IS APPROVED

New York, Dec. 23.—Tommy Gibbons' challenge to Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, for a title match was sanctioned by the state athletic commission today, the match to be held at the earliest date. At the same time Gibbons was ordered to post the customary forfeit for to back up his challenge.

Sid Terris, New York lightweight, who claimed an injured hand caused a postponement of his match with Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo lightweight, carded for tonight, was examined by the commission's physician and pronounced fit. The commission was inclined to suspend Terris for his action but in view of his promise to meet Goodrich before engaging in any further matches he was given a reprimand and ordered to meet Goodrich, January 13.

Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, new bantamweight champion, was directed to confine his fighting activities to the 118-pound division. Martin sought permission to fight out of his class, in the junior featherweight division, but the commission ruled that as champion he should fight only bantamweights.

George Larue, of Syracuse, who fought Jack Oaks in Syracuse last Friday night and was thrown out of the ring for stalling, was suspended thirty days.

HOLY CROSS DISPUTES YALE CLAIM TO BASEBALL TITLE

New York, Dec. 23.—Analysis of eastern Intercollegiate championship honors for 1924 reveals that Holy Cross has much stronger claim to the baseball title than Yale, which was supreme in more branches of competition than any rival the past year.

Holy Cross, due chiefly to the great pitching of Owen Carroll, boasted an unbeaten nine which hung up a string of eighteen triumphs, including victories over Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Princeton, Boston College and Colgate, all among the strongest in the east. Boston College and Harvard were beaten twice by the Worcester collegians, who are coached by Jack Barry, shortstop in the famous infield of the Philadelphia Athletics a decade ago.

Yale, on the other hand, was only able to break even, winning fifteen and losing the same number of games. The Blue, however, aided by the fine box-work of Ducky Bond, lately a football hero, would up its season with two triumphs over Harvard.

Princeton, the other member of the "Big Three" shut out Yale twice and had an otherwise fine record until the Tigers stumbled against Harvard.

PEERLESS-MOOSUP MATCH IS PUT OVER A WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 23.—The match game between the Peerless and the Moosup five man bowling teams scheduled to take place this week has been postponed until next week. This postponement was made at the request of the Moosup management, and it is possible that the Peerless team will not get into action until after next week for they expect to postpone their game with Moosup until the following week, due to the absence of several of their team members next week.

This will leave the Lawrence bowling but once this week, for the holidays will intervene and make it impossible for this team to bowl the Aetna five twice this week as scheduled. The remainder of the teams in the league will also be effected one or the other because of the holidays.

JOHNSON WILL INVADE EAST AGAIN NEXT YEAR

New York, Dec. 23.—William M. Johnston, veteran California tennis star, will invade the east again next summer for the National championships and other title events, despite the setbacks he sustained last season. This word is brought back from the far west by William T. Tilden, National champion and Johnston's keen rival over the past few years.

According to Tilden, Johnston is keen to make another comeback attempt in 1925 and believe he still has a chance to break through to the top. Last season he was decisively beaten by Tilden in the National championships and later defeated by Vincent Richards, who displaced "Little Bill" in the Davis cup singles and also is expected to dislodge the Californian from the No. 2 National ranking position for 1924.

HOCKEY PLAYER FINED $200 FOR INDIFFERENT PLAYING

Boston, Dec. 23.—Norman Fowler, goal tender of the Boston professional hockey team, has been indefinitely suspended and fined $200 for indifferent playing, the club announced today. President Charles F. Adams, said Fowler admitted that he did not give his best efforts in the game against St. Patrick's of Toronto here last night. The Toronto team won, 10 to 1.

Dr. Charles Steward, formerly of the Hamilton, Ontario, club of the National hockey league, will play in goal for Boston in their game against the champion Canadians at Montreal Christmas night.

MARTIN TO RISK TITLE AGAINST MURRAY, JAN 12

New York, Dec. 23.—Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, of Brooklyn, recently crowned world's bantamweight champion by defeating Abe Goldstein at Madison Square Garden last Friday night, will risk his title for the first time when he steps in the ring against Tommy Murray, of Philadelphia, January 12, Martin's manager announced tonight.

CONTI BEATS DERBIER IN FRENCH TOURNEY

Paris, Dec. 23.—Roger Conti, French expert, tonight defeated Edmond Derbier in the 18.2 balkline championship billiard contest, winning his fourth straight match of the tournament, 600 to 330. His grand average is 66.66 for 2,000 points, including three unfinished runs of 472, 296, 206.

Conti will meet Felix Grange in the final match tomorrow. While Conti has won four games and lost none, Grange has won three and lost one.

FAST BASKETBALL GAME AT TAFTVILLE CHRISTMAS

Manager Johnny Murphy of the Army-Navy basketball team of Taftville has booked a stellar attraction for Christmas afternoon at Pariah Hall when he brings the South Kingstown team here. The South Kingstown team, held the undisputed championship of Rhode Island last year.

This outfit which is composed of topnotches of the sport is considered one of the strongest teams in New England, every player on the squad having played with teams of high calibre. Last season the boys from the midget state played 44 games and but six times emerged from the fray on the short end of the shore. Among their victims were some of the best teams in the country, including the Fernwoods of New York, Purple Collegians, champions of Worcester, Boston Nationals, Southbridge Legionaires and other teams of like calibre. This is without doubt one of the fastest teams that has ever been scheduled to play in this vicinity and have gained a wide reputation of being clean and hard playing chalked court enthusiasts. Last season's record of 36 won and 6 lost is a most remarkable one when it is remembered that this record was made on foreign courts, under various rules with all kinds of officials.

With the Kingstown team is Luke Morley who played with the Boston Whirlwinds last year when they played here on New Year's day.

The Army-Navy team will use the same lineup as in previous games with thae attack centered around Joe Belair and Harry Mills, the leading scorers of the local quintet.

JOE FLANNER, OLD TIME BASEBALL MAN DIES

Cincinnati, Dec. 23.—Joe Flanner, one of the founders of the American league, died today at his home here following a long illness. Twelve years ago Flanner came to Cincinnati and served as assistant to August Herrmann, then chairman of the National baseball commission.

When Ban Johnson began to organize the American league, Flanner was sports editor of a St. Louis newspaper. He assisted Johnson in establishing an American league team in the Mound city. Subsequently he was chosen assistant to Mr. Herrmann and served in that capacity until the advent of K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner.

WHITNEY STABLE WILL BE SENT TO TIA JUANA

New York, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Payne Whitney, prominent New York sportswoman who owns a formidable string of racing thoroughbreds, will have her colors carried this winter in the Tia Juana track in Mexico. A string of nine of her crack runners, including Cherry Pie, which holds the world's record for the mile, will be shipped next Saturday to the far west.

Mrs. Whitney already has a dozen thoroughbreds racing at New Orleans and during the past year has campaign on Canadian as well as most of the leading American courses.

Basketball at "Y" Christmas.

Some interesting junior basketball games are promised for the Y. M. C. A. gym for Christmas afternoon, when the "Y" Emps will meet the fast Baltic Bantams quintette. Both teams have become well known in the vicinity and their meeting is always a signal for unusual interest among the younger basketball fans.

A game is also scheduled for the C. F. C. team, a newly organized team representing the Central Baptist church Boys' club and the Jewett City Cagers. The games will start promptly at 3.30 o'clock and the public is invited to visit the association to see the games.

Dartmouth Wins "Y" Title.

Dartmouth, by a final spurt yesterday won the local Y. M. C. A. junior boys' "College" gym league, closely followed by Yale, Princeton, and Harvard. The league has been one of the feature activities for the junior boys in the "Y" gym and there has been considerable rivalry among the boys in their endeavor to win the league championship. Those on the Dartmouth team were Frank Harkness, captain, Nunzi Grieco, Winfield McDonald, Frank Decker, Frank Bamber, Dwight Richardson, Harold Robbins, G. Angellacco, Peter Yeits, Louis Hazam, J.Ferracco.

English Boxer Coming to U. S.

New York, Dec. 21.—Tommy Milligan, British welterweight, and holder of the European 148 pound crown, will sail for America soon to complete against the best American welterweights, according to word received here today.

Milligan's recent victory over Ted (Kid) Lewis, former world's welterweight champion, in London, prompted his decision to invade America.

OLYMPIC ROMANCE ENDS HAPPILY AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Dec. 23.—Clarence Pinkston, of Los Angeles and Miss Betty Becker, of Atlantic City, N. J., members of the American Olympic swimming team, were married here today. Their romance began, it is said, during the last Olympic games in Paris.

The bride is the world's champion woman spring board diver, while Pinkston won an Olympic diving title during the 1920 games.

Gordon Gets Verdict

Bayonne, N. J., Dec. 23.—Jackie Gordon, of New York, won a newspaper decision over Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., in a 10-round bout here tonight. They are feather weights.

SPORTING NOTES

Joey Evans, substitute outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, has hung out his M. D. sign in Dallas, where he plans to make his home permanently.

Tommy (Shanty) Gaffney, utility outfielder of the Louisville Colonels and Miss Catherine O'Conner were married in Louisville, December 2nd.

Floyd (Rip) Wheeler, ace of the Wichita Falls pitching staff of 1922 and 1923, and sold to the Chicago Cubs at the end of the latter season, will return to the Wichita Falls club next spring.

Roger Bresnahan, former big league catcher and in recent years president of the Toledo baseball club, was married to Miss Gertrude Norenberg in Toledo recently.

James Shollenberger has been re-elected manager of the Moline Club of the Mississippi Valley League, by directors of the Moline Fans' Association. P. R. Ingelson, city attorney, was re-elected president.

Williard D. Hinkle, a product of the Cincinnati sandlots, who played first base for the United States Marines, has been signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers as an understudy of Jacques Fournier.

C. L. Bross, 23 years old, has been purchased by Cap Neal, business manager of the Louisville Club of the Southwestern League. Bross is an outfielder, but performs at third base. He throws and bats righthanded and is a fast fielder.

Roy Boyd of the Fort Smith Twins, will soon hop into the matrimonial league. Miss Mary Melta Brown of Fort Smith having announced her engagement to the Twins' pitcher.

Lou Fonseca, utility infielder of the Cincinnati Reds, was operated on the past week in a San Francisco hospital for trouble at the base of his spine. It was said the operation was not of serious nature.

The Rochester Club of the International League will return to Savannah, Ga., for spring training in 1925. The team trained there last spring and found conditions entirely satisfactory.

By virtue of its feat in winning the Eastern League championship this year, Waterbury is to be honored as the site for the next annual meeting of the Eastern League. The date was set as December 16.

One of the numerous first basemen owned by the Chicago Cubs has been out drift. Ace Elliot goes to Seattle, which club is managed by Wade Killefer, a brother of Bill. Elliot broke an ankle in an exhibition game last spring and had to lay off nearly all season. He bats left-handed and that was the chief reason why he was sent away. The Cubs are over-stocked with southpaw hitters.

Whether or not Bartlesvilles will have a club in the Western Association the coming year depends on the fans. W. Y. Foster, president of the club, has written the mayor of Bartlesville saying that the city has a chance to hold the club if it desires to do so. In past seasons there have been several disastrous ones and the franchise has proved a losing proposition.

At a special meeting of the American Association owners, held at Hartford, just before the magnates left, it was decided by unanimous vote that all players be numbered on the field during the coming season. The players will wear the numbers on the sleeves of their shirts, which will correspond to the numbers on the program. The numbers are to be six inches high so they will be easily discernable from the stands.

Indications are that the New York Giants and the Washington Nationals will duplicate their World's Series contests in exhibition games next spring, the two teams have arranged to play about 14 games between them while on their way north from their training camp in the south. The Griffmen will train at Tampa and although no announcement has been made as yet, it is believed that the Giants will return to Sarasota, Florida. At any rate, it is practically certain that the National League champions will establish their spring headquarters somewhere in Florida.

The squawking Wade Leder indulged in over his share in the World's Series pot is believed to have been a factor in his release to the Memphis Club by Washington. This promising young outfielder-first baseman, obtained from Worcester of the Eastern League in September, helped to win one game for Washington by making two hits in four appearances as pinch hitter, and when voted $1,500 of the melon accruing from the World's Series, which he was not eligible to play in, assumed an aggrieved attitude and yelped long and loudly over the "shabby" way he had been treated, threatening to quit rather than stand for such injustice. The fact that he has been shunted to the minors indicates he is not the type of athlete Bucky Harris wants working for him.

MUTILATED BODY FOUND ON THE RAILROAD TRACKS

Hartford, Dec. 23.—The mutilated body of an unidentified man was found on the railroad tracks in West Hartford this afternoon by boys. The body was that of a man about 45 years old, five feet eight or ten inches tall, and weighing about 160 pounds. It was dressed in three suits of underwear, white shirt with black stripes, gray suit, heavy tan shoes and heavy gray overcoat. The man is thought to have been hit by the train due in Hartford at 4.35.

CHRISTMAS EVE FLIGHT OF THE LOS ANGELES CALLED OFF

Lakehurst, Dec. 23.—The projected Christmaseve flight of the dirigible Los Angeles over New York city was called off by the navy department in a message sent to the Lakehurst naval air station tonight. No explanation of the change in plans was contained in the message.

SNOW PREDICTED FOR UPPER MISSISSIPPI VALLEY

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Plenty of snow for Christmas eve and weather not too cold was today predicted for throughout the upper Mississippi valley and the far northwest. The weather man said that the snow would not be heavy, but would probably fall all day tomorrow.

ARMED GUARDS PROTECT LIQUOR FROM HI-JACKERS

Providence, R. I., Dec. 23.—Armed guards tonight are protecting from possible attack by hi-jackers a freight car containing 2,000 gallons of alcohol seized in a railroad yard in this city

Says Humans Not Worth Saving

Clarence Darrow, noted lawyer and general pessimist, who says that humans are not worth saving, claiming that mankind is selfish, has no goal, is tyrannical and prejudiced. As to super-men, there are none known, and if one should appear, he would eat the average humans in the form of a savory appetizer.

COOLIDGE OPPOSED TO INAUGURAL RECEPTION

Washington, Dec. 23. — President Coolidge put his foot down today on suggestions for an inaugural reception. He doesn't object to a ball held in connection with the inauguration provided he does not have to attend.

The president believes that those who like to dance should be permitted to do so but he doesn't care for dancing and consequently will not attend any balls where he might be expected to participate in that pastime.

DEBATING CONSTRUCTION OF DAM AT BOULDER CANYON

Washington, Dec. 23.—The senate reclamation committee took under advisement tonight, the Johnson-Swing bill proposing construction of a dam at Boulder Canyon in the Colorado river for development and protection of the lower basin.

Concluding hearings which had continued through two days, Chairman McNary announced he would ask the committee, several members of which have expressed themselves in favor of the bill, to act finally on the measure soon after the holiday recess. The house committee, which conducted extensive hearings last session, also expects to take action on the bill about the same time.

BONUSES RECEIVED BY WORLD WAR VET. CONVICTS

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 23.—More than $1,500 in state war bonuses was received by 25 World war veterans in Sing Sing prison today. The greater part of the money was sent by the prisoners to members of their families as Christmas gifts.

WESTERLY

Before Justice Chester W. Barrows, Monday, in a session of Providence county superior court was heard the petition of George Grossom, of the State Line Lunch room, Pawcatuck, for preliminary injunction against James A. Agras et al of the Quality Lunch room in Westerly. ecision in this matter was reserved and direction was given for the filing of briefs before Dec. 29th. The Quality lunch room on Main street was formerly managed by Dubrulle and Galin., and after being sold by them was damaged by fire and water at the time of the Briggs building fire. Since that time the store has been entirely remodeled. Arthur Dubrulle, one of the former proprietors was present Monday in Providence as a witness. John Ferguson, Jr., of Westerly represented the complainant and for the respondent appeared Philip S. Knauer of Knauer & Fowler and Michael J. Turano of DePasquale and Turano, of Providence. The case was to have been brought up in Providence last Monday but Attorney Turano having been just called in on the cast, it was continued at that time for one week.

Transfers recorded at the office of Westerly Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple, were Dec. 19th, Mary A. Berry to John Lavia and wife, Anna Lavia, a tract of land with dwelling and other improvements on the south side of Newton avenue. On Dec. 20th Joseph Illo to Bomina Aiello a tract of land with buildings and improvements in Bradford, also Bomina Aiello to Joseph Aiello, an undivided one-half interest in the same property. Dec. 22nd Frank W. Coy Real Estate company and Charles P. Eccleston deeded to Salvatore Spezzino and Vincenzina Spezzina, a lot at the corner of Granite and Cross streets. Dec. 23rd John W. Sweeney conveyed to Carl Manfred two lots, Nos. 57 and 58, located in the Hill Top Plat section, so called.

Deborah chapter, No. 9, Order of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Nora G. Fowler, worthy matron held a meeting Tuesday evening in the Masonic rooms on High street. Following the session refreshments were served.

The musical program for the Christmas eve midnight mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception was announced Tuesday by the organist and directors, Mrs. Frank Ahern. Before the mass, the choir will sing the Adeste Fideles, with solor by Martin H. Spellman, duet by Richard Lenihon and Dr. H. F. Doyle and male quartet, Richard Lenihan, Edward J. Butler, Dr. H. F. Doyle and Thomas V. Clancy.

The mass given will be Mattfield's Mass in C and the soloists will be Miss Rose Bannon, Miss Helen Gaffney, Dr. H. F. Dowle, Thomas V. Clancy, Edward J. Butler, Richard Lenihan, Martin H. Spellman, and Miss Clara Handel.

At the offertory O Holy Night, by Adam will be sung, with solo by Miss Helen McGrath. At the close of the service, the choir will sing Angels We Have Heard on High, (Old English.)

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will follow the mass. Martin H. Spellman and Edward J. Butler will sing O Salutaris as a duet, and the choir will sing Tantum Ergo from an old Russia hymn.

The following program of music will be rendered at Christ church, at the 10.30 service on Thursday, Christmas morning:

Organ prelude, Pastorale Symphony from the Messiah, Handel; processional, Adeste Fideles; Venite, Gibbons; Gloria, Gibbons; Festival Te Deum, Dudley Buck; Three Fold Kyrie, Bamby; Gloria, Tibi, Garrett; Gratias Tibi, Garrett; cantata, The Holy Child Adams (in short form); Offertory anthem, There Were Shepherds, Vincent; Sursum Corda, Stainer; Sanctus, Agnus Dei, communion carol, Silent Night; Gloria in Excelsis, Stainer; Nunc Dimithis, Claire; recessional hymn, Regen Square; organ postlude, Hymn of Flory, Pietro A. Yon.

Sunday morning next some of the Christmas music will be repeated and the church soloist, Mrs. Jennie C. Davison will render Angels From the Realms of Glory, by Harry Rome Shelley for the offertory. All the music is given under the direction of Mrs. Florence S. Larkin, the organist.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Litchfield returned Monday evening from Boston and their wedding trip to make their home on Pleasant street.

Miss Emma Nestor of Providence arrived in Westerly Monday evening to be the guest of relatives and friends for a short time.

Albert L. Saunders returned to Boston Monday after being the week end guest of his father, Capt. William F. Saunders at Winnapaug farm, Shore road.

Edward Higgins, a medical student at Tufts college, Boston, is passing the Christmas vecation with Pawcatuck relatives and friends.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, Dec. 23.—Curious cross-currents of prices characterized today's stock market, which eventually drifted lower under the weight of Christmas profit taking and the extensive readjustment of speculative accounts. Much of the selling was inspired by the marking up of the call money rate to 6 per cent., the highest since last April.

The unexpected declaration of a dividend by the Anaconda Copper Company brought fresh buying into the copper shares which, with Pullman, the Maxwell and Jordan Motor issues and a few specialties, presented the only points of consistent strength. New 1924 highs were established in the early trading, however, by Atchison, New York Air Brake, American Locomotive, American Car and Foundry, Magma Copper, American Smelting preferred, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Continental Insurance.

American Can broke more than 4 points in reflection of speculative disappointment over the failure of the directors to make a more generous distribution to stockholders, the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 and an extra of $2 being declared at today's meeting. Omission of the common dividend on Pittsburgh Coal was followed by a drop of two points in that stock, half of which was later recovered. New York, Ontario and Western responded to the resumption of dividends by advancing over two points to 27 1-4 but it eased to 26 1-2 in the later trading.

United States Steel common closed 1-8 lower at 117 1-2, Baldwin showed a net loss of nearly two points at 129 3-4 after touching 133 and Studebaker closed a point lower at 44 1-2.

The railroad shares also lost ground despite the publication of freight statistics for the week ended Dec. 13 showing total car loadings of 956,761, or 6.8 per cent. above the same week last year. Net losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded by Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Reading, Louisville and Nashville and a few others.

General Electric, which had been bid up rapidly in the last few weeks on the expectation that directors would authorize a split-up of the stock at today's meeting, broke from 298 3-8, the highest price in two decades, to 290 1-4 on the announcement that only routine business was transacted. West Penn Power broke nearly 12 points on a few sales. Other outstanding weak spots were Federal Light and Traction preferred, Kelsey Wheel, National Lead, Third Avenue Railway and Virginia Railway and Power, off 3 to 6 points.

Anaconda climbed more than two points to 44 1-2, a new high, on the dividend declaration. The rally in the Maxwell Motor issues was based on reports that sufficient holders of debenture bonds had taken advantage of the stock conversion privilege, which expired yesterday, to make it possible to pay off the remaining debentures from the proceeds of the new $3,500,000 five and one-half per cent. issue to be offered next year, without recourse to the treasury.

Call money opened at 3 1-2 per cent., advanced to 4 and thence to 5 closing at the top. The calling of loans was in preparation for the year-end statements. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged although funds were not so plentiful.

Foreign exchange rates were slightly reactionary with business of a holiday character. Demand sterling again fell below 4.70 and French francs held relatively strong around 5 3-8 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, Dec. 23.—Bond prices reacted today under a wave of pre-holiday liquidatoon and profit taking. Stiffening of the time money market was in response to the brisk rise in the call fund rate to 7 per cent., coupled with the general tendency of investors to unload buildings during the holidays dulled the edge of trading and brought about fraction at recessions in all classes of bonds.

Speculative operations in railroad bonds were discouraged by the higher rates, and many of the issues were heavy led in recent activity yielded portions of their portions of their gains. Among those which declared a point or more were Seaboard Adjustment 5's, Norfolk and Western convertible 6's, International-Great Northern adjustment 6's, New Haven 7's and convertible 6's and Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 5's, New York Central Consolidated 4's showed independent strength, advancing a point.

Interest in new financing also lagged today in view of the forthcoming holiday but bond offerings are expected to increase in number and volume after Christmas. Banking interests which recently completed arrangements for a $10,000,000 loan to the Krupp works were reported to be negotiating a credit of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 for the Thyssen Iron Works of Germany, which may involve a public offering.

The firmer tone of the money market was reflected in further ease of Liberty bonds. Most of the foreign obligations, noticeably the French issues, also worked lower.

CURB MARKET

New York, Dec. 23.—Pre-holiday dullness characterized today's curb market with the general list sagging under the weight of Christmas profit taking and bear selling. Active Oils drifted lower, with losses of 1 to 2 points being recorded by Gulf, Signal, Magnolia Petroleum, Prairie Oil and Gas, Prairie Pipe, Carib Syndicate and Southern Pennsylvania.

Considerable irregularity developed among the public utilities. Commonwealth Power and Lehigh Power securities each broke about 3 points to 123 and 94 1-4, respectively, while American Power and Light dropped 1 1-4 and American Gas and Electric 2. Howdever, Middle West utilities advanced two points and East Penn Electric one.

Radio shares held firm on further reports of a heavy holiday business, sleeper duplicating its record high and the others showing only fractional changes.

Losses of one point each by Lehigh Valley Coal certificates and Centrifugal Pipe were the only changes of importance in the industrial list.

Revival of activities in the copper shares with Wendon touching a new high was the feature of the mining list.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Wheat scored some brisk upturns in price today chiefly as a result of the better buying support and owing to a decrease of selling pressure. Much of the buying was from houses that were conspicuous yesterday as sellers. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 3-4 to 1 3-8 higher with May $1.73 1-4 to $1.73 3-8 and July 1.48 3-8 to 1.48 1-2. Corn finished 1 7-8 to 2 1-4c up; oats at 1-4c to 3-8c gain, and provisions unchanged to 12 down.

Expected relative steadiness of wheat quotations at Liverpool had a stimulating effect on the market here and with strong interests absorbing the surplus offerings and upward trend was quickly in evidence. Meanwhile the general trade, although of a pre-holiday character, seemed responsive to talk which was current that liberal European buying would soon develop again with the new year and was likely to increase to a notable extent during the early springs.

Reinstatement of recently sold out holdings gave independent strength to the corn market. In addition weather conditions that would tend to enlarge feeding demand were prevalent. Oats followed corn.

Packers' selling weakened the provisions market.

NEW LONDON JUDGE SENDS DOCTOR TO NORWICH STATE FARM FOR CURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 23.—Narcotics and liquor can wreck a man in a short time. That fact was evidenced in the police court today when Dr. John N. Dimon, of Thames View, Waterford, gave up and declared himself beaten in the attempt to use them. He was a physical wreck when he was presented before Judge Prince. His frame shook as he attempted to move about, so he was assisted to a seat. The court officer Policeman Selignitzky raised the arm of the accused as he pleaded to a complaint charging him with being an inebriate from the use of intoxicating liquor and narcotics. He pleaded guilty and then the acting prosecutor, Percy J. Hollandersky, made a brief statement to the court, which was sympathetic and which had for its purpose only the accomplishment of what was to be for the benefit of the man accused. Dr. Dimon pleaded guilty. He was committed to the Norwich state farm for inebriates at Preston for a term of six months. He could not have been committed without his plea of guilty. He realized his condition and that if he was to overcome it he must go under treatment as a person would who was afflicted with disease. He was taken to the Norwich institution by Sergeant Smith and Patrolman Graham.

Oscar Hill, a freight handler, was fined $5 for intoxication. He was injured some time ago when nine teeth were knocked from his jaw by an accident. Since then at times he has been addicted to drink at times and when he gets going it is hard work to stop. Last evening he was on Main street where he moped into the tenement of Lettie Harris, colored. There he smashed a window in a door and frightened the woman so that she called for police aid. She got it and Hill was given a place in a cell over night and today was pardoned for a hearing in court. On his promise to pay for any damage he had occasioned, he was fined $5. That penalty he paid through his attorney.

Horace Stanley was sent to jail this morning for six months because he snatched a pocketbook from Mrs. William Howard, of Main street, while she was in the post office lobby yesterday afternoon. Stanley created the impression that he was mentally affected, because he wore no outer shirt and his neck was exposed like that of a woman with a new fur garment. His underwear was exposed as was the upper part of his chest. When questioned as to this Stanley declared that it was his preference to go thus lightly garbed. He believed such a method of clothing was healthful. He pleaded guilty of theft and said that the offense was the result of indulgence in liquor. He was apt to do wild things when he was under the influence of liquor, but that his mentality was a bit defective he would not admit. He was captured as soon as he ran from the post office lobby and spent a night in a cell. Mrs. Howard did not appear to testify against Stanley. The return of her stolen money seemed to be all that she desired.

Virgilio Batelli, residing on Shaw street, was charged with keeping a place where liquor was sold, also with maintaining a place reputed to be one where liquor could be obtained, contrary to law. He was represented by counsel, who desired to become familiar with the facts in the case so a continuance was granted till Saturday. Batelli was fined $200 a year ago last month and then was also sentenced to serve 10 days in jail. This penalty he paid.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet Freeman, wife of Ernest R. Freeman, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, 15 West street. The services were conducted by Rev. Frederick Haist, rector of Seabury Memorial church, Groton. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The condition of Joseph McFee, Thames street, Groton, a patient at Lawrence hospital suffering from injuries he is alleged to have sustained in a row with George Whitney, also of Groton, at McFee's home Sunday morning, is reported this evening at the institution as being slightly improved. Following McFee's arrest charged with selling liquor, his place was raided by state police and a still and a quantity of home-made liquor was found. Whitney is also under arrest, charged with assault upon McFee.

A New Haven man, employed by the Presto-lite company, that city, was arrested by Patrolman Frank Philopena this evening, charged with carrying a concealed weapon. At the police station the accused revealed a permit he had in his possession to carry the weapon in New Haven, but which permit did not allow him to carry the revolver throughout the state. He was allowed his liberty, but instructed to obtain a permit from the state police department to carry the weapon in the cities where his business called him.

Pedestrians who use the foot bridge over Shaw's cove declare that the city will have a bill in damages to pay, unless lights are placed along the bridge and boards over which pedestrians walk are made safer than they are now. The walk is very uneven and darkness prevails from one end of the bridge to the other.

New London's fire department has been very fortunate during the winter to date in that their services have not often been called upon to extinguish fires. The firemen are not finding fault on that account for there is abundant time during the next three months for them to disclose the sort of service the people have.

It is said that there never were so many pine trees sold in the markets of this city as have been disposed of during the past fornight for Christmas trees. Nearly every store where fruit and vegetables were on sale had the trees.

Pupils at Bulkeley school are becoming interested in the reception to be extended to Lieut. Leslie Arnold, the world flyer, who was a student at that school when he resided with his mother in New London. Lieut. Arnold went to Boston when he enlisted in the service and studied the mechanism of aeroplanes, so that he was very familiar with the construction of them when he entered the service. The knowledge thus obtained stood him good stead when he made the world flight.

The police probe, or at least the inquiry into means of improving the efficiency of the department, which was to have been resumed this evening, did not continue tonight. Director of Law Frank L. McGuire who is the counsellor of the committee, has been absent from the city for several days and during that time the committee has not been in session. The committee is not apt to meet on Christmas eve, for the members have other engagements for that evening, so the hearings are likely to go over till next week.

There has rarely been a winter when there was less building going on in this city. Aside from the construction of a couple of pretentious structures on Bank street, there is little doing in the way of building. Most of the work now is repair work, the construction of additions and remodelling of residents and the repair of houses. Many buildings are being shingled on the sides as the owners have concluded that it is cheaper to shingle than it is to paint and renew the roofs. Several house owners who have had new roofs placed on their buildings of late say the expense is between $400 and $500, and in many instances the expense has exceeded the latter figure.

Notwithstanding the dangerous condition of the sidewalks of the city during the past two days when there has been snow enough on the walks to make them risky for travel, no accidents have been reported. The sanding of the walks at this time of year would be a precautionary measure that might save the city a considerable sum.

Brainard lodge, F. and A. M., held a stated meeting this evening at which applications for membership were considered, but no work was done.

A conference was held this afternoon in the office of City Manager William A. Holt, by the city manager, Mayor Waldo E. Clarke and a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, to discuss plans for conducting a welcome to Lieut. Leslie P. Arnold of this city, who was one of the world fliers.

Wilfred DeLoss Wells, 62, secretary and assistant treasurer of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, died this morning at his home, 255 Montauk avenue, death resulting from chronic heart disease. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ortville P. Colby and Miss Edna A. Wells, both of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Charles R. Maxson, of Westerly. He was a member of All Souls' Unitarian church and the Harbor club.

Mr. Wells had been in the employ of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company 37 years, coming to New London from DeRuyter, N. Y. Some time ago Mr. Wells suffered from an aggravated condition of the heart and several months ago he underwent an operation, which resulted in a general improvement of his condition, and it was believed that this improvement would be permanent. Saturday he suffered a recurrence of the heart disorder.

Because of a lack of orders at the plant of the New London Ship and Engine company, forty workers have been laid off, it became known today. The workers are employes of the foundry and yard. It is believed that the lay-off will be but for a short time, for additional orders are anticipated which will cause the men laid off to be recalled.

Midnight mass will be celebrated at St. Marys Star of the Sea church Wednesday night, when special music will be rendered. At Seabury church in Groton there will be a midnight service this year also.

Edward Finn of this city, employed in New York, arrived in New London, being summoned here by the sudden death Monday of his uncle, John F. Neary, 50 Blinman street.

Miss Anna McGarry of Connecticut avenue; John Casca, Westerly, and Theba Clark, Noank, were patients dismissed today at Lawrence hospital.

Mrs. Wilbert Clarke of Westerly and Miss Elizabeth Krolik, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Mrs. Morris Lubchansky and little son Harold of Bellevue place are visiting relatives in New York.

Prof. and Mrs. Samuel E. Lawrence, Braintree, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Lawrence's mother, Mrs. Johanna Kane of Pearl street.

While proceeding up the harbor, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, steamer New London, Capt. William Durkee, Central Vermont line, was in collision with the barge Harford, owned by P. Douherty, Baltimore, and laden with a cargo of soft coal consigned to Allyn's Point. The New London was damaged, as was the barge, the latter's rail and upper works being ripped away several feet. The New London had reached a point in the channel on the east shore opposite the New London Ship and Engine company, nad was in the act of changing her course to go to the Long wharf. As the turn was made the steamer struck the barge well aft. Following the collision, and when it became known that the barge was not in danger of sinking, the New London proceeded to her pier. This forenoon the barge was towed to Allyn's Point, where the task of unloading her cargo was started.

NEIGHBORS' DOGS ANNOY JOHN K. FORAN'S FAMILY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 23.—John K. Foran, 59 Faire Harbour place, today lodged complaint with Dog Warden John Sweezy, alleging that three dogs owned by a neighbor, Allen Penhallow, annoyed the family of complainant because of the continual barking of the dogs.

LEGAL NOTICE

TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF CONNECTICUT, AT ITS JANUARY SESSION, 1925:

Section 1. That Philip Z. Hankey, Milton J. Warner and Howard M. Whiting hereby respectfully petition your Honorable Body that they and such persons as may be associated with them, their successors and assigns, be constituted a body politic and corporate by the name of The Thames Power Company, with its principal office at Norwich, in this State, and that by that name said corporation may be empowered to make and carry out all such rules, regulations and by-laws as may, consistent with the laws of the State of Connecticut and of the United States, be necessary and convenient for the government and management of said company.

Section 2. The capital stock of said company shall be Twenty Thousand shares, which may be of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, or which may be without par value, which may be increased from time to time hereafter by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders, to an amount not to exceed Fifty Thousand shares, which capital stock shall be transferred by such rules and regulations as the Directors shall make. This corporation may commence business when One Hundred shares of the capital stock have been subscribed for.

Section 3. Said company is authorized and empowered to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding at any time the amount of capital stock actually paid in and bearing interest at the rate not exceeding seven per cent. (7 per cent.) per annum, and to make and execute a mortgage of and upon its franchises, real estate and property to secure the bonds so issued, which said mortgage may include after-acquired property.

Section 4. Said company shall be empowered and authorized to generate, buy, make, transmit, sell and distribute gas, electricity and power of any and all kinds in the towns of Ledyard, Preston, Lisbon, Norwich, Bozrah, Sprague, Franklin and Lebanon, in New London County, and in the town of Canterbury, Scotland and Windham, in Windham County, for the purposes of illumination, heat and power, and for any other purposes that electricity and gas now are or may hereafter be used, and may sell the same to private consumers and corporations within said territory and other companies authorized to engage in the same business under the laws of the State of Connecticut, provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as conferring any rights to sell any electricity in the towns of Norwich and Preston other than to a municipality or to a corporation duly authorized to distribute and sell electricity in one or both of said towns unless and until the corporation hereby created shall have acquired by lease, purchase or otherwise the municipal lighting plant of the City of Norwich. For said purposes said company may build plants, lay pipes and conduits, erect and maintain wires, poles, structures and fixtures necessary and appurtenant thereto in, under, upon or over any highway, street, avenue, alley, or public ground within said towns, or under or over private property, by agreement with the owners thereof.

Section 5. Said company shall be authorized and empowered to purchase or lease, under such terms as the owners and directors of the company may agree upon, all the contract rights, property and franchises of The Norwich Gas and Electric Company, of the gas and electric department of the City of Norwich, or of any other company authorized under the laws of this State to engage in a similar business, and may operate the same. It may sell or lease the whole or any part of its franchises and property, including lease and franchises hereafter acquired, or may merge with and consolidate with any other corporation authorized to engage in a similar business within the State of Connecticut, and in the event of such purchase, merger, lease or consolidation, all the rights, privileges, properties and franchises of the selling, leasing, merging or consolidating companies shall pass to the purchasing lessee or consolidated company.

As in duty bound your Petitioners will ever pray.

Dated at New London, Conn., this 22d day of December, A. D. 1924.

PHILIP Z. HANKEY,
MILTON J. WARNER,
HOWARD M. WHITING.

TAFTVILLE

The annual Christmas service of the Taftville Congregational church school was held Wednesday evening at the church. This service is held each year in Christmas week and is an interpretation of the Nativity of the Babe of Bethlehem. The chancel had been arranged to appear like the crude stable, heavy bark covered slabs and hemlock being used. In the center stood the manger, over which leaned the Blessed Virgin, impersonated by Miss Bertha Monty. Oscar Mathewson, Jr., was St. Joseph. During the service the junior choir sang Christmas hymns and carols. The church was lighted by candles and a brilliant star which hung over the manger. The visit of the shepherds, angels and sages were depicted in detail, those taking part wearing appropriate costumes. Others assisting at the service were:

Angels, Miss Eleanor Heinrich, Miss Ethel Holland, Miss Celena Adams, Miss Edna Krodel, Miss Dorothy Hunt, Miss Meldred Yerrington, Miss Jean Copeland, Miss Helen Remick, Miss Marjorie McNally, Miss Dorothy Simino, Miss Agnes Krodel and Miss Evelyn Moors.

Shepherds: John Archibald, Jack Houston, James Heap and Edwin Heap.

Kings: Lester Pingres, Ralph Hunt, Irving Archibald.

After the church service, those present went to the vestry where stood the gaily decorated Christmas tree. Santa Claus was on hand to distribute the gifts that members of the parish exchange each year, and to live all the youngsters candy and toys. Miss Gertrude M. Young was chairman of the committee arranging the service, and she was assisted by the following committees:

Tree and Candy, Miss Flossie M. Meyer, Miss Elsie F. Heap, Miss Dorothy Campbell, Miss Helen Campbell, Miss Isabel Barritt, and Victor H. Davis.

Decorations: Oscar Mathewson, Jr., Earl Mathewson, Terrence M. Buckley, Earle M. Wood, William H. Whitehead Manuel Martin, Edward Martin, Frank Moors, Herbert Airey, and Forest Heinrich.

Curtain: Peter Lukoff and John Soroski.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Benoit and family of Goodyear have been recent guests of Mrs. Benoit's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gonzaque Lalliberte of South B street. They made the trip by automobile.

Miss Annie Lafleur of South B street has had as a guest, Miss Edna Ward of Wauregan.

Anthony Murphy of St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md., is spending the Christmas recess at the home of his mother, Mrs. Anthony Murphy and family of Merchants avenue.

Miss Isabelle Pion of the Academy of the Holy family, Baltic, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amede Pion of Hunters avenue.

Monday afternoon, 700 children of the Sacred Heart school and their mothers enjoyed a Christmas party at the Parish hall. There was a tree, about which the pupils sang Christmas carols, and candy and gifts were distributed. The affair was planned by the Sisters of Charity who are the teachers at the school. Rev. U. O. Bellerose, the pastor; was also present.

Mrs. Charles E. Embler of New York is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams of Occum road.

Miss Violet Dion of New Rochelle, N. Y., is the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Philias C. Dion of Merchants avenue, for over the holidays.

Tuesday afternoon, a truck loaded with boxes of oranges, lost one of the boxes while turning the sharp corner at the bottom of Providence street. The fruit rolled all over the street, but the driver was assisted in recovering his property by a score of youngsters who were sliding on the hill and who were later rewarded by him with the gift of an orange.

TO SERVE ROAST TURKEY DINNERS AT LOCAL INSTITUTIONS CHRISTMAS

The Christmas season is always a happy one for the families and patients of the various institutions and hospitals, but Christmas this year bids fair to surpass any of many years past. Organizations in the city, individuals, the staffs at the various institutions and relatives and friends have left nothing undone to spread Christmas cheer with plenty of gifts to make all happy.

At each institution there will be a Christmas dinner which is always looked forward to by the patients. Children at the institutions will be remembered by Santa Claus during the day and the grownups will also receive a visit from Santa.

Each institution has been taken care of by organizations or the employes and staff. The hospitals and homes present a most cheerful appearance in their beautiful holiday attire of ever green, wreaths and holly.

W. W. Backus Hospital.

During the past few days the holiday committee of the Women's Auxiliary of the Backus hospital, Mrs Edmund Perkins, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Walter Camp, Mrs. Joseph Cummings, and Mrs. Henry Buckley, have decorated the main corridors of the hospital with Christmas greens and the wards of the hospital have been given a pretty holiday effect through the work of the student nurses.

Christmas activities at the hospital begin this (Wednesday) evening when the nurses will enjoy their Christmas tree and party. Over 500 gifts have been received from relatives, friends and grateful patients and the nurses will enjoy opening them at the tree this evening. The Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. J. J. Donohue chairman, has provided individual gifts for the student nurses, and baskets of ferns have been supplied for the tables by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Saxton.

The patients at the hospital will enjoy their Christmas party Thursday when the individual gifts for patients, furnished by the purchasing committee of the auxiliary will be distributed by Superintendent Hutchins and nurses. These boxes were arranged by Miss Jane E. Bill and Mrs. John D. Hall. Individual baskets of fruit will also be supplied each patient and they will also receive gifts from friends and relatives calling at the hospital during the day.

The children will also be remembered with gifts and candy and nurses will play Santa Claus for the children in the isolated ward where a tree has been decorated. Every stocking hung up by the children will be filled with goodies. There is also a tree for the children in the main hospital ward and gifts will be distributed.

At noon Christmas day the usual turkey dinner will be served, donations for this treat being furnished by friends, the turkeys by the holiday committee of the Woman's Auxiliary, cranberry sauce and oranges by the donation committee, Mrs. E. LaRue Bliven, chairman; plum pudding and sauce by Miss Mary Porteous, who has furnished this treat for many years; ice cream by the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women and candy by Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr.

The employes building has also been decorated and gifts will be distributed Christmas day.

Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

Santa Claus will visit the various wards at the Norwich State Tuberculosis sanatorium Thursday morning when gifts will be distributed among the 152 patients and members of the staff. Patients will be allowed to visit friends in the various wards during the day and enjoy the Christmas trees which have been set up in each ward The holiday fund has amply cared for the presents and wants of every patient and with the several hundred gifts already received at the institution a happy day is sure to be the result. Various organizations have also contributed and special gifts are being made to ex-service men a tthe sanatorium by Robert O. Fletcher post, American Legion and the Woman's Auxiliary of Fletcher post.

At 1 o'clock a fine Christmas dinner will be served the menu being as follows:

Consomme
Roast Turkey with Dressing
Mashed Potatoes Stewed Onions
Cranberry Sauce
Celery Olives
Candy Nuts Coffee
Plum Pudding

Norwich State Hospital.

The 1,943 patients at the State Hospital for the Insane are to enjoy their Christmas party this (Wednesday) evening in the auditorium. Two large Christmas trees have been set up on the stage and hundreds of presents await distribution to the patients and staff at the hospital. Santa Claus has already promised over 1,000 gifts for the patients and many more are coming in with every delivery of mail. As usual a Christmas dinner will be served at noon Thursday and there will be roast pork and plenty of extras for everyone. A special feature this year will be the two Christmas trees on the lawn, which, when lighted each evening, make a most attractive appearance.

New London County Home.

The family of 50 children at the County Home will enjoy a treat this (Wednesday) afternoon when Mr. Smith, a sleight of hand artist from Hartford will visit the home and delight the children with his tricks. Following the entertainment Christmas gifts will be distributed among the boys and girls, each to receive a gift and some candy. Dolls are being furnished by the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women and the boys are also to be remembered. At noon Thursday the annual turkey dinner will be served. As usual George Carroll has provided for the children, furnishing the entertainment and individual gifts. Mrs. Frank Mitchell who has charge of the affair also plans a New Year's treat for the children, this also being provided by Mr. Carroll.

Rock Nook Home.

A roast turkey dinner with mashed potatoes, stewed onions, celery, cranberries, fruit, mince and squash pie, and candy will be served Christmas day to the family of 34 children at Rock Nook Home. In addition each child will receive gifts and candy and fruit and the tree will be lighted. The annual tree party will not be held until New Years, however, owing to illness at the home.

Sheltering Arms.

A regular turkey dinner will be served Christmas day to the family of 15 and 5 helpers at the Sheltering Arms after which the tree will be enjoyed and gifts distributed. Friends will call during the day and the usual good time will be enjoyed. As usual, Mrs. Charles L. Hubbard, of New Haven, formerly of Norwich, has provided the turkey for the Christmas dinner.

Alms House.

The family of 40 at the Alms House have been remembered by friends this Christmas several local organizations sending gifts to be distributed. While gifts have been received from relatives and friends. Gifts have already been received from the United Workers, Ever Ready and Euphemian circles King's Daughters and the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women. A roast pork dinner with extras, all raised at the Alms House, will make up the Christmas dinner to be served Thursday noon.

New London County Jail.

The 18 men at the county jail will be treated to the Christmas dinner of roast pork, mashed potatoes, onions, mashed turnips, cranberry sauce, celery, olives, apples, pumpkin and mince pies, Christmas noon and Oscar Main, jailor, as usual will remember his "guests" with cigars.

In order to create enthusiasm and interest in this contest the local electrical contractors—Eaton-Chase Co., O'Neil Electric, Norwich Electric, New York Electric, McGrory Bros., together with the Norwich Gas and Electric department contributed $280. Norwich was entitled to send fifteen essays for the international contest and the ones submitted from Norwich were: Natalie Connor, Chester Carl Davey; Rosamond P. Chapman Clara Palmer, Constance Raymond Charles E. Hagberg, Catherine M. Fontaine, May Vallin, Anna Simmoneau, Harriet B. Pierce, Curtis A. Hedler, Emily D. Hill, Sara Brickman, Anna Boenig, Cecile Lafreniere. These essays represent six from the Academy and nine from the grammar schools.

Because of the fact that the Norwich Academy and the parochial schools closed their sessions last Friday, these prizes were distributed to the children. James C. Macpherson representing the school board; Chas. W. Taggart and John J. O'Rourke visited these schools and awarded the prizes with short addresses, reminding the children of the fact that the town of Norwich makes every endeavor to give its school children the best education possible. On Monday morning Mr. Macpherson and the superintendent of schools, Edward J. Graham, Mr. Taggart and Mr. O'Rourke awarded the prizes to the Elizabeth Street school. On Monday afternoon Walter F. Lester, chairman of the school board and the men named above awarded the prizes to the Broadway, Town and West Town street schools and Tuesday afternoon they visited the Greeneville, Taftville and Occum schools.

A great deal of interest was shown by the children in this essay contest and it is the fond hope of those interested locally that at least one winner of the international prize may be selected from Norwich. More than two million primers were distributed by the national association and unquestionably a great deal of good will come out of this contest. The Norwich electrical contractors and the Norwich gas and electric department deserve great praise and commendation for the interest and co-operation which they have given to this international contest. Every detail concerning the contest was worked out to the letter. The local electrical contractors take this opportunity of publicly expressing its appreciation to the town school board, to the parochial schools, and to the local judges, all of whom gave freely of their time and support to this event. It is expected that the winners of the international contest will be announced early in the year. There are now one hundred and fifty examiners employed in looking over the papers of the contestants.

NORWICH ESSAYS FOR INTERNATIONAL CONTEST

The home lighting essay contest held under the direction of the electrical industry in the United States and Canada, has just been brought to a close in all the schools of Norwich. This project on the part of the electrical industry was for educational purposes so that the proper use of electric lights and fixtures through the correct placement of the outlets and types of lights used, in order that the best results with the least possible injury to eyesight might be attained.

The contest was open to all the school children of the United States and Canada. A primer was furnished to each child who registered to enter the contest. This primer consisted of 24 pages, and the child was directed to investigate the lighting equipment in its own home and in the homes of two friends and to report this investigation on certain pages indicated in the primer. Pictures of various types of fixtures were printed in the books with colors and the children were directed to cut these fixtures out and to place them in the proper positions in the pictures of the rooms so that each room could be properly lighted. The essays were to consist of not more than 600 words, telling what changes the child would make in the lighting of its own home and the reasons for these changes.

The first international prize is a $15,000 home to be erected from model plans on a lot furnished by the winner—two second prizes for one boy and one girl consisted of $1200 scholarship in American or Canadian college or university of accented standard which is equivalent to $300 a year for four years—two third prizes for a boy and girl consisting of $600 scholarship in American or Canadian college or university or equivalent to $150 a year for four years—two fourth prizes $600 scholarship—two fifth prizes, $300 scholarship and two sixth prizes, $300 scholarship.

Any child could compete who is regularly enrolled in a public, private or parochial school who would be ten years or older on December 31, 1924. The international judges of the essays submitted by the children who shall name the winners of the contest are: Franklin T. Griffith, president National Electrical Lighting association; William McAndrew, superintendent of schools, Chicago; Mrs. William Brown Meloney, editor of the Delineator; B. C. Forbes, editor of the Forbes Magazine; Miss Sarah Rhodes, principal, School 23, Brooklyn, N. Y.; George T. Shepardson, professor of electrical engineering, University of Minnesota; and Professor G. R. Anderson, University of Toronto, Canada.

The work of each contestant for the international prize will be judged first by the knowledge of the lessons in the primer as shown by the essay; second, knowledge of the lessons as shown by the pasting of the fixtures in the rooms in the primer; third, originality of ideas and clarity of language in the essay; fourth, thoroughness and neatness of the work. The names of each contestant written by the child were placed in an envelope sealed so that the local judges had no conception of who wrote the essay. About 500 primers were distributed locally to the school children of Norwich. Through the co-operation of the town school board and the teachers of our schools, the two best essays in each school were submitted to a local board of judges so that the winners of the local prizes might be determined. The local judges consisted of Miss Louise C. Howe; Rev. A. H. Abbott; Frederick A. Cary; Thomas A. Kelly, Arthur L. Libby. These judges examined the essays of the school children of Norwich.

The winners of the prizes in the Academy were: Natalie Connor, 12 Lincoln avenue, first, $50; Chester Carl Davey, 67 Spring Garden avenue, second, $30; Rosamond P. Chapman, 86 McKinley avenue, third, $20; Clara Palmer, 142 Broad street, fourth, $15; Constance Raymond, 124 Broad street.

FORMER NORWICH MAN KILLED IN WICKFORD

A telephone message was received Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock by Chief George Linton, from authorities in Wickford, R. I., asking him to notify Mrs. Mary Nye of Broad street, that John Nye, a former resident of Norwich was dead in that city having been killed by the cars. Officer Charles Smith was sent to notify Mrs. Nye the body remains at the undertaking rooms of George Cranston in Wickford.

Mr. Nye was a weaver and his home had been in Dexter, Me. At 5 o'clock he had applied for work at the Yawgoo mills, one-half mile south of the place where he met his death. He was not successful in obtaining work and evidently had started walking back to the station at Slocum and was struck by the south bound train. Both legs and both arms were broken and his head crushed. The body evidently had been hurled back about 50 feet, striking a short signal post at the side of the right of way.

Caleb Green, New Haven railroad detective was called to the scene and investigated for the railroad. The man was identified through papers and letters found in his clothing, which also gave evidence that in December, 1923, he had been employed by the Davis Woolen mill at Davisville. No money was found on his person.

HAD JOYRIDE IN NORWICH CAB BUT COULD NOT COUGH UP $14

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 23.—Maurice V. Fitzgerald, formerly employed by the Central Vermont railroad freight line, was arrested this noon by Patrolman John Clifford, charged with evasion of fare by Thomas J. Shahan, 325 Main street, Norwich, taxicab driver. Fitzgerald, who was drunk, was placed in a cell and will be presented before Judge Victor Prince in the police court tomorrow morning.

Fitzgerald was in Norwich Monday and hired Shahan's cab but he did not pay his fare, deferring that action until today. This forenoon Fitzgerald appeared before Shahan and requested that he be driven to New London. When Shahan arrived in New London with his passenger the latter did not have $14 with which to pay for the cab hire, so Shahan operated his car to the police station, where he entered complaint against his passenger. Patrolman Clifford was instructed to take Fitzgerald into custody and this was done.

Tonight Shahan appeared at the police station and stated that a friend of Fitzgerald had paid the taxicab charges and the former was willing to withdraw the charges, provided that such a course was agreeable to the authorities. Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin was communicated with and allowed Fitzgerald to be liberated, but not until the accused had been given a severe reprimand. Fitzgerald, who is employed in Norwich, returned to that city.

POULTRYMEN TO HOLD COUNTY MEETING HERE

On Tuesday, Dec. 30th, the poultrymen of New London county will meet to discuss various poultry problems. This meeting is to be held at the Buckingham Memorial, and all who are interested in poultry keeping have been invited to attend. The morning session will start at 10.30 o'clock.

Prof. Roy E. Jones of the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs is to be on the program. Professor Jones is familiar to all poultrymen in the county and will have something interesting to offer on disease work in poultry keeping. Three prominent poultrymen of the county are to be on the program and tell of some of their experiences in overcoming difficulties.

Those attending have asked to bring a basket lunch along. Coffee will be served free during the lunch hour.

Following is the program of the meeting: 10.30 a. m., Will Breeding Control Poultry Diseases? by R. E. Jones, C. A. C.; 11.15 a. m., county poultry program for 1925; 11.45 a. m. home egg laying contest honor roll for New London county; 12 p. m. basket lunch, coffee served; 1 p. m., From Dairy to Poultry Farming, by Imbert Fellows, Norwich; 1.20 p. m. Poultry as a Cash Crop on a Dairy Farm, by H. R. Whitham, Waterford; 1.40 p. m., How to Spend Spare Time on a One Man Poultry Farm, by F. L. Kanahan, Lisbon; 2 p. m., Why Chicks Should be Grown on Clean Ground, Prof. R. E. Jones, C. A. C.; 2.30 p. m. question box.

UNITED WORKERS HOLD BABY CLINIC AT OCCUM

Tuesday afternoon 50 mothers and their babies attended a clinic at Occum given under the auspices of the United Workers. There was a pretty Christmas tree and gifts were distributed, each baby receiving a little gift and the mother a box of fruit Mrs. Phillip Welles was the chairman of the committee in charge of the general arrangements of the affair.

"Open-school week" in New York city schools brought out 232,879 visitors, an average of one visitor for every four children.

PRESIDENT PARTICIPATED IN CHRISTMAS CELEBRATIONS

The Chief Executive and Mrs. Coolidge Joined With a White Vested Choir on the White House Grounds in Singing the Angels' Song of Bethlehem—Earlier They Had Witnessed the Lighting of a National Community Christmas Tree, Mr. Coolidge Pressing the Button That Lighted the Tree.

Washington, Dec. 24.—The angels' song of Bethlehem was caroled tonight from the White House to a nation at peace with the world and with good will toward all men.

The chief executive of the nation and the first lady of the land joined with a white vested choir and with thousands who thronged the White House grounds in observance of the recurrence of another Christmas eve.

Previously the president and Mrs. Coolidge, following another custom they inaugurated at their first Christmas in the White House a year ago, had visited one of the public parks near the executive mansion and with another large group witnessed the lighting of a national community Christmas tree. Mr. Coolidge himself pressed the button that flooded a tree, a 40-foot spruce transplanted from the Adirondack mountains, and lighted the hundreds of vari-colored globes.

Having thus taken the lead in the two ceremonies that marked the public celebration of Christmas eve in Washington, the president and his wife returned to their own fireside to spend Christmas day with the simplicity that has always attended observance of the holiday by those living in the rural regions of their native state of Vermont.

Several hours before dusk almost all governmental activities had ceased. Congress began its Christmas recess Saturday, and the departments by executive order closed their doors at 1 o'clock, releasing the thousands of clerks for last-minute shopping and other work of preparation.

Employes and officials of the mail service alone remained at their tasks during the afternoon, striving to clean up a Christmas mail that averaged throughout the country nearly 50 per cent greater in volume than a year ago. Many of these worked far into the night in the various post offices over the country, but even that work will cease at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, so Acting Postmaster General New has decreed that they must not sacrifice all of the holiday.

Department heads remaining in Washington for the holidays left their desks with their employes, but President Coolidge, feeling that perhaps he might forget the loss of the Christmas of his younger days, remained at his office until near-dark. Then, treading his way [illegible] among the throngs of last-minute shoppers, he took a short walk through a part of the retail district.

Several of the cabinet heads will spend tomorrow, in other cities, but Secretaries Hughes, Weeks and Hoover, and Postmaster General New will celebrate the day at their Washington homes. Mr. New said today he expected to spend most of the morrow at his desk in the post office department, the one sub-division of the governmental establishment on which Christmas increases the load. Mr. Hoover, in accordance with his custom, will drive out into the country tomorrow with Mrs. Hoover, and, wielding his own axe, cut his own Christmas tree.

While the president remained at his desk today, Mrs. Coolidge went about the city assisting some of the charity organizations in distributing gifts to the poor. She visited during the morning a downtown theater, where the Central Union Mission distributed candy and gifts to hundreds of children. Santa Claus was there, and spying Mrs. Coolidge in the gallery, called her to the stage to assist in handing out the gifts.

Then, in the afternoon, Mrs. Coolidge went to the headquarters of the Salvation Army and aided in distribution of nearly a thousand baskets of food to destitute families.

Mr. Coolidge took occasion during the day to extend his Christmas greetings in a special message to disabled veterans of the World war, declaring their valor, which aroused the world's admiration during hostilities, has since engaged our continued interest because of their courageous fight to heal the wounds of war." He also signed an executive order waiving civil service requirements for government employment of a widow of one of the 23 men discharged from the bureau of printing and engraving two years ago.

BOUNTIFUL CHRISTMAS EXPECTED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Santa Claus came staggering into Chicago tonight under the weight of a $50,000,000 pack to be unloaded in Father Dearborn's sack.

Chicago merchants tonight estimated that the unprecedented gift buying of the last two weeks had given St. Nicholas his biggest pack. State Street merchants alone did more than $5,500,000 of business in one day this week, it was estimated.

The Christmas in Chicago, according to the weather man, will be white and fair although a dash of snow during the day may add to the festive appearance.

Scores of social service and philanthropic agencies tonight had prepared to make merry the Christmas of thousands of the city's less fortunate tomorrow and Dr. Ben Reitman, head of the Hoboes college, announced that several hundred freshly bathed hoboes would be delivered to the homes of their more fortunate brothers tomorrow for a christmas feed. Or if the hoboes could not be brought to the dinner, the dinner might be sent to the hoboes, he explained.

Chicago's holdup men and burglars went out full of the holiday spirit to make a merry Christmas for themselves early today and tonight and acquired money, jewelry and other valuables worth more than $200,000, one of the heaviest pre-holiday hauls in the city's history.

Two alleged robbers were killed, another injured, one policeman killed and sergeant injured last night and early today.

CHRISTMAS EVE REVELRY IN RESTAURANTS IN PARIS

Paris, Dec. 24 (By the A. P.).—The popping of corks and the clinking of glasses in the boulevard cabarets and restaurants tonight mingled with traditional carols, classical oratorios and other sacred compositions as Paris celebrated the advent of another Christmas.

Midnight mass was solemnized in every church in Paris with the appropriate anthems. Other music of varying shades and degrees of syncopation was chosen according to the diversified tastes of the population. For in Paris Christmas eve is composed of two well-defined and separate celebrations.

Never since the armistice were the all-night restaurants so crowded on Christmas eve with celebrants. In spite of the prohibitive prices every table in the gaily-lighted food and drink palaces had been reserved days ago and hundreds of the lardy joy-hunters were unable to find even standing room in the most popular of the safes. For days past motor lorries have crowded the streets in front of the numerous restaurants, unloading Christmas cheer in silver and gold-topped bottles.

The cost appeared to daunt few. Supper could be had—according to the place—all the way from 50 to 500 francs, these prices not including wines.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN CHURCHES IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 24.—When Santa Claus came to New York tonight he said it looked as though Christmas this year would be one of the best in the history of the metropolis. Even the weather man has promised that the rain which fell most of the day would turn to snow by tomorrow, so that New York is likely to have a "white Christmas" after all.

Heavy travel on all the railroads out of the city indicates that many will celebrate with the folks back home.

The Yuletide celebration here was ushered in this afternoon by the Trinity chimes and the singing of Christmas carols in St. Paul's chapel on Lower Broadway.

Special services were held in many churches this afternoon and tonight, while others will have special music on the programs tomorrow.

More than a thousand immigrants detained at Ellis Island, began their celebration this afternoon with carols sung around a huge tree and the distribution of gifts from strangers in the 48 states of the Union.

SNOW AND COLD WEATHER FORECAST FOR CHRISTMAS

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The country in general tomorrow will enjoy an old-fashioned white Christmas with plenty of snow and cold weather to add to the festivities, weather reports indicated tonight.

A second cold wave coming close on the heels of last week's sub-zero temperatures, held sections of the far west and northwest in its grip and was moving eastward. The center of the cold area, however, still was in the Rocky Mountain section and it appeared improbable that the bitter cold of last week would reach the middle west tomorrow.

The new storm apparently had done little damage although at San Pedro, Cal., several small craft were driven ashore or capsized by a 50-mile an hour gale, and in other sections of that state the orange crop was reported damaged. A seaplane from the U. S. S. Mississippi was driven upon the beach at San Pedro by the gale; two barges from the U. S. S. Medusa, the fleet repair ship, were tossed upon the breakwater, and a motor sailor of the U. S. S. Idaho was capsized in the channel.

The central Rocky Mountain region shivered in the coldest weather of the winter early today but train service and wire communications were both reported improving. Taderdash, Colo., with 62 degrees below zero, established a claim to a real arctic thermometer reading.

SUIT AGAINST THE BRIDGEPORT BRASS CO.

Bridgeport, Dec. 24. — Assessors from a dozen towns in the state are being subpoenaed to appear before Judge John W. Banks in the superior court next Tuesday at a hearing to ascertain the facts in the certificate of errors test suit being brought in the name of Tax Collector Edward A. Drew against the Bridgeport Brass company, alleged to have illegally received a reduction in assessment.

Both counsel for the defense and for the plaintiff are planning to call assessors to establish whether the policy of issuing certificates for the correction of assessments followed in this city is similar to that followed in other parts of the state.

The case will go before the January term of the supreme court in New Haven.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

Washington, Ind., Dec. 24.—Four persons were killed and another probably fatally injured today when a westbound passenger train on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad hit a small touring car near Shoals, according to information received here.

The dead are:

Bertha Chapman, Maggie Chapman and Mrs. Flora Demond, sisters, and Mrs. Clarence Ritchie, a neighbor.

Fred Chapman, driver of the automobile, was seriously injured and was taken to a Washington hospital.

Seizure of Liquor Valued at $500,000

A British Schooner, Three Motor Boats and 19 Prisoners Captured.

New York, Dec. 24.—Coast guard officers tonight captured 19 prisoners, a British schooner, three motorboats, and liquor valued at more than $500,000 here. The British schooner Patara, with seven prisoners and 6,000 cases of alleged champagne, liquors and whiskies, was among the vessels brought to the barge office.

The seven prisoners of the Patara, a two-masted British schooner, were captured after a 40-mile chase and finally overtaken by the coast guard cutters Raritan and Seneca. The prisoners were held without bail and kept under a heavy customs guard in the quarters of their ship, after the seizure.

The ship and prisoners were locked up in "Dead Man's Basin" at the Battery. The schooner was said by coast guard authorities to be the most important seizure here during the past two years.

For the past two years, the Patara has been listed as a suspect rum runner by customs authorities, they said, customs officials in numerous occasions have given chase to high-powered rum runners, but attempts to seize the carriers which are alleged to have removed liquors during the past two years, from the vessel, has proved futile.

The "Dick," a 42-knot motor boat, was captured alongside the Patara, 19 miles off Jones inlet, on Tuesday. Six prisoners with 132 cases of liquor were seized with the boat. The prisoners are held under $1,000 bail each.

Upon being informed of the "Dick's" speed capacity, the coast guard authorities communicated with the treasury department, the coast guard authorities in New York were instructed to seize the Patara on sight, as having violated the international treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

The seizure was based on a clause in the British-American treaty, specifying that a carrier, known to have landed liquor from a British schooner, is to be seized and the speed of the carrier itself will determine the one hour's sailing distance of the vessel from which it received its cargo.

Amnesty Bill Killed by French Deputies

On the Question of Railroad Men the Two Houses Continue Divided.

Paris, Dec. 24 (By the A. P.).—The amnesty bill came back from the chamber of deputies to the senate this afternoon and was the cause of Premier Herriot's government being defeated by 11 votes, a question regarding an amendment bringing out 154 votes against the government's 143.

As the government had not made the vote a question of confidence, M. Herriot's defeat did not presage the resignation of the ministry. The remaining clauses of the bill were voted and the measure now returns for the second time to the chamber.

The defeat of the government today was brought about by the presentation of an amendment to reinstate the railroad strikers in their positions. The government wanted the companies forced to reinstate the men, but the senate refused to alter its stand that the reinstatement be optional. It is on the question of the railroad men that the two houses are divided. The chamber voted that the employes who were let out in 1920 should be amnestied and the companies compelled to reinstate them.

RUSSIAN SCIENTISTS PLAN POLAR AIRPLANE ROUTE

Leningrad, Dec. 24.—(By The A. P.)—At the congress of Russian scientists heretoday, Captain Bruns' projected Polar airplane route, from northern Siberia through the Bering straits to America, was examined from the standpoint of its possible advantages to Soviet Russia. The scientists decided that such an enterprise was scarcely feasible for carrying passengers, but might be useful in transporting postal matter and small consignments of merchandise.

As all the districts within fight zone in the Siberian province of Irkutsk do not have industrial or commercial enterprises, it was held that even in an economic sense the projected air route possessed no advantages to Soviet Russia. The scientists believe it would be more useful to develop water routes from Siberian ports, using Zeppelins as a means of linking up ports and for purposes of exploration of the Polar regions.

THAT DAY LONG AGO

Solemnly, pleadingly, church bells are ringing
To us a message across the white snow,
Tenderly, lovingly, to us are bringing Tidings that first were brought ages ago,
Tidings that make men's hearts
Soften and glow
As on that Christmas Day
Ages Ago.

Joyfully, tenderly, church bells are chiming
To us their greeting across the deep snow,
Bringing fresh hope to the hearts that are climbing
Upward in search of that feeling of glow,
Such as the shepherds felt
Ages Ago
When they were called by the Star's tender glow.

By F. H. SWEET.

The treasury department instructions were radioed to the coast guard cutters Raritan and Seneca. The Patara, which is equipped with a wireless set, also received this message and immediately headed for the open seas. After a 40-mile chase, during which the slow moving coast guard cutters fired more than 12 one-pound shots at the fleeing schooner, the Patara headed back for New York, attempting to evade her pursuers and was captured 16 miles off Jones inlet.

The Patara is believed to have landed more than $5,000,000 worth of liquor during the past two years, coast guard men said. The seven prisoners, including Captain Tenner, were refused bail and kept under heavy guard aboard the vessel, with their hands manacled. Twelve other prisoners, captured aboard three rum boats off Rum Row, were released on their own recognizance.

The Patara is a white-hulled two-masted schooner of recent construction, 120 feet in length, and 180 gross tons in capacity. She left Lunenberg, Nova Scotia, Nov. 24th for the seas, according to the marine register. The owners, according to Lloyd's Register, are listed as Ernest Steamboat company, Ltd., of Lunenberg. The unofficial appraisal of the vessel is estimated at $105,000.

LANDLORD WAS GIVEN TEN DAYS IN WORKHOUSE

New York, Dec. 24.—The only landlord in town who provided his tenants with a "white Christmas" will pass his holidays in the workhouse.

Joseph Elsen, the landlord, is the first to draw a straight workhouse sentence under the tenement house act.

Ordered to remedy dirty walls, broken windows, falling plaster and cracked ceilings in his 17-family apartment house here, he complied by whitewashing the entire interior, including walls, pictures, tenants' rugs and furniture. He was given ten days.

Mrs. Eleanor Baldwin Cass, of Brookline, Mass., once international woman's fencing champion and former physical instructor to members of the Astor and Vauderbilt families, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court, in Boston, listing liabilities of $8,799 and no assets.

FIVE LIVES WERE LOST WHEN DAM GAVE WAY

Bristol, Tenn., Dec. 24.—Five lives were lost and great damage was done to property near Saltville, Va., tonight, when a dam on the North fork of the Holston river broke, according to telephonic advices received here by the Bristol Herald-Journal.

Telephone operators at Abingdon and other places in this vicinity were kept busy notifying persons in the danger zone of the break. It was reported that the Holston was out of its banks at a number of places. Heavy rains with the consequent increased pressure on the dam is believed to have caused the break.

Several houses in the vicinity of the Mathieson alkali works were said to have been washed away and scores of persons had narrow escapes from death.

30 PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH NEAR HOBART, OKLA.

Hobart, Okla., Dec. 24.—More than 30 persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a country school, seven miles south of here, during a Christmas entertainment tonight, according to reports reaching here.

The school, a one-story frame building, was packed to capacity when the fire started from a lighted candle on the Christmas tree. In an instant the tree and the flimsy structure were in flames, while those inside fought to escape through one lone exit. The exact number of dead and injured could not be ascertained shortly after the fire which started at 9 o'clock.

PROTEST PROPOSED RAISE IN SECOND CLASS MAIL RATES

Publishers of Magazines Charge That the Cost Ascertainment Report was "Framed" Purely to Show the Great Expense of Handling Second Class Mail—Arthur F. Baldwin, President of the National Publishers' Association, Declares That Congress Should Tax All the People Instead of Attempting to Make Only Certain Classes Bear the Cost.

Washington, Dec. 24.—In seeking to make the post office department self-sustaining, the government is undertaking to make certain classes of mail users pay for special privileges granted by congress to other classes, Arthur J. Baldwin, president of the National Publishers' association, declared today before a joint congressional post office sub-committee.

Appearing in behalf of publishers of magazines to oppose the increase in second class mail rates recommended in the bill to provide revenue to cover advances in the pay of postal employes, Mr. Baldwin also charged that the cost ascertainment report had been "framed" with the one idea in mind of showing a great expense to the government of handling the second class mail.

Rural free delivery and parcel post costs as outlined in the cost ascertainment report were especially attacked by Mr. Baldwin. He asserted that the first service had been inaugurated for the specific benefit of the rural population and that congress should tax all the people for its maintenance instead of attempting to make only certain classes bear the cost.

Citing computations made from a previous survey of the parcel post service by the government, Mr. Baldwin declared the estimate in the cost report that only one billion, one million pieces of parcel post were handled in the last fiscal year manifestly was erroneous. A greater increase in the cost of handling this service, he contended, should have been proposed when the department computed the rate advances necessary for it to bear its proportionate share of the increased salary costs.

Asserting that rates on magazines now are so high that many of the larger ones are deserting the mails as a means of distribution, Mr. Baldwin told the committee this class of matter already is paying too high a postal rate. He suggested that the post office department arrange a through freight service for handling the magazines, now being sent by commercial freight, and provide deferred delivery in cities as a means of keeping them in the mails.

Incidentally, the publishers' association president called attention to the report of the post office department that only $4,600,000 was "lost" in handling magazines as nailing the "falsehood" that the magazines are enjoying a large "subsidy" amounting in the case of the Saturday Evening Post to $25,000,000 a year. He said he had heard this statement with respect to the Post stated on the floor of congress.

Going into details as to special privileges for certain classes Mr. Baldwin said government departments were permitted to mail their literature free of cost; that special rates are given to scientific, religious and educational journals not published for a profit; free transportation given to literature for the blind and free country service given to newspapers.

He pointed out, that the government is giving certain special services, such a registry letter and money order, at a loss in order to maintain the business. Asserting that he would have none of these aobolished, the witness declared the government should approach the matter from a business and common sense viewpoint by making the losses on these special privileges and services a tax on all the people and not against certain classes who use the mails.

Citing that many magazines, particularly trade paper, contain current information of value, Mr. Baldwin protested against a different treatment for them from that given newspapers by reason of the charge of the reading matter of the magazine when they are transported through the mails.

Finally the witness described as "vicious", the effort to combine both postal pay increases and postal rate advances in one piece of legislation.

"The bias for one must warp the sober judgment regarding the other," he said.

Asserting then that he was not opposing the pay increase for postal employes, Mr. Baldwin said he believed congress had a mandate to make the salary increase.

"If anybody has a mandate it is the president of the United States," remarked Chairman Moses. "He is interpreting that mandate as one to increase postal rates to meet the pay increase."

With the conclusion of Mr. Baldwin's statement, the hearings were adjourned until Friday, when representatives of other publishers organizations will be heard.

THERE WAS LITTLE CHEER IN SPAIN CHRISTMAS EVE

Madrid, Dec. 24. — Christmas eve found Spain isolated from communication with foreign countries because of the suspension of all telegraphic, telephonic and mail services. Even the censor closed his office in order to celebrate the Christmas tide at home. No newspapers were published.

Christmas is being observed throughout Spain in a spirit befitting the present situation in Morocco, where thousands of men from the home land are fighting for their country against the Moorish tribesmen. Funds are being raised throughout the country to buy Christmas gifts for the soldiers.

HOLIDAY LIQUOR WAS SCARCE IN OGDENSBURG

Following the luncheon, there will be games and theatricals and every child will be provided with a new suit or dress and given toys before being returned to shore.

COLOGNE AREA NOT TO BE EVACUATED JANUARY 10

Paris, Dec. 24 (By the A. P.).—The Cologne area is not to be evacuated on Jan. 10, because, according to the French government, Germany has not fulfilled the conditions set forth by the Versailles treaty.

Premier Herriot submitted to the cabinet this morning a memorandum based on the control commission's official report, declaring that evacuation of Cologne was impossible, and to this attitude the ministry agreed.

A letter from Premier Herriot dealing with Germany's failure to observe her obligations was read this afternoon to the foreign relations committee of the chamber of deputies. It gave the grounds on which the French government had approached the British government with a view to prolongation of the occupation of the Cologne zone after Jan. 10. Declaring that Germany had failed in her disarmament obligations during the occupation of the Ruhr, the letter asserted that fresh infractions were noted after Germany had accepted the Dawes plan. The ambassadors' council on Sept. 29, 1924, demanded that Germany carry out her obligations on nine specified points. But there was no sign that the reich had complied with this demand.

Further serious failures on the part of Germany had been noted. Thus the manufacture of rifles, which is prohibited, was found to be going on, the secret depots of arms had been discovered, notably at Essen. Furthermore, the effectives of the reichswehr cadres were in excess of the numbers provided for by the treaty.

The premier said he expected to receive the official reports of the commission of control by the middle of January.

ARGENTINE GOV'T SENDS WARNING TO VATICAN

Buenos Aires, Dec. 24.—The Argentine government has instructed its minister of the Holy See to inform the Vatican that if Bishop Boneo, recently appointed apostolic administrator of the archdiocese of Buenos Aires, maintains his uncompromising attitude respecting the government's warning not to exercise the functions of administration, it will consider the situation produced thereby as one which will have to be taken up directly with the Vatican for solution, according to La Nacion.

It was indicated by the newspaper that the government took this course as a time-saving measure in anticipation that Bishop Boneo would reply to the recent official communication from Foreign Minister Gallardo with the statement that he was acting in accordance with instructions from his superior.

60 PROHIBITION AGENTS INVADED NEW JERSEY

Newark, N. J., Dec. 24.—Sixty federal prohibition enforcement agents from New York city invaded New Jersey again today and followed up yesterdays raids by visiting 25 saloons and resorts here, in South Orange and in Harrison, N. WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office, 771 Main Street
Telephone 1131
Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 5 p. m.

Resulting mainly from the municipal movement for a Community Christmas celebration the Yuletide spirit in Willimantic will outshine that of any previous year in the history of the city today. For the first time there will be a concentrated effort to have every family, regardless of means, class, color or nationality, enjoy a real Christmas with a bountiful table, and plenty of toys for the children. The needy families were visited Wednesday evening by distributing committees from the Community Christmas organization, the Welfare Bureau, the Elks and various other bodies, who annually provide Yuletide cheer for the poor.

Groups of volunteers singing carols on the streets fittingly ushered in Christmas, Wednesday evening. Many congregated about the brilliantly lighted Christmas tree on Lincoln square and there voiced their appreciation in song. Many family circles are welcoming home today sons and daughters who are making their way in other fields.

Hundreds of local people attended the midnight services at St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches, the first midnight masses to be celebrated in this city in over twenty years.

At St. Paul's Episcopal church Rev. C. F. Williams officiated at a midnight service. The speakers were Rev. F. F. Forshay of the Baptist church and Rev. James G. Graham of Windham Center. The church was open all evening, beginning at 7.30 with a carol service by the children who brought gifts which were later taken to needy children by parish workers, the names having been furnished by the Welfare Bureau. From 8.30 to 9.30 the programme of the choir of the First Unitarian church at Newton, Mass., was received by radio and at 9.30 o'clock Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center gave an illustrated lecture on the Life of Christ.

Several novel Christmas features, some of which tended to create much delight, were entered into at the annual Christmas celebration of the Sunday school of the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday night. The opening hymn was followed by a reading of the Christmas Story from St. Luke's Gospel by Miss Nellie Dainton. Prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead. Miss Miriam Muirhead being at the piano. There was an unusually large audience of children of the school and parents. The school adopted a plan this year to interchange gifts among members of all the classes. Telegrams received from Santa Claus reporting his progress here from the North Pole, were read from time to time. Upon reaching the Canadian border line Old Santa was halted by the authorities who had heard that the genial old man of the snow country was coming full of Christmas spirit and that his sleigh was loaded with Christmas cheer. Santa was finally smuggled across the line in Chinese fashion. Presently a large box supposed to be filled with candy was brought in and placed before the pastor. The lid was pried off and Santa Claus himself bounded out and began to distribute boxes of candy and oranges among the audience. The mythical saint of good will was in turn presented a gift in the form of two little fairy girls, members of the primary class, dressed in white, also delivered in a box. On behalf of the women's organizations of the church Superintendent of the School Walter Walter Parkhurst gave Mrs. Muirhead a beautiful leather handbag containing a gold piece. The pastor was remembered with a purse of gold. He was also given a miniature aeroplane which he is to use in carrying out the slogan, The Sky's the Limit for the Christmas Bazaar in 1925. At the close of the programme the Doxology was sung and gifts were distributed.

Halting the rehearsal of the B. P. O. E. band being held Tuesday evening, Director Charles N. C. Wheeler put his baton to one side and expressing his greetings to the members of the band, handed each one a packet of choice cigars as a Yuletide token. He was in turn approached by J. Deloraine Conant, who, in behalf of the bandsmen, presented the Director a handsome seventeen jewel Hamilton gold watch, with a green gold chain and old card case. Director Wheeler expressed his sincere thanks for the gift and called the members together for a social hour. Mr. Wheeler has directed local bands since 1888 and has held the present band in a body for over twenty years, the Elks' name being adopted a few years ago.

Rev. Paul Bartlewski, of St. Joseph's church, was given a surprise recently at the White Eagles' hall, when the Polish St. Cecile's choir carried out a programme in his honor. LOST SLEEP FROM ERUPTIONS Children Cried With Pain. Cuticura Healed.
"My three children suffered with large eruptions that started with a reddish circle about the size of a quarter. Later they formed blisters and broke and itched considerably. Their faces were covered with sore eruptions and their clothing aggravated the breaking out. They could not sleep, and cried with the pain caused by the soreness itching and burning.
"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using I noticed a real improvement. I purchased more and in two weeks they were healed." (Signed) Mrs. Muriel Eddy, 68 Second St., E. Providence, R. I.

The Apaquag school gave a very pleasing program Friday evening, after which a pretty tree was stripped of its gifts. Refreshments were served to about 35 people, children and adults.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

Be and The Bell-ans Remedies

JEWETT CITY

Postmaster W. T. Crumb, with 23 years' experience in the local office, states that for both outbound and incoming mail, the volume of sacks, letters, cards and parcels handled last Monday, broke all records. There has been a steady daily average of 200 sacks handled by the post office men, who have put in 12 hours a day, for the last week.

From 15,000 to 20,000 cards passed through this office in the last 24 hours. The expected let-up will probably come by Christmas night and the drop-off is amazingly sudden. The morning after Christmas day, a fine tooth comb drawn through the offices of the state, wouldn't get transit mail enough to keep a single distributor busy. On the big mail trains, that have run double crews for a week, the thousands of tons of mail will ease off by Christmas night.

The Christmas exercises and tree at the Congregational church were well attended Tuesday evening. Supt. E. L. French announced the program. Christmas Memories shown in a series of tableaux, was very pretty. Miss Evelyn Johnson impersonated the grandmother who sat by the fireplace and saw the scenes of years gone by, which were promised her by the fairy, Charlotte Albertine. The first scene showed children hanging up their stockings, singing a Christmas song. Eileen Nicols, Junior Webster and Bernice McNicol recited little pieces with great gusto, evoking laughter and applause. The second tableau showed carolers, children of an older growth who sang Holy Night. Janet Wilcox recited in this number. The third showed Sadie Thompson singing a lullaby, while seated by the fireside, holding a baby. Doris Johnson read Sleep, Little One. The last tableau showed the mother and children trimming a Christmas tree. Ellen Faust impersonating the mother. They sang O, Little Town of Bethlehem as they worked. Mrs. E. A. Faust read at the close of this tableau. As the audience was singing a carol, the children heard sleigh bells rung up in the church belfry, and ran to the hall to see Santa Claus coming down the belfry stairs. Gifts were distributed from the tree. The chorister, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, was remembered with $25 in gold pieces, given to her by the congregation and choir in a basket of flowers. The program was arranged by Mrs. F. E. Robinson, assisted by Sadie Thompson and Mrs. Hiscox. Earl Robinson made a fine roly-poly Santa.

Miss Margaret Driscoll, president, and Mrs. T. A. Rioux, institutional visitor of the Catholic Women's Council, visited the town farm Tuesday and left much good cheer in the form of boxes containing fruit and candy, and smokes for the men. The King's Daughters' Circles and the order of Elks have remembered many sick, shut-in, and needy ones.

TODAY'S EVENTS

A Merry Christmas to all!

"This day shall change all griefs and quarrels into love."—Shakespeare

Anniversary of Washington's crossing the Delaware, probably the most famous event in United States history associated with Christmas Day.

Sixty years ago today the federal land and naval forces under General Butler and Admiral Porter made an unsuccessful attack on Fort Fisher.

Nashville, Tenn., combines a birthday celebration with its Christmas observance, today being the 145th anniversary of the founding of the city.

The impressive Christmas mass to be held today in St. Peter's, Rome, will possess added significance as the first formal ceremony of the "Jubilee of the Holy Year 1925."

The President and Mrs. Coolidge, so far as their plans have been made known, will pass their second Christmas in the White House in the company of a few relatives and intimate friends.

Portural will celebrate with great pomp and ceremony today the four hundredth anniversary of the death of Vasco da Gama, the great Portuguese navigator, who discovered the route across the seas to India.

Of living notables who celebrate their birthday anniversary on Christmas Day probably the best known is Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, who is 53 years old today.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Breed.

"One Night in Rome," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen version of J. Hartley Manners' stage success, which is the feature attraction at the Breed today is a personal victory for Laurette Taylor.

Miss Taylor, called by Sarah Bernhardt "America's foremost actress," established an immediate following with the appearance of her first two screen ventures, "Peg O' My Heart" and "Happiness," both delightful comedy-dramas. In "One Night in Rome," which, like the two former pictures is the screen version of one of her stage successes, she has assayed successfully a vivid dramatic role. She gives the part of Madame L'Engima warmth and color that makes it one of the most convincing portrayals seen here this year.

The clear cut, fast moving story is a credit to the director, Clarence Badger, who has solved the problem of telling a mystery romance with pleasing simplicity, yet including touches that give the story character and remove the possibility of its being labeled "just another picture." The difficult task of unfolding the unique plot has been handled admirably.

The splendid acting of Tom Moore as the hero is second only to that of Miss Taylor herself, although the other members of the unusually strong cast deserve much praise. Among those whose work stands out are Alan Hale, Miss du Pont, Warner Oland, William Humphrey, Edna Tichenor and Joseph Dowling.

The second feature, "Hold Your Breath," will be shown.

Most feature comedies are criticized because there isn't enough of a reasonable basis to keep up the interest in the spaces between the funny situations. "Hold Your Breath," the Al Christie feature, has avoided the possibility of such condemnation by providing a logical story to underlie all the humor. The story is played from a comedy angle but it is a real story. The wonderful comedy cast includes Dorothy Devore, Walter Hiers, Tully Marshall, Jimmie Adams, Jimmie Harrison, Priscilla Bonner and Lincoln Plumer.

Palace Theater

Heredity and environment have no place in the struggle against personal adaptation, says Mitchel Lewis, movie bad man, and having the role of the villain in Sol Lesser's production of the film version of Harold Bell Wright's new and best selling novel, The Mine With the Iron Door, which comes next Sunday to the Palace under a Principal Pictures Corporation release

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Ice with all the danger that holds for everyone who gets out of doors covered the countryside Wednesday morning within an hour after a freezing drizzle started in about six o'clock. Then came trouble for those who walked as well as those who rode. Pedestrians slipped and fell, horses sprawled about and automobiles did many things their drivers did not want them to do. Fortunately, no serious accidents were reported hereabouts during the few hours that the ice was at its worst, and later in the day the heavy rain relieved conditions materially.

Trucks of the state highway department were out early and did much on bad hills east of here, where sand was liberally used, to make travelling safer.

To the north of Danielson ice conditions were worse than in the borough. Six cars, one of them a huge truck, were reported off the state highway between Attawaugan and Putnam after they had skidded and ripped through the fence.

The unpaved streets in Danielson held the ice more persistently than did the paved streets and there were grades that a car could not climb unless equipped with chains.

There were no special developments during Wednesday in the scarlet fever situation in Oneco. Frank Hazard, health officer over there, said Wednesday afternoon that he had reported seven new cases Tuesday, making a total of thirteen. In the meantime the Methodist church at Oneco and the school there are closed and will so remain by order of the health officer until after all the quarantine cases are released. Rev. John Von Deck, pastor at Oneco, four of whose children are ill, is out of town at present, Mr. Hazard said Wednesday. Two teachers are ill, one of them having gone to her home in New Haven before the disease fully developed and she is now in quarantine in that city. State health authorities have been in touch with the Oneco situation and every possible precaution is being taken to prevent a further spread of the disease. The majority of the cases are in mild form, though one women is reported as undergoing a severe run of the disease.

The people of Wauregan gathered in the center of that village near the war memorial Wednesday evening for a community Christmas tree. The tree was brilliant with electric lights. As a remembrance from J. Arthur Atwood of the Wauregan mills there was gifts of candy and other things for every child in the village. Carol singing was a feature of the gathering. The tree is to remain in place until after New Year's.

Baskets were distributed Wednesday containing dinners for needy families of Danielson, as has been a long established custom here at Christmas time.

As was indicated in advance, St. James church was filled to capacity at the midnight mass Christmas eve.

Harry E. Back, Jr., student at Yale university, is with his parents, Attorney and Mrs. Harry E. Back for the holidays.

The Tag week effort of the Killingly High School Alumni association to raise money for the school gymnasium fund has continued through the week in the town and will continue until Saturday night.

With rain falling, a southerly wind and the temperature above 40, there appeared little chance at sunset time Wednesday for a white Christmas.

The generous contributions that will go to make up the Christmas collections at the masses in St. James' church go, according to custom, to the priests of the parish and in turn are given by them to the Missionary Order of LaSalette and are used for educational purposes.

Dealers say the radio sets have been among the most popular of the more expensive gifts this Christmas. There are dozens of new sets in this immediate vicinity.

As usual, manufacturing concerns of the town were generous in remembering the operators at the central telephone exchange with gifts boxes of candy.

The practice of displaying Christmas wreaths in automobiles is again in favor this holiday season.

Observers hereabouts report that raids on forests for Christmas trees were less numerous this season than for many years and that more people went to land owners and purchased their trees, all of which is very commendable.

Francis Macdonald, student for the priesthood at LaSalette college in Hartford, is spending the holiday season with Michael Head and family, of Academy street.

The postoffice closes at 10 oclock this (Christmas morning for the remainder of the day.

With rain keeping many in and obliging them to use the wires for many messages in addition to rush induced by the eve of the holiday, the central telephone office handled an avalanche of calls during Wednesday.

PUTNAM

Fire started in the card room of the Fabyan Woolen Co. plant at nine o'clock Wednesday morning, spread rapidly and threatened destruction to the mill. Help was asked from the Webster, Mass., fire department, but the operatives of the mill got the blaze under control themselves. The loss is said to be very considerable, but officials declined to estimate the amount. The great part of it is water damage to raw and unfinished stock.

The mill is one of the oldest in the state, and was started and conducted for many years by members of the Murdock family, pioneers in textile manufacturing in this section. Babyan, formerly New Boston, is about seven miles from Webster and has no railroad connection.

Miss Elsie Diamond is in New York and this evening will be a guest at a banquet and dance to be given by the Knights of Pythias at the Hotel Astor.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Baker are spending Christmas day at Mrs. Baker's parents in West Braintree, Mass. They expect to leave about January 1 on a three months' trip to the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorburn and two children of East Providence, are guests of Mrs. Thorburn's mother, Mrs. Carrie Gascoigne.

Mrs. Hector L. Duvert, wife of the former representative to the general assembly from Putnam, fell Tuetsday and broke her leg just above the knee. She caught her foot in a rug in walking across the floor and fell in such a way as to fracture the bone. She was taken to the Day Kimball hospital for surgical attention.

Mrs. Alexander Varbedian, wife of one of the leading shoe merchants of the city, arrived in New York this afternoon on the steamer Columbia. She is a native of Syria and was married to Mr. Varbedian October 18th, when he was on a trip abroad. She has never been in America before and cannot speak English.

BAPTIST CHURCH CHAIRMAN EXPLAINS STODDARD CASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Dec. 24.—Dr. James Bryden Kent, for more than fifty years a resident of Putnam, a practicing physician for the same length of time, an active and influential member of the First Baptist church, for the greater part of that half century an official of the church, now the chairman of the church committee, has issued the following statement relative to the differences that have occurred between the members of the church and the pastor, Rev. John C. Stoddard:

"I have read all that has been printed about the controversy between the members of the First Baptist church and its pastor. I concur in the policy that the less said about a matter of that kind is the best, but I think in spite of that the time has come when the position of the church should be publicly stated. That has not been done yet. The only statement that has come from the church is the one signed by Henry L. Converse, Carlton W. Durfee, Clarence E. Pierce and myself, and reading as follows:

"'Be it resolved, that the Putnam Baptist church by vote declares that the recent action of the church taken to terminate the pastorate of the pastor, Rev. John C. Stoddard, was not intended to, and the church believes, did not in any way, reflect on his moral character, any purported reports to the contrary notwithstanding.'"

"The one printed ten days ago, purporting to be a resolution adopted at a church meeting, was spurious. The one to which I refer, read:

"'On Thursday, Dec. 11, at 8.30 p. m. the membership of the church is called to meet and vote on giving Mr. Stoddard a recommendation as to irreprochable Christian character, straightforwardness in business conduct and ministerial, standing, signed by the Church Committee and to be published in such papers as the report was printed in about a month ago and which was not refuted; which those present voted unanimously to do when the State Ministerial Standing Committee met here at the pastor's call.'"

"No resolution reading like that was ever adopted at a church meetingff, or by any members of the church; no such resolution was ever offered to be voted on.

"With a kindly feeling for Mr. Stoddard, and actuated only by a wish to state as correctly as I can the facts of the case, let me review it as briefly as possible:

"Rev. Mr. Stoddard was engaged as pastor of the First Baptist church and came to Putnam about three years ago. He was to receive a certain salary, a home to live in, a free telephone, and a vacation with pay for four weeks each year. In addition, it was understood that he was to act as pastor of the Baptist church at East Thompson, which meant an additional $500 a year to his salary.

"A year and a half ago evidences of dissatisfaction with Mr. Stoddard as pastor began to be heard. These increased as time went on and the attendance at church services decreased. Many members who had been lifelong adherents of the church did not attend. In point of numbers I think I am correct in saying that the attendance had decreased one-third at the Sunday services and the attendance at prayer meeting—which is the pulse by which the condition of any church is determined—was almost negligible. At a meeting a few months ago, when it was necessary to transact certain official business, calls had to be sent out to get a quorum, and a quorum is eleven.

"Because it is a part of his contract, let me mention one of the points at issue. The first year that he came here Mr. Stoddard said that he had suffered from a prolonged attack of illness not long before, that he felt that he ought to have six weeks' vacation, to which no objection was offered. The second year he wanted and again took a six weeks' vacation. This aroused some comment, but no serious protests were made. This year when he again proposed to take six weeks off, it created dissatisfaction, which, coupled with other things made the feeling a little more tense.

"Realizing how serious the situation was growing and that the church was losing prestige, a number of interested members talked it over and finally decided to ask the deacons of the church to approach Mr. Stoddard with a view to obtaining his resignation. The deacons are, Clarence E. Pierce, H. W. Thompson, Carlton Durfee, M. L. Aldrich, Henry M. Converse and Charles Arnold. The last named is inactive because of his physical condition.

"Three of these men called on the pastor and as well as they could, without wishing to give offense, suggested that he retire from the church. It has been said that it might have been done more tactfully, but it was not an easy matter to broach. Mr. Stoddard did not take kindly to the suggestion; wanted to know in what capacity the men were acting, and what the objections were to him. I do not know all that was said but there was nothing that reflected on his character.

"The deacons who had called on the pastor reported that their mission evidently had not been unsuccessful, that Mr. Stoddard did not seem inclined to take a hint. A month went by, with, as it seemed to us, the situation growing a little worse, as far as the welfare of the church was concerned, and then there was another meeting at the parsonage. There were at least ten in this delegation, and the proposal was again brought forward that for the best interests of the church we thought he should tender his resignation. He was just as obdurate as before; he wouldn't listen to the suggestion. Maybe, from his standpoint, he thought we were obdurate. But, suppose you were a minister and a fairly large proportion of the members of your church asked you to resign, wouldn't you do it regardless of the merits of the case? I mean, do you think you could be helpful to a congregation, or to the cause of religion, where that feeling existed? I am not going to attempt to recite all that was said, except that he definitely refused to resign. After another consultation we took the next step we thought the situation demanded, the calling together of the members of the church, a procedure that is certainly proper and in accordance with church rules. It was the membership of the church who had engaged him, it is they who are responsible for the payment of his salary, and meeting other current expenses, and it is certainly their right to dispense with his services, to cancel the contract. How else could it be done?

"What was said at that meeting I shall not attempt to recall, but the result of the vote was as has been published, the majority of those present favored the resolution terminating Mr. Stoddard's pastorate, the date was fixed at three months from the date of that meeting, which we thought would give him time to look for another place—that date by the way is January 22, 1925—and everyone at the meeting joined in the sentiment that there were no charges against Mr. Stoddard, that there were no accusations that reflected on his moral character.

"Notwithstanding the outcome of this meeting, Mr. Stoddard was not satisfied that there was only one course open to him. He called a meeting of the State Council on Ministerial Standing and at that session various matters were discussed which were not germane to the real issue—that the majority of the members of the First Baptist church wished him to retire as its head. But Dr. Lackey, who is pastor of the First Baptist church of Hartford, and one of the eminent divines of the state, after listening for a long time to various speakers, put the matter very definitely in a few words:

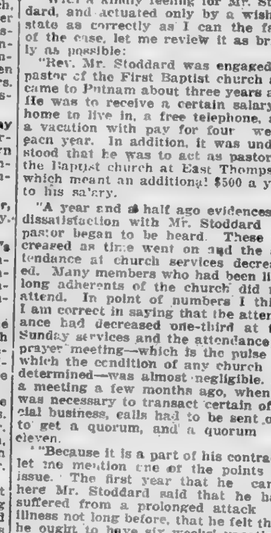
"'I am quite convinced,' he said, 'that the time has arrived when it is the best thing for Mr. Stoddard and this church that they should sever their relations. But I also think it should be made quite clear that there are no charges against him involving moral turpitude, no intimation against his moral character.'

"And to that every member of the church agreed. At a later meeting the resolution referred to above was adopted and given to the press for publication. It is not worded as the other one, that was said to have been passed, but it was certainly within the rights of the membership to draw a resolution as they saw fit, provided it contained the declaration agreed to—that the action of the church in dismissing him was not intended to, and we believed, did not reflect on his moral character.

"I feel no animosity toward Mr. Stoddard, I wish him good fortune wherever he may go, but I do not favor retaining him as pastor of this church; and that is the position of practically the entire membership. There are very few who do not share this opinion.

"Professing Christians ought to try to practice charity, and particularly at this season of Peace on earth, good will towards men. In what I have said I trust that there is nothing that will add to Mr. Stoddard's burden, if he feels that he has any, and I suppose that he does. It is not a pleasant situation for him or for me. I have tried without rancor to make the position of the church plain, and I hope that further public discussion of the subject will not be thought necessary."

Probable Jap Envoy To The United States



KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK

Tsuneo Matsudaira, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs in Japan, who is being considered the most likely one to be the new Japanese Ambassador to the United States. Due to his knowledge of international affairs, it is figured that his appointment will go far in Japan's effort to cement friendship with the United States, and co-operate with America in Asia. What caused a wave of good feeling was the sending of the new American Ambassador, Mr. Bancroft, to Japan, and Japan looks upon this move as a real friendly act.

CHAPLIN

Miss Mary Chenade's school at the Center gave an entertainment at the church last Wednesday evening. The exercises included recitations, plays, songs, etc., all well given. At the close a Christmas tree yielded many gifts as prepared by Miss Chenade for her pupils. Ice cream was furnished to all the children by Mrs. J. H. Knott.

Miss Chenade, the teacher, is spending the holidays at her home in Somers.

Rev. John H. Knott gave his congregation a fine Christmas sermon Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Knott are spending several days this week over Christmas with the family of their son, William Knott, at Flushing, L. I.

Mrs. E. Jessie Hunt and Miss Florence I. Hunt are spending several days this week and over next Sunday in New Britain and Hartford.

B. M. Welch, who is acting town clerk now, has fitted up an office room in his store, to which the town safe was moved last Saturday.

The meeting and roll call service of the Congregational church is to be held New Year's day. The meeting will be at 11 o'clock a. m., followed by a dinner and social hour. The roll call service will be at 2 p. m.

ELLIOTT

The new slaughter house which has recently been erected by Harold E. Cunningham of Elliotts has been inspected and approved by the state authorities. The building, which is of concrete, is 15x20 feet and has two heating devices, tubs, etc., in a smaller room connected with the main room.

Since the state passed the new law affecting the killing of animals for market, unless in a state-inspected building, people are handicapped in various sections where no such building is as yet provided.

Iceberg Warning

A new device has recently been developed by the Bureau of Standards whereby the electrical conductivity of the sea water may be measured and indicated in terms of its saltiness. The new application of electricity to the safety of those at sea is expected to be of great value in giving warning of the proximity of icebergs, since these often greatly dilute the saltiness of the water in their vicinity.

Has No Copyright

It appears that the one country in Europe that lies outside the pale of copyright is Jugoslavia. Not only is the foreign author or newspaper not protected, but within the country literary or journalistic work is not recognized as property. An end is to be put to this state of things by a proposed authors' protection bill.

SHADOWED JOURNALIST AND FINALLY KILLED HIM

Milan, Italy, Dec. 24.—A story of political blood-vengeance, echo of the Balkan troubles, was recounted today following the fatal shooting here last night of Peter Schankeff, a Macedonian journalist, by Dimitri Stefanoff, said to be the head of the Macedonian federalist movement.

Stefanoff, who freely admitted to the police today the killing of Schanoff, who freely admitted to the police today the killing of Schanoff, declared that he had followed the journalist since last September. He said he killed him because he was a bolshevist and a traitor to his country. Schankeff, he said, had betrayed pledges given to put himself at the head of the dissident Macedonian revolutionary movement were willed.

In telling his story, Steffanoff said that the revolutionary Macedonian committee met at a small city in Central Macedonia, after the discovery of the alleged treachery of Schankeff personall, but was provided with his photograph which he kept constantly in his pocket until he came to Italy. He visited Rome and learned that Schankeff had gone to Milan. Following him to this city, he saw Schankeff for the first time in Cathedral square. There, he declared, he might have killed him, but refrained from making the attempt because of the fear his shots might miss and injure innocent people.

Steffanoff shadowed the journalist for several days, he continued, becoming well acquainted with his habits. Yesterday, Stefanoff found his quarry seated at a table drinking. He approached him, he said, and, looking him straight in the eye, and without a word, drew his automatic pistol and shot him five times, killing him instantly.

Afterwards, according to the police the slayer attempted to commit suicide, but his pistol failed to fire. In Shankeff's pockets were found 640 Italian lire and $110. The theory of the police is that the slain man intended to leave for America.

SCIENTIST EXTRACTS ELECTRICITY IN TREES

A French scientist has discovered a means of extracting and harnessing the electricity in trees. He connected a copper plate attached to a tree and another plate buried in the earth, with a galvanometer, a delicate instrument which measures the strength of weak currents of electricity, and obtained a record of the current passing through the tree.

With three trees connected in the same way the power was increased the experiment, with a like result, being continued until 20 trees were linked up in this fashion.

The scientist then placed two copper plates in the earth, about six feet apart, and with the current thus obtained lighted a small electric lamp.

Whether the idea can be extended to be commercially worth while has yet to be determined.

Broadcasting Cough

When Gov. Al Smith's speech was broadcasted at Manchester, N. H., Edward Murphy sat on the stage and interrupted some of the early speakers by coughing. Half a mile away at his home in the residential part of the city Mrs. Murphy, attending the rally by radio, heard the cough, recognized it as Ed's and sent the son of the family posthaste with some tablets to relieve the husband and father and prevent his further interference with the success of the occasion.

Chafed, irritated skin quickly relieved

BATHE freely with Resinol Soap and warm water to thoroughly cleanse the skin. Dry by patting lightly—then apply Resinol Ointment gently with the finger tips. This treatment was prescribed nearly thirty years ago by a physician and has been used by physicians ever since to clear away eczema, rashes, blotches, chafing and other forms of skin trouble. There is nothing better to promptly relieve itching and burning.

Resinol Soap is unsurpassed for the complexion, bath and hair. An ideal soap for babies.

A PUBLIC SKATING POND.

Much interest has been centered in the public spirited projects which have received the attention of the West End Community club. They indicate a fine sentiment along community lines, and a spirit of cooperation that is gratifying and should be productive of pleasing results.

There cannot fail to be commendation for the plan which has now been put forth of providing a public skating place at East Great Plain, which has been the mecca in past years of those who delight in the exhilirating winter sport.

There are many advantages in this location. It is on the main thoroughfare, has the benefit of electric car service, is so located that there is the minimum of danger and in addition there are facilities for lighting it at night. It permits of a large flowage and means that hundreds of skaters can find pleasure that will be limited only by the will of the weatherman.

That the West End Community club should take up the problem of making this skating pond available shows the manner in which it reacts to the sentiments of the people. Not since the Playgrounds association saw the need of providing such a winter playground has the lower pond, so called, at East Great Plain been prepared for the use of skaters. With such places where the greatest measure of safety can be assured it means the filling of a long felt want, and a return of the delightful opportunities that were available in former years when less restrictions prevailed on ponds where ice harvesting was done. Since the cutting of ice on the lower pond has been abandoned it furnishes an ideal site for a skating rink, and it is to be hoped that the effort of the West End Community club will prove as successful and be as thoroughly appreciated as seems to be indicated in advance.

It is a proposition for which the city should be willing to provide the lights which are needed for night skating.

SUPREME COURT ADVICE.

Repeatedly when legislation has been proposed has been raised the question of its constitutionality. Sometimes it has been done for the purpose of obstruction, but in numerous conspicuous cases it has been questioned in good faith and with the intention of keeping from the statute books such laws as have of necessity had to be removed some time after.

Except in such cases where the unconstitutional claim has been so strong as to convince the legislators in advance, and the advice which constitutional authorities have given, there has been and there is no way of determining in advance the constitutionality of proposed laws. The test comes after they are put into effect, and even after some have been penalized under legislation which has been found to be unconstitutional and thus had to be abandoned.

Because of this situation Solicitor General James M. Beck has recently advanced the suggestion that the supreme court be asked to give its advice upon the constitutionality of proposed laws before congress acts, with a view to ending the present method of plunging into something only to find out that it is outside the authority of congress.

He thoroughly understands the situation which is created by such a proposal. He knows that the supreme court never has acted in such a way and that it has refused to do so. Certainly it is not set forth that it should or should not. Apparently it can if it wants to, or it can refuse to do so on the ground that it is not required to.

The idea could be put through in the form of a constitutional amendment, if the court itself is not disposed to act in such a manner. There would of necessity have to be some restriction placed upon this plan or the court would be required to devote most of its time to furnishing advice on the constitutionality of proposed laws. This might be in the form of a request from the president for the court's view. The aim is to save many awkward situations and to prevent the many instances of backing up long after, the unconstitutional law has gone into effect.

THE MINERS' REVOLT.

There's a struggle within the United Mine Workers organization, which is not so different from others which have occurred in the past, but which takes on the nature of a revolt against the organization leaders and which by its very existence is a repudiation of the laws which govern the union and the agreement into which the organization entered. It is one of those outlaw strikes which invariably winds up with failure after causing no end of trouble and meaning no small amount of sacrifice for those concerned.

It is a month ago today since the mine workers' organizations in Scranton went on a strike. They stopped work without the approval of the district or national officials. They were warned that their charters would be revoked unless they returned to work and revocation has taken place. Efforts on the part of union leaders to get them to return and abide by the terms of their contract has been fruitless. They are unwilling to work and they are unwilling to take advice from United Mine Workers' leaders. Instead of yielding the strikers are making every effort to get others to go out in sympathy with them.

It is a situation which not only results in the stopping of coal mining in that district but which gives much concern to the miners' organization. They have gotten the benefit of the union heretofore and now they refuse to abide by its officials. Indications point strongly to the fact that it is the outburst of a radical leadership among these organizations. It makes its appeal to those who are out of sympathy with American ways and institutions.

Under the circumstances no small responsibility rests upon the miners' union. The fact that it has outlawed these strikers makes it necessary for it to prevent the extension of the revolt and obligates it to hasten the day when the effects of the interrupted coal mining can be overcome. The real struggle rests between the union and the strikers, while the operators and the coal consumers must stand the effects.

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas comes but once a year but it should arouse in us a spirit that should be ever present throughout the year.

This great anniversary means much to the world. It is an anniversary of hope, and with it is reechoed that cheering message of "Peace on earth to men of good will." This season of joy and gladness is marked by the distribution of cheer and comfort for the pleasure of doing it is one of the delightful accompaniments of this great holiday.

Frequently has the thought been expressed that the Christmas spirit should continue throughout the year. Well does George William Curtis say: "If we were to fancy a wholly Christianized world, it would be a world inspired by the spirit of Christmas—a bright, friendly, benedicent, generous, sympathetic, mutually helpful world. A man who is habitually mean, selfish, narrow, is a man without Christmas in his soul. Let us cling to Christmas all the more as a day of the spirit in which every age some souls have believed to be the possible spirit of human society. The earnest faith and untiring endeavor which sees in Christmas a forecast are more truly Christian, surely, than the pleasant cynicism of the atheists, which smiles upon it as the festival of a futile hope. Meanwhile we may reflect that from good-natured hopelessness to a Christmas world may not be farther than from star dust to a solar system."

GETTING AT THE FACTS.

When it comes to putting forth efforts in behalf of an appropriation for this thing or that, it is possible to build up a statement which would seem strong enough to carry conviction. It may be put forth as containing actual facts. Doubtless it does, but when it comes to hearing the other side it is obvious that it has not contained all the facts. It has been filled with those which are considered favorable and it has disregarded those which would have appeared unfavorable.

From the testimony which has been given concerning the aircraft for purposes of defense, there are times when this situation seems to be clearly emphasized. One witness may insist upon the immediate and extensive expansion of this branch of the national defense. Another will declare it to be adequate, and even in advance of the same branch of the service maintained by other governments.

This must impress on us the fact that upon those who make up the budget, and who, there is reason to believe, have been made acquainted with all the essential facts, much responsibility has been placed. Likewise upon those who are conducting hearings concerning bills dealing with such appropriations there is that duty to obtain and consider the facts on both sides of the question, whether it is a question of increasing or decreasing what is called for.

There are proponents and opponents, and it rests with those who are vested with the duty of getting at the facts to reach their decision from the combined information after hearing both sides, including the experts, and determining which side outweighs the other. It is with the facts and not solely propaganda that they must deal.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One month left in which to get ready for the eclipse of the sun.

May it be a happy and joyful Christmas for all is the wish of The Bulletin.

There are Christmas spirits and Christmas spirits. Beware of the bootlegger.

What a wonderful year it would be if the Christmas spirit prevailed each and every day!

We have yet to hear complaint because there have been so few snow buried sidewalks to uncover.

The man on the corner says: Not even a bandit gets all he wants and what he wants for Christmas.

Only the lines of those waiting to mail Christmas packages exceeded those seeking the elusive calendars.

It is always well to remember that the youngsters should be given a fair chance to play with their Christmas toys.

Do you suppose congressmen are worrying during the recess about the short time they have in which to complete the work before them?

If you rolled up a bundle of the silver dollars for a Christmas present it will please the treasury department and it ought to gratify the recipient.

Of course Hamilton Holt has a right to think what he pleases about the cause of the election result, but he must have been aware before this that the people wanted Hiram Bingham for snator.

GIVING

It was the most natural thing in the world, when any person unannounced approached him with a tentative smile, for Gordon Lee to reach for his check book, with a little imperceptible tightening of the muscles at the corners of his mouth. That check book was at once a guarding wall and an escape.

Reckoned in mere dollars Gordon Lee was a remarkably generous man—he had given to dozens of relief funds, hundreds of homes, scores of charities, libraries, hospitals, orphans—a wonderful list.

It was the same way at home. During the brief time he spent daily in that marble mausoleum the check book was much in evidence. From the time his boy, young Gordon, had been crazy for that white pony, begging him to go to see it and he had got out of the foolish jaunt by handing over the sum to buy it, up to the days when in place of the white pony it had been golf clubs, racing cars, business ventures, Gordon Lee had been a generous father.

And he was a generous husband, giving his wife a large allowance, letting her buy what she chose for herself and the house. She had long ago ceased asking him whether or not he wouldn't go with her to decide on the picture or the rug. He had never had time.

Yet this dull, gray afternoon, with the cold flakes pecking at his office window, he was conscious of a corroding despair that constricted his throat. It was a moment when all life was futile, empty, unsatisfying. He wondered why.

All the employes in the big office had departed for home carrying their Christmas checks from him. The cashier had handed them out.

He had mailed the check for the pearls his wife had mentioned having selected as his Christmas gift to herself and after a puzzled moment he had written "Merry Christmas" on a check just dropped down the chute addressed to young Gordon, chasing new oil wells in the west.

There was not a thing left undone. Yet a pall of misery clutched him as he sat with his head in his hands at the desk and faintly he resented this. Outside, shuffling through the muddy snow, thousands of people were dashing madly this way and that, spilling parcels, holding holly branches carefully, chattering about George's present and the umbrella for mother, asking whether the candy was forgotten, wondering whether the turkey would be cheaper bought at that new store around the corner from home—all the hectic jam and rush of the last day before Christmas. Why was everyone else so much happier than himself?

Sighing as men do when quite alone Gordon Lee got to his feet just as the outer office door fell open abruptly. A clumsy, soft figure fell with it, and as he hurried to it, startled, one of the unobtrusive scrubwomen turned her square whitish face toward him apologetically. She tried to get up.

"I got sort of dizzy," she gasped. "I was sick all day but I thought I could do it—I had to do it!" She ended in a kind of moan of despair. Gordon Lee looked up and down the deserted hall agitatedly. For the first time in his memory there was nobody to come if he pressed a button or spoke. Something had to be done for the woman. She was a pathetic creature, heavy with years, cursed with the meekness of the trodden down. "Can you walk?" he asked nervously.

Thus it happened that a night-shift elevator man nearly broke his neck trying to run his car and look at the noted Gordon Lee, coldly impassive as to face, half supporting one of the scrubwomen with her bonnet over one ear as they rode down to the ground floor. The couple walked out of the building and into a cab fortunately drawn to the curb. The sick woman certainly had to get home and there seemed nobody but himself to take her there, Lee repeated dazedly, as they bumped into alien street and landed at a tenement. Up the stairs he helped her and into the close little apartment with the starving children. It was maddening—there seemed nobody anywhere to do anything! In the space of half an hour Gordon Lee had boiled water, had laid cold wet cloths on the head of the sick woman, had fed two hungry children, sent another flying for doctor, food and fuel and presently the woman he had sought out to care for Mrs. Polsky and look after the children turned to him with a smile and told him there was nothing else he could do.

"The blessing of God on you for what you've given her, sir!" she said with emotion.

Gordon Lee, going down the narrow stairs with a strange unknown sensation around his heart, kept repeating the phrase: What had he given this needy one? His checkbook had not once left his pocket. Not then but long after the knowledge came to him. For the first time in his life he had given of his time and of his interest and of himself.

And that was why he stepped out into the dark, snowy street Gordon Lee was, strangely enough, utterly happy.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Vaccination.

Mr. Editor: The following inquiry indicates an interest awakened in the matter of compulsory vaccination:

"My dear Mr. Gould:

Having read the article about vaccination, would like to ask if vaccination causes death or bad effects, as mentioned, why do the doctors keep it up, and are children many times made cripples?

Very truly yours,

J. E. M."

The above question in the main presupposes a knowledge on the part of all doctors of the evil effects of vaccination. This is not the fact in general. Many doctors, through lack of experience or keen observation, arrive at no conclusion other than that imparted by their text books, and so blindly follow the dictates of biased association leaders. True, they should, for the real consideration of humanity welfare, learn from those, who, by years of experience and investigation, have discovered and laid bare the indisputable facts regarding this practice of a superstitious age. These are the doctors who have the sterling worth and moral courage to make known to a suffering people the result of their findings. They are not actuated by monetary considerations. They fearlessly tell those things which are really worth while. Worthwhile in the sense that they make for the salvation of mankind from diseases, by removing the cause of diseases. Just why those doctors, who have a knowledge of the bad consequences and continue the practice, can be better assumed when we reckon with the alleged statement that some $20,000,000 annually are realized from the use of vaccine virus. It is further said that many doctors hold stock in its manufacture. There is also, it is affirmed, the fear among many of "losing caste" if outspoken or denunciatory of things known to professional ethics to be kept from the public. That children are many times made cripples is assured us by a host of the world's best authorities on the matter. The query recalls one of the most pitiful cases ever coming to our notice, to wit:

At the time the little arm was inoculated with the virus she was five years old. She was in robust health. Had been from infancy. She was the joy of her parents and the life of her little companions. The time now came when she complained of a numbness and grew worse till she could move around but very little. They called it paralysis. She would sit by the hour at the windows. Her mother would look at her and burst into tears. "Oh, mamma, if I could only run and play like the other girls!" she would cry out again and again. Then, "Will I be all right soon, mamma?" Her mother would only look at her. She could not trust herself to speak lest the child suspects. Then she went, as usual, the rounds of the doctors. Then the hospital. The mother prayed to God she could be cured. But it was impossible. And at 14 she died. The cause of death was attributed to various ailments. But the "old family" doctor maintained the condition and death was due to vaccination. The heart-stricken parents vowed never to have another child vaccinated. Could that mother be blamed for thinking "there was more wisdom (honor) in the breach than in the observance?"

Here let us call attention to what Dr. J. W. Hodge of Niagara Falls, N. Y., says regarding vaccination and the law:

"What the people of this nation should demand is the unconditional and immediate repeal of every vaccination law in the land; the disestablishment and disendowment by the state, of vaccination, the abolition of all regulations in regard to vaccination as a condition of employment in governmental departments, or of admission to educational or other state institutions. All talk about amending such detestable legislation is mockery. Absolute and immediate abolition is the only rational course. Every day the vaccination laws remain in force, children are being poisoned, diseased, crippled, tortured, maimed and killed by this barbarous and cruel malpractice inherited from our ignorant and superstitious forbears of a pre-scientific age." Also note that Dr. Carlo Ruata, professor of materia medica, University of Perugia, Italy, tells us that "vaccination is a world-wide delusion, an unscientific practice and a fatal superstition." Dr. Adolph Vogt, professor of hygiene and sanitary statistics in the University of Berne, Germany, one of the foremost statisticians in the world, who had at his command the statistics of Europe, said: "After collecting the particulars of 400,000 cases of smallpox I am compelled to admit that my belief in vaccination is absolutely destroyed."

Speaking on the subject of vaccination before the Homeopathic Medical society, Dr. John W. Mullin told them that "the evils of vaccinations are beyond the comprehension of the unthinking and of those who practice the custom in ignorance of the true history and pathology of the subject because of their retention in the opinion of the earlier authors of our text books. The evils of vaccination may be demonstrated under a declaration of three proven facts—first, vaccination affords no security against smallpox; second, it introduces new diseases into the human system and renews old diseases; third, it is often fatal to life." According to Blackstone, eminent English jurist: "That law is not binding on any subject which assaults the body or violates the conscience."

Napoleon, Undersized and Unpopular

Pale, short of stature, secretive, Napoleon Bonaparte, son of a poor Corsican lawyer, entered the military school at Brienne, France. The ten-year-old lad was shunned by his companions, but made good use of his unpopularity by devoting his time to intensive study. Italian being his native language, he spoke French with difficulty, but overcame this handicap by hard work and concentrated will power.

Appointed second lieutenant in the French army in 1789 he was a captain before opportunity came his way. Then he displayed masterly skill in conducting a siege and handling the mobs of Paris in a crisis of the revolution.

In the wars of the young French Republic, he was commander-in-chief and achieved victories and conquests unparralleled since ancient times. Told it could not be done, he led an army over the Great St. Bernard in the spring of 1800, dragging his cannon in trunks of trees hollowed to receive them. Two battles, and he was dictator of continental Europe.

In 1803 Russia, Austria, England and Sweden formed a coalition against him. He defeated Austria and Russia at Austerlitz and entrenched himself more firmly than ever. Made emperor, he formed an alliance with Austria, Russia and Prussia; the rest of Western Europe, except Portugal, was subject to or dependent on him.

Wed to the beautiful Josephine, he divorced her because she gave him no son. When he wed an Austrian archduchess and a son was born, he had high hopes of founding a dynasty, but his son died young. At the zenith of his power Napoleon invaded Russia in 1812, met with disaster and his army was almost annihilated in winter campaign. He took the field again and was defeated Oct. 16-19, 1813 at the battle of Leipsig, by Austria, Prussia and Russia. Stripped of his territory and power, he was imprisoned on the little island of Elba. Escaping, he entered France, raised a great army and won several battles before meeting with a decisive defeat at Waterloo, June 18, 1815.

Then came his life at St. Helena as England's prisoner of war. And when he died at 46 he was acclaimed the greatest military genius of the world.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The old superstition that it is lucky to be born on Christmas day appears to be borne out in the case of Grace George, who made her first debut 45 years ago today, and whose career as an actress has been almost one unbroken success. Miss George, who in private life is Mrs. William A. Brady, wife of the manager of many theatrical enterprises, was born in New York city. Her first appearance on the professional stage was made under the direction of Charles Frohman in 1894. After appearing for several seasons in leading parts in the Frohman comedy productions she came under the direction of Mr. Brady, who sent her forth as a star in "The Princess Chiffon." Since that time, under her husband's direction, she has scored numerous successes in plays of a high order.

Stories That Recall Others

Just You Wait, Santa!

Jimmie's five-year-old faith in Santa Claus is fervent. He wishes an airplane, a watch that runs and roller skates. So daddy was having a difficult time explaining to him that Santa had so many other little folk to give to that Jimmie must decide on one of them so that if daddy by chance happened to see Santa he could tell him to be sure to bring the right ones.

Mother, who was sitting nearby, watched and listened to the dialogue. Jimmie just couldn't understand why he couldn't have them all and emphatically finished the argument with, "All right, all right, for him! If he don't bring me a watch, my airplane and roller skates and a popgun, and a mouthorgan, there won't be any stocking hung up next year."

The "Little Cows'" Error.

Tommy, a city boy of "going on four," was in the country for the first time and became much interested in cows when his mother explained that from these animals came the milk which he drank three times a day. A little later, in his tour about the farm, Tommy came on a group of young calves and after inspecting them carefully, remarked, "Muvver, I guess those little cows forgot to bring their milk bottles along."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

FIVE NEW NATIONAL MONUMENTS

For 38 years Liberty looking down on New York harbor must have blushed under the reverent gaze of millions of immigrants. Only in October, 1924, did she come into her own, officially—she was made a national monument by an executive order of President Coolidge. The order reads that Fort Wood, New York, shall be made a national monument. Fort Wood is no more and no less than the Statue of Liberty Enlightening the World.

In the same order that made the Statue of Liberty what the American people thought she was, four other military reservations or parts of them were set aside as national monuments open to the public. One of these, Fort Marion at St. Augustine, Florida, is well known. The others, Castle Pinckney, Charleston Harbor, South Carolina; Fort Pulaski, near Savannah, Georgia; and Fort Matanzas, near St. Augustine, are less well known.

"A massacre which probably was the most terrible committed on American soil, the only intact example of a medieval fort in North America, the site where rifled guns first spelled the doom of parapets, the scene of the Civil War's first shot and the first successful submarine attack, and the modern world's equivalent of the Colossus of Rhodes—these are the incidents memorialized by the five new national monuments," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"History knits together the stories of Fort Marion and Fort Matanzas, the latter fifteen miles to the south. Don Pedro Menendez, the 'adelantado' or governor of Florida, founded St. Augustine in 1565 as a base from which to attack the Huguenot colony at Fort Caroline, fifty miles north. Spain claimed the Huguenots trespassed on their territory. But the Huguenots, French Protestants, who had come for religious freedom like the Pilgrims were to come 65 years later, decided to surprise the Spanish.

"Their fleet swooped down on St. Augustine but a Florida hurricane drove the French vessels on the beach some miles south wrecking every vessel. After a forced march Menendez captured Fort Caroline. All the defenders were killed and the women and children were carried away. Returning to St. Augustine he rushed south to meet the shipwrecked French. They surrendered unconditionally.

"Binding the arms of his prisoners Menendez started them in parties toward St. Augustine. Near the site of the new national monument, Fort Matanzas, he placed a firing squad. Florida's white sand was stained with blood of two hundred French that day. Matanzas in Spanish means 'massacre.' One hundred and fifty French in a second party farther down the coast refusing to trust Menendez, vanished into the swamps and disappeared forever. Two years later De Gourgues, a French gallant, descended on the Spanish settlements on the St. Johns River, taking revenge in kind, but Fort Marion was too strong even then for him to attack.

"Under the protection of the walls of Fort Marion, first known as San Juan de Pinos and later as St. Mark, the Spanish introduced into America limes, lemons, citrons and China and Seville oranges. While these fruits which were to make Florida were prospering in St. Augustine sands another innovation was destined to bring woe to America. Menendez brought the first African slaves to American shores.

"Discovery of coquina, a soft shell and coral stone, near St. Augustine about 1570 led to the replacement of the wooden structure with the material a visitor sees today. Old Fort Matanzas is coquina also. Thirty million dollars is the reported cost of Fort Marion. When King Ferdiand IV heard this he exclaimed, 'What! Is this fort built of silver dollars?'

"Today the war department keeps both forts in repair. Fort Marion has battlements wide enough for an automobile drive. Its angled bastions and capsule-shaped sentry towers, overlooking a grassy moat, complete a picture of Old Spain.

"Fort Pulaski is located on the seaend of a sand spit dividing the mouth of the Savannah river. Built on the site of Revolutionary Fort Greene, which was destroyed by a hurricane, Fort Pulaski was taken over by southern troops at the beginning of the Civil war. Union troops attacking Savannah brought up some of the first rifled cannon ever made and demanded the fort's surrender. The confederate commander replied, 'I have been sent here to fight, not surrender.' Despite a gallant defense the rifled cannon pounded out a military lesson that scrapped most of the world's forts.

"Fort Moultrie, that beat off a British fleet in 1776, and Fort Sumter, the Civil war's Sarajevo, are twin guards to Charleston harbor. These two forts are still in active use, so Castle Pinckney, an unused fort on Shutes' Folly Island, has been named an national monument for Charleston Harbor. It is opposite the point where batteries first poured shot into Sumter. Union forces used Castle Pinckney in their final attack on Charleston. It was in this harbor that the first submarine, run by steam, torpedoed a ship during the Civil war, but went to the bottom with its victim. Castle Pinckney also saw one of the first attacks of an armored fleet on forts.

"Bedloe's Island provides the footstool for Liberty. It has had a more peaceful history. France's gift of 1876 on the centenary of Independence raised this two-and-a-half-acre oyster island of New Amsterdam to eternal fame. The Colossus of Rhodes in Asia Minor was one of the seven wonders of the world. Yet Liberty Enlightening the world rises to 121 feet above her pedestal, 26 feet higher than the reported height of the fallen wonder of the Near East. The American people immediately accepted Liberty with fervor and enshrined her as First Lady of American History.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

by DAVID CORY

Escaping Danny Fox.

Through the wind-blown Shady Wood
Hopped the little rabbit,
Knapsack bouncing up and down
On his khaki habit.

Candy cane upon his arm,
Swinging to and fro,
Goodness me, how he can hop,
Through the drifted snow.

Yes, sir. It had began to snow. Mr. North Wind was blowing the snowflakes here and there and everywhere, covering up the stumps and stones and filling in the hollow places. Have a care, little rabbit, you may fall into a snowdrift.

Danny Fox's eyes were blinded.

"Dear me," sighed the bunny boy, feeling in his pocket to make sure that the clothespin hadn't bumped out. "I hope Mother won't worry. I'm late. Oh, yes, I've been a long time doing this errand. Wish I hadn't lost the clothespin I bought at the Three-in-One Cent Store. That was nice and new and shiny. But I guess Mrs. Dog's will hold up my socks just as well," and away he went, faster than ever, trying to out-distance Mr. North Wind.

Just then he saw somebody he feared. Wasn't that a shame? Yes, indeedy. The bunny boy had been delayed long enough already. The storm was getting worse and worse, and he could scarcely make out the winding trail under the tall leafless trees. Not far away stood Danny Fox, like a dark shadow against the snowdrifts.

"Dear, Oh dear," cried the bunny boy under his breath, of course, for fear lest that old hunter might hear him. "What shall I do? I wish I were at home, safe with Mother."

"Have a care, have a care,
An enemy is over there," whispered a voice from the bushes. It was Charlie Chickadee's. That little feather friend was seeking shelter from the storm, but his bright eyes had seen old Danny Fox.

"I see him," answered the bunny boy softly, creeping under the bush. "But if Mrs. North Wind doesn't shift and blow the other way, Danny Fox won't smell me."

"Well, if Mr. North Wind blows the other way, he'll have to change his name to Mrs. South Wind," twittered the little bird. He only blows from the Cold Country."

"To be sure," answered the bunny boy. "I was too frightened to think of that. Maybe I'm safe under the bush."

"Just keep still," advised the kind little birdie, "I'll keep a look-out."

Louder and louder howled Mr. North Wind, heaping the snow into great snowdrifts and shaking the treetops as easily as if they were only tall grasses. All of a sudden Danny Fox's eyes were blinded with the snow and he turned off towards his little rocky house on the wooded hillside.

A Little Talk on Thrift

The Importance of Thrift

No matter how shrewd a man may be or how keenly developed his instincts for acquiring wealth, he will never be successful unless an element of thrift is woven into all his activities.

The so-called plunger—the meteoric financiers—may at times seem able to defy prudent practices and the principles of thrift. However, such success is seldom permanent. Wealth gained by a sort of ledgerdemain rather than than through the working out of sound business practices nearly always proves transitory.

Lack of thrift has caused more financial failures than anything else. How many men there are today who might have become wealthy had they only known how to save money! During the course of their careers they have earned large sums, but these have slipped through their fingers from day to day. They had the natural gift of making money, just as their successful rivals, but they lacked the quality of permanent success—which is thrift.

The majority of men who have built up great fortunes, though they have in many instances risen rapidly, owe their success primarily to thrift. It was this that gave them the start they needed and it was the development of this characteristic that impaired the combination of courage and cautious judgment without which there can be no substantial success in money matters.

Although the ability to make money is, to a considerable extent, a matter of natural aptitude, the still more important accomplishment of thrift can be acquired by anyone. There is no excuse for not saving money.

Thriftlessness is an indication of weakness. It is indicative of character.

Thrift requires steadfastness and the martialing of the last ounce of moral strength that we possess. But it does not require any special genius or brilliant lift of mind.—American Society Thrift Society.

Biggest Waves

The tides are simple vast waves with a length from crest to crest equal to half the earth's circumference. As the tidal wave approaches the shore the water encroaches more and more on the land until the crest arrives, when it is high tide. Similarly the arrival of the trough of the tidal wave brings low tide.

The Easter lily is a native of Japan.

BODY OF "MILLIONAIRE ORPHAN" HAS BEEN EXHUMED

Chicago, Dec. 24 (By the A. P.)—The body of William Nelson McClintock, 21 year old "millionaire orphan," who died three weeks ago while his fiancee waited with a marriage license to wed him, was exhumed today, and tonight the authorities spent their Christmas eve in hurrying an investigation to determine if the heir to the ill-fated McClintock millions died from natural causes.

While workmen at Oakwoods cemetery were cutting through the cement covering of the great bronze casket, Miss Isabelle Pope, pretty school teacher who was to have married the young millionaire, sat in the state's attorneys office and falteringly related the story of her romance which was ended by death.

As soon as the body had been disinterred it was taken to a morgue, where an autopsy was immediately performed under the direction of Coroner Oscar Wolff. The results of the post-mortem examination will be made public tomorrow after a conference between the coroner and several doctors who were present. In the meantime a coroner's jury to hold an investigation was empaneled and the inquest was then continued to Jan. 20.

Miss Pope today reviewed her association with young McClintock beginning with their schoolday romance. She admitted with apparent reluctance that her visits to McClintock when he was ill were discouraged by the Shepherds because they were "disrupting" the order of the household.

When the sick youth asked for an immediate marriage, she said she consented, but was informed by Shepherd that a marriage license could not be secured in Illinois unless both the contracting parties appeared at the marriage license bureau. She said she later found this to be incorrect and secured the license herself, only to arrive too late at McClintock's bedside. Mrs. Shepherd also was less friendly with her after her engagement to Mrs. Shepherd's ward was announced, the girl said.

COMMUNIST CAMPAIGN AGAINST RELIGION

Moscow, Dec. 24.—(By the A. P.)—Coincident with the advent of Christmas Gregory S. Zinovieff, chairman of the executive committee of the third international, today made a significant pronouncement concerning the communistice campaign against religion. He admitted the communists had gone too far in their propaganda against existing religious rituals and their efforts to establish atheism.

"In a peasant country like ours," he said, "where the majority of the population is illiterate, and where the peasantry pays so high for articles of necessity, we cannot allow ourselves such a luxury as a vigorous and inflexible religious campaign. We shall pursue our attacks on Almighty God in due time and in an appropriate manner.

"We are confident we shall subdue Him in His empyrean. We shall fight Him whenever He hides Himself, but we must go about such a question as anti-religious propaganda more carefully in the future.

"I have been informed by old workmen that not only the young communists but boy scouts are mocking people who are religious. I have also been told that groups of boy scouts have even imprisoned whole congregations in the church while they were worshipping. This is a mistake. Our campaign against God and religion must be carried out only in a pedagogic way, not by violence or force."

CHECK FOR $15,000 FOR THE PARIS POLICE DEPARTMENT

Paris, Dec. 24.—A check for $15,000 was received today by the Paris police department from Albert R. Burial is to be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HEAVY DELIVERIES MADE BY MAIL CARRIERS

Members of the postoffice department will stop work today (Christmas) at 11 o'clock, one delivery to be made throughout the city before they go to their homes to enjoy the remainder of the day with their families. The rush at the postoffice continued Wednesday and heavy deliveries faced the men at every trip. Parcels by the hundreds were sent out and delivered by trucks to various parts of the city but, at night there still remained a large number for delivery, and it was evident that all parcels could not be delivered in time for Christmas.

Thousands of letters and postals and hundreds of parcels came in on the mails Wednesday and the men were kept busy until late at night getting them ready for delivery today.

The rush at the postoffice has been the heaviest this year in the history of the postoffice and Postmaster Casper K. Bailey praised his men for their work in getting the mail out as quickly as possible in face of the tremendous amount of work before them.

Late mailing always causes many parcels to be held for delivery after Christmas, and this year was no exception, many parcels being brought into the office late Wednesday afternoon, people requesting the men to be sure and deliver them Thursday, which anyone familiar with the work at the office during the Christmas rush knows is an impossibility.

WEST SIDE MAN HIT OVER HEAD IN ATTEMPT AT HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Frank L. Maples, West Side grocer, was waylaid by two assailants Wednesday night about 8:45 oclock as he was crossing a lot on his way to his home at No. 82 Peck street. He was hit over the head by some instrument in the hands of one of the two men, but was only slightly injured. A good sized lump was raised, however, by the blow.

Mr Maples conducts a grocery store at No. 101 Elizabeth street and was on his way home from the store when the holdup took place. According to his usual custom he was taking a short cut across an open lot. As he was crossing the lot the two men who (were hidden nearby and who evidently were in waiting for him, suddenly sprang on him and one of them hit him a blow over the head with some instrument.

Mr. Maples cried out loudly as the men sprang on him and at the same time threw some distance from him a bag of change which he was carrying home from the store. Mr. Maples' cries frightened his assailants and they ran away. Mr. Maples immediately notified the police by telephone and afterwards went to the police station to make a report of the incident in person. Captain D. J. Twomy despatched a squad of men to the scene and a thorough investigation was made. Although Mr. Maples could give but a meager description of his assailants the police are working on a clue which it is expected will lead to arrest. It is not thought that the highwaymen secured the bag of change. In the darkness the bag could not be located in the lot last night.

NORWICH ROTARY CLUB HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

As has been the custom for several years the Norwich Rotary club held a Christmas party Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel observing the Yuletide season with true Christmas and Rotary spirit. The dining hall of the hotel was attractively decorated with small Christmas trees and brilliant paper streamers were festooned from the chandeliers.

President Hugh B. Campbell presided at the meeting which was featured by the singing of Christmas carols. After the singing of America, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott asked divine grace and the club sang O Come All Ye Faithful. A sextette Eben Learned, Grosvenor Ely, Joseph C. Worth, F. Russell Smith, Rev. Abbott and William G. Park, assisted by Henry J. LaFontaine at the piano sang several of the old Christmas carols, Silent Night, Christians Awake, Three Kings, Joy to the World and It Came Upon the Midnight Clear. Another very pleasing feature of the Christmas programme was the delightful baritone solo, Holy Night (Adams) by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott. Mr. Abbott was forced to repeat his solo so enthusiastically was it received.

Turning from the sublime to the ridiculous a drum solo was given by "Big Ed" Harris which was thoroughly appreciated and applauded by the soloist refused to respond with an encore.

The menu for the luncheon, included chicken soup, celery, olives, individual chicken pies, pickles, French bread, asparagus salad, ice cream, cakes and coffee.

The after dinner cigars were the Christmas gift of Herbert M. Lerou.

Each member of the club received a toy with which to amuse himself during odd moments of the luncheon. These toys which numbered over a hundred were given to the children at the County Home and the Rock Nook Home after the meeting. Continuing in the Christmas spirit a donation was made by the club to the Salvation Army.

H. M. Lerou speaking for the committee that had the Christmas party in charge complimented the Wauregan hotel and Manager Fred Watson for their cooperation in making the affair pleasant. Mr. Lerou also spoke of the spirit of Christmas which is really exemplified in Rotary 365 days of the year. James L. Case who spoke recently in Wallingford and Buffalo clubs, told of his visit there and of the spirit of good fellowship shown.

Some Rotary announcements from District Governor Lavery were read by Secretary J. Nelson Weymouth and it was voted to hold an evening meeting Thursday, Jan. 22, when the district governor will pay an official visit to the club. Dr. R. R. Agnew, chairman of the Boys' Work committee, was appointed the club delegate to a Rotary Boys' week conference in New Haven, Jan. 13. "The Star Spangled Banner" concluded the exercises.

FOUR FIERY CROSSES BLAZE CHRISTMAS EVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, Dec. 24.—Four fiery crosses were reported burning Christmas eve, north, south, east and west of Westerly. The cross to the eastward was located on the Vose property, near Granite street, between Cross and School street. As the flames lighted the sky, fire alarm box 58, Granite and School street, was turned in about 9.30 o'clock and three pilots of the Westerly fire apparatus under Westerly Fire Chief George Egger responded, but returned to the fire station without paying any attention to the cross.

Soon after 10 o'clock a mammoth fiery cross blazed on the Moss farm to the southward of the Westerly-Stonington highway and burned for half an hour without being disturbed. The other crosses were said to have been burned at White Rock and Avondale.

The H. T. S. society held its annual banquet at the Elm Tree inn Christmas eve at Pawcatuck. Previous to the dinner at 13 oclock the meeting was held in Caledonian hall on Main street where some 50 or 60 members gathered for a preliminary session.

WERMAN SHOE EMPLOYEES REMEMBERED BY FIRM

Christmas gifts in gold, ranging from five dollars to $200 were presented to the employes and office staff at the shoe factory of A. Werman & Sons, Inc., No. 18 Thames street, Wednesday. The gifts were presented to the employes at 11.30 Wednesday morning by A. Werman who had them called together for that purpose.

The Werman shoe factory is one of the most progressive industries in Norwich. It was opened up three years ago, having removed here from New York city, and has run on full time ever since. It is a growing concern, specializing in growing girls' and childrens shoes and has plenty of orders on hand, insuring a full time operating schedule for a long time to come.

The employees were greatly pleased with the Christmas remembrances from the firm.

JUDGE TAKES PAPERS IN $13,000 DAMAGE CASE

At the Wednesday session of the superior court the arguments were made in the $13,000 damage suit of Thomas W. Corcoran of Voluntown against Walter C. Tanner, also of Voluntown. Judge George E. Hinman reserved his decision and took the papers in the case.

Court adjourned sine die at the conclusion of the case.

PAWCATUCK WOMAN WINS PRIZES AT CAT SHOW

Mrs. Leroy F. Cox of Trails End, Lower Pawcatuck, made a fine win with her exhibition of cats at the cat show held last week at the municipal auditorium in Springfield, Mass., under the rules of the Cat Fanciers' federation.

Brownie King was awarded the blue ribbon in a strong class and was the third best male cat in the show with over 200 cats on exhibition. Brownie's Best Boy, a four-months'-old kitten, won the blue ribbon in the kitten class and his brother won second prize. The latter kitten was sold at a good price.

The mother, Brownie Girl, has presented 39 kittens in the last two years, which have been sold at very good prices for pedigreed stock. Brownie King, which won the first prize at Springfield last week, was shot through both front feet by a hunter some time ago, who evidently took the cat for some wild animal. This cat weighs 14 pounds and looks like a mountain cat.

Mrs. Cox exhibited some manx cats at the Atlantic Cat show in New York recently which created quite a sensation and several city papers used cuts and writeups on these.

Mrs. Cox came to Pawcatuck from New York city and took up the raising of brown tabbies as a hobby.

SILK COMPANY MAKES CHANGE IN FIRM NAME

The H. K. H. Silk company, makers of the famous Heminway Silks and Hammond-Knowlton Machine Silks, has changed its name to "The Heminway Silk Company." The change is one in name only, and in no way effects the sales policies, personnel, branch offices or foreign representatives.

Thus is re-established the parent name of the organization which began with "M. Heminway & Sons" operating a small mill at Watertown. There, General Merritt Heminway, the founder, conceived and executed the spooling of silk thread for the first time in this country.

General Heminway's entrance into the silk industry came as a natural development of his work in the raising of mulberry trees and the breeding of silkworms, which so occupied the attention of American farmers and villagers during 1830.

In conjunction with the announcement of the name change is given the news that a celebration of the 75th anniversary of the house is being planned for the early part of 1925. Special events are scheduled in connection with the sales convention, which will be held in February.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF RECKLESS DRIVING

Alfred Chartier, 19, of Willimantic, was arrested by the local police last night on a charge of reckless driving after his machine ran into and damaged a machine operated by Joseph Farrell of this city. The accident happened on West Town street about 10 o'clock Wednesday night. Mr. Farrell was turning his machine around when Chartier's machine crashed into him.

It is said Chartier was driving at between 30 and 35 miles an hour. Both machines were damaged to some extent. Chartier's bonds were fixed at $300. He will be presented in the city court to answer to the charge.

"NEW HAVEN" ROAD TO DECREASE MILEAGE SERVICE

The mileage of passenger service which the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad is considering abandoning in this state, because of bus competition is as follows, according to information sent out from Hartford.

Branchville to Ridgefield, 3.73 miles; Botsford to Bridgeport, 14.67 miles; Feeding Hills, Mass., to Tariffville, Conn., 12.38; Rockville to Sadds Mills, 5.54 miles; Amston to Colchester, 3.59 miles; Webster, Mass., to East Thompson, Conn., 5.80 miles; Windsor Locks to Suffield, 4.46, and Derby Junction to New Haven, 10.53 miles.

The total is 60.53 miles.

HELD MIDNIGHT SERVICE AT CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

At the midnight service held at Christ church Wednesday night, the large congregation numbered many people from other churches in the city. The service began at 11.30 o'clock and there was special music. Rev. Mr. Plumb of Hartford conducted the service.

There was a large attendance at the Christmas carol service held at Christ church Tuesday evening. The choir of the church sang many of the old hymns and Arthur E. Hall organist of the church was in charge of the program.

INSURANCE POLICIES FOR SCHWARTZ BROS. EMPLOYES

Twenty-five employes of Schwartz Bros. were remembered by the company Wednesday when they received a $1,000 life insurance policy for a Christmas gift. Schwartz Bros. gave each of their employes a $1,000 life insurance policy last year and again this year the company has taken out policies with the Prudential Life Insurance company to cover the employes during 1925. The gift was appreciated by the employes and expressions of appreciation were received by the managers.

FIERY CROSS BURNED ON JAIL HILL THIS MORNING

Shortly before one o'clock this (Thursday) morning a fiery cross, the emblem of the Ku Klux Klan, blazed forth from the top of Jail Hill. The cross was a large one and attracted attention from many people homeward bound at that hour.

JUDGE HINMAN AWARDS PLAINTIFF $216 DAMAGES

In a memorandum of decision filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city, Louisa Atkinson of Stonington is awarded $215 damages and costs by Judge George E. Hinman in her suit for $5,000 against Gertrude Ollweiler of Stonington for assault.

Judge Hinman in his decision says: The unfortunate antipathy between the parties and members of their families not only have been the cause of the events which are thesubject of this action but to have contributed to create the radical conflict of testimony as to these events. A satisfactory conclusion from the widely divergent stories of the plaintiff and her daughters, and of the defendant and her husband, would be difficult, but, as often happens, small details of testimony by comparatively disinterested witnesses assist in determining which is the more accurate version of what actually occurred. The defendant and her husband maintain that she did not leave the kitchen at the time of the alleged assault, and the husband claims that he escorted, or partly carried, his mother from the kitchen down the steps to the walk.

Judge Hinman further states that such physical injuries and mental disturbance as Dr. Taylor found when called by the plaintiff deserves some significance.

The conclusion is reached that the defendant supplemented her demand that the plaintiff leave the house by some unjustified application of force and therefore that she at least technically, assaulted the plaintiff.

However, I am convinced that the plaintiff and her daughters have magnified the severity and effects of such assault.

TO AWARD PRIZES FOR CORN EXHIBITS

Announcement has been made that the seventh annual corn show will be held in connection with the Connecticut Winter Exposition at the state armory in Hartford next month. Following is the list of prizes to be awarded for corn exhibits:

Competitors in this class are limited to those who made ten ear exhibits of corn at one or more of the agricultural fairs, or farm bureau exhibits during the past fair season. All exhibits must be Connecticut grown and raised by the exhibitor. Only one entry in a class can be made by an exhibitor.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS' GIFTS CHEER EX-SERVICE PATIENTS

During Tuesday John P. Corcoran, secretary of the K. of C. welfare department, was accompanied to Norwich state tuberculosis sanatorium by Rev. John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's church, to distribute Christmas gifts to eight ex-service men. So marked has been the improvement of the former soldiers who have been at the sanatorium that the majority are able to go their homes for the holiday, while others have been sent home cured.

During Wednesday the 65 ex-service men at Norwich state hospital for the insane were taken Christmas bags, filled with comforts and good things, the bags having been prepared at the home of Mr. Corcoran's sister, Mrs. M. H. Donahue, 405 Main street. The men were delighted with their gifts.

Both days Father Reilly and Mr. Corcoran were driven down to the institutions by William Dougherty.

ELLIOTT RICHARDS, HEBRON, DIES IN HARTFORD HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Dec. 24.—Elliott Richards, 19, of Hebron died suddenly Wednesday at the Hartford hospital of what is believed to be a relapse in acute typhoid. The young man made his home with his grandmother, Mrs. Emily Rathbun, in Hebron, and at the time of his death he was employed by the Morrison W. Johnson undertaking firm in Hartford. Besides his grandmother he leaves his mother, Mrs. Ivy Richards of Versailles, Conn.

VISCOUNT CECIL HAS ARRIVED IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 24.—Viscount Cecil, of Chelwood, better known to America as Lord Robert Cecil, the leading proponent of the league of nations in the British empire, arrived tonight on the liner Olympic to attend a dinner held in his honor on December 28th, when he will be presented with a $25,000 peace prize by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, as the man of the present day who has done most toward promoting world peace. He was accompanied by Lady Cecil. While in New York they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont.

The Olympic was delayed 14 hours due to fog and head seas, and gales on the entire voyage across.

The Wilson award was voted to Lord Cecil unanimously. It comes to him not for any specific act or achievement of the last year, but because of his general and continuous efforts for international peace.

CHORISTERS SANG CAROLS ON BOSTON COMMON

Boston, Dec. 24.—On old Beacon Hill, where Christmas candles glowed in hundreds of windows, and on the Common, around the municipal tree, choristers gathered tonight to sing the carols which have sung for generations at Christmas time. Radio picked up the chorus and broadcast the carols to listeners through New England and the nation.

Scores of trains disgorged thousands of travelers, homeward bound for Christmas at Boston's railroad stations today and tonight. And while many came to the city to celebrate the holiday, by far the greater number were on their way to their old homes in cities, villages and farmhouses through the length and breadth of New England. Colder weather and possible snow flurries were promised New England for Christmas by the weather bureau.

To those who would not otherwise have a merry Christmas, a score of charitable organizations arranged to bring dinners and clothing and toys.

MARKET CLOSED WITH ANOTHER BUYING WAVE

New York, Dec. 24.—With Wall street about to celebrate one of the most cheerful holidays in its history, the stock market today caught the Yuletide spirit and Christmas eve was ushered in with prices riding the crest of another buying wave.

Pre-holiday influences, however, continued to retard trading. Total sales barely exceeded a million shares, but the market closed with a buoyant tone which gained added significance by the fact that prices overcame decidedly reactionary tendencies which marked trading earlier in the day.

Accumulation of the copper issues, based on the resumption of dividends by the Anaconda Copper company and the continued rise in the price of the red metal, was the outstanding feature of the market. Leadership of the upward movement was assumed by the American Smelting, which mounted more than 5 points to 95 3-4, the highest price since 1917. Others which broke into new high ground included Anaconda, Kennecott, Gerro de Pasco, Magma, and United States Smelting.

A brisk demand also developed for General Motors and Dupont, which climbed 3 and 4 points, respectively. Powerful financial interests were said to be accumulating these stocks.

MEETING OF THE ASS'N OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 24.—The American Association of University Professors will hold its eleventh annual meeting in Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 and 29. The program was announced today by the secretary, Prof. H. W. Tyler, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and includes the election of a vice president, a treasurer and eleven members of the council.

Reports of the committee on academic freedom and tenue, on athletics, the status of women in college and university faculties will be presented. There will also be discussion of reports on extra collegiate intellectual service, general reading for undergraduates and on the preceptorial and tutorial systems.

LITIGATION OVER THE $100,000,000 LEITER ESTATE

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Approximately three-fourths of the matters at issue in the litigation over the $100,000,000 estate of the late Levi Z Leiter, pioneer merchant, involving Lord Curzon, former foreign secretary of Great Britain, whose first wife was Mary Leiter, a daughter of the financier, was settled by agreement today. Joseph Leiter, a son and one of the trustees of the estate, turned over $4,000,000 in securities for complete control of the Zeigler Coal company, the controversy over ownership at issue.

There remain to be heard the charges of Lady Marguerite Hyde, Duchess of Suffolk nad Berks, England, that her brother Joseph has mismanaged the estate.

Lord Curzon joined Lady Hyde in the litigation because of the interests of his daughters in the mother's share of her father's estate.

Joseph Leiter after obtaining control of the coal company then paid $1,173,902 in claims against the company.

Mr. Leiter was supported in his legal battle with the English heirs by his sister, Mrs. Colin Campbell, of California, who will benefit under the settlement.

JUSTICE M'KENNA IS TO RESIGN IN NEAR FUTURE

Washington, Dec. 24.—The new year is expected to bring a vacancy in the supreme court, Associate Justice McKenna, the senior member of the bench, having decided to resign in the near future.

While this statement is authoritatively made, Justice McKenna, in view of the etiquette which prevails in such matters, will not publicly discuss his plans, until his resignation is tendered to the president. There is always the possibility, however remote, that something may develop to cause him to reconsider his decision.

Justice McKenna has been eligible for retirement for more than eleven years, since he had already served more than the ten years' service on the federal bench necessary to qualify him to retire when he reached the age of 70, on Aug. 10, 1913. On Jan. 26 he will have rounded out twenty-seven years as a member of the supreme court, and prior to his appointment as an associate justice he had served five years as a federal circuit judge.

FOUND DEAD ON BENCH NEAR SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—Agnes Burke, 30, formerly of Los Angeles, was found dead on a bench near here today. The police had not determined tonight whether the death was caused by suicide or murder. Miss Burke is said to have relatives in Cleveland and an uncle, F. H. Burke in Mechanicsville, N. Y.

WEEHAWKEN POLICE INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Jersey City, Dec. 24.—Captain John Dillon and Lieutenant Edward John Kiz, both of the Weehawken police force, who were indicted by the Hudson county grand jury yesterday on charges of malfeasance in connection with the Weehawken rum scandal, furnished $10,000 bond each today.

REAL BASKETBALL ATTRACTION AT PARISH HALL THIS AFTERNOON

After a stiff workout last night Capt. Belair and his husky hoopsters declared themselves in the proverbial pink of condition for their battle this afternoon at Parish hall with the South Kingstown Town team, champions of Rhode Island. This game is bound to be well worth seeing for the Rhody boys are reputed to be equal to any team in the New England states.

The Champions will present their strongest lineup and feel confident of being returned victors in this classic Wilbur, former star of the Plymouth A. C. for two years and Nigrelli, captain of the Providence College team, will hold down the forward positions. Leo Martin, premier center of the Boston Whirlwinds, last season's New England champions will be at the pivot position. Martin is well known to local fans having performed here several times when he was a member of Flo Harvey's Newport Stars. Capt. "Fiddle" Morley of the Boston Whirlwinds and former captain and star of Boston College five for two years will play one of the guard positions. "Fiddle" was also seen here last year with the Whirlwinds and he was considered one of the best back court men in the game. Bill Barrett, outfielder and shortstop for the Chicago White Sox will play the other guard position. Barrett was a member of the famous Holly Majors with Nick Altrock and Scacht for two seasons and also played with the New York Nationals. Many of the Metropolitan sport writers have been loud in their praise of Barrett as a guard.

"FIDDLE" MORLEY

The local lineup will remain unchanged with Capt. Joe Belair and Jimmy Murphy, playing the forward line, Harry Mills, after a week's layoff due to an injured wrist will be back at his old position in center. The Coleman Brothers will hold down the guard positions and Harris will be held in reserve.

The preliminary encounter will be between the Army-Navy Seconds and the Plainfield Buddies. The rivalry between these two teams is very keen and a real battle for blood is anticipated. The game will be called at 3:15 sharp.

CONTI BREAKS WORLD'S BILLIARD RUN RECORD

Paris, Dec. 24.—(By The A. P.)—With a run of 477, Rogers Conti, the French star, tonight again broke the world's record for 18 balkline play in the championship billiard tournament. He defeated Felix Grange, 500 to 53, and thereby won the championship of France and Europe.

The former record for championship competition was 473, established by the youthful Conti last Friday. Conti went through the tournament without a defeat, winning five straight matches and scoring 2,500 points in 36 innings, with a grand average of 69.4. Conti twice scored a block of 500 in three innings for an average of 166.6 and in the present tournament appeared to be in a class by himself, playing in his most brilliant form.

In tonight's match he had rather hard going to start with. Grange had the break, and ran five, but left the balls scattered. Conti gathered in 35 then missed an easy draw shot.

Grange then score 35, but left Conti safe. The latter was unable to get the balls rolling and made only 3 points. He complained that the ivories were cold, and the gas was glihted under the table. When he began his third inning only 23 points adorned the scoreboard to his credit, but he ran out with an unfinished run of 477.

Conti had such perfect control over the balls that he was called upon to make nine or ten difficult shots during the series. His masse shots were particularly brilliant and his position play faultless. With only ten points to go he showed his nerve by playing a difficult three-cushion shot instead of an easier draw, so as to get the balls in position to complete the needed 500.

Close students of billiards say that the Frenchman has improved fifty per cent since his last visit to the United States and that he will have to be reckoned with in the world's championship next February.

Grange and Edmond Derbier tied for second place with 3 victories and 2 defeats each.

NAVY CREW WILL ENTER THE POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 24.—Navy will compete in the annual intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie next June 20 if satisfactory arrangements can be made for transporting the oarsmen to the summer practice squdron afterwards, it was announced at the naval academy today.

The schedule provides for races with varsity, junior varsity, and freshmen crews of Princeton on Lake Carnegie May 2 and in the American Henley regatta on the Schuylkill, May 30.

On home waters May 23 varsity crews of Harvard and Syracuse and the Middies will contest in a triangular race and the navy junior and freshmen eights will also meet like crews from Syracuse.

The Middies will open their season on April 26 in a five cornered contest with Massachusetts Tech.

HARD LUCK STICKS CLOSE TO PENN TEAM

Philadelphia, Dec. 24.—The undefeated football team of the University of Pennsylvania today suffered its third serious loss of the last month when Joe Wilson, regular right tackle, broke the fibula bone of his leg in an indoor scrimmage. Clark Craig and Ted Fairchild, regular ends, are out of the game by reason of concussion of the brain and appendicitis, respectively.

The lineup against the undefeated team of the University of California at Berkeley on New Year's day, in the opinion of experts, will be considerably weaker than that which finished a triumphant eastern season against Cornell on Thanksgiving day. Frank Dewhirst will probably replace Wilson in the Red and Blue line.

YANKEES RELEASE TWO PLAYERS TO MINORS

New York, Dec. 24.—"Ahag" Horan, Yankee utility man, has been released outright by the New York club to the Los Angeles club of the coast league, it was announced today. Infielder Hillis, who came to the Yankees from the Atlanta, Georgia, club, was released under option to Toledo, the Yankee manager announced.

Hillis is the optional player the Yankees promised to deliver to Toledo in part payment for Joe Giard, the left-handed pitcher who was switched to St. Louis in the Shocker deal.

MISSOURI MEET U. of S. C. TEAM THIS AFTERNOON

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 24.—The second of four 1924 post-season intersectional football games to be played on the Pacific coast takes place here tomorrow when the Trojan warriors of the University of Southern California meets the Tigers of the University of Missouri, champions of the Missouri valley conference.

The Missourians, conquerors of the Univeristy of Chicago Maroons, 3 to 0, early in the middle western gridiron season, met their only defeat of the year at the hands of the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers, 14 to 6.

Southern California was defeated twice this year.

NEW LONDON INDEPENDENTS LOOKING FOR GAMES

The New London Independents basketball team would like to arrange some games after January 1st with teams in Norwich, Baltic, Jewett City, Taftville and vicinity. We have on our squad this year such men as Taylor, Jack McMahon, Jim McMahon, Soule, Barts, Risch, Rankin, Greene, Brewer, Zepp and Gadbois.

Anyone interested in arranging a game with a team of this calibre should write or phone George O. Gadbois, 45 Nameaug Ave., New London, Conn. Phone 2492-2 or 193.

ZUPPKE NOT IN FAVOR OF CHANGING PASS

Chicago, Dec. 24.—(By The A. P.)—Robert O. Zuppke, coach of the University of Illinois football eleven, is opposed to tinkering with the forward pass. He said tonight that changes which some coaches propose, would be harmful to the game as an interesting spectacle.

Coach Zuppke, as vice-president of the American football coaches association, will preside at the annual meeting to be held in New York, starting next Monday, in the absence of John W. Heilman, president, who will be on his way to Europe.

"I am giving only my personal views of the proposed changes which are a question for the association to decide," Coach Zuppke said.

"One suggestion is that a touchdown made as a result of a forward pass should count only three points, the same as a field goal. It is easy to see what would happen, every coach would instruct a runner who was about to make a touchdown from catching a pass, to down the ball a few inches from the goal line so that it could be carried over for six points. This certainly would make a joke out of the restriction.

"Another suggestion is only two forward passes for every four downs. In the end, this would probably mean that only one pass could be used in four downs, because nine times out of ten the offensive team could not afford to use a pass on the fourth down. It also would mean that as soon as the team used its allotted passes, the old fashioned defense of the push and pull games would be employed, making the modern running offensive practically futile.

"To bring the intercepted forward pass back only as far as the scrimmage line, which also is suggested, would make the forward pass offense stronger than it is now. I do not believe this is desirable.

"Fast playing is necessary to make the game interesting but the suggestion that each team be allowed a certain number of plays each half, dispensing with the timing watch would put a premium on the slower playing team."

SEVEN CREWS WILL ROW IN POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

New York, Dec. 24.—Assurances that the naval academy's crew will return for the 1925 intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie forecasts the probability that seven combinations, the largest entry since 1907 will row in the varsity classic next June.

Washington, winner for the past two years, will return to defend its laurels and Wisconsin, which returned last June after a long lapse and finished second, also is expected to invade the east again. The four members of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association—Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse and Pennsylvania—will complete the entries.

Navy has scored four times in the Poughkeepsie regatta and captured premier honors twice, in 1921 and 1922, with the famous crew which won Olympic laurels in 1920. Navy was one of the seven starters in 1907 when Georgetown and Wisconsin comprised the other entries outside the I. R. A. The midshipmen finished third last year when Cornell was the winner. Their fourth and last appearance was in 1923, when the sailors finished second to Washington.

BASKETBALL GAMES AT "Y" THIS AFTERNOON

The newly organized basketball team of the Central Fellowship club will open their 1924 and 25 season this Christmas afternoon with the fast Jewett City cagers as their opponents. The C. F. C. lineup includes Brown, a former Cleveland Y player, Leffingwell and Lambert of the Champion Midgets of 1920, Ludlow, a former Emp and Armstrong, a new man in the game. To complete todays program the Y Emps will oppose the Baltic Bantams. The first attraction commences at 3:40 o'clock.

ROBINSON'S CONDITION IS VERY MUCH IMPROVED

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 24. — Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn National league baseball club, was reported to be in good condition tonight after a second operation for the purpose of draining off fluid which had gathered in the pleural cavity. He has been at Union Memorial hospital for several weeks suffering from the after-effects of an attack of pleurisy.

JOHNNY DUNDEE HAS BEEN SIGNED TO MEET BRETONNEL IN PARIS, JAN. 27th

Paris, Dec. 24.—(By the A. P.)—Johnny Dundee of New York, who recently retired as featherweight champion of the world, today signed articles to fight Fred Bretonnel, former European lightweight champion. The contest will be for 15 rounds and will be staged in Paris Jan. 27.

Dundee agreed to let Brotonnel weigh in at 133 pounds, giving away six or seven pounds. Dundee has been guaranteed $5,000, with the privilege of taking thirty per cent. of the gate receipts.

Dundee won his featherweight title from Eugene Criqui, the French boxer, in 1923. He retired as featherweight champion last August when he was unable to make the weight.

Johnny Dundee, former world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion, who unexpectedly has decided to renew his flatic activity by engaging Fred Bretonnel of France in a bout at Paris next month, is one of the few boxers in fistic history to give up a title without once defending it after winning it in competition. He relinquished the feather crown last August over a year after taking it from Eugene Criqui of France at the Polo Grounds.

Dundee was a persistent challenger of Johnny Kilbane, former featherweight champion, but the latter ignored the Italian and accepted a championship match with Criqui, French war hero with a reconstructed jaw. Criqui knocked Kilbane out at the Polo Grounds in June, 1923, but risked and lost his newly won laurels two months later to Dundee. Since then Dundee, finding difficulty making the 126 pound limit, failed to defend his title and forfeited it last August.

To fill the vacancy the New York state athletic commission has been conducting a title tournament, and the finalists, Kid Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., and Danny Kramer of Philadelphia are to meet January 2 at Madison Square Garden to decide which will gain official decognition as Dundee's successor.

The 130 pound or junior lightweight title was created by Tex Rickard in 1921 and awarded to Dundee when he defeated George Chaney. Subsequently Dundee lost and regained the crowd in battles with Jack Bernstein, but lost it again last June to Steve (Kid) Sullivan of Brooklyn.

Dundee's last fight before sailing for Europe was with his rival, Bernstein, who won a 10 round bout at the Queensboro A. C. last September.

Bretonnel won the European lightweight title by defeating the leading lightweights of the old world are being proclaimed the champion by the International Boxing Union. The champion at that time was Harry Mason of England but the latter was discarded by ring solons in favor of Bretonnel February 2, 1924. The Frenchman held this crown until Lucien Vide of France toppled him from the throne, October 7, 1924.

FLORIDA STILL THE MECCA OF BALL CLUBS

New York, Dec. 24.—Ten major league clubs will train in the everglade regions of Florida during the 1925 season while three will go to California and two will get in condition in Louisiana. Georgia, native state of "Ty" Cobb will cast its sun upon the remaining entry, the Detroit Tigers.

Five each of the National and American League clubs have chosen Florida. Only two National league teams have shifted their training scenery this year, the Yankees moving from New Orleans to St. Petersburg, Fla., Chicago going from Winter Haven, Fla., to Shreveport, La., the Browns shifting from Mobile, Ala., to Tarpon Springs, Fla: the Athletics swinging into Fort Meyers, Fla., from Montgomery, Ala., and the Red Sox moving into the Yankee camp at New Orleans from San Antonio.

Texas, a Mecca of league training camps in years gone by, is ignored entirely by the big leagues next year, while Alabama, which harbored two teams last year will be without big league training in 1925.

The complete list of training camps follows, the first named city being the 1924 camp and the last the 1925 camp:

American League

New York, New Orleans to St. Petersburg, Fla.

Cleveland, Lakeland, Fla., to Lakeland, Fla.

Chicago, Winter Haven, Fla., to Shreveport, La.

Detroit, Augusta, Ga., to Augusta, Ga.

St. Louis, Mobile, Ala., to Tarpon Springs, Fla.

Philadelphia, Montgomery, Ala., to Fort Meyers, Fla.

Washington, Tampa, Fla., to Tampa, Fla.

Boston, San Antonio, Tex., to New Orleans, La.

National League

New York, Sarasota, Fla., to Sarasota, Fla.

Cincinnati, Orlando, Fla., Orlando, Fla.

Pittsburgh, Paso Robie, Cal., Paso Robie, Cal.

Chicago, Catalina Island, Cal., Catalina Island, Cal.

St. Louis, Bradentown, Fla., to Stockton, Cal.

Brooklyn, Clearwater, Fla., Clearwater, Fla.

Philadelphia, Leesburg, Fla., to Bardentown, Fla.

Boston, St. Petersburgh, Fla., St Petersburg, Fla.

EIGHT GAMES ON ARMY GRID SCHEDULE

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Army's football schedule for 1925 was announced today. Eight contests have been arranged with one open date which will be filled later.

Army is playing its four most important contests away from home next fall, three of them in New York city. Wale will be met in the bowl at New Haven.

The schedule follows: Oct. 3, University of Detroit at home; 10, Knox college at home; 17, University of Notre Dame at Yankee Stadium New York; 24, St. Louis University at home; 31, Yale at New Haven; Nov. 7, open; 14, Columbia University at Polo grounds New York; 21, Ursinus at home; 28, Navy at Polo grounds New York.

SPORTING NOTES

The Muskegon Mint League club owners have made it known that they intend to appeal from the salary award of $7,500 made by the National Board to John (Red) Fisher, former manager of the club. Charles W. Marsh, Muskegon manufacturer, and president of the club, has termed the award as unfair. Fisher was signed to a three-year contract, and he served a season and a half. He was let out at the end of the first half of last season, when the Muskegon directors decided he was not successfully promoting baseball in Muskegon as specified in his contract. The team was at the bottom at the time and was losing money. Jack Ryan, former scout of the St. Louis Browns, managed the team in the second half and lifted it to fifth place, but two games out of third position.

The Texas League is to hold its meeting in Dallas on December 14, according to announcement of President Doak Roberts of the league. At the meeting the Galveston situation will be given attention. It is the general belief that the league will take over the Galveston franchise operate it themselves.

Knotty Lee's plans for an all-Canadian league may find favor. This would eliminate Hamilton and London from the Michigan - Ontario League entirely, and would likely result in the American clubs going back into an all-Michigan organization similar to the old Central League. Lee's plans include a league of lower classification, so the outlay would not be nearly as great as at present.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern Club of the Blue Ridge League, held last week, a vote of confidence, and thanks was extended to Frank Baker, who managed the club in 1924 and will again be at the helm in 1925.

Two turf stars met death during the past week. Fluvanna, one of the best fillies ever owned by Admiral Cary T. Johnson, died following an illness contracted on the journey from Pimlico track in Maryland to the Reid Riley farm at White Post, Va. She had won more than $20,000, and might have added mightily to her total had an allowance of five pounds been claimed in the futurity when she was second to St. James. Rialto, regarded as another "Colin" in the Harry Payne Whitney stables, was destroyed at Belmont Park after a long illness. Rialto had won nearly $50,000.

A. L. (Sandy) Bellantine prominent in sport circles as former part-owner of the Hamilton Mint League club, was operated on last week for stomach trouble. Latest report had his condition as fair.

Ray (Snooks) Dowd, recently released by Reading to Jersey City, has belonged to 11 clubs of Class A or better rating since he broke in in 1918: Jersey City will make it 12. The clubs he has played with are, Newark, Detroit, Philadelphia Athletics, Syracuse, Buffalo, Kansas City, Albany, Dallas, Atlanta, New Haven and Reading.

Dan Howley has completed arrangements for a site for his Toronto Club to train at in 1925. He picked Augusta, Ga., passing up Macon, Ga., where the club trained last spring. Howley is one of Ty Cobb's closest friends, and as the Tigers are to also train in Augusta, Dan hopes to bolster his club with some of the cast-offs from the Tigers.

The Washington Club hopes that Walter Johnson will not buy any California franchise. That is now an open secret, and if Johnson cannot locate on the coast he will not get away from Washington. In all his baseball experience, Griffith was never so ready to get rid of money as he is in the Johnson case. They've got it all figured out in Washington how Walter can earn as much by playing with Washington next year as if he had an investment of $400,000 working for him at six per cent.

Pinelli will play third base for Cincinnati next year. There has been much talk about Dressen, the St. Paul star, playing third for the Reds, and the fans have been wondering why, as Pinelli has made a showing at third without many equals. To take him away from the Job would be incredible with Cincinnati needing all the infielders it can get. Manager Hendricks promises faithfully that Pinelli will play third. But he doesn't say who will play short. Maybe it will be Dressen, maybe it will be Critz.

Larry Doyle, former captain and second baseman of the New York Giants, may return to the National League champions as coach next season, replacing Cosy Dolan, who has been barred from Baseball for his alleged part with Jimmy O'Connell, in the attempted bribery of Heine Sand, Philadelphia shortstop. Doyle's appointment is under consideration. Except for a season with the Chicago Cubs in 1917, Doyle was with the Giants from 1907 to 1920, playing on four of McGraw's pennant winners, and being rated among the best keystone sackers in the game. He has figured prominently in minor league and independent ranks since then.

After the Boston Red Sox break camp at New Orleans, where they are to do their spring training, they are to play in Mobile on April 1 and 2; April 3 at Nashville, and April 4, 5, 6, and 7 at Louisville.

DEATH CALLED MANY FROM BASEBALL RANKS IN 1924

New York, Dec. 23—The ranks of the baseball fraternity in 1924 have been thinned by the deaths of a number of well-known players and others prominently identified with the game. Two of the active club managers in the major leagues have passed away during the year now drawing to a close.

Early in the year Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds and for a number of years a diamond star of the first magnitude, died at Orlando, Fla., after a lingering illness. He died fighting his last grim battle with the same determination he showed on the baseball field.

On September 15 Frank L. Chance, manager of the Chicago White Sox, died at Los Angeles. For years Chance had been an outstanding figure in the national game, reaching the peak of his career as manager of the famous Chicago National league teams of 1906-1910 which won four National league pennants and two world's series.

Another noted veteran to make his final exit was Jake Daubert, captain of the Cincinnati Reds, whose death occurred in Cincinnati on October 9. Daubert had a long career in the minor and major leagues, making his greatest reputation as first baseman of the Brooklyn club, which position he held for nine seasons. Twice he led the National league in batting.

Thomas J. Lynch, one of the foremost umpires the game of baseball has known and for several years the president of the National league, died at Hartford, Conn., on Feb. 27. His connection with baseball dated back to 1890, when he began his career as a pitcher for the Nationals of Washington.

Arthur Cummings, generally credited with having been the first pitcher to discover the curve ball, died at Toledo in his 76th year. It was in a college game at Cambridge, Mass., in 1867, that the youthful Cummings discovered and used with great effect the first curve known to baseball.

Norman D. (Tony) Boeckel, star third baseman of the Boston National league team, died at San Diego, Feb. 16, from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Anthony Walsh, who had played or managed teams in the New York State, International, South Atlantic, and Blue Ridge leagues, met accidental death at Wilkes-Barre, Feb. 6.

Monroe (Dolly) Stark, former major league player, and in 1916 manager of the Memphis Southern league team was killed in Memphis.

Among those identified with the game in a bygone era were Bob Spade, a famous pitcher of the Cincinnati Nationals years ago; Carl Wellman, who had been a pitcher for the St. Louis Browns; Harry C. Stine, a pitcher for the Brooklyn Nationals in the eighties; Clarence O. (Pop Boy) Smith, who had pitched for the Chicago and Cleveland teams; George A. Wood, star outfielder of the Philadelphia Nationals in the latter eighties; Charles E. Robinson, a celebrated baseball catcher of the barehanded days; George Kaler, who had been a pitcher for the Cleveland Indians and Columbus American Association teams; and James F. Macullar, a star of the Baltimore Orioles in the eighties and who was credited with having been the first hand pitcher to throw a curve.

Among those identified with the game in capacities other than as players and who passed away during the last twelve months were John E. Bruce, ex-secretary of the old National Baseball Commission; H. J. Benson, who was president of the San Antonio Texas league club, and George N. Kuntzsch, who had been president of the Syracuse club in the old International and New York State leagues.

NEW LONDON'S MUNICIPAL TREE ILLUMINATED CHRISTMAS EVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 24.—New London had its municipal Christmas tree this evening on the Mercer lot in State street and there children of the public schools gathered and sung Christmas carols, their young voices carrying to all the neighborhood about. The weather was not favorable but there was no actual storm, so the event passed off nicely. In Groton a finely decorated and illuminated tree is placed on the hillside overlooking the river.

St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches in this city were filled at midnight by worshippers who attended the mass at that hour. Not in 24 years has there been a midnight mass at Christmas time in this city, the event tonight marking the beginning of the Holy Year of the church throughout the world. The music was of a high order at St. Mary's where there was voice, instrumental and organ selections. At the Church of Perpetual Help there was also a midnight mass.

At Seabury Episcopal church in Groton a midnight service was held with a fairly good attendance, Rev. Frederick Haist officiating. This little church attracts attendants even from the New London side of the Thames.

The former saloon keepers who gave up their business before the year was out at the introduction of prohibition will make an effort to collect from the state the money due them for the year from June to October, when they went out of business. The saloonists had an agreement with the county commissioners that they would receive a refund from the state, but they have never been thus fortunate so it is understood that they will go to the assembly this year for the recovery of the money that belongs to them and which was promised to them. The amount due in this city is to nearly a hundred saloon men and it amounts to several thousand dollars.

Two hundred children were made happy at Temperance hall Tuesday afternoon when entertained by the Italian Ladies' Aid society at a Christmas party. Mrs. G. B. Musante, general chairman in charge of the party, was Santa Claus and distributed gifts to the needy children, many of whom were accompanied by their parents. The little folk were given tickets which they may exchange at designated local stores for clothing. Refreshments were served.

The first number of the entertainment program was a carol one, Hark, the Herald Angels Sing. The members of the choir were Elvira Nocery, leader; Adeline Zuccardi, Rose Zuccardi, Grace Sorina, Vera Zuccardi, Helen Zuliani, Florence Sachetello and Lucy Sulton. Recitations were given as follows: Christmas Is Here by Catherine Gentilella; When Santa Claus Comes, by Rose Pinella; What Santa Brought, by Ida Pinella; Angels and Archangels, by Virginia Micheli; The Pockets of St. Nick's Coat by Nicholas Piscatella; A Visit to Santa Claus' Shop, by Vera Zuccardi; 'Twas the Night Before Christmas by 12 little girls. On Christmas Morn, by Madeline Zuliani, and Somebody Is Coming, by Nicholas Piscatella. Adeste Fideles and other hymns were sung by the choir. Toys, fruits and candy were given the children.

Several days ago rooms of lodgers at the Hotel Winthrop were visited by a sneak thief and clothing and jewelry was stolen. Some of the wearing apparel was recovered at the time, but the jewelry was not located. When the thefts occurred the police in their search for the plunder discovered an overcoat secreted between two mattresses. The owner of the garment was not located until tonight when Max Opling, a sailor stationed at the submarine base, appeared at the police station and claimed the garment.

An automobile operated by John Hendry, 176 Bank street, collided with a "stop-and-go" traffic signal this evening at the corner of Bank and Howard streets, the signal being damaged.

Louis Cade, colored, 121 Main street, where he is a lodger at the home of Charles Lindsley, colored, a cook at the submarine base, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman William Babcock, charged with robbery. He is being held a prisoner at the police station in default of a surety on his bond, for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Sunday night the men's furnishing store of Nicholas Haddad, 129 Main street, was entered by a thief and with the discovery of the break on Monday forenoon, Haddad reported it to the police. When an officer was sent to the place to investigate, no trace of any of the windows having been forced, nor the door having been opened, was found, although Haddad declared that included among the plunder obtained by the thief was three and one-half yards of suiting, three or four silk shirts, two pairs of trousers, eight dress shirts, several pairs of gloves, a number of neckties and several pairs of suspenders. A small hole in a window was the only visible sign of possibly the method by which the plunder was removed from the place. This afternoon Mrs. Lindsley informed the police that a number of articles resembling closely the goods stolen from the Haddad store, were in the room occupied by Cade. Sergeant John Cavanaugh visited the Lindsley house and caused the goods found there to be removed to the police station, where they were later identified by Haddad as his property. An officer was then stationed at the Lindsley house to arrest Cade whenever he put in an appearance. About 5.30 o'clock while Patrolman Babcock was watching the house Cade was observed to emerge from it and pass through Main street. The officer followed Cade, overtook him on Douglass street, and placed him under arrest.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Michael McNamara, 40 Garfield avenue, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret McNamara and Frederick Benvenuti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nazarino Benvenuti, 74 Goshen street.

Mrs. John McCarthy has returned to her home, Ashcraft road, having visited friends at Northampton, Mass.

Miss Emma Wuest, formerly of New London, has returned to her home in Hartford, having spent a week as the guest of Mrs. Imogene Hall.

While moored alongside the British schooner Hazel H. Herman, one of the liquor supply ships at anchor off Rum Row, the gas sloop Bonito was seized late yesterday by the crew of the destroyer Cassin of the navy's dry fleet, the master of the sloop being charged with violation of the navigation laws, in proceeding on a foreign voyage without obtaining clearance papers and filing manifest. Capt. Herbert M. Browning, Point Judith, R. I., master of the Bonito and the only other occupant of the boat, Philip Shaw, Pawtuxet Cove, R. I., were brought into port, together with the seized craft. No liquor was found on the Bonito, but this afternoon Browning and Shaw were presented before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich. They were released, but the boat was tied up at the coast guard pier.

Two hundred families were made happy late this afternoon and this evening when a committee consisting of members of New London lodge of Elks visited the homes of that number of the city's needy, leaving at each a basket of good things for the holiday dinner. The baskets contained a quantity of eatables sufficient to feed a family of five or six persons, the supply of foodstuffs consisting of six or eight pounds of loin pork, potatoes, turnips, onions, cranberries, celery, plum pudding, bread, butter, tea, coffee and milk. The custom of providing Christmas dinners for the deserving poor is an annual one with the lodge and as in former years the lodge will distribute additional charity, for Friday afternoon every needy household in the city that is known to the lodge membership will be visited by a committee and an order left with the head of the family for wearing apparel, the order not to be less than $10 nor more than $20.

The B. P. Learned mission and the Salvation Army also caused about 300 baskets of foodstuffs to be distributed at various homes throughout the city, where the luxuries of life would not be made possible except through the efforts of the two charitable organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Hartford, formerly of New London, are spending the holiday with Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. Mary Kelley, 28 Pearl street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Macomber, 121 Broad street, are entertaining Anthony W. Strauss and daughter, Miss Fredonia Strauss, Boston.

Mrs. Nellie Hayman, of Shapley street; Mrs. John Harris and infant son, Blackhall street; Miss Ethel Hall, Niantic; Mrs. William Donegan and infant daughter, Cottage street; Miss Frances Jackson, Niantic; Mrs. Louis Benton and infant son, Montauk avenue; Miss Ora Burke, Niantic; Chauncey Cooper, Franklin street; Miss Alvina Wines, Bordell place, Mystic; Emilius Hardy, Groton, and Miss Minnie E. Harris, of Williams street, a teacher at the Nathan Hale grammar school, were patients dismissed at Lawrence hospital today.

The funeral of Carl Hopf, veteran employe of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at his residence, 106 Blackhall street and was attended by many mourners, among whom were delegations of Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows and Herwegh lodge, O. D. H. S. Among the mourners was a large representation of railroad employes. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Members of Pequot lodge and Herwegh lodge acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery, the committal service being conducted by members of Pequot lodge.

Iman Elionsky has sold a house and lot on Spring street to Domenica Belbruno.

Funeral services for William Fuller, formerly of Waterford, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of the Jordan Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

An automobile owned by the Crocker House garage and operated by George Marston, and a commercial truck owned and operated by George A. Nichols, 1648 Pearl street, Hartford, were in collision near Ocean Beach this afternoon. The commercial truck was damaged. Both drivers reported the accident at the police station.

Albertus Mather, 9 Cutler street, visited the police station this afternoon and claimed a pair of gloves that were found on the street last Wednesday and turned over to the police, the gloves being the property of Mrs. Mather.

The Kane Bottling establishment, 29 Jefferson avenue, was entered by thieves last night for this morning there was every evidence that crooks had broken into the place. A window was forced, as was a door and a quantity of bottled soda water was missing. Charles U. Sauter, manager of the establishment, reported the break to the police and Patrolman William Babcock was assigned to conduct an investigation. The break appears to have been perpetrated by boys.

Patrolman Henry Hick in patrolling Montauk avenue, early this morning, discovered the entrance to the Montauk Avenue Baptist church unlocked. The officer secured the door for the remainder of the night.

An automobile owned and operated by Captain Harold D. Hinckley, superintendent of the United States Coast Guard Academy, and a machine owned and driven by Michael Barca, of Elizabeth street, were in collision shortly after last midnight at the corner of Bank and Reed streets. Captain Hinckley's car was damaged.

Patrolman Clarence Wells in making his rounds through Bank street early this morning discovered a water meter in front of the premises, 516, leaking considerably. This morning the defect was reported to the water department and repairs were made.

Carl Plymton, 28 Starr street, reported to the police last night that while his bicycle was beside the curb on Green street, near State street, an automobile bearing registration, N-3454, ran over the cycle and destroyed the rear wheel. After hitting the cycle the driver speeded away.

The Timpany Rubber Co., 504 Bank street, has been put out of business, through an attachment levied by Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin to satisfy a claim against the rubber company and instituted by the Kelly-Springfield Tire company. The establishment has been conducted by Edwin C. Ford several months and since the sudden disappearance of William N. Timpany, who became financially embarrased.

There was only a single case before the police court this morning. John Harrington, accused of intoxication, pleaded guilty. He said he started out with the best of intentions when he met Denny Sullivan from Westerly. Denny had a quart of white liquor and together they absorbed the whole of it. But Harrington has started in to improve his record and has reduced the number of times on which he has appeared in court during the year. That improved condition considered for all it is worth, so he got a suspended sentence today.

Thomas Kane, of Waterbury, and employed as a locomotive engineer in the freight service of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, and Mrs. Theresa Moriarty, daughter of Mrs. Mary Gaffney, 125 Bank street, were married Monday morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the ceremony being performed and the nuptial mass sung by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of the church. Mr. Kane is well known in New London and is a member of New London lodge of Elks.

Miss Edna Weaver, of Waterford, and Mrs. Arthur Bartlett and infant daughter, Vauxhall street, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

Central Vermont line freight steamer New London, which was damaged in the harbor early yesterday morning when the craft collided with the coal laden barge, Hartford, has gone to New York, where she will undergo repairs. It is probable that the steamer will be off the line about two weeks.

MERROW

Mrs. Lucy Usher and Miss Ethel, from Hartford, are spending Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Usher and family.

Mrs. Ira Wilcox is caring for her mother, Mrs. George Reynolds, of Eagleville, who is very ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Phebe Wilcox spent Monday with her daughter Mrs. Dora Martin in Rockville.

Mrs. Ellen Dimock is spending the Christmas vacation with her daughter, Mrs. Etta Webster in Stafford.

Mrs. Frank Clark who has been very ill with grip is better, but not able to be about yet.

Several from here are expecting to attend the wedding of Phebe Green and Nelson Bowers, who are to be married today (Christmas day) at the church in South Willington.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rhodes were guests of relatives at Edgewood recently.

Grayland Clough who has been with Ivan Wilcox working in Grain has left and has gone home.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Mr. and Mrs. George Plimpton of Providence were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Slater recently.

School closed Friday for the holiday vacation of two weeks. The teacher, Mrs. Scott, will spend the vacation at her home in Maine.

Alcott Spaulding and a friend from Auburn, R. I., were visitors at G. W. Barlow's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hall called on Mrs. William Dean of Central Village Monday.

Gertrude Hall of Lynn, Mass., is spending a week at her home, The Oaks.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Barlow and son Ernest of Danielson were guests Sunday of Mr. Barlow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Barlow.

Greatest Runner In History

Paavo Nurmi, 26-year-old Finnish speed marvel, arriving at New York Tuesday on S. S. Celtic for his first track campaign in this country. Nurmi holds ten world's records at distances ranging from 1,500 meters to seven miles and in the past two years has exhibited speed and endurance that has given him an unprecedented place in athletic history. He has not suffered defeat since 1920, when he lost the Olympic 5,000 meter race to Guillemot of France. At the last Olympics he won four races, beating Willie Ritola by a yard in the 5,000 meter on the same day that he also won the 1,500.
